Sometimes They Are Wrong.

"A woman never admits that she was wrong."

"I don't know about that," replied Mr. Meekton. "A number of them seem particularly anxious to prove that they showed pretty poor judgment in selecting husbands."

HOOTED BY CROWD

German Officers Defend Assaults on Zabern Citizens

CROWN PRINCE IN TROUBLE

STRASSBURG, Germany, Jan. 7.—Testimony much more favorable for the accused army officers was given at the resumption yesterday of the court-martial on Col. Von Reuter and Lieut. Shad of the 99th Infantry, who are charged with making illegal arrests, willful assau't and disturbance of the peace during the clash between the military and civilians of Zabern, Alsace, in November.

The evidence of officers of the regiment showed there had been a tumult, with hooting and offensive cries against the soldiery, both before the arrests and while they were being carried out.

This testimony was flatly contradicted by the state's attorney of Zabern and by other civilian officials, but was partially substantiated by the evidence of twenty-eight of the men who had been arrested by the soldiers on Nov. 28, and who had spent a night in the cellar of the barracks. Most of these admitted that others in the crowd had uttered insulting remarks, but declared they themselves had not committed any offence.

As Lieut. Baron Von Forstner, accompanied by two other officers, left the court-room last evening he was followed by several persons, who threatened him. The crowd grew rapidly into hundreds until the whole street was filled. The people howled insults at Von Forstner and shook their clenched fists at him. The officers, however, boarded a street car and escaped.

Crown Prince Defiant.

BERLIN, Jan. 7. — Crown Prince Frederick William has again struck a blow at his own popularity, the telegram which he recently sent to Lt.-Gen. Deimling and Col. Von Reuter, commending their stand in the Zabern affair, being made yesterday the subject of angry editorials in the leading Berlin newspapers.

The Liberal organs lament that the heir-apparent, in spite of his undoubted democracy, never ventures into politics without offending the popular sentiment. These newspapers call the latest appearances of the Crown Prince four grave mistakes, citing them as follows: The Crown Prince's attack on Gerhart Hauptmann's "Centenary Festal Play" at Breslau last June; his act in applauding the anti-British speech delivered by Herr Von Heydebrand, the Conservative leader in the Reichstag, in November, 1911; his protest against the accession of Prince Ernst August of Cumberland to the Duchy of Brunswick, and, finally, his congratulations to the soldiery for aggressiveness against the civil population of Alsace.

The last three cases are termed by the newspapers as demonstrations against the policy of the Imperial Government. The telegrams sent to the military commanders at Zabern received approval in Conservative and military circles.

LEADERS CANNOT AGREE.

Premier Asquith and Bonar Law Break Off Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The conference between Premier Asquith and the Opposition leader, Andrew Bonar Law, on the Home Rule question, has broken down, according to The Unionist Morning Post, which says there may possibly be another interview, but that any hope of a compromise must be abandoned. Mr. Asquith having refused to meet the demands of the Unionists for the exclusion, even temporarily of Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule bill.

The Post represents the Prime Minister as having been personally inclined to accede to the temporary exclusion of Ulster, but declares that he was overborne by John Redmond, Joseph Devlin, and John Dillon.

ANDREW BONAR LAW.

The Rt. Hon. Thomas Wallace Russell, speaking at Strabane, County of Tyrone, last night, warned the Unionists that if any trouble arose in Ulster, the Government would invoke the Crimes Act by giving 24 hours' notice. He added that the Home Rule bill would be passed by midsummer.

Two Barges Adrift.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7. — News reached the Maritime Exchange here yesterday that two barges, bound from New York for Norfolk, in tow of the tug Edward Luckenbach, had broken loose from their tug during the storm Sunday and were now drifting as derelicts somewhere along the coast. One of the barges is the Gen. Knox. The name of the other was not reported. Each had several men aboard.

A report was received at the exchange of the sighting of the Gen. Knox yesterday 66 miles east of the Delaware Capes, and still another report stated two barges, which may have been the missing craft, were seen off Willows Beach, Va., life-saving station.

ROYAL Baking Powder Saves Health and Saves Money and Makes Better Food

HOLDING HIS OWN

Sir James Spent a Restful Day, Says Dr. Pyne

IS INTERESTED IN POLITICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Sir James Whitney, the Premier of Ontario, who is ill with heart disease at the Hotel Manhattan, continues to hold his own. The bulletin issued at nine o'clock last night was brief, and not particularly illuminating. Dr. R. A. Pyne, the Premier's family physician, said merely: "Patient has had had another restful day, with no material change."

Horace Wallace, the Premier's secretary, decline to interpret the bulletin, but in his conversation, as well as in that of Dr. Pyne, during the day, there was apparent a note of hopefulness.

It was stated at the Manhattan yesterday that Sir James had shown some interest in public affairs during the day. While those in attendance discouraged this tendency, they regarded it as distinctly encouraging.

During the day Dr. Pyne left the hotel for a visit to some friends. This, too, was counted a hopeful sign, as since the Ontario Premier has had attacks of heart trouble, his colleagues have left him only for brief walks in the neighborhood to get a breath of air. Lady Whitney, however, has been unremitting in her attendance, and has refused all solicitations of the other members of the party who urged her to take some outdoor exercise.

The private car which was retained some days ago when it was expected that Sir James would be ready to leave in a day or two, is still kept in readiness in the New York Central yards, within a block of the hotel. It was stated yesterday, however, that it was out of the question to remove the distinguished patient for the present, as the least excitement might affect him seriously.

The members of the Premier's party here, including Lady Whitney, have been much touched by the interest being taken in Sir James' illness, though no news of the concern of Ontario was communicated to the sick statesman.

Lady Whitney has been unremitting in her watch at the bedside of her husband, and all attempts that have been made to get her to leave the hotel for a beneficial walk have failed. Lady Whitney, however, was bearing up splendidly and shared the hopes of the remainder of the party that Sir James would make rapid and successful recovery.

While those in attendance on Sir James did not minimize the very serious condition in which the attack of cardiac trouble had placed him; and while they admitted that with a man of his advanced age the worst was always to be expected, they were most hopeful. Throughout the stages of the illness which finally laid him low in the Hotel Manhattan, the Prime Minister put up a plucky fight, though amenable at all times to the advice of his medical attendants.

Sir James was acquainted with the serious nature of the trouble affecting him, and knew early in its stages that this illness might be his last.

Big Fire in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—Four St. Catharine street stores at the corner of McGill College avenue were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon.

The heart of the uptown district on St. Catharine street was seriously threatened by fire which wrecked three business establishments with damage estimated at $150,000. The firms are: The T. H. Philbin Hardware Co., the Warnecm Feature Film Co. and an office of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co.

Evangeline Leblanc, a young stenographer, was rescued from the roof of a blazing building by firemen as she was about to jump after standing on the edge of the roof for five minutes screaming wildly for help.

Bank Clerk Taken Back.

HAVANA, Jan. 7—Theobaldo Gou, the former cashier of the Havana branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, was brought back yesterday on the steamer Olibette, in charge of the sheriff of Tampt. He was turned over to the Cuban authorities. Gou, who is only 19 years of age, is charged with having abstracted $6,500 from the bank. He refused to make any statement.

HE MUST EXPLAIN

John W. Moyes Responsible for Accounting, Says McIntyre

HE WAS THE WHOLE THING

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—That John W. Moyes was the author of both the Ontario West Shore Railway Co. and the Huron Construction Co. was the opinion expressed by Chairman McIntyre of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board at its sitting yesterday and he expressed with no uncertain voice his dissatisfaction with the strange disappearance of the papers and documents recording the transactions by which the money of several municipalities found its way out of the coffers of the West Shore and disappeared.

Mr. McIntyre demanded more energy in the recovery of the papers which were so badly needed in the enquiry.

"It is very unfair that some persons vitally interested in this matter should be obliged to grope about in the dark," began Chairman McIntyre. "Some things are clear, however. There is no doubt whatever that Mr. Moyes is the author of these two companies, the Ontario West Shore and Huron Construction. This has been brought home to him.

"Nominally and ostensibly large sums of money, for which towns are liable, were paid over to these two companies which are controlled and fathered by Mr. Moyes. The municipalities which guaranteed these bonds are entitled to a fair, candid, explicit account of these monies and those who controlled them.

"It has been shown here to-day that some of these monies went into his private account. It imposes on Mr. Moyes the additional obligation, under a moral law, of showing that they were diverted properly, and applied to the trust for which they were intended.

"These being plain facts it is a clear obligation of Mr. Moyes to be accurate in obtaining proof to show that these monies were honestly applied.

"In my opinion Mr. Moyes has not used the diligence and activity proper to providing that they were honestly and fully applied, and for the purpose for which they were voted. I think that Mr. Moyes should see to this in an endeavor to satisfy the public and this board."

The efforts of counsel throughout the day were directed in vain towards gaining from the witness, the personnel of the Huron Construction Co.

"Who constituted this company?" demanded the court after a fruitless sitting.

"I did not," was the reply.

"Were they ghosts or real people?"

"They were real people with real money,' answered Mr. Moyes significantly. He stated further that $370,000 worth of stock had been paid over to them, but the hand that gave, and that which received, he did not remember. He had attended none of their meetings.

Then came the disclosure that Mr Moyes had shifted sums from the trust account of $383,000 into his own personal account.

"Did any of it go into your private account?" he was asked.

"Yes, sometimes drawn in lump sums to relieve indebtedness," he answered.

"Why did you mix it with your account," asked the chairman.

Witness replied that they were kept track of in the books and papers he had sent to Mr. Smoke. He could not remember the carrier.

"It is very important that Mr. Moyes should get these," commented the chairman.

Counsel produced a declaration signed by Moyes several years ago and presented to the Goderich bank to prove that he had the right to grant power of attorney for the Huron Construction. He claimed that he was the sole owner of that company at that time.

R. D. Little of the Sterling Bank produced records to trace the accounts which the companies had held during the years of operation.

In some of the data produced it was shown that Moyes at a meeting in 1908 received $15,000, part as salary and part as expense money on disbursements. His total receipts were to be totalled up at some future time. A check for the sum was produced in the hearing, but Moyes could not remember having ever received it.

The case will be resumed this afternoon with the local manager of the Dominion Bank in the box for examination.

Moyer Is Going Back.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Officials of the Western Federation of Miners, who are to discuss the copper miners' strike in Michigan, yesterday decided to take no action until Governor Ferris has announced the result of his investigation of the strike. President Moyer said that the announcement will determine the future action of the federation.

Mr. Moyer early last night said the wound received in Hancock was paining him more than for several days. He intimated that he expected to be called to Calumet during Governor Ferris' presence there in order to give his story of the deportation. He said he believed he was well enough to stand the trip.

SENTENCES CONFIRMED.

All But Six Dynamiters Lose Appeal For New Trial.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The sentences of the twenty-four labor union officials convicted in Indianapolis of conspiracy to transport dynamite were confirmed yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals of the seventh district. Six of the 23 who appealed were granted new trials. They are:

Olav A. Tveitmoe, San Francisco; William McCain, Kansas City; Fred. Sherman, Indianapolis; Wm. Barnhard, Cincinnati, O.; Jas. E. Ray, Peoria, Ill.; Richard H. Houlihan, Chicago. Counsel for the 24 within 30 days will petition the Court of Appeals for a rehearing on new legal points. If that is denied they will take the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. Pending final adjudication, it is understood that no attempt will be made by the Government to return to the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., those of the convicted men who are at liberty under bond.

The appeal was heard by Circuit Judges Kohlsaat, Baker and Seaman. The decision was read by Judge William H. Seaman. It declared that conspiracy clearly was shown on the part of the 24 defendants, and that challenge of the conspiracy clearly was shown on the part of the 24 defendants, and that challenge of the conspiracy counts of the indictments was erroneous.

Counsel for the labor officials heard the decision with keen disappointment; E. N. Solins of the attorneys for the petitioners, however, stated that he already had prepared briefs on three important points which had been overlooked in the first appeal.

Shot by Burglars.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7.—Alex. Heibee, aged 27, automobile student at the local mechanical school, was shot dead at five o'clock yesterday morning just outside his rooming house on Mountain avenue. He was awakened at five by burglars in the house, jumped out of bed, rushed to the front door and outside, where burglars waited for him and fired a shot into his neck.

Justly Indignant.

An attorney was cross-examining a witness.

"You say you left Boston on the 16th?" queried the lawyer.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"And returned on the 28th?"

"Yes, sir."

"What were you doing in the interim?"

"I never was in such a place!" he replied, indignantly, with heightened colour.

WHAT IS A RESTAURANT?

Here's a Definition of the New York High Life Brand.

A restaurant is a place where you pay $4 for 15 cents' worth of food, accompanied by about $2 worth of light labor, light china and light music, which you have heard before. After leaving your hat with a Wall street syndicate you pay all the way from 10 cents to 25 cents for the privilege of getting it back and wearing it once more. The difference between a man and woman indeed today is quite simple. A woman pays $50 all at once for her hat, while a man pays $5 for his and $55 more in tip instalments for storage at restaurants while he is vainly trying to obtain enough nourishment to sustain life between times.

The object of all restaurants is to furnish you with everything you want except nourishment. This is carefully extracted from all food before it reaches you.

Every restaurant nowadays has attached to it a homeless hotel and a drugless drug store, a newspaper stand, where you can buy a paper for not over twice what you can get it for across the street, and a box office dispensary, where you can get theater tickets for almost any night you don't want them at the same rates. Every restaurant also has a wine cellar which is filled with native cobwebs, European labels and California grape juice. —Life.

A TALE OF THE SEA.

Lucky Rescue of a Boy Who Was Lashed to the Branch of a Tree.

A sailor tells a tale of peril that is out of the ordinary. He was one of the crew of an English ship bound from British Guiana to Rio Janeiro. When off the mouth of the Parana river there came on a calm, followed by a dense fog.

At 10 o'clock in the morning there came out of the fog the voice of a human being, calling for help. A noise in a fog is very deceptive, and this one could not be located, but an answering "hello" was given.

Suddenly something struck the vessel on the port quarter, and it was made out to be a tree, and in its branches was a native boy, lashed to a limb and almost unconscious. The tree was caught with a rope and the boy taken on board.

It was half a day before he rallied enough to tell his tale. He and his father had been hunting twenty miles up the Parana river when a sudden freshet came down. Both climbed the same tree, but it was rooted up and carried down the river. The father tied his son to a limb with his loin cloth, but before he could thus protect himself the tree tilted over, and he was swept away. The boy had been floating three days and nights when he was picked up.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SMARTLY MODISH.

Match Your Dressy Hat With a Scarf.

OF CHIFFON EDGED WITH OSTRICH.

Now that women are wearing frocks cut so low at the neck for every occasion both indoors and out the scarf for protection against the wintry winds is almost a necessity with street costumes. Of course, milady envelops her pretty throat in handsome furs, but at church, the matinee and the like, there are apt to be drafts, so one ingenious couturier has sent along with his chic little hat a scarf of chiffon edged with ostrich. These scarfs, in addition to protection, are very smart and stylish.

Housekeeping Tips.

If after scrubbing out the cupboard it is then sprinkled with water in which tobacco has been steeped and then with a little spirits of camphor moths will never appear.

To cleanse a frying pan which smells of onions or fish fill the pan with water and when it boils drop in a red hot cinder. Afterward rinse and wash in the usual way.

When making pies in a hot kitchen fill a bottle with ice water and use it for a rolling pin. The pastry will be delicate and flaky. A long, smooth, round bottle should, of course, be chosen.

Three tablespoonfuls of baking soda in a quart of water applied with a rough cloth will remove the old varnish very easily when you wish to revarnish furniture.

The All Important Tango Frock.

When once speaks of dance frocks this season the model designed to tango immediately suggests itself. Such a hold have the Argentine dances upon the terpsichorean public that to dance is to turkey trot, fish walk, etc.

Naturally these strenuous efforts require a frock which gives perfect freedom to the body. Therefore corsets are abandoned for the girdle by dancing votaries, low heeled or no heeled footwear replaces the French dancing slipper, and the frock must be slit at the sides to make the "dip" possible.

IN SHADES OF YELLOW CHIFFON.

The dancing gown pictured is a charming affair in which to tango gracefully. Several shades of yellow, toning from a pale lemon to almost flame color, are artistically combined in its construction.

Disappointed.

Dorcas—You say the hero was disappointed in love? Dorothy—Yes. He thought that after marriage his father-in-law would support him.—Judge.

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

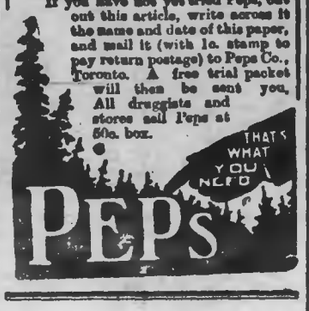
Peps is the discovery!

Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air cells in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

Peps are entirely distinct from the old fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely swallowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. box.



Our Longest River.

Our longest river is the Mississippi. There is no other stream within our borders that can stand a moment's comparison with the "Father of Waters." To be sure, there are some who claim that the really great river is the Missouri, that that stream is the main one, of which the Mississippi is only a tributary. But the claim is without foundation. The Missouri, from its source in the northwestern Rockies to its junction with the Mississippi at St. Louis, is a distinct stream from the one into which it empties near that point. It is quite true that from the headwaters of the Missouri to the gulf the distance is greater than it is from the headwaters of the Mississippi to the gulf, but in the one case it is two streams, in the other only one.—New York American.

The Dream Lion.

A Vienna professor is credited with saying that dreams are usually wish fulfillments. Maybe so. What about that childish dream in which the ferocious lion comes bounding along behind you, and you run as boy never ran before, and the lion closes the gap little by little, and then—all of a sudden—your legs grow limp and your muscles turn to water and your feet fray out, and the lion leaps—and you awake with a yell, if your voice isn't paralyzed, and everybody in the house wakes with you?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Egoist.

HAD INDIGESTION.

Almost Despaired of Ever Getting Well.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated, undigested portions of food, which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, therefore only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. No wonder then that Indigestion and Dyspepsia attack the stomach. No medicine can surpass Burdock Blood Bitters as a cure for this particular disease. It regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health to the debilitated system.

Mrs. Mary MacKay, Hunter's Mountain, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled with Indigestion for more than ten years. I tried several Doctor's medicines claiming the power to cure, but all without success. Having heard of the many cures effected by Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to give it a trial. After taking two bottles I was completely cured. My appetite which was very poor, is now good, and I can eat most everything without any disagreeable feelings. I can strongly recommend B.B.B. to anyone suffering from Indigestion."

CAESAR AS AN EPILEPTIC.

Glimpses of the Famous Conqueror That Are Not Inspiring.

Says Mark Antony, who had evidently seen the great Caesar in convulsions: "When the fit was on him I marked how he did shake: 'tis true this god did shake." Again: "Ye gods it doth amaze me a man of such a feeble temper should so get the start of the majestic world and bear the palm alone."

We would hardly recommend horseback riding to an epileptic, "but by dint of perseverance," says the historian Oppius, "Caesar became an expert horseman, often dictating to two or three secretaries at once while in the saddle, and rode without using his hands." We have had a somewhat similar experience in our own practice, where the patient, unlike Caesar gave up epilepsy while continuing as a horse trainer.

When Caesar came to unbridge rivers during his campaigns he swam across them, sometimes helped by inflated bladders, but usually unaided. Once, having a seizure in the water he cried out, you remember: "Help me, Cassius, or I perish."

He explored personally and afoot conquered cities, accompanied by way of precaution by but one or two servants—an admirable precaution for epileptics when at all possible.

He needed to be careful. If he had lived in the gluttonous days of Caligula or Nero and had to any extent indulged in their dietary excesses, he never would have crossed the Rubicon nor effected the important victory over Pompey the Great at Pharsalia, and the protests of his nervous system in the way of convulsions would have been more numerous.

He paid the strictest attention to his hair, although he had so little of it. Like the rest of the baldheaded the world over, he allowed this occipital fringe to grow long, and boldly combed it forward, like a vine over a blank wall, in the vain hope of concealing his cranial nakedness—the touch of nature that makes the whole bald world kin.—Dr. Matthew Woods in Neale's Monthly.

FOOD TABOOS IN ALASKA.

Queer Dietary Rules That Are Part of the Eskimo Religion.

To illustrate one of the phases of the native religion of the Eskimos, we may consider the question of food taboos in the mountains of Alaska, on the upper Kuvuk and Noatak rivers, and on the headwaters of the Colville, the prohibitions which applied to the eating of the flesh of the mountain sheep alone were as extensive as the entire dietary section of the Mosaic law.

A young girl, for instance, might eat only certain ribs, and when she was a little older she might eat certain other ribs, but when she was full grown she would for a time have to abstain from eating the ribs which had been allowed to her up to then.

After a woman had had her first child she might eat certain other ribs after her second child still others, and only after having had five children might she eat all the ribs; but even then she must not eat the membranes on the inside of the ribs. If her child was sick she must not eat certain ribs, and if two of her children were sick she might not eat certain other ribs. If her brother's child was sick she might not eat certain parts, and if her brother's wife died there were still different prohibitions.

The taboos applying to the ribs of sheep had relation to the health of her children and of her relatives. They also depended upon what animals her relatives or herself had killed recently and on whether those animals were male or female.—V. Stefansson in Harper's Magazine.

BAD COLD IN THE CHEST.

"I am happy to tell you that I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and was promptly cured of a very bad cold in the chest," writes Miss Josephine Gauthier, Dover South, Ont. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to relieve and cure all inflammations and irritations of the throat and bronchial tubes.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG. CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has ben so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arirving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

Full particulars from any Canadian Pacific Agent or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

BLACK, GREEN or MIXED

Losing His Temper

A business house of Aberdeen recently engaged as office boy a raw country youth. It was part of his duties to attend to the telephone in his master's absence. When first called upon to answer the bell, in reply to the usual query, "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came, and still again, and each time the boy gave an answering nod. When the question came for the fourth time, however the boy, losing his temper, roared through the telephone—"Man, are ye blin'? I've been noddin' my head aff for t' last hauf 'oor!"

The Teacher Told Him

We have just heard a good story concerning the little son of one of Selkirk's "big pots." His father went into his stable one day and found the boy astride one of the horses with a slate and pencil in his hand. "Why, what's this?" he exclaimed: "what are you doing?" "Writing a composition," was the reply. "Well, why don't you write it in the library?" asked the father, with a surprised look. "Because," was the unexpected answer, "the teacher told me to write a composition on a horse."

Part of His Business

"I have come to get my wife photographed," said the determined-looking man as he entered the studio followed by a meek-looking woman. "You can make people look all right, sir, can't you?" "Certainly, sir," replied the photographer. "That is part of my business, you know." "Well, Maria here fell out of the window last year and injured her nose. You can straighten it out, I suppose?" "Certainly." "And can you push in Maria's ears so that she won't look so much like a rabbit?" "Oh, I think so." "And what about the squint in her left eye?" "Oh, I can touch it out in the negative." "And the freckles?" "They won't appear in the picture at all." "And will the hair be red?" "Oh, no." "Well, you can go ahead. Sit down there, Maria, and try to look pleasant."

The Great Mystery.

The greatest mystery of life is love. Who has not sought its unspeakable depths? Who has not felt its all-conquering power? Who has not surrendered to its irresistible force? Love is the dream of the poet, the puzzle of the philosopher, the theme of the novelist, and the song of the minstrel. Love rules all the human race. Its note of victory is heard in the royal court and in the peasant's cottage. It is the stimulus of parental affection in the home and of patriotism in the nation. Brave men die for it and noble women perish that they may bear its sweet incense with them to the grave. How sweet and tender is this splendid attribute to mankind! In its smiling presence anger, bitterness and strife melt away. How much more has the world to hope for from love than envy, malice and hatred!

Many a man has been thrown in the shade from standing in his own light.

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.— Mrs. Leroy Broun has solved a domestic problem. She has learned how to keep a cook.

Mrs. Broun is one of that large southern colony here which keeps up the best traditions of the old south. At intervals during the winter guests leave these homes babbling of live oaks and magnolia and mocking birds and beaten biscuit and Virginia ham. Now and then a little more babble about the real sort of eggnog is added —eggnog made by a recipe that has cheered generations. Homes of this sort are served—and ruled—by servants who play with miracles.

"Fifteen years ago," said one of her friends, "Mrs. Broun wanted a cook. So she consulted her nurse.

"'Um,' said the autocrat. 'Um. know a coman. But I dunno whether she suits dis house or not.'"

Mrs. Broun persuaded her nurse to send for the cook. Next day the nurse told her that the 'coman' was in the kitchen. A large black woman rose and curtsied when she came in.

"Now, honey,' said the large black woman, "you and me is gwine to git along jes' fine. I can see dat. So you run along upstairs nd 'tend to yo' quality business and I'll stay down heah in the kitchen and 'tend to mine.'

"And so it was ordered."

Don't think that the nickel dance hall is a gloomy and irreligious sort of place, subject to nightly raids by armed bands of slavers. It is the newest and niftiest development of city life. The five-cent dance hall may—within limits — expand as the nickel movies have done.

"I saw this dance craze coming," said the pioneer in the field, "and as soon as I was sure, I went to it like a horse. I let the moving picture business get away from me, but I'll never let another craze run by the signal."

He has a huge, clean, well-lighted, handsomely decorated hall uptown. He pays $100 a night to his orchestra. Only soft drinks are sold, all hats must be checked, his attendants are all well-uniformed, and a gigantic taxi-starter in a sartorial delirium gives tone to the front door. Not many taxis reach it yet, it is true — but the starter is ready, and the taxis will come in the end.

"I charge a nickel admission and a nickel a dance," said the proprietor. "Five-cent hat checks and the soft drinks we sell pay my running expenses. I run six dances an hour, the hall is open from 1 o'clock to 1 o'clock, and I average 100 couples to the dance. Figure it out for yourself what my profits are."

The whole point is that he gives his patrons attention and surroundings of the "exclusive" sort, and they pay for it on the instalment plan.

Extravagance is a relative term, of course, but when it takes $100 worth of readily salable land to provide room for a 15-cent goldfish, the buyer of the land is at least not a tightwad.

Banker Frick is building a house on upper Fifth avenue that, from the cottage point of view, looks like a cross between a Carnegie library and a summer hotel. The land cost Frick pretty close to $3,000,000. Then he had to clear away the old Lenox Library—which was a white marble structure that looked fully as comfortable for residential purposes as the Frick house is shaping into—before he began to build.

In the middle of the front yard a pool is to be created, 15 feet wide by 60 feet long. The land occupied by that pool cost Frick something like $90,000. By the time a basin of imported marble is carved out with diamond-pointed tools and polished with pearl dust, it will cost Frick about $125,000. Fish experts say that no more than 1,250 goldfish could live and remain healthy in such a pool. Still Frick isn't considering the feelings of the fish.

The Frick wickiup is to be the goldingdest dwelling ever seen in New York. It will cost, with land, about $5,500,000, as against $4,500,000 for he Charley Schwab pagoda on Riverside Drive, $3,500,000 for the Morgan home on Madison avenue, $4,500,000 for Senator Clark's bronze and marble city hall on Fifth avenue, $4,000,000 for the Vanderbilt place at Fifty-eighth street, and $2,000,000 for Carnegie's comparatively inconspicuous house farther north on the avenue.

A CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

Tortured Four Years Until He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

RIDGETOWN, ONT., May 21st, 1913.
"Your "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was a cripple completely, not being able to do anything. I doctored with four different physicians, but they did not help me. Other advertised remedies were equally unsatisfactory, and I have taken several.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I took them faithfully every day and the result was marvellous. For over two years now, I have been free from any Rheumatic pains whatever, and give "Fruit-a-tives" the full credit for making a remarkable cure".

WEDS GIRL AT THE BEDSIDE OF HER DYING MOTHER

HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 6.—By special order of the court a license was issued late Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Viola Dearborn, aged 21, of Carver Street, and Bertram G. Griffin, aged 24, a travelling salesman of Montreal, P.Q., so that the ceremony could take place last night while the bride's mother was still alive.

Mrs. Dearborn learned from physicians yesterday that death was a matter of a few hours and she requested that the wedding be carried out.

Judge John J. Winn of the Central District Court, was interrupted while the facts of the case were told to him and he directed Clerk Sargeny to draw up an exigency certificate and affix the court seal. The Judge then signed the document waiving the legal requirement that five days elapse after application.

Mr. Griffin hurried back to the sick room with his marriage license, which Assistant City Clerk Quinby had issued, and the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Nicholas Van Der Pyl, of the Central Congregational Church. Mrs. Dearborn in the meanwhile regained consciousness. At the bedside of the dying mothr the marriage service was recited, Mrs. Dearborn remaining conscious up to the time that she heard her daughter pronounced the wife of the man she loved.

Then Mrs. Dearborn relapsed into a state of unconsciousness and the newly-married couple sat down near her bedside to await the end. Their death watch will be their honeymoon, the specialties in attendance upon the mother declaring that she would die to-night.

The bride is a vocalist of prominence and well known as a Church soloist. The groom is a travelling salesman for a Montreal firm and formerly lived here, removing to Montreal some eight months ago.

Sage Tea Darkens Hair To Any Shade

Don't Stay Grey! Here's an Old time Receipe That Anybody Can Apply

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, grey hair to its natural colour dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant. For sale by Warne Drug Co.

The Skin Troubles of Childhood

School Records Show Much Time Lost From Eczema.

Chafing and skin irritation, whether from changing temperature, rough winds, strong soap or the action of the clothing, naturally develop into eczema, spread over the body and defy ordinary treatments.

Most doctors do not give much attention to skin diseases, and, consequently, it is necessary for parents to select some treatment which has proven a cure for such ailments. If records of cures count for anything, then you can turn to Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that in this you will have the means of controlling itching skin diseases.

By affording prompt relief from the terrible itching, Dr. Chase's Ointment puts an end to suffering, and removes the cause of scratching. As the fires of eczema die away the ointment sets up the process of healing, and brings about thorough and lasting cure. As a treatment for the skin troubles of children nothing has ever proved so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment.

LOWERING THE HIGH COST OF RABBITS

Pete Wetzel, of North Vernon, accompanied a railroad friend to Scipio, seven miles from North Vernon, rabbit hunting. The railroad man shot circles around Pete.

Presently they scared up a rabbit and Pete drew a bead on him. But before he could shoot the rabbit stopped running. Pete aimed the gun at the rabbit's head and pulled the trigger.

When he went to get the rabbit he found another breathing its last two feet farther on. It evidently was in the weeds when the other rabbit came along and being in the line of fire, fell.

"Some shot, Pete," said the R. R. man.

"Well," said Pete, as he slid the two into his hunting coat, "you see Clif, shells are so high that I am going to quit using a shell for each rabbit!"

An Attractive Bedroom.

In these days of moderately low ceilings the deep borders seen on some of the wall papers are not only wasted but ruined. And, what is more, they spoil the effect of space, which is an asset to every room. For the border that is eighteen or twenty inches deep is cut into by every door and window frame, and is so chopped up and cut that it looses not only its own beauty, but calls attention to the lowness of the ceilings.

For this reason the narrow border looks far better in most modern bedrooms than does the wide one. The line of the border is unbroken, and the very narrowness of it adds to the apparent height of the ceiling.

A bedroom which possessed every element of comfort and beauty was decorated in this way: The wall was covered from top to bottom with a plain paper, in cream, with an invisible stripe. The border, about four inches wide, was a band of roses. The curtains were of blue silk in a soft, chintz to match the border. The chairs were covered with chintz.

Two French hospital attaches have succeeded in impregnating rubber gloves to make them impervious to X-rays for the protection of persons handling the rays.

RHEUMA WILL STOP URIC ACID DEPOSIT

Rheumatic Complications Checked and the "Human Sewers" Restored

The Kidneys, Bowels and Skin are the "human sewers" which carry off the impurities in the blood. When these are clogged Uric Acid sediment lodges in the muscles and joints and Rheumatism follws. RHEUMA, the great remedy for all forms of the terrible disease, checks the deposit of Uric Acid.

"For many years I suffered with Rheumatism. I am 71 years old, but am proud to say that after using one bottle of RHEUMA the Rheumatic pains are entirely gone. I daily recommend RHEUMA to my friends."—Willis Goff, Bridgeburg, Ont.

OLD COUNTRY NEWS

ENGLAND.

A mass meeting of engine-drivers, firemen, and guards of the London and South-Western Railway, held at Lambeth, passed a resolution expressing surprise at the directors' refual to receive a deputation respecting the heavy loading of trains, the undermanning, and the general speeding-up.

Princely gifts to his nephew, Ronald William Poulton, the well-known Rugby International, form the chief features of the will of the late George William Palmer, of Marlston House, Newbury, a directory of Messrs. Huntley & Palmer, Ltd., the famous biscuit makers of Reading. His estate is valued at £765,676.

That he had kicked his wife and dragged her along the corridor by the waist were some of the allegations made in the Divorce Court, London, when Mrs. Ida Marcele French, the daughter of General Wynne, a well-known American officer, was granted a decree nisi on the ground of misconduct and crcuelty.

IRELAND.

Constable Patrick Smith, of the Donnybrok District, of the Dublin Police, has had the B.A. degree of the National University conferred on him. His distinction is unique, as he is the first constable of the force to secure the degree. During the week of his examination, which lasted from 9.30 a.m. till 5 p.m. daily, he was attending to his public duties as usual—being on night duty from 10 p.m. till 6 a.m.

A lad named William Watton, aged 16, residing at Drumhead, attended a dance at Loughanrearh, and left the hall during the night. When he did not return his companions began a search for him. They found his cap lying at the edge of the River Bann, which is within a stone-throw of the hall. It is thought that the lad must have wandered down towards the river, and in the darkness stumbled over the embankment.

An anti-recruiting demonstration took place at Athlone, when the Leinster Regiment, which was parading the town for recruiting purposes, was followed by a crowd headed by the Athlone Pipers' Band and the members of the Irish National Boy Scouts singing national songs. As matters began to assume a threatening aspect, the soldiers were hurried back to the barracks, being followed by the crowd up to the barrack gates.

A tragic sequel to the recent death of Christopher Burke, of the Technical Schools, Dublin, took place when his widow died suddenly at her residence in the schools. Mr. Burke's interment at Glasnevin took place only a few days before. Mrs. Burke insisted on attending the funeral, and the shock evidently proved too much for her. By her death a family of seven, all girls, the eldest of whom is only twelve years of age, have been made orphans.

While awaiting the arrival of a funeral procession, some forty persons in Berehaven took shelter from the weather in the loft of an outhouse. The flooring suddenly collapsed, precipitating the occupants to the horse stalls beneath. Adding to the confusion, a number of farm implements also came hurtling down.

SCOTLAND.

Peter Comasky, 59, a labourer, was fatally injured by falling over a stair railing in a Glasgow tenement.

Edward Young, superintendent of Mahawale, Ratnaspura, and a native of Aberdeen, was drowned during the recent floods in Ceylon, India.

Harry Lauder, who is at present in the North, spent a day shooting on Deeside, as the guest of Donald Munro, Banchory.

To the list of burglaries which have occurred in Aberdeen recently, another one has to be added—when a house in Cotton Street was broken into.

The Farm of Middlesfield, near Black Dog, was the scene of a disastrous fire, which caused damage amounting to between £800 and £900.

A company of about 80 assembled in the Kirkwall Hotel to do honour to William MacKay, F.E.I.S., late headmaster of Firth Public School, who has just retired.

Baillie George Luncan, who was made a Magistrate of Stonehaven is a master maker, and carries on a large business. He has been a member of the Town Council for years.

A boy named Thomas Goddart, aged 15, Glasgow, became suddenly ill while playing football and died shortly afterwards. In the course of the game he was seen to fall.

Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co., Ltd., Aberdeen, successfully launched from their yard, a trawler built to the order of Messrs. Brand and Co., Milford Haven. The vessel will take the highest class in Lloyd's register.

An action has been raised before Lord Dewar in the Court of Session by John Chisholm, superintendent of Banff District Asylum, Ladysbridge, Banff, for £2000 damages for slander.

Robert Cowie, who has retired from the post of signalman at Ferryhill Junction, has been half a century in the service of the Caledonian Railway, and he has a record clear of any mishap.

Lachlan Mackintosh, a labourer, was accidentally shot at Upper Carse of Ardersier, near Inverness. He had gone out to shoot rabbits, and his dead body was found with his gun beside him.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilson, Grangemouth, have just celebrated their golden wedding, an event for which they are comparatively young, being 68, and 69, years respectively. Mr. Wilson is a native of Blantyre.

The Imperial Road Board have intimated to Perthshire Highland grant of £1050 to improve the Grampian Road beyond Struan, on condition that the Committee spent other £350.

A well-known Scottish artist, Alexander Webster, Fraserburgh, was found drowned in Peterhead Harbour. Mr. Webster, who was 70 years of age, had been in failing health for some months, and lately became eccentric.

Suffering solutely from inflammation of the brain, Alexander M'Donald, a car conductor, Partick, was detained in the Western Infirmary. He states he was assaulted by an unknown person some months, and lately became of his assailant.

Before Sheriff Boyd, at Glasgow, Wm. Best, apprehended in Belfast, was charged at the instance of the Inspector of Poor, Parish of Govan Combination, with having deserted his wife and children, and was sentenced to 3 months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

Lady Stair's House, which was presented to the Edinburgh Corporation by Lord Rosebery, and which has been converted into a city museum, was formally opened. The museum contains the Bruce house collection of pictures of Old Edinburgh and other interesting articles relating to the City.

The late Alexander Allan, Aberdeen, left a large number of handsome legacies to charitable and Church objects. He was a generous supporter of the United Fre Church, and his will provides liberally for Church purposes. The most important bequest is one of £10,000 to the Royal Infirmary.

An interesting collection of curios was disposed of by Messrs. John at an Aberdeen auction. There was a great demand for a number of cruise lamps. Old guns brought good prices, and as much as 26s was paid for a large fowling piece.

H. M. water tank and mine-sweeping steamer Zealous, built and engined by Hall, Russell and Co., for the British Admiralty, after undergoing very satisfactory official and acceptance trials, left for Rosyth.

At a recent meeting of the Downpatrick County Council, Ireland, James Barron, M. Inst. C. E., Aberdeen, was appointed consulting engineer for the works in connection with the extension and improvement of Kilkeel Harbour, Co. Down.

Wm. A. M'Kie, a farmer, of Letterpn, near Girvan, Ayrshire, while driving home in a buggy with two friends in a heavy thunderstorm was struck by lightning and killed instantly. The buggy was overturned, and the farmer's companions were injured.

At the funeral of William Clyne, retired marine engineer, Aberdeen, there was a larg number of the general public, and a full attendance of the members of the Covener Court of the Seven Incorporated Trades of Aberdeen, of which Mr. Clyne was an officer.

FOR CHILBLAINS.

Glycerine jelly is an excellent preventive of chilblains. Painting them twice a day with iodine or bathing them with diluted hydrochloric acid, just strong enough to slightly prick the skin, is as good as anything I know of. Cold cream with a few drops of tannic acid added is used when inflamed parts happen to ulcerate.

"So you want my daughter for your wife?"

"Yes," replied the diffident young man.

"Can you support her in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"I don't know about that. But judging from some of your parties, I should think—er—that is to say—well, mebbe the dear girl might enjoy a change."

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Getting Down to Weight.

Owner of Racehorse (looking closely at scales): "Williams, you are a trifle over weight. Can't you lighten yourself a little?"

Williams, the Jockey: "Got on my lightest suit, sir. Ain't had a bite today, and 'ave just trimmed my finger nails."

Owner: "Well, go and get shaved."

Better Still.

"What has become of your niece?" asked Mrs. Donohue of Mrs. O'Rafferty.

"Och, sure an' she's done well wid herself. She married a lord."

"Why, you don't tell me! An English lord?"

"No; I don't think he's an English lord. He's a landlord. He kapes a big hotel in Belfast!"

Misinformed!

Visitor (at the National Gallery): "Why, there's the very same pictures I saw here the day before yesterday!"

Attendant (dryly): "Quite likely." Visitor: "Then the landlord where I'm staying is wrong. He told me that the pictures were changed daily in all the leadin' picture houses!"

He Knew.

At a club meeting held in a public house in a small village a discussion took place as to whether a hard or soft substance would last the longer. The debate continued for some time, until one man spoke up and said:

"Now men, you are all mistaken, as I can easily prove. When me and my wife married she had as good a set of teeth as any woman could have. Now she hasn't got one, and her tongue is as good as ever."

Puzzled.

When little Doris climbed up to her father's knee it was quite obvious that some deep problem was troubling her mind. Presently she unburdened herself of the momentous question:

"Papa," she asked, "was it a very wise person who said, 'The good die young'?"

"Yes," replied the father. "I suppose he must have been very, very wise."

"Well," said the child, after meditating for some time on the import of his answer, "I'm not really so much surprised about you; but — mummy — no I don't see how mummy managed to get growed up!"

Few, and Far Between.

A young soldier, dining at a London coffee-house, ordered plum-pudding. When it was served he sat for some time looking at it with an amused expression. Then he unbuckled his belt and unbuttoned his tunic. The waitress, who had been watching him curiously, now became alarmed, wondering what his intentions were, and she hastened to fetch the proprietor.

"Well, young man," said the latter on his arrival, "what are you up to?"

"Up to!" echoed the young soldier. "If you would like to know, I'm going to try to jump from one plum to another in that pudding!"

Quite Romantic.

"Bet, Helen, how did you make the acquaintance of your second husband?"

"It was quite romantic. I was out walking with my first, when my second came along in a motor and ran him down. That was the beginning of our friendship."

And the Cow Came.

He was one of those fresh young fellows given to the use of slang. At the breakfast table, desiring the milk, he exclaimed:

"Chase the cow down this way, please."

"Here, Jane," said the landlady, "take the cow down to where the calf is bawling."

Heard at the Club.

"Young Hardup says his grandfather was one of the first settlers."

"Not inherited, evidently; Hardup never settles."

An Extra Entry.

"What are you doing with that miserable-looking cur, sonny?"

"Takin' him to the dog show."

"But you can't win a prize with him."

"Well, they may give me a special prize for showin' the kind of a dog that no dog ought to be."

He Apologized.

A host who was nervous and inexperienced rose hurriedly at the conclusion of a song one of his guests had given.

"Ladies and—er—gentlemen," he said, "before Mr. M. began he asked me to apologize for his voice, but I omitted to do so—er—so—I—er—apologize now!"

A Life Job.

Tucker: "Why do I look so troubled? Well, last night I dreamed I died and was buried, Parker, and I saw the tombstone at the head of my grave."

Parker: "Saw your tombstone, eh? And what of it?"

"Why, I'm trying to live up to the epitaph I saw on it."

They were discussing horse-racing.

"I guess," observed the Yankee, "I've seen the closest race ever run, for I once saw a horse adjudged winner by a tongue's length."

"Is that so?" drawled the Englishman. "Well, I've seen a closer race than that. I lived two years in Scotland."

The limit of coolness was surely reached by a Yorkshire churchgoer, who requested the verger to open the windows before the sermon, as it was unhealthy to sleep in a hot room.

"Why is he so bitter at the girl he was only recently engaged to?"

"Because when she sent the ring back she labelled the box 'Glass—With Care.'"

"Father, don't men call themselves bachelors before they get married?"

"Yes, my boy."

"And what do they call themselves after, dad?"

"Hush! It isn't fit for little boys to know."

At the wedding reception the young man remarked: "Wasn't it annoying the way that baby cried during the whole ceremony?"

"It was simply dreadful," replied the prim little maid of honor; "and when I get married I'm going to have engraved right in the corner of the invitations: 'No babies expected.'"

Misinterpreted.

Crushleigh—Oh, I say, Miss Passay, can you interpret a dream for me?

Miss Passay—How very interesting! I'll try.

Crushleigh—Thanks awfully! It's that one ever there in pink. She speaks nothing but French.

MANNERS.

"I say, John, just have a look if that man over there is eating with his knife. I'd like to take my chicken bones in my fingers."

"Here, Mister. Try the Pick."

A.: "The essential element in a Christmas present is the surprise it causes to the recipient."

B.: "Then the present I got for my wife will be an eminently successful one. She thinks I'm going to give her a gold watch; but I've bought a silver glove-buttoner for her."

To those who may have become tired of the old-fashioned games usual at Christmas, the following may be found suitable:

Hunt up a lot of poor people that have not got any Christmas dinner, and go and give them one.

N. B.: This game may be played by any number of persons.

At a certain Scottish mansion, notorious for scanty fare, a gentleman was inquiring of the gardener about a dog which had come before he had given to the bird. The gardener showed him a lank greyhound, upon which the gentleman said:—

"No, no! The dog I gave your master was a mastiff, not a greyhound."

The gardener quietly answered: "Indeed, ony dog might sune become a greyhound by stopping here."

They were married at the beginning of December, and the twenty-fifth was approaching.

"You know, little wife," he said, one evening, "we mustn't have any secrets from each other, must we, sweet one?"

"No, darling," she whispered.

"So," he continued, "I want you to tell me how much you intend spending on a Christmas present for me, so that I can calculate how much money I shall have left to buy one for you."

It Seems That Way.

Hen—Landsakes, Mariar, take that benzine away from the fire!

Mariar—What's the matter, Hen? Gettin' superstitious?

Among Those Present.

Sunday-school Teacher—Why was Daniel forced to enter the lions' den?

Bright pupil—Why, he'd 'a' spoilt a whole film if he didn't!

Now She's Much Younger.

Wilfred—Do you know Miss Cutey, too?

Ernie—Yes. We used to be the same age when we were growing up.

Sound Advice.

The Muddleton footballers were returning home after having defeated their opponents, and consequently several of them had a surfeit of spirits.

As the train drew up at a small station one of the party who appeared to be more foolish even than the others, and who was sucking a two-for-a-penny cigar, popped his head out of the carriage window and addressed an elderly man who was leading a donkey.

"'Ow much'll yer take for the nicke, gov'nor?"

The answer staggered the youth and convulsed those within hearing distance.

"You've enough to do to keep yourself, lad, without buying another, so draw in your head, and mind your ears against the sides o' the window."

Quite Right.

"Patience and perseverance will accomplish all things," was a favorite saying of an old miller.

He had just made this remark in a train one day on the way to market, when a pompous individual in the corner turned to him crossly and said:—

"Nonsense, sir. I can tell you a great many things which neither patience nor perseverance can accomplish."

"Perhaps you can," said the miller, "but I have never yet come across one thing."

"Well, then, I'll tell you one. Will patience and perseverance ever enable you to carry water in a sieve?"

"Certainly."

"I would like to know how."

"Simply by waiting patiently for the water to freeze."

Regarding Dancing.

A stern old preacher had issued to his people a command against dancing, believing it to be a device of the devil.

A few of the young people disobeyed and attended a dance given at a neighboring town. Finally it reached the ears of the preacher, and, meeting one of the culprits on the street one morning, said in a stern voice:

"Good morning, child of the devil!"

"Good morning, father!" smilingly answered the pretty miss.

Intelligent Dog.

Said Flossie to May: "Just listen while I talk to Fido. He's so intelligent!"

"Does doggie want to turn out for a walk?"

"Bow-wow!"

"Of course 'oo does! But 'oo just had a bath, and 'oo might catch cold."

"Bow-wow!"

"If 'oo stays home, I'll div' 'oo a piece of cake."

"Bow-wow!"

"I knew 'oo would. What kind of cake?"

"Bow-wow!"

"Sponge cake! All right, 'oo shall have sponge cake! Did you ever see such an intelligent dog, May? He understands every word I say to him."

Apprehension.

The baby was slow about talking, and his aunt was deploring that fact. Four-year-old Elisabeth listened anxiously.

"Oh, mother," she ventured at length, "do you think he'll grow up English? We couldn't any of us understand him if he turned out to be French!"

Classified.

"Your former husband must still love you."

"Why so?"

"He tells me that he owes a great deal to you."

"He's referring to the back alimony."

Couldn't Stand the Shock.

Maude: "Poor Mrs. Frales fainted on a street car."

Edith: "Crowded car, I suppose, and the poor thing had to stand up until she collapsed."

Maude: "No, on the contrary, every man in the car arose and offered his seat when she entered, and she swooned."

Interesting.

"Oh, he's delightful company! I just love to hear him talk!"

"What does he talk about?"

"Me."

In Reno.

"So you have two proposals?"

"Yes; I can't decide which to marry first."

The Drama of Dirt.

Madge—The plays of today are not worth goin gto see.

Marjorie—But look at what you hear!

When It's Waste Paper.

Maid—Is this paper from Mr. Scribbler's room waste paper, mum?

Landlady—No. He hasn't written anything on it yet

Prophecy Fulfilled.

The newly married couple had just crossed the threshold of their home for the first time.

"This is our world, dear," he said softly. "In it we will accomplish great things."

His prophecy was correct.

Inside of two months they were fighting for the championship of the world.

Psychological Moment.

Crawford—What's the best time for a man to get home at night?

Crabshaw—When his wife is asleep.

Same Experience.

Mrs. Newlywed (to cook, whom she has just engaged)—You see, my husband is so very particular about his food.

Cook (sympathetically)—They're all alike, mum. My old man was just the same; I never cooked anything to please 'im in me life.

Parading Her Money.

Thornton—Fannie Flashley carries her bank roll in her stocking.

Rosemary—I'm not surprised. She always enjoyed the fame of hanging her wealth.

Bright, I say!

Albert—They makes very sure of himself before he does any boasting.

Edgar—A safe blower, eh?

Charity.

The Charity that begins at home and remains there is anaemic. An occasional outing will do it good.

Defying the Militants.

Tourist (in London)—It certainly took a bunch o' bobbies to arrest that silk-hatted guy! What did he do?

Cabby—Why, that bleedin' blighter hadn't pinched; 'e's a bleedin' statesman goin' to luncheon!

Low Comedy.

Biffstick—I couldn't make them laugh tonight. Do you think my comedy is over their heads?

Ravenyelp—No; under their feet.

Welded.

Boob—Weak things united become strong.

Miss Tarte—Why don't you marry?

Diplomatic Creditor.

"That fellow treats you with respect."

"Yes; I owe him five dollars."

Ladylike.

He—Nice little game, football.

She (ardent suffragette)—Yes, indeed. Very ladylike.

A Dead Cinch.

Conductor—This transfer expired a long time ago.

Co-ed (snappily)—No wonder, with not a single ventilator open in the whole car!

Whisper.

First Bud—Oh, Mabel, I heard a good story.

Second Bud—Sh! Whisper! My brother is in the next room.

The Right Fellow.

"Excuse me; can I speak to your typewriter a moment?"

"You cannot; she is engaged."

"That's all right; I'm the fellow she's engaged to."

He Was a Volunteer.

From the Emerald Isle, he was looking for work, and so took his stand in a group at the gate of a large engineering establishment. By and by the foreman appeared.

"Are there any drillers here?" he asked.

"Yes," answered Pat, stepping forward.

He got the job at once, but had not been working long at a machine when it broke down.

"Where, man, did you learn drilling?" demanded the foreman, in anything but a pleasant mood.

"In the militia," was the reply.

Whitebait for His.

Mr. Raymond Priestley, speaking recently of the work of the northern party engaged in the south pole expedition, told a story of two bluejackets who had a dispute as to the exact position of a public house in Portsmouth. In the end the argument resolved itself into a bet, and the loser was to stand a supper at a well-known fish restaurant.

"And what about drinks?" asked one.

"Well," said the other, "if I lose, you shall have a glass of beer with each fish."

"Right-o!" was the reply. "Then we'll have whitebait!"

"Professor, I know my boy is rather slow, but in the two years that you have had charge of his education he must have developed a tendency in some direction or other. What occupation do you suggest, as a possible outlet for his energies, such as they are?"

"Well, sir, I think he is admirably fitted for taking moving pictures of a glacier."

There had been a missionary sermon and collection at a certain church, and a little girl who accompanied her father to the service seemed perplexed and meditative.

When she reached home she asked her mother whether the natives of Africa, of whom they had heard, wore any clothes.

"No," replied the mother, "they don't."

"Then," remarked the observant young lady, "what was the use of the button that father gave to the collection?"

Buying a Habit.

A countryman, passing thru a town, was attracted by a notice in a shop window which read: "Good Habits for Sale." After reading it he went inside.

"Well, sir," said the assistant, "what can I do for you?"

"I want to get a good habit, please," said the countryman.

"What kind would you like, sir?" said the assistant.

"The one of getting up early in the morning," replied the country man.

The assistant looked astonished, then, seeing a joke, wrote on a slip of paper, "Please give bearer some self-raising flour," and directed him to the grocery shop next door.

Crabshaw: "I've preached and preached to that boy about being deceitful, but he merely laughs at me."

Mrs. Crabshaw: "No wonder. You put all the best presents in the top of his Christmas stocking."

A comedian in a Paris theatre recently made a great hit out of a painful incident. While indulging in a bit of horse-play on the stage he struck his head violently, entirely by accident, against one of the pillars of the scene upon the stage. On hearing the thud, everybody uttered a cry.

"No great harm done," said he. "Just hand me a towel, a glass of water, and a salt-cellar."

These were brought, and he sat down, folded the towel in the form of a bandage, dipped it in the glass, and emptied the salt-cellar on the wet part. Having thus prepared a compress, according to prescription, and when everyone expected he would apply it to his forehead, he gravely arose and tied it round the pillar.

On a recent examination paper on "How We Are Governed," was this question:

"If the prime minister, the chancellor of the exchequer, the home secretary, and all the members of the cabinet should die, who would officiate?"

Robert, a boy of twelve, thought for some time, trying in vain to recall who came next in succession. At last a happy inspiration came to him, and he answered, "The undertaker."

Give you a Crhistmas box, certainly not; you don't deal here."

"No; but the lady what lives next door to us does, and muvver borrows a lot off her."

Unfortunate Pedestrian (who has been knocked down and is a little dazed). "Where am I? Where am I?"

Enterprising Newsboy: "'Ere y'are, Sir—Map o' London, one penny."

—Punch.

Understood All Right.

A Chinaman was once brought before the magistrate of an English city and fined a sovereign for an infraction of the bylaws. The magistrate found it a bit difficult to explain the punishment to the "Chinkie," who, apparently ignorant of English, stubbornly refused to understand.

"Now, look here, John," the magistrate explained, impatiently, "it's a sovereign, see? You pay money no go to prison. Savvy?"

"No savvy," retorted the Chinaman, for the tenth time.

"Let me get at him," cried the corpulent constable, fresh from Kriz, who had made the arrest. "I'll tache the haythin to misscomprehend yer honor."

Permission being given, Michael jumped over the dock rail, seized the Chinee, and yelled in his ear, "You wid the face off the tea-caddie, d'ye hear? Ye're fined two pounds."

"Heap big lie," replied the Chinaman, blandly. "It's only one."

Good actions carry warrant with them. The warrant for bad ones is carried by a policeman.

Maybe—At Last.

Penrod Hackley, the non-rising young author, had intrigued his way into the private office of Gasand Slush, the austere editor of Flip Fiction.

"I know it is not exactly in your line," he began nervously, "but I have here a good story based on and exposing the secret handclasps of various fraternal orders."

"Give it here!" commanded the editor eagerly. "Maybe at last we can truthfully announce a story of gripping interest."

Mrs. Hennypeck (looking up from her reading): "This writer says that widows make the best wives."

Mr. Hennypeck: "But, really, my dear, you can hardly expect me to die just in order to make a good wife of you."

The Visitor: "Why are you here, my misguided friend?"

The Prisoner: "I'm the victim of the unlucky number thirteen."

The Visitor: "Indeed! How's that?"

The Prisoner: "Twelve jurors and one judge."

The Local Plutocrat: I s'pose you 'eard, George, that I've bin accepted as candidate for city council for the next election?

George: Yessir; I 'eard that when I was down town last night.

The Local Plutocrat: Did you 'appen to 'ear what people was sayin' about it?

George: Oh I dunno, sir. Nobody wasn't sayin' much. Just larfin'.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ON THE BRIDGE

An appalling crash of thunder caused Wallace Gordon to pull up his restless team sharply and take stock of the situation. He had been conscious, in a way, for the previous hour that a heavy downpour of rain was beating on top and sides of his snugly closed vehicle, but up to the moment he had not realized the serious side of it.

"By George," he exclaimed. "This looks bad—deuced bad. A little more of it and there will be all sorts of trouble."

He pulled back the team to a semblance of order and went on under the whip, lurching through broad pools and muddy rivulets which were breaking across the highway in many places.

He had been on a forty-mile drive that day and was returning with a mind ill at rest. The evening before he had called on the winsome but old-fashioned Nellie Stewart for a final answer to his petition of love. Nellie was not old-fashioned in appearance, by any means, but she had aggravatingly old-fashioned ideas about the continuation of love when once plighted, as her impetuous young lover had put it a hundred times in his solitary drive.

"What more can a man do?" he mused, again dropping into the mood from which the fury of the storm had aroused him. "I have assured her with all the solemnity and candour I can master that I would be constant to the end of time; that I would write it in letters of fire on her heart if I could do so; that I would swear by high heaven and all that is holy that I would love her to the end of the world and then on through all the ages of eternity; but still she trembles on the brink of the sea of bliss, fearing results of the last step. Poor girl! She has a horror of separation, hectoring old age, and that awful thing—divorce."

"Wallace, dear," she had said on parting, "give me just 24 hours more, I must be absolutely sure on every point. If we do marry it must not be for a month, a year, or half a lifetime, but for all time. Now, away down in your heart, dear," looking steadily into his eyes, "do you think you would continue to love me when I am old, faded, withered—love me as you do now—as I know you do?"

"I do."

"I know it is extremely selfish of me to be so exacting when I can do no mor for myself than give you my sacred word that I shall be loving and faithful to the end, as I require of you; somehow I think I know myself—but—" she broke off with a quiver.

In a moment she had recovered and was smiling up at him. "Come back this time to-morrow evening," she said, "and then I will be able to give you my answer one way or the other."

Gordon was on his way back when the crashing storm had interrupted his train of thought. He was within two miles of home now, and the girl of his affections lived a mile off, at right angles on a beautiful country lane.

It was then mid-afternoon and he had planned to drive home and at the appointed hour go over to the Stewart home to hear the words that were to make him happy for life—or otherwise. He was not sure what the answer would be, but like all young lovers he had hope.

At this juncture there was a renewal of the storm's fury. The clouds opened and a very deluge of rain obscured his vision. He stopped the horses and peeped out of a small opening in the covering. In every direction there was water—water.

Just ahead a ravine was filled to the top of the banks with a muddy, drift-capped torrent, the like of which he had never before seen there. The ravine was spanned by an old-style, covered wooden bridge, with the floor a foot or so above the level of the banks. Gordon had to cross that bridge to reach home.

It had not occurred to him that he might be unable to do so. His only thought was to race across as quickly as possible and get out of the awful storm; whereupon he lashed the horses and sent them forward with a rush, but within a few rods they came back on their haunches and stood nervously pawing.

Again he looked out and was horrified to see that in a few minutes during which his attention had been diverted the stream had mounted to the lower planks of the bridge and already the approach was under water.

"Heaven help me," he murmured, sawing at the lines in an attempt to keep the horses' heads pointed in a homeward direction. "This is a cloudburst and the bridge will not stay another five minutes."

He attempted to send the horses ahead with lash and harsh commands, but the poor beasts knew the danger ahead better than did their distracted master, and they dashed from the road towards higher ground in an open field.

As the team came around, facing the raging waters, Gordon caught a glimpse of a figure at the extreme entrance to the bridge. The horses were still plunging, but in a moment he had them nearer the bridge and could make out that the person was a woman.

She was standing on the guard rail clinging to an upright post while the angry water leaped and bounded hungrily at her feet. She was calling for help, but the roar of the waters drowned her words to a mere jumble.

Gordon's first impulse was to spring from the buggy, breast the waters, already shoulder high, and running like a sea across the space at the approach to the bridge, and lend whatever aid he could to the woman; but before he could get his feet clear of the robes and trappings and spring out there was a crash, followed by a scream, and the old bridge toppled from its foundations and floated away, at first resistingly and then swinging to midstream gained momentum, and in a moment was racing with the raging torrent. An immense pile of driftwood had struck it near the middle and it was gone before Gordon realized what had happened.

For a second he remained stricken into inaction. When the structure had fallen from its supports and buoyantly came to the surface after the first plunge, he saw he woman still clinging to the post. She seemed to have remained on the top side of the destroyed structure, and as yet had not suffered greatly.

The team was sent flying down a side road parallel with the stream. In five minutes Gordon was abreast of the swiftly floating bridge. He leaned out and called at the top of his voice: "Hold fast! I'll get you off somehow."

The woman waved a hand feebly to signify that she had heard him. The team went on at the speed of the wind. Half a mile down stream he jerked his horses to a sudden stop and sprang out on to the spongy sod.

A hundred yards above the bridge had become entangled in a tree top and was swinging out of the main current toward shore. It paused dizzily in an eddying circle. Gordon could see the woman in the same position that she had at first occupied.

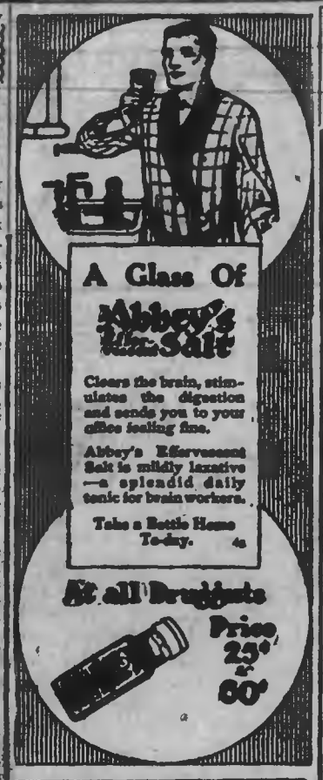
He looked about for material for an improvised raft. Nothing was in sight and he was about to pull off his coat and swim to the rescue when the bridge again swung out and went on.

Gordon sprang back to his vehicle and followed in pursuit, calling as he went: "Keep up your courage, there is still hope."

This time there was no response. It was evident that the strain had been too great and the woman had lapsed into unconsciousness. The bridge careened around the bend and once or twice threatened to capsize.

Gordon ran along the edge of the wood, his team following in the more elevated highway a few yards back. He called encouragement as he ran. It required so much effort to keep up with the bridge and its human freight that he had no time to select his way through the tangles of bushes and briars and in a few moments was in a sad plight. But he kept on with no thought but the rescue of the helpless woman.

A half mile farther on the bridge grounded against an island of bushes on a slight elevation. In a moment



SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Haas, Lunenburg, N.S. "Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

WASHING LACE.

There are two ways to do everything, the right and the wrong. This applies to washing lace as to anything else.

Lace should be washed in tepid water which contains a very small pinch of soda. It should not be rubbed. Make a lather and dip the flimsy articles up and down in it.

It is a great mistake to iron lace.

The wisest method in drying is to lay the collars or ruffles in a clean folded towel. When still a little damp, pull the lace, make it into a small, tight roll and pin it. When it is completely dry unfold it. The lace will look almost like new.

The Secret of Good Digestion

In perfect health, with regular and healthful action of the liver and kidneys, you need not know there is such a thing as digestion or indigestion. Unfortunately, however, modern life is artificial, and, not many people avoid suffering more or less from troubles of this nature.

The great secret lies in keeping the liver and kidneys in health and vigour, for then the food is passed quickly along the alimentary canal, the nutritive portions being assimilated in the blood stream and the poisoned waste materials are passed out of the body.

When the liver and kidneys get wrong you will obtain relief most promptly and effectively by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If chronic indigestion is to be cured it must be by enlivening the action of these filtering and excretory organs. To persons who have thought only of the stomach as being the offending organ this may seem strange, but any competent physician will tell you this is correct.

Carlyle's Interest in the House.

Carlyle's interest in domestic details, as shown by his letter about taking the house at Cheyne row, was always fairly well continued. He would on occasion find relief for one of his moods or take a pleasure in sweeping down with a broom and water the path and flagged yard of his "bedquilt of a garden." Nor did he disdain personal concern about the furniture. One of the most vivid little notes to his wife, preserved in the Carlyle collection at Chelsea, is the scrap of paper dated Dec. 24, 1839, in which he scribbled Christmas wishes to his wife and "the promise of a washstand" as his Christmas gift to her.

Objected to Hat.

Ochrida, the scene of some fierce fighting recently, proved a most unpleasant place for Edward Lear, the inventor of "Limericks," when he went painting landscapes in Albania. He wore a large "white wideawake hat" that aroused the wrath of the aborigines. It appeared "typically infidel" to Moslems, while Christians naturally thought that the wearer of such a hat must be a new and specially objectionable kind of heretic. So when the artist started to sketch he was assailed "from behind walls and rocks" with "unceasing showers of stones, sticks and mud."

First London Coliseum.

The first London Coliseum (or Colosseum), which was opened in Regent's Park in August, 1829, furnished entertainments of pretty well as miscellaneous a character as that set before King George recently. In the British Museum is a collection of Coliseum programs from 1836 to 1840, which show that during this period the amusements included dissolving views, Bedouin Arabs, "marble groupings," ballad concerts (with Braham and Mme. Sala), panoramas, French plays, and English operas.

Origin of O in Front of Oporto.

The city of Oporto in Portugal was once upon a time called Porto. The letter O in front of it is due to a peculiar and likewise almost humorous happening.

When the Duke of Wellington was conducting the Peninsular wars he had with him several Irish regiments. One of these stationed in Porto came to like the place so much that the men decided to make it immortal with the O'Tooles and O'Haras. Hence the town known to the Portuguese as Porto has ever since been blazoned far and wide to the rest of the world as Oporto.

SHOOTING THROUGH MUD.

A Narrow Escape in an Elephant Hunt in Ceylon.

The elephants of Ceylon are not hunted for their ivory, like the elephants of Africa. Instead of the long tusks that ornament the latter, the Ceylon animals have only "grubbers," three or four inches long, which are not often taken. Sportsmen do pursue them occasionally, however, and Sir Samuel Baker in "Rifle and Hound In Ceylon" tells of a narrow escape that a certain hunter had in the jungles of Ceylon.

A favorite haunt of the elephants was a pond with a broad and muddy margin. The surface of the mud was baked hard, but it remained soft below. The crust was just thick enough to bear up a man if he advance with great care. The elephants delight to stalk through this mud and smear it over their bodies, so as to protect themselves from the mosquitoes. Attended by a couple of gun bearers the hunter was watching this spot one day when an elephant made his appearance and advanced majestically through the mud. The hunter had the wind on the beast, so that he could follow him without being scented. Closer and closer he crept until he was within eight paces of the great beast. His gun-bearers followed him.

"I was carrying," says he, "a light double-barreled gun, but I now reached back to exchange it for my four-ounce rifle. I did not imagine that the additional weight of the heavy weapon would have the effect that followed. The treacherous surface suddenly gave way, and in an instant I was waist deep in mud. The noise I made alarmed the elephant, and he came trumpeting toward me.

"I thought it was all up with me. I was immovable in my bed of slime, and instead of the clean, brown barrel to which I could usually trust in an emergency, I raised to my shoulder a mass of mud that encased my rifle like a flannel bag. I fully expected to miss fire. I could not see my sights, and I had to guess at the aim, with the elephant only half a dozen yards from me.

"I pulled the slippery trigger. The rifle did not even hang fire, and the 'rogue' fell into the deep bed of mud, stone dead. If the rifle had missed fire I must have been killed, escape would have been impossible. It was with great difficulty that I got out of my muddy bed through the joint exertions of myself and my gun bearers."

They had broken a wishbone together.

"What was it you wished?" laughed she.

"I wished that you'd let me kiss you. Now tell me your wish," said he.

Her eyes fell, she paused a moment,
While her blushes deeper grew.
"My wish was," she prettily stammered.
"That what you wished would come true."

Was Confined To His Bed For Four Months With Rheumatism.

Mr. W. H. Riley, Ruddell, Sask., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all suffering with rheumatism. I was so bad with this terrible disease, I was unable to get up from my bed for four months, and nothing seemed to relieve me until a friend recommended Doan's Pills. I had my doubts about them, but was so desperate I would try anything suggested to me. After taking half a box I was able to get up, and after taking two boxes could get around quite well. After taking six boxes I was completely cured, and able to work for the first time in five months, and have not had a touch of rheumatism since. Anyone who saw me then would not know me now, as I am strong and active since taking your valuable medicine."

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys to flush off the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected, and thus clean out the kidneys, and dispel the rheumatism from the system.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

In Cleopatra's Needle.

One of the favorite attractions for visitors in London is Cleopatra's needle on the Thames embankment. On its erection in its present standing place many years ago a large number of articles were put in the cavity at the base of the obelisk.

The following represents the complete list:

Standard foot and pound; bronze model of the obelisk, one-half inch scale to the foot; copies of engineering, printed on vellum, with plans of the mechanical contrivances employed in erecting and transporting the obelisk, together with its complete history; a fragment of the obelisk itself, chipped from it in the process of leveling the base; jars of Doulton ware; complete set of British coinage, including an Empress of India rupee; standard gauge of 1,000th part of an inch; baby's feeding bottle and children's toys; parchment copy of Dr. Birch's translation of the obelisk's hieroglyphics; portrait of Queen Victoria; Bibles in French and English, the Hebrew Pentateuch, the Arabic Genesis and a translation into 215 languages of the 16th verse of the third chapter of St. John's Gospel; a razor; Bradshaw's railway guide; case of cigars; some pipes; box of hairpins and sundry articles of feminine adornment; a hydraulic jack, as used in raising the obelisk; specimens of wire rope and submarine cables; 24 maps of London; copies of daily and illustrated newspapers; a two-foot rule.

Woman Is As Old As She Looks
No woman wants to look old. Many in their effort to look youthful resort to the "beauty doctor's" prescriptions. Their mistake is that they visit the wrong department in the drug store. Beauty depends upon health.
Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders, irregularities and weaknesses of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.
To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for
DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription
This famous medicine strikes at the very root of these conditions of your youthful appearance. It makes you not only look young, but feel young.
Your druggist can promptly get it in liquid or tablet form or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., and a trial box will be mailed you.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF COSTIVE, BILIOUS, HEADACHY—"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Best liver and bowel regulator for mamma, daddy and children

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered, and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" to-night and in the morning all the constipation poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for baby. It simply can not injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.

COUNTERFEITING CHARGED.

Two Men and a Girl Are Arrested by London Police.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7. — Three persons who are believed to have been busy in this city for the past week manufacturing 50-cent pieces, and who, it is alleged, successfully passed a number of them yesterday between 9.30 and 11 o'clock, were at 11.30 all lodged in the London Police station, together with paraphernalia found in their possession. The trio give their names, occupations and ages, as follows: Valentine Phillips, electrician, English, age 24; Fred. Sutherland, carpenter, Canadian, aged 20; Mrs. Esther Sutherland, age 18. The girl is said to be Fred. Sutherland's wife.

Their arrest was sensational, the Sutherlands being captured by the detectives at the C.P.R. station, and Phillips being arrested as he was offering a bad coin for a purchase.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is said in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and feeling in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of these sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralise any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralising the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the cause—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

St. Jean Baptiste Dedicated.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—With all the ceremonial of the Catholic Church, the Church of St. Jean Baptiste was dedicated yesterday by Cardinal Farley. Built originally as the parish church of the French-Canadians of New York, St. Jean Baptiste has become celebrated locally for the annual pilgrimages for the Novena preceding the Feast of St. Ann, of whom this church possesses a relic, brought by one of the founders from France.

EAT CABBAGE, FISH SAUSAGE, NEW BREAD

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Upset Stomach If You'll Take "Pape's Diapepsin"—Try This!

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favourite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realise in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

VILLA TAKES CHARGE.

Chief of Rebel Leaders Plans Assault on Ojinaga.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 7.—"Villa is here! Viva Villa! Viva Panchito!"

This is the cry that echoes across the desert. Riding an old pinto pony, Francisco Villa, commander-in-chief, governor-general and dictator, spent the afternoon going from camp to camp of the Constitutionalists around Ojinaga, Mexico, conferring with his lieutenants, Ortega, Natera and Rodriguez.

Villa arrived yesterday afternoon, coming through La Mulagna. With him came Rosalio Hernandez, the schoolmaster general, in command of 2,000 south of Mexico men. The other wing was commanded by Monclovio Herrera, cattle-thief by profession before he turned rebel from choice. The reinforcements number 3,500, and are believed to be strong enough to turn the balance against the Federals, who have so bravely beaten off the rebel attack. With the reinforcements came three big field pieces.

Rebels Blow Up Train.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7. — A variation of the usual dynamiting incident is reported from Aguascallientes. The rebels captured a train at Espiritu Santo. While it was approaching La Houda another party of rebels, believing that the train carried Federals, exploded a mine. The train was blown up and eighty men were killed or injured.

TO BACK CHURCHILL.

London Citizens Prepare a "Larger Navy" Demonstration.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—While the newspapers continue furiously to debate Lloyd George's disarmament proposals, sober opinion and a review of all the circumstances lead to the belief that there will be no change in the Government's naval program for this year.

Several bodies in the north of England have recently passed resolutions condemning the constant growth of expenditure on armaments, but on the other hand, preparations are proceeding in London for a meeting in favor of a strong navy, and to show that the huge taxpaying community comprised in the City of London realizes the vital necessity of a big navy for the protection of Britain.

ROBBED BY HIGHWAYMAN.

Mitchell's Boy Man Is Relieved of $12 and Effects.

CHATHAM, Jan. 7.—George Kime of Mitchell's Bay, was held up by highwaymen on the River road, Dover Township, about a mile from the city, and relieved of about $12 in money and a quantity of personal effects. From all appearance the robbery was carefully planned.

Acting on information given by the complainant, the authorities arrested Jack Banks and David Grant, both local young men, on suspicion of being implicated in the affair.

On appearing before Magistrate Stanworth yesterday Banks and Grant pleaded not guilty to the charge laid and elected to be tried by a jury.

The magistrate remanded them for one week. Neither man will be allowed bail.

Five Killed In Fire.

NEWARK, Ohio Jan. 7.—Five persons were killed and six injured, two of whom will die, when fire early yesterday morning destroyed the Gus Hern Hotel on Second street here.

Not a single one of the eleven people who were in the building when the fire was discovered escaped death or injury. The building was a two-storey frame and brick structure, and was entirely consumed.

FOURTEEN RESCUED.

Six of the Survivors of the Oklahoma Taken Into Port.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Six of the missing twenty-seven of the crew of the oil tank steamer Oklahoma, which broke in two off Sandy Hook early Sunday, were brought into port alive yesterday. They were picked up in a lifeboat Sunday afternoon by the Booth Line steamer Gregory, after having been adrift in the bitter cold for six hours.

The rescue of these five men and their story that six of their companions were lost from the lifeboat, accounts for twenty-two of the Oklahoma's crew of 38, eight having been rescued by the liner Bavaria, and three found dead in a lifeboat by the revenue cutter Seneca.

The five brought in yesterday confirm the story that the great tank ship parted amidships without warning. The weather was very stormy, and enormous seas were breaking aboard, when, with an agony of groans and creaks, the vessel buckled, apparently suspended on two huge waves at once and sleep.

NOT ENOUGH LABOR.

Idleness in Penitentiary Has Stopped Discipline, Says Stewart.

KINGSTON, Jan. 7.—That system in the penitentiary has been allowed to deteriorate on account of lack of labor was the statement of Inspector Stewart in giving evidence at the prison reform commission's session yesterday afternoon.

He declared he was a great believer in the "gospel of labor," as he referred to it, and that it was absolutely necessary to have labor to have discipline in prison. Asked for opinion as regards prison reform, he stated that labor was most essential; another point in bringing about reform was that of removal of insane convicts from the penitentiary to some other institution.

Although the inspector advocated the appointment of a qualified teacher, he held that it was not the duty of the state to provide education for a man sentenced to prison; it was merely a privilege given the convict.

In the line of manufacture, he advocated the making of furniture and the turning out of railway mail service supplies for the Government, with all repair work.

Inspector Hughes declared that lack of a head for Kingston Penitentiary was the cause of much of the trouble in management. With a proper head, there would be no trouble. Politicians had the running of the prison.

Another weakness in management, said the witness, was that of lack of strict medical examination of all convicts upon their entering prison. Judges also showed weakness in some of the sentences imposed on young boys. There should be a better system of schooling.

"The striped suit is not degrading," declared Inspector Stewart. "It is no more degrading than the costume put on by a football player."

Sugar Injection For Heart.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The injection of sugar into the veins of patients apparently dying from heart failure and exhausted from various diseases, not only restores the heart action, but produces a remarkable improvement in the general condition. Such is the substance of a communication from Dr. Enriquez of the Hospital De La Pitie to the Academy of Music last night. The results in many cases are said to have been almost miraculous, and no ill-effects whatsoever were experienced.

Exhibition Train Not Popular.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Press understands that British manufacturers are showing a lukewarm attitude towards the proposed exhibition train to tour Canada. Some firms are convinced their goods could not be adequately advertised under such conditions and in any circumstances it would have been surprising if the average British firm with inherited conservative instincts, had embraced such a proposal with enthusiasm.

Isset Pasha's New Plot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A cable from London to The Herald says:

It is confirmed in diplomatic circles that Isset Pasha has organized a plot to place a Mussulman prince on the Albanian throne.

It is feared that Turkish troops, headed by a well-known chief, will endeavor to effect a landing on the Albanian coast, for the purpose of bringing about this intention.

Go Armed Against Stomach Trouble

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Carried in Your Purse or Vest Pocket Will Enable You to Always Keep Your Stomach in Line.

Don't let all sorts of stomach troubles, dyspepsia, gastritis, mal-nutrition, dysentery and vertigo make life a constant torture and an ultimate failure. The man who is going to succeed to-day must have his body, as well as his mind, in perfect working order. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a necessity to the man who would always have his body in subjection to his will.

"I Eat When I Will, What I Want, Because After Each Meal I take a Little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish just those elements—pepsin and other ingredients—that the normal stomach secretes for the digestion of food. One or two of these tablets will completely digest the heartiest meal without any aid from the stomach. At the same time they tone up and invigorate the enfeebled stomach so that it is soon in a healthy condition again.

Prudent men always have a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets on hand. They make digestion certain no matter what or how much is eaten. Do not think because your stomach is usually all right that you don't need them. The policeman carries a revolver not because he needs it all the time, but because when he does need it, he needs it right then. When you want relief from indigestion, you want relief at once. Be armed against stomach troubles with a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. 50 cents at any drug store. Successful men everywhere endorse them, and rely upon them.

ECZEMA STARTED IN A RASH

Suffered Terribly. From Eyebrows Spread to Neck, Chest and Arms. Completely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Brinsmead, Sask. — "When my baby boy was about four months old he suffered terribly from eczema. The trouble started in a rash and was very itchy.

It made him very cross and fretful. I noticed the rash first in his eye-brows. From there it spread to his neck, chest and arms. When he would scratch, it would make sores.

"I got medicine but it did no good. I tried different remedies without result. At last I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them for two days I noticed a change. I then purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I would give him a hot bath with the Cuticura Soap every night afterward applying the Cuticura Ointment. Before I had used half of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. H. L. Stromberg, May 20, 1913.

Thereafter use of Cuticura Soap for toilet and bath not only tends to preserve, purify and beautify the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but assists in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, muddy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Bomb Outrage In Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 7.—The front of the building on North street, in which C. Cappellino conducts a bank, express business and grocery store, was blown out by a bomb explosion yesterday morning arousing the neighborhood. Cappellino, his wife and three children were thrown from their beds by the shock. The police discovered remnants of a bomb on the front door step. An attempt to blow up Cappellino's business was made last March by black handers, and the same gang is suspected.

"Vinol is just the thing
For summer, winter, fall or spring.
Follow directions, take it right,
It will save your lagging appetite.

"I know for I have tried it. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough to keep a snake alive. I have taken three bottles of Vinol and now it looks like I will eat my head off. I am at the table three times a day eating as I did in the good old days when I split rails, dug wells, topped trees, lowed corn and hoed cotton. Try Vinol and see how good it feels to be real hungry."

When you ought to be hungry and are not it is because your stomach does not feel strong enough to ask for food — a sure sign of impaired general health. Better than dosing the stomach with pepsin for temporary relief is taking Vinol, our delicious tonic, which has the strengthening and blood-making power of iron, and the building-up value of cod liver oil. It quickly restores appetite and perfect digestion. If Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing. Yarmouth Bloaters.

Probably most readers know that a bloater is a complete herring slightly salted and smoked. Not every one, however, may be aware of the genesis of this article of diet, which is given in an article in The Young Man by Mr. T. E. Freeman. It was accidental. A Yarmouth herring curer, whose leaving his premises one night after all his workpeople had gone, found a quantity of good herrings which had been overlooked. Fearing they would be spoiled if left as they were, he sprinkled them with salt and hung them in his "smokehouse," in which oak billet was then being burned. Next morning it was evident that his experiment had been successful. He began to specialise in this direction, an example which was speedily followed by others, until the fame of the bloater was established in the land.

IN ONE MINUTE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN—COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Stops Nasty Discharge, Clears Stuffed Head, Heals Inflamed Air Passages and You Breathe Freely.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1914

PAST YEAR DISAPPOINTING TO THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, of Peterborough, Reviews the Conditions in an Address to Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association.

MEETING AT CORNWALL

CORNWALL, Jan. 7.—The 37th annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association is being held here to-day with a large attendance. President Geo. A. Gillespie, of Peterborough, made the following address to the convention:

It is with pleasure that I welcome you to this, the 37th annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, in the town of Cornwall, one of the largest sections of cheese production in the Province.

Last year our hopes were high for a banner year in the dairy business, but as we drew to the close, we must admit that it has been a very disappointing year. Taken as a whole, the twelve months have witnessed at least as great a degree of trade as in 1912, but the gain in the first half alone counter-balanced the loss of the second half, and the new year will be entered upon under slowing down conditions. Prices for dairy products have maintained a fairly high level and prices for cattle of all kinds, especially young stockers, are the highest on record.

Reason For Slowing.

The pause in the business world is wide and may be accounted for by the money stringency in the great financial centres, financing of the Balkan war and the enormous drain on capital for development purposes, all over the Dominion. All this has its effect on the dairy industry and tends to make those who are engaged in the dairy business, discontented, but as we look around we find that all the other business during the past year has been equally disappointing. Our disappointments must be forgotten with the year 1913, and looking forward, overcome all obstacles and push on to success, our great national business, the "Dairy Business of Canada."

Effect of New Tariff.

The change in the United States' tariff which came into effect on October 3rd, by which milk and cream enter the United States free of duty, has curtailed the make of cheese and butter during the fall months, and will have a tendency to raise the price for the producer. The enormous shipment of cattle into the United States will have its effect on this year's production of milk unless the farmers who are selling milch cows are only selling the poor ones, culled out by the cow testing work, and will replace many of the poor cows by young heifers raised from their best cows. I firmly believe, that with half the cows of last year, the best being retained, well fed and cared for, a greater production of milk could be produced than in 1913. The dry weather which prevailed during the early summer over the greater portion of the province, and the increased demands of our cities for cream and ice cream, has again curtailed our export trade.

Export Short.

The export of cheese for the season just closed, shows about 200,000 boxes short of the season of 1912, and with the present outlook of high prices for young stockers, increased demand for milk and cream from our cities, as well as the cities across the line, I believe the year 1914 will see a greater falling off in the production of cheese than in 1913, unless the price of cheese advances on account of short make and the price of butter is lowered on account of the increased make. The quality of our cheese this season has been well maintained and as far as reported, no serious complaints have been heard. The question of short weights has been greatly on the decrease, but the complaints on broken boxes are just as numerous.

Last year, we exported only seventy boxes of butter. This year some seventeen hundred packages of unsalted butter have been exported to the Bristol market. Our make of butter for the season 1913 showed an increase, but owing to our increased population, has been taken care of by the home market. The demand from British Columbia and the Northwest has fallen off on account of shipments of New Zealand butter being landed at Vancouver.

The season of 1913, being extremely hot and dry, the quality of butter was slightly under grade. This will be more noticeable on butter now taken out of cold storage.

Cow Testing.

I am pleased to note the cow testing work has been increased again this year, and that more farmers are availing themselves of the opportunity of finding out practically without cost, the production of their individual cows. I hope the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa will continue to carry on this important work.

I wish also, to congratulate the Department of Agriculture at Toronto, for the good work accomplished by Mr. Publow and his efficient staff of instructors.

Stand Together.

In concluding my address, I would again emphasise the necessity of standing together shoulder to shoulder at this critical time, carefully sizing up the situation, on account of the changes now taking place, act slowly and cautiously, so as not to demoralize our great national industry, Dairying, which has built up the name of Canada. I trust the leaders of thought at this convention will be able to point out to those present, and through the press, our duty at the present critical time, and all engaged in the dairy business, will go forward in 1914 and show the world that Canada can overcome all obstacles in the future, as in the past.

20,000 CALLS ELECTION NIGHT

Were Handled on the Local Telephone Exchange by Competent Staff

A NEW LOCAL RECORD

Between the hours of 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. on election day there were 20,000 local calls handled by "Central" at the Bell Telephone Co. Added to this were 1,000 long distance calls during the same period. This is a record for the Peterborough office according to the manager, Mr. G. O. Cameron, and is an evidence of the increased number of telephone services in the city. There are twelve positions in front of the local exchange and all the local calls were handled through them. The entire staff numbered thirty, including long distance, supervisors and others. It will be remembered by 'phone users that in spite of the flood of 20,000 calls there were no delays. The service was as good as usual and the public would not have known that a new record was being set up if it were not for this intelligence.

"MOVIES" MAKE BIG HIT AT THE GRAND

Fine Programme of Pictures Pleased Audience—New Pictures Every Night

The advent of the Grand Opera House into the moving picture field was successfully consummated last night, when a fine programme of new pictures was put on for the benefit of a large audience. The feature was a magnificent three-reel reproduction of "Robinson Crusoe," a remarkably clear and well planned presentation of the favourite old story, which made such a big hit that it will be repeated to-night. The Grand has secured a splendid picture machine and a good operator, the pictures being very steady and clear. The pictures will be changed nightly. The Grand orchestra plays continuously throughout the evening and with the ample accommodation and comfortable seating facilities, the patronage promises to continue exceptionally good.

THE DOG STILL CONTINUES TO WAG THE TAIL

North Monaghan Election Demonstrates Fact That Farmers Are Still in Control

ALL DOUBT REMOVED

Scan the roster of the 1914 North Monaghan Council, and observe the manifest indiostions that "the dog is still wagging the tail." In other words the outlying ratepayers still hold the whip hand, and they maintained their control with but little effect.

At least these are the surface appearances. Mr. Young headed the polls. He resides on the northern boundary of the township, just across the line from Smith. Mr. Robson was next, and both he and Mr. Herb. Foster are farmers living out the gravel road or in its vicinity, several miles removed from the City. Mr. Robert Dobbin is likewise a farmer, and this completes the township Council. Not one Byerseville resident in the quartette, and if it were not for Reeve Howden, whose home is on Lansdowne Street, neither of the suburbs would be represented.

There is no question about it. The "tail" is still but a tail, and when it wags it is at the will of the "dog," to complete the figure.

MEETING OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS

A meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon when it was decided to terminate the investigation that was opened up on the complaint of License Inspector Stewart. The latter contended that he was not receiving sufficient assistance from Chief of Police Thompson in the matter of law enforcement pertaining to the liquor traffic.

The following resolution was adopted: "That having heard all the evidence offered by Joseph Stewart, License Inspector, upon the complaint that he did not receive the assistance that he should from the Chief Constable, the Commissioners do not feel justified in taking any action in the matter complained of."—Carried.

Accounts Passed

It was moved by Mr. Bradburn and seconded by Mr. Dumble, that the following accounts be paid:

Bell Telephone Co.	$20 22
Merrill & Meredith	236 00
R. M. Beach	1 25
C. P R. Telegraph	1 43
Roy Studio	2 50
Imperial Oil Co.	2 10
Jones Bros.	1 50
Pet. Fuel and Cart. Co.	65
Times Printing Co.	8 25
Bullied and Irwin	2 40

Those present at the meeting were Police Magistrate Dumble, His Worship Mayor Bradburn and Chief of Police Thompson.

THE WEATHER

The weather continues unusually mild for what should be the depth of a Canadian winter. Last night the thermometer barely went below the freezing point, and to-day it is quite mild. The lowest figure this winter up to the present was on New Year's morning, it being then 8 degrees below zero. Very mild conditions have prevailed throughout the Canadian west, and still continue, and until real winter sets in there, it is useless to expect the genuine article here.

KNOX CHURCH CHOIR.

There will be a full rehearsal of Knox Church Choir to-morrow (Thursday) evening, at 8 o'clock.

THE POULTRY SHOW DRAWS RECORD CROWD

People From City and County Flock to See the Aristocrats of the Poultry Ring

ADDRESS BY MISS YATES

To-day the Peterborough Poultry Show for 1914 entered upon the second day of its existence. The present show promises to be the best in the history of the Association. Yesterday it was favoured with a record-breaking attendance, and also an elucidative address by Miss Yates, of the Ontario Agricultural College. Miss Yates gave a demonstration on how to prepare poultry for market by means of a chicken which was provided for the occasion. Several hundred people witnessed the operation which included the removal of the bones from the fowl. Miss Yates will give an address this evening on winter egg production. This should prove of interest to many in view of the scarcity of eggs and the probability of a famine.

The Best Ever.

The show which is being held in the Market Building promises to be the best in the history of the Association. The interest in the exhibition is not confined to poultry fanciers alone, but to the citizens generally. The latter are more in evidence than those who are actually engaged in the poultry-raising industry.

There are over fifteen hundred entries encompassing every type of bird known to poultry fanciers. Exhibitors are present from every quarter of Ontario and Quebec, and the competition is of the keenest. The judging to-day is in charge of Messrs. William McNeal, of London, and Mr. Wilson, of Brockville. The latter declares the show to be one of the finest and most representative that he has seen for some time.

The show will close to-morrow night at ten o'clock. The show will be open during the afternoon and evening of to-day and to-morrow. Special arrangements have been made to accommodate a large crowd this evening, when an address will be given by Miss Yates.

A few of the prize-winners to-day are: S. Oliver, of Lindsay; C. B. Tucker, of Peterborough; W. Halliday, of Springville; Joseph Kelly, J. Meharry, of Peterborough, and Thomas Trotter, of Lindsay.

The prizes are on exhibition in the window of the Oak Hall Clothing store. A large number of special prizes have been provided.

ENTERTAINMENT TO BE REPEATED

"An Afternoon Tea in Friendly Village, 1862" Will be Repeated for the Benefit of the Y.M.C.A.

The Charlotte Street Church Ladies' Aid entertainment is to be repeated, by request, on Friday evening, January 9th, at eight o'clock, in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, for the benefit of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. Admission twenty-five cents.

MR. GLIDDON A LIEUTENANT NOW

By general order 171, of Nov. 4, 1913, Bandmaster (Warrant Officer) Rupert Gliddon of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, is to be Honourary Lieutenant of the Canadian Militia, dating from Oct. 30th, 1913.

Lieut. Gliddon is to be congratulated upon this honour, one very rarely given to bandmasters.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON THEFT CHARGE

Money Transactions Between John Doig and Joseph Findlay Brings Farmer Into Trouble

BOURBONAIS REMANDED

In this morning's police court, John Doig, an East City junk dealer, was charged with the theft of $16 from Joseph Findlay. He pleaded "not guilty," and was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon. Mr. Joseph Wearing conducted the prosecution in the absence of his partner, Crown Attorney Wood, who has not yet recovered his usual health.

After the hearing of the evidence, Doig was committed for trial.

Mr. Joseph Findlay, the complainant, was the first witness. He said that on the night of November the 1st, he got drunk in the house which was used as a joint residence by him and Doig. He had $16 when he got drunk, but when arrested that night he had no money in his possession. Where it went he did not know. Doig was in the house at the time.

The second witness was Mrs. Lilly Tilly, sister of Mrs. Doig, who was visiting Doig's at the time of the alleged theft. Mrs. Tilly said that on the night of November 1st Mr. Findlay was drunk, and that he asked Mrs. Doig to change a $5 bill. He took three five dollar bills from his pocket, but Mr. Doig could not make change. Findlay then handed the money to Mrs. Doig, saying, "I have ordered some coal to come in the morning. Take this money and pay for it." Mrs. Doig then handed the money to witness to keep in her pocket book, as Mrs. Doig had no place to keep it. The witness took the money and that night Findlay was arrested for being drunk while on the blacklist. The next morning the witness said to prisoner, "What will I do with this money?" He answered, "Give it to me for the lumber I put in the stable and I'll move out to-morrow. Witness gave the money to Doig.

Mrs. Doig was the next witness. She corroborated her sister's evidence, except that she swore the words Findlay said when he gave her the $15 were, "Buy some coal with this." Mrs. Doig further explained that she and her husband received the use of the house free from rent for boarding Mr. Findlay, who was to supply the coal and wood. Mr. Findlay gave Doig permission to build a stable behind the house, but this was to be paid for and owned entirely by Doig. It was to make up for the loss of this stable, which he would incur if he moved away, that Doig had taken the $15.

Recalled to the box, Mr. Findlay said that he asked Doig where the money he had lost was, and prisoner had answered, "I don't know." Later the witness found out about the money and threatened to prosecute Doig. Doig's answer to the threat was, "Go ahead!" At no time had Doig ever suggested that Findlay was liable for any of the cost of the stable.

Mr. Gordon argued that the case should be transferred to a civil court, but the Magistrate drew attention to the fact that the money had been given by Findlay to buy coal and had been put to his own use by the prisoner. He therefore must commit the prisoner for trial.

Louis Bourbonais, charged with assaulting his wife with intent to do bodily harm, pleaded "guilty" and elected to be tried summarily. He was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon, and judgment was reserved for a week. It will be remembered that about three weeks ago, Bourbonais in a drunken fury, assulted his wife with a razor. She defended herself and succeeded in breaking the razor, but both hands were fearfully cut, and may be rendered permanently lame from the injuries received.

Dr. Amys gave evidence this morning as to the seriousness of the injuries inflicted.

"When a man with a wife and children allows himself to lose his self-control as to attack the mother of his children with a razor, he is mean and cowardly. Drink may have had something to do with it ,but he showed underlying ugliness of character," said Magistrate Dumble, "and the worst of it is that to punish him properly you must punish his innocent wife and children."

INCREASE OF $8,200 IN THE DEMAND OF SCHOOL BOARD

COUNCIL WILL MEET MONDAY

When Standing Committees Will Be Selected—Mayor Elect Will Occupy the Chair

WOMEN VOTERS

The first meeting of the 1914 City Council will be held on Monday next, commencing at 11 o'clock. The Mayor elect will occupy the chair and will deliver his inaugural address from the Chief Magistrate's dias. The main item of business will be the selection of the various committees and the Chairmen who will guide their destinies. Several of the aldermen-elect have taken the formal declaration of office, also Mayor Buller.

The number of votes cast by women in the recent municipal elections will not be known for about a month, the regulations requiring that the ballot boxes containing the ballots and all the polling booth literature remain unopened for thirty days after the elections. This is done so that the records may be intact in event of any candidate demanding a recount.

Sir James Near The End

Took Another Relapse This Morning and Was in a Critical Condition at 2 O'Clock

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 7)(Bulletin, 2 o'clock)—Sir James Whitney is in a critical condition following this morning's relapse.

New York, N.Y., Jan. 7. — After two days of holding his own and a slight improvement which gave grounds for hope of recovery in a week or so, Sir James Whitney has lapsed back into the serious condition in which he was Monday morning. After a night of comparative rest his condition suddenly changed, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning, and now he is still keeping alive and not much more. Stimulants are being administered freely to keep the flagging heart muscles up to their work, but the issue remains in much doubt. The end may come very soon, or another favourable turn may come.

The abrupt change came this morning without any warning, and gave a severe shock of surprise to the little group of watchers. Last night Sir James was in excellent spirits. He had made a good meal of broth, toast and eggs.

After breakfast the doctors were chatting in the rotunda of the hotel with a group of newspaper men and replying with non-committal smiles to the suggestions that it might be possible to move Sir James back to Toronto in a few days, when a bellboy approached and told the Doctor he was wanted in No. 226 at once.

The number of the Premier's room is 226.

The Doctor rushed for the elevator, followed an instant later by Mr. Wallis.

"We are keeping him alive," said Dr. Payne, later, "and while there is life there is hope," said the Doctor. Hon. Walter Scott, the Premier of Saskatchewan, was inquiring about Sir James to-day. Only a year ago he was in such a condition with pneumonia and heart trouble, that he wasn't expected to live more than a few hours. He is a big, healthy loking man to-day and nobody is talking about choosing his successor.

H asked me to tell Sir James not to worry. "Say to him," said he, "that you are not half so bad as I was. You will get better all right."

The treatment being given the patient is one of rest with administration of stimulants. Small doses of strychnine, nitro-glycerine, and various recently discovered compounds are given every few hours.

Lots of people don't know which side of their bread is buttered unless it is buttered on both sides.

High Schools and Other Innovations Result in Increased Expenditure—Estimates Were Presented Last Night.

TO WAIT ON COUNCIL.

At the final meeting of the Board of Education last night, the estimates for the coming year, along with a detailed statement of the finances for the past twelve months was submitted. The estimated expenditure for next year will be $87,500, an increase of $8,200 over last year's estimate for current expenses.

The extra amount required to carry on the educational work next year is accounted for by the following:

(1) Industrial night schools.

(2) Medical supervisor for schools.

(3) Increased number of children attending school.

(4) Extra teachers in new schools, and yearly increase in salary of teachers as provided by schedule.

(5) Fuel for new schools.

It was explained by Secretary-Treasurer Thompson at last night's meeting that the above five provisions accounted for practically all of the extra expenditure. This, the Board felt was necessary in the educational system, and entirely unavoidable if the welfare of the children is to be considered at all.

Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., suggested that instead of only writing a letter asking the City Council for the annual expropriation, (of $81,700), that a deputation wait upon the Finance Committee or Council, to explain the increased expenditure of $8,200. Then when the taxpayers asked "Why is the rate 22 mills on the $1?" the Council would feel justified in defending the expenditure of the Board.

It was moved and seconded that the City Council be asked for $81,700, and that a deputation wait on them as suggested.

The estimates were presented and approved as follows:

Barrie's Fur News

Many Peterboro' people are taking advantage of one of the greatest chances for buying Fur Garments ever offered in the City or elsewhere. Regular prices have been so multilated that buyers are amazed at the ability of the firm to make such concessions.

But Barrie's Limited are exclusive furriers and are doing business on the "from trapper to buyer" principle, which makes a big difference in the buying.

Barrie's Furs have been made up specially for this winter's trade, and the extraordinary price advantages are now within your reach.

LOCAL OPTION RESULTS.

While the benefits of local option may be regarded as a debatable matter, there is no ground for difference of opinion in regard to the matter of giving it a fair chance—of giving the people who favour it and vote for it a fair chance of being heard, of having their votes count. In the voting on local option on Monday throughout the province thousands of votes were nullified by the three-fifths clause. In seventeen places there was a sufficient majority to overcome the three-fifths handicap in twenty places the majority vote cast was nullified because of the three-fifths celuse. That is to say an unfair requirement of the law defeated the will of the majority, and kept open ninety-seven bars the people voted by a majority to have closed. The three-fifths clause is defended because it is alleged to help retain local option when once adopted by preventing repeal. But it seems that local option has so far justified itself that no unfair means is necessary to retain it in force. Repeal contests were conducted on Monday in seventeen places, and in all but one the majority was large enough to retain local option without the help of the three-fifths. In Bobcaygeon alone was the three-fifths clause able to prevent repeal. The net result is that the three-fifths claus prevented the re-opening of two bars the people voted by a majority to have opened, and kept open 97 bars the people voted by a majority to have closed. Yet temperance people allow themselves to support a government which retains a provision in the law that practically kills whatever benefits may result from the adoption of local option. It is no surprise, therefore, that the friends of local option, the highest authorities, are discouraged to the extent of declaring that "no satisfactory progress can be hoped" while the three-fifths clause is permitted to stand as the friend of the "bars" anl the foe of the "boy."

POOR THIRSTY OTTAWA.

We may feel like envying Ottawa as the seat of government, with the finest pile of palatial public buildings on the continent, with a rich government taking largely upon itself the beautification of the city, but we wouldn't want to change places with Ottawa, when we find one of the city papers speaking of Ottawa's water system as "our present typhoid tank." We in Peterborough may sometimes grumble and pessimistically prophesy disaster from some trifling polution of our sources of water supply, but our water is undiluted nectar compared with Ottawa's diluted water. The sewage so far as can be gathered from reports, pours into the water of Ottawa after it has reached the icty mains, and is mingled with the few thousand gallons of water in the mains, while what infinitesimal polution may enter our own water at its sources is mixed with countless millions of gallons, and is too little in quantity to infect the mass of water to any appreciable extent. Besides, this water before it reaches our city mains is thoroughly aerated by its tumultuous descent of some 160 odd feet between Lakefield and Peterborough. Peterborough's water supply is pure, and with the precautions being taken, will remain pure—and we should look to it that our water supply suffers neither physical nor moral contamination. And with a first-class board of Water Commissioners, we may expect the water supply of Peterborough to be kept up to the mark, both in the matter of purity and effective supply. With the new main from the pump house to Auburn, we may expect the supply to be regular and sufficient. That is, supposing the water in the river continues to be sufficient. We have had low water owing to scarcity of summer rains. And here another problem enters, that bears not only upon our water supply for domestic and civic purposes, but also for manufacturing purposes. Some means should be adopted to stimulate the Ddminion government to the construction of more efficient and more conservation dams. The government is committed to this in the interests of navigation, and if we have water enough for navigation, we shall have enough for other purposes. Governments, however, are notoriously slow to move, and in this regard, local agitation is indicated.

FIFTY WEEKS' SLEEP.

The cronto News has a suggestive cartoon. It is labelled "Ten Months' Sleep," and represents the elector as saying: "The City Council is elected and I'll go back to bed." This indicates the normal attitude of the civic ratepayers, not only in Toronto and elsewhere, but in Peterborough. For one or two weeks at the close of the year and at election time the elector is, or thinks he is, very much alive. He plays at taking an interest in civic politics. H ddean't really do so. He goes to the polls very much in ignorance of what he is doing in placing his vote. He doesn't know in any way that counts the way the affairs of the city have been managed. He has little no no idea of the condition of city finances, of how his money has been expended. Of coures, at the last moment, there are a lot of letters sent to the papers about civic affairs, but for the most part these are distorted on one side or the other. They are written under the influence of the excitement of the moment. He does not vote for candidates for aldermen, in many cases, because they are the best qualified for the position. He has to vote for what is offered—self-offered or brought out "at the request of a large number of prominent citizens"—himself, perhaps, and somebody with an axe to grind, somebody moved by every other motive than that which should determine the selection and election of candidates—fitness in business and xecutive ability and public spirit for the position of alderman or other officer.

The selection of candidates should not be left to the caprice of the moment—to a few days before the election. But this will continu to be done so long as the great body of the ratepayers are indifferent to public affairs for fifty out of the fifty-two weeks of the year—so long as the ratepayers rouse themselves for a week or two to elect a city council and go to sleep the rest of the year. We must devise some way to arouse the interest of the electors in the doings of their representatives in the City Council and elsewhere. To get the best results the electors—the citizens—should take as keen an interest in the doings of their representatives the whole year round as they spasmodically do at election times, instead of allowing candidates a monopoly of selecting themselves and practically electing themselves—in defaut of other and possibly better candidates.

Why shouldn't we have a strong, alert, live Ratepayers' Association, which might be made much more really representative of the electors than a practically self-elected aldermanic board? Such an association could watch things; could keep an eye on civic affairs, and the reports of its meetings published in the press, would enlighten th body of ratepayers and create an interest on their part in the administration of our business. We need some such body to pass upon, say, our system of assessment. It is complained that owing to our assessment laws there is injustice and inequality of assessment, but nothing is done, simply because what is everybody's business proves to be nobody's business. One neighbour does not want to become an informer and make complaint that his neighbour's property is assessed lower than his own. In this and other matters there seems to be need and place for some such a body as a ratepayers' association, which can serve the double purpose of watching, and reporting upon, the business doings of the City Council or other body and of exciting and maintaining an interest on the part of the ratepayers in their own business. Under such or similar conditions the ratepayers would be ready and able to make intelligent choice of representatives when the time came, instead of electing aldermen and other city officials hap-hazard. Such supervision would put our city representatives on their mettle and stimulate them to do their best, for they would feel that every action would be taken note of and criticised at the time—while it was hot—instead of discussion being deferred to the end of the year, when the poiht would be forgotten, or confused in the huddle and hurry of an election campaign, that should last the year round, instead of being crowded into the space of ten days. It rests with the people, themselves, to decide whether they are wll or ill governed—whether they govern themselves or permit themselves to be governed by representatives, to a large extent, blindly elected;to decide whether they will be all the time "on the job" or go to sleep fifty weeks in the year.

KINGSTON FRONTENACS SURPRISED LOCAL JUNIORS WINNING 10 TO 4

...ers Showed Unexpected Speed ...nd Condition and Outplayed Homesters Throughout.

WAS A FINE BATTLE

Like the Intermediates the Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team received a bad jolt in their championship aspirations, last night, when the Kingston Frontenac Juniors, showing unexpected speed and condition, beat them by 10 to 4 at Brock Street Rink. The Kastenmen trotted out a surprisingly fast and well-balanced aggregation and were clearly the better team. The margin between the two ...ms not as marked as the large score would indicate, but the win was ...ith cut and decisive. The young ...s have no "come back". They ...re beaten and beaten in practically ...l departments of the game. The ...ose, persistent checking and back-...ecking of the Frontenac forwards ...oke up every attempt at combina-...n. The local forwards were simply ...ttered up and hardly ever got ...ough the defence, hampered as ...y were by the hornet-like check-... of the visiting line. On top of ... great defensive work the East-...rs showed a cleverness of attack ... puzzled the home defence. They ...ed nicely and stick-handled ...autifully, while their shooting was ...ad and, for the most part, accur-... The homesters battled until they ...re ready to drop, wearing them-...lves out trying to escape their ...hecks and get in on the nets. They ...ught all the way and at half time, ...en with the score 6 to 4 against ...em, looked to have a chance. How-...er the Frontenacs would not be de-...ied. They had more left on end, ...ere faster than the Petes, and espe-...ially on the wings, outweighed the ...mesters and used it to advantage.

It was a battle royal all the way, ...th pace being wonderfully fast and ...ard for so early in the season. ...or Kingston the entire forward ...e showed, with Rube Millar, the ...le centre man, the pick of the four. ...e is fast and tricky, and although ... was bumped pretty hard, he was ...ays going. His brother, Norman, ...over, also carries a big bunch of ...ks, while Cooke and Derry, the ...o wings, are chunky and fast and ...ack like fiends. Godard and An-...re made a great defence, the form-... a big Ottawa boy, who is attend-... Queen's University, looking like ...star. He checks hard and his rush-... and shooting were of senior cali-...re. Mills, the goal-keeper, was the ...eak spot in the line-up.

With two forwards moved back to the defence and a new goal-keeper on it was not figured that the homesters would be especially strong on the defence, but it was thought that the team would be good enough offensively to offset this. The forward line, however, were tied up by the great checking of the visitors and never had a chance to show the combination that was working so smoothly in practice. Halpin took the edge off his skate almost on the go in and was handicapped for the rest of the game, but displayed speed and good stick-handling. Rose worked hard at centre, and Barrie and Knappman on the wings, although out-weighed and up against a hard-checking fast pair gave good account of themselves. It was the latter's first O. H. A. game, and a little fellow, although light, showed gameness and speed.

Darling was beaten by several easy ...ots but his first performance in fast ...mpany and against a tricky, clever ...ward line, was promising, and the ... of the game cannot be charged ...p against the youngster. Richard-...on showed up splendidly on the de-...fence, sailing into the heavy visitors with every ounce he had and showing a great turn of speed in rushing. Long failed to use his weight to advantage in trying to stop the Kingston attack. He would have been much more effective if he had. Owing to the similarity in the uniforms of the two teams, the Petes used the Y.M.C.A. Junior City League outfit, kindly loaned by the Y.M.C.A.

Harvey Sproule refereed satisfactorily.

The teams were:

Peterborough—Darling, goal; Long, ...ght defence; Richardson, left de-...ence; Halpin, rover; Rose, centre; ...napman, right wing; Barrie, left ...ng.

... was fast from the start with ... teams cutting a dizzy pace. A ... minutes after the opening Rich-...son drew a penalty for tripping, ... he was followed by Derry for ...ing.

... came through with a nice ..., but Mills handled his shot ...ly. A moment later Long had ... knee hurt and there was a delay ... he recovered. When play was ...umed Barrie was benched and the Petes were again a man shy. Kingston were the first to score R. Milan taking a pass from Cooke at the mouth of the net, beating Darling. Peterborough evened up two minutes later when Long tore up the centre with a nice rush. Mills block-...d his shot but the defence man fol-lowed in and batted the rebound through.

Kingston took the lead shortly after when Derry slipped down the wing and lobbed a goal from the side. Halpin evened up in thirty seconds on a nice rush and shot from outside the defence.

The Petes were going good at this stage, and more than holding their own. Barrie put them ahead on a neat individual rush, but Kingston soon made it 3—3, Godard, the big defence man, finding the local defence wide open when he sailed down alone.

R. Milan increased the lead a minute after on a lone rush and a shot from close in.

Shortly after the visitors were handed a lucky goal when Richardson, in trying to clear on a pass from the corner, batted the rubber into his own nets.

Rose closed the gap by going up all alone and fooling Mills with a pretty shot.

Norman Milan came through with another rush, making the figure 6—4.

N. Milan, Rose and Cook collided in mid-ice and both Kingston men took the count. Milan had to go off the ice for repairs, Knapman accompanying him. They were back in a short time. Just before the half ended Richardson drew a penalty for tripping.

The second half opened at the same rapid clip. The Petes used their bodies to better advantage at the beginning of the period and the going was about even for a while. Godard was benched for tripping Richardson, but the odd man advantage did not help the Petes. N. Milan took the count from a body check by Rose, but resumed play after a delay. Cooke was chased for slashing and while he was off Godard scored for Kingston on a long shot from near centre ice.

R Milan and Rose had a slashing bee and both were penalized. Long followed almost immediately for hooking but the Petes held their own playing five to six, Richardson and Halpin helping out with nice rushes. The teams were even up when R. Milan scored on a combination rush. He repeated thirty seconds later on a pass from the wing by Derry.

R. Milan was sent to the side, and Long followed for slashing. Cooke made it 10 to 4 for Kingston on a shot from the side.

The Results Of Last Night's Scheduled Games At Rink

There are no scheduled games at the Curling rink to-night, but on Thursday night there will be the usual number of rinks working. Last night's results are given below. The Waddell-Taylor game found each team minus one man, for which there is likely to be a penalty of a couple of points. The making up of some of the rinks last night was a trifle tardy, but they all got under way:

FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION'S REQUEST HAS BEEN TURNED DOWN

The International Relationship Explained--Rangers Drop One Point--Celtic Gain Other Two--Cup Ties on Saturday

The following received from Montreal

"Advices from Scotland state that the request of the Dominion Football Association, made to the Scottish Football Association, that a representative Scottish team, presumably the Celtic or Glasgow Rangers, should be allowed to tour Canada during the coming summer has been turned down."

Mr. A. M. Robertson, president of the Scottish F. A. is quoted as saying that his association has no power to grant the request. This does not mean that none of the big British teams will play here next season, although, if any definite arrangement are to be made, the D. F. A. will have to do some tall hustling.

Evidently it is the view of the Scottish Football Association that the only body which can give its sanction to such a tour as has been proposed, is the Football Association to which body the Scottish F. A. and the D. F. A. are alike affiliated.

If the D. F. A. can get the Football Association's sanction for a tour of one of the Scottish teams, or for that matter of two of them, or of an English team and a Scottish eleven, there is no reason why such a tour could not be yet arranged, always providing that the necessary financial sinews of war could be found.

Not Understood.

It is quite clear from the above that the writer is ignorant of the national rules which operate in the Old Country. The Scottish Football Association is not affiliated to the Football Association (the English governing body) neither is the Dominion of Canada Football Association. All national bodies are independent of each other, but as members of the International Football Federation all must work in harmony where international affairs are concerned. The Scottish body have the power to send a team to Canada, an eleven chosen from the various clubs, but they do not see their way meantime to arrange this.

Can Be Arranged.

That does not mean, however, that Celtic or Rangers may not be seen here. Either of these clubs can arrange a trip for themselves, and one or both will be approached. They have only to formally ask the S. F. A. for the necessary permission. Any English, Welsh or Irish club is in the same position. Were one to arrange to come out to Canada, it would only have to ask the permission of its own particular national association, not the Football Association, as the message from Montreal would lead one to believe. I hope I have made this plain. The D. F. A. are in communication with England, and if the F. A. cannot see its way to send out a picked team some of the individual clubs will be approached.

Forging Ahead.

If Glasgow Rangers are to retain the Scottish League championship, they will have to play better than they are doing. Yesterday they only managed to tie with Partick Thistle, whilst Celtic took two points off Clyde. The Celts seem destined for the top of the ladder, and if any team is to prevent them it is most likely to be Hearts.

Jackson for Leeds.

What might be termed one of the most surprising transfers of the season has been carried through, when John Jackson, Clyde's international inside forward, came to terms with Leeds City. For five years Jackson, who is a product of Ardeer Thistle, has proved an invaluable man to the Shawfield club. His versatility and all-round excellence made him one of the most prominent personalities in Scottish League football. A young man, he has build and physique for English football. The fee is pretty near four figures.

There will be no league games in England on Saturday next. It is Cup tie day and a fateful one for all the clubs.

Old Country Football.

GLASGOW, Jan. 7.—St. Mirren and Wilmarnock played to a draw—one goal each—yesterday.

AT LEAST FOUR RINKS FOR LINDSAY

And Several Others May Join Them at the Bonspiel There

At least four rinks of local curlers will attend the Lindsay Bonspiel. T. F. Matthews, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, W. M. Lang and R. M. Waddell, have signified their intentions of taking up rinks and several others are expected to make similar announcements. Although the weather has retarded ice making, the players are getting good lengths already, and with strong teams chosen the local club should send a capable contingent to Lindsay. They will curl against some of the best rinks in the country, especially if they remain long in the running.

OSHAWA INTERMEDIATES HERE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The fast going Oshawa team, with victories over Bowmanville and Cobourg to their credit, will be here on Friday night to clash with the local intermediates in what should prove one of the best games of the season. The team from the front easily defeated Cobourg last night and they will be a hard proposition for the Petes on Friday. The homesters expect to have Denison on the line-up on Friday night and he should prove of great assistance to the team. The Petes have to win to keep in the running, and they will have the strongest available line-up in action.

The Junior City Hockey League Opens At Brock St. Rink To-night

The Junior City Hockey League teams make their bow to the public this evening at the Brock Street Rink, when the Boston Exploits and the Wanderers go on at 8.10 o'clock. Mayor-elect Buller has very kindly consented to face the puck and to say a word or two to the boys, thus manifesting his interest in the activities of the younger set.

Mr. Fred Kelly of the Intermediates has consented to handle both games and should give every satisfaction.

The teams will be represented as follows:

Exploits.

Goal—Latimer.
Right defence—Phelan.
Rover—Graham.
Centre—Butcher, (captain).
Right wing—Rogers or Hi...
Left wing—Rose.

Wanderers.

Goal—Clarke.
Right defence—Revoy.
Rover—May.
Centre—Patterson.
Right wing—Stewart.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Alerts.

The second game brings out the other two teams in the League. They will line up as follows, at the conclusion of the first game.

Y. M. C. A.

Goal—B. Hamilton.
Right defence—R. Smyth.
Rover—Stevenson.
Left wing—Quinn.
Right wing—Moore.
Centre—Jackson.
Spares—Stewart, Smith.

Alerts.

Goal—Legros.
Right defence—Davidson.
Rover—Heath.
Centre—Lowes.
Right wing—Galvin.
Spares—Murty, Wheeler, Doughty.

These should afford two merry little battles. There is keen rivalry between all four teams and the brand of hockey should be well worth seeing.

Boys are Game.

It is expected that there will be an encouraging crowd. With several of the teams the boys have dipped into their own pockets for uniforms and other expenses, simply for the love of the game. Junior O. H. A. material for next year should be produced by the City League. It is hoped that there will be a good crowd to-night.

Admission for gentlemen is 15 cents, and ladies 10 cents, one ticket serving for both games.

OSHAWA WON FROM COBOURG 7 TO 2

OSHAWA, Jan. 6.—Oshawa won their second intermediate O. H. A. game here to-night when they easily disposed of Cobourg, by the score of 7 to 2. Oshawa played all around their opponents and only for the good work of Paton in goal the score would have been larger. The play was fast at all times as the ice was in good shape. The line-up:

Cobourg — Goal, Paton; point, Payne; cover-point, Crowther; centre, Lavis; rover, Freeman; right wing, Cunningham; left wing, Niles.

Oshawa—Goal, R. Fair; point, Free man; cover-point, Quinn; rover, W. Fair; centre, Smith; right wing, Murphy; left wing, Hall.

Referee—Lawson Whitehead of Toronto.

ALD. SAUNDERS' MAJORITY 143

In the returns from Polling Division No. 2 in the election for aldermen, the wrong figures were given to the press yesterday. At this poll Mr. Saunders secured 90 votes and Mr. Robinson 50, these figures being revised in last evening's papers. The corrected figures give Ald. Saunders a majority of 143 instead of 83.

Ald. Duffus in the west ward, polled the largest vote among the aldermen.

The man who doesn't understand life's various problems as immense, is, none the less, in great demand. Some one must be the audience.

Fighting Twice As Many Fires With The Original Equipment

As some one remarked, the ratepayers ran the chemical truck on to the new bridge, kicked the piers over and both tumbled into the river.

The proposed fire-fighting apparatus remains in the factory, and at the Fire Hall remain the same waggons which comprised the equipment handed over to Chief Howard five years ago.

It is not necessary to mention the growth of the city on its outskirts, especially to the south. And it is also generally known that the number of fires last year was at least double the number fought during the last year of the old brigade. It is likely that they were more than double, and it is scarcely to be hoped that 1914 will bring a fewer number of fires than last year.

Supposing the equipment provided Chief Howard when he came to Peterborough as a fire-fighting unit, it is now confronted with two units of work. That is reducing the situation to a business basis. By way of comparison you would say that it was a case of one man doing two men's work, or one machine attempting to do the work of two.

One of the causes to which the defeat of the by-law is attributed is the proposed payment of the engine by twenty years' debentures, with the possibility of the machine being reduced to scrap before it was paid for and the final price being double the original cost.

However, the vox populi has been heard and Chief Howard will doubtless be able to fight the year's fires with his present equipment.

NEW UNIFORMS.

All Four Teams in the City Junior League Will Make Good Appearance.

All four teams in the Junior City Hockey League will wear natty new uniforms this evening. They were secured through the Oak Hall store and have made a neat window display arranged by Mr. Elric White. If the brand of hockey is as bright as the uniforms it should be well worth witnessing.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE MEETING TO-NIGHT

Officers and delegates of the various teams comprising this aggregation are hereby reminded of an important meeting to be held this evening at the "Review" offices, when the schedule and new constitution are to be submitted and, if approved, passed into law. One delegate from each of the six teams comprised in the League is requested to attend at 8 o'clock sharp.

ENGLISH TEAM CHOSEN.

Will Play Against Wales at Twickenham on the 17th.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The English team for the match against Wales will be:

Johnston (Bristol), back; Lowe (Cambridge), Chapman (Hartlepool), Poulton (Liverpool), Watson (Blackheath), threequarters; Wood and Taylor (Leicester), halfbacks; Pillman (Blackheath), Brown (London Hospital), Maynard (Cambridge), Ward (Leicester), Greenwood and Camberiston (Northern), Bull (Northampton), Brunton (North Durham), forwards.

The Welsh team will be selected on Friday next. The match will be played at Twickenham on the seventeenth.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HAVE APPOINTED A SUPERVISOR OF HEALTH

Miss Emma Kennedy Selected With an Initial Salary of $650—Last Meeting of Old Board.

REPORTS PRESENTED

The Board of Education for 1913 met in their final regular session last night and transacted a good deal of business. There were present, Dr. Morrison, (chairman), Dr. Burnham, Col. Miller and Messrs. V. Eastwood, L. M. Hayes, W. H. Hill, B. F. Ackerman, F. J. Turner, Jr., and J. Crane.

Collegiate Ventilation Bad.

A communication was received from Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute, advising the Board that the ventilation of the Collegiate Institute was bad, particularly in warmer weather. Mr. Kenner asked to have a motor and fan installed to force the fresh air into the ventilating system of the school

Mr. Crane said that the gravity system of ventilation on which the condition of the air in the Institute depended, was not giving satisfaction.

Mr. Ackerman informed the Board that a new radiator had been installed in place of one broken by the frost.

The matter of installing a motor and fan was referred to the Property committee.

Mr. Kenner also wrote that Mr. Jas. Lynch had given some gold fish to the aquarium of the Institute, and that Mr. J. F. Harvey and Mr. W. R. Morris had donated books to the library.—Received.

Fire Escape Recommended.

A communication was received from Chief Howard to the effect that the fire drill had been conducted in the schools of the City. The Chief recommended that a fire escape be added to the equipment of the King Edward school. This was referred to the Property committee. The time in which the Public schools were emptied of scholars on the sounding of the fire alarm, was as follows:

School	No. Pupils.	Time.
Queen Mary	425	60 secs.
Central, East building	320	60 secs.
Central, west building	160	35 secs.
Queen Alexandra	350	44 secs.
King George	300	54 secs.
South Central	325	35 secs.
King Edward	425	49 secs.

The attendance in the schools were as follows:

	Enrolled.	Average.
Central	441	394
Queen Alexandra	283	270
King Edward	409	383
Queen Mary	287	243
King George	283	266

Building Committee "Non Est."

A letter was received from the Peterborough Light and Power Company, saying that a transformer had blown out at the East Ward school. This the letter stated must have been due either to the Board using a larger motor than represented to the company, or a defect in the wiring In either case the Board should remit to the company the sum of $30.00.

Mr. Crane—I move that the letter be referred to the Building committee.

Mr. Hill—The Building committee no longer exists. There is no building to do.

Mr. Crane—The Building committee hasn't turned the new schools over to the Board yet.

The matter was referred to the Property committee.

$2,000 which came to the Board from the money invested in City debentures, which expired at the end of last year, was re-invested in City debentures at par at 5 p.c. This is the money for the maintenance of the Nicholls scholarship.

Wanted $300 More.

Contractor W. J. Johnston wrote the Board, asking to have his contract changed to make the amount he would receive equal to that paid for the East City school. This would give him $300 more than his present contract calls for. His communication was received and no action taken.

Mr. Ritchie was re-appointed to the Library Board for a term of three years.

Committee on Appointments.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your committee beg to report and recommend that Miss Euna Kennedy be appointed on the Public school staff as health supervisor at an initial salary of $650.00, with an annual increase of $50.00 to a maximum of $800.00, first increase to date from 1st September next.

Miss Kennedy will take a preliminary training course in the Hamilton Public schools.

The appointment of Miss Kirkwood to the South Central staff increases the number of class rooms in use in this school to eight.

Regarding the matter of the form of teachers contract, which was referred to your committee, we beg to recommend that all the members of the teaching staff, both Collegiate and Public, who have not signed the last form of contract adopted by the Board, be required to do so on or before the 30th of June next and that the secretary write those who have not signed the same, enclosing a copy of this recommendation, together with blank form of contract for their perusal.

Respectfully submitted.

W. H. HILL,
Chairman.

Before the meeting adjourned, Dr. Morrison thanked the members of the Board and the chairman of committees in particular for their faithful work during the past year. The Board of Education was entering an era which would be less strenuous, and a pleasant year's work was anticipated for the Board of 1914.

He regretted that one old member had not been returned, but thought the people's choice would be an acquisition to the Board.

In conclusion he wished the members of the Board the compliments of the season.

Shortly after the meeting adjourned.

Still Time For Compromise

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 7.—Regarding the announcement of the Morning Post that negotiations for Home Rule compromise between Premier broken off, it is the general opinion here that despite the failure of the conversations of the leaders there is still abundant time to secure a compromise, as Parliament will not meet till February 10, this year.

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR AS TREASURER

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte Street Church held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon. Satisfactory reports were given by the secretary and treasurer showing the society to be in a flourishing condition. The election of officers resulted in all the old officials being reinstated. The officers for the ensuing year are:

President—Mrs. Lightfoot.
Vice-President—Mrs. M. W. Lyle.
Treasurer—Mrs. M. B. Lyle.
Secretary—Mrs. A. F. Lane.

Mrs. Morison spoke eulogistically of the splendid service the officers had given the society during 1913, and of the efficient manner in which they had guided its affairs. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered them.

It is worthy of note that after yesterday's meeting Mrs. Mary B. Lyle entered upon her 22nd year as treasurer of the society.

After the business meeting, the fifty ladies present enjoyed a birthday tea.

WAS CAPTURED BY PERTH POLICE

Special Wire to The Examiner.

PERTH, Ont., Jan. 7.—The Perth police made an easy capture last night when they arrested Charles St. George, wanted in Ottawa for the theft of $1,100 from Birks and Son, jewellers, which he was given on Monday morning to take to the bank. Last night he walked into Hotel Cecil about ten o'clock and was arrested by George Jackman, county constable. Jackman took his prisoner to the town lock-up where Chief Griffith searched him and found $519 in bills on him.

COLD STORAGE EGGS GOING.

In Fortnight the Canadian Supply Will be Gone.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—Gunn, Langlois Company, Limited, wholesale provision and egg merchants, received a wire from their Toronto house, Gunn's Limited, stating that they were completely cleaned out of cold storage eggs and asking whether a consignment could be supplied them from Montreal.

John Gunn, head of the company here, announced that he had been compelled to reply that from present prospects, within two weeks, there would not be a single cold storage egg left in Canada, and that the supply in the United States was not expected to hold out many weeks.

INAUGURAL MEETING OF NEW BOARD

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education will take place at the Secretary's Office, 437 Gorge Street, on Thursday, at 8 o'clock p.m.

HOTELS TO CLOSE EARLY SATURDAYS

Bill to be Brought in at Next Session—Peterboro' Hotelmen Discuss Situation

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Provincial Secretary Hanna will bring in a bill at the forthcoming session of the Legislature to close the hotels of the province at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The hotelmen's association has been told this, and it is causing a flutter among the bonifaces of the province. Conferences have been called in the different cities, and the hotelmen in Peterborough are said to have discussed the matter recently.

It is some time since Mr. Hanna has done anything toward license reform. Northern Ontario still runs wide open, and there has been an insistent demand among the temperance radicals of the Conservative party to have something done.

The hotels will have a five-hour day on Saturday, and in some cases the receipts will be cut 50 per cent., it is estimated. All the bars do an enormous business between the hours of 1 and 7 o'clock Saturday. With the increase in the per capita consumption of liquor staring him in the face, Mr. Hanna has felt that a radical movement was necessary.

Mr. Hanna sent out a feeler some time ago, but did not make any definite announcement. The hotelmen of the province are certain that he intends to put the new law in force within a few months.

Decline In The Price Of Sugar

Will Be Lower in Near Future Than It Has Been For Many Years

The housewives will be glad to learn there is a possibility that the price of sugar will be lower in the near future than it has been for many years. During the past month the cost of sugar has fallen twice and to-day 100 pound bags of sugar are quoted in Toronto at $4.20, a price, with two exceptions, lower than any attained in the last fourteen years.

It was announced by the local wholesale dealers that all grades of sugars in Ontario, with one exception, had been reduced 10 cents per hundred-weight by the refiners.

Important experiments are being carried on by a well known Canadian sugar refining company, and their process, which is at present being tried out before a representative gathering of West India sugar growers, will if successful, have an important bearing on the price of sugar in this country.

AN APPRECIATION OF REV. MR. M'CONACHIE

The following is an abstract from the "Ayrshire Post," Scotland, on Rev. A. H. McConnachie, of Centreville and Stewarton Memorial Church.

"Former Ayr Minister in Canada."

The many friends in Ayr of the Rev. A. H. McConnachie, who was for about fifteen years minister of the Morison Congregational Church, will be pleased to learn that he has been inducted to the charge of Centreville and Stewarton Memorial Church, Canada.

We learn from a special despatch to the Toronto "Globe" that at the induction ceremony there was a large and enthusiastic attendance in the fine church at Centreville. Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., B.D., presided as moderator and narrated the steps leading to the call, mentioning the great unanimity and cordiality of the call. Professor Scott, of Queen's College, Kingston, formerly minister of the South U.F. Church, Prestwick, wrote regretting his inability to be present, but telling of his friendship with Mr. McConnachie in Scotland, and the great esteem of the public of the town of Ayr, Scotland, for Mr. McConnachie, and the large influence he exercised in the social work of the place. Professor Morton, of Knox College, was present, and told of his hearing of Mr. McConnachie through a friend and writing him offering to pave his way to enter the Presbyterian Church of Canada, and of the favourable and even enthusiastic impression he had made on those who had met him and heard him during his short sojourn in Toronto. Mr. McConnachie filled the pupit of Cowan Avenue Church during most of July and August, while that congregation was waiting for its new pastor to arrive from Ireland, and made many very warm friends.

In this case Ayr's loss is Canada's gain. Mr. McConnachie did splendid work in Ayr, and we have no doubt that at Centreville, which is in the Presbytery of Peterborough, he will, in a short time, increase the membership and make the church healthier than it has been in the past.

In the editorial the editor sums up the article from his own personal experience.

I am sure that Mr. McConnachie's memory will be held by many here in great esteem, for he achieved wonders while in Ayr, and made the services of his church very popular. I have pleasant recollections of the services too, which he conducted on the summer Sunday evening, on the Newton Public Park, and I can picture his earnest face illuminated with the setting sun, and hear his sympathetic voice as he pleaded with those around, or proclaimed a message. More power to him out West, say I, and may he have happiness and contentment in his labours, and may his shadow never grow less.—"Oculeus" Ayrshire Post, Scotland.

Change In The Butcher Business

Messrs. Langley and Perrin Acquire the Meat Business and Premises of Mr. Robert Cox.

Messrs. Langley and Perrin, the energetic firm of meat vendors on Simcoe street, who started business only a few months ago, have bought out the old established meat business of Mr. Robert Cox, 461 George street, near the Y. M. C. A. buildings. A close attention to business, with excellent facilities for first-class supplies of prime meats from their own ranch in Haliburton, and clean, up-to-date and commodious premises, have brought to them a good trade in a comparatively short time. Encouraged by their success on Simcoe street, they were made a good offer to buy out the old established meat business at 461 George, started originally by Mr. J. J. Howden, and known by many of our citizens as a good-going meat market. By the resident of the vicinity this change in business will be much appreciated.

Do You Understand the Direct Economy of Buying Furs Now

Do You Know How Much it Benefits You?

FURS ARE LOWER

The unusually mild season and the unfavorable financial conditions have left us with much too large a stock of made up Furs & Fur Skins; what otherwise would have proved profitable, has now to become a loss—We Must Sell.

Self Interest Compels Us to turn these into cash, at once, even when we know we are loosing on every Fur article we sell.

Self Interest Will Make You reap rich rewards in lowered prices, which will be back as high in prices as ever next season.

As you know the increase in prices on Furs has ranged from 50% to 200% in the past 6 years—They never can be cheap again. The wild animals from which they are mostly taken are becoming scarcer every year—and it has been owing to this that prices have gone and will go higher yet.

When we get confronted with such conditions as this year—values are knocked completely out in all manufactured Fur articles, that's why we say to our customers BUY NOW, never again in all human likelihood, will Furs be as cheap.

Our Guarantee Given With All We Sell:—As manufacturers of Furs we give the public a bond, when we put our name on our productions, thereby endorsing them—We promise to be responsible.

This separates our product altogether from those who do not manufacture or do not put their name on their OWN production. We do not send ours out into the world like an anonymous letter for which no one can be held responsible—We must fulfil every expectation that we have aroused, or lose part of our investment—We know that the goods sold to-day may lose us a sale to-morrow if they are not as represented, therefore when we announce, as manufacturing Furriers, that

20 to 33⅓% IS WIPED OFF THE PRICES OF ALL HIGH GRADE GOODS

30 to 50% IS TAKEN OFF THOSE NOT SO HIGH CLASS

We Mean What We Say, and Must Make Good

Every Fur article is marked in plain figures and we are giving above discounts off these regular prices. The net result of all this is that enlightened self interest says BUY FURS NOW.

Our January Offering of Sample Dresses for Children

Infants' to Misses' Sizes at One-Third Less Than Usual Prices

IT IS OUR CUSTOM, at this time of the year, to secure the complete sample line of Children's White Dresses which come in sizes from infants' to misses' of fourteen.

Like most samples, they are the best of their kind and are accurate examples of what will be worn during the coming season.

They are made of Mull, Marquisette, Ninon, Lawn, Hand Embroidery and Eyelet Work, in Empire, Pegtop, and a host of other appropriate styles, some with short and some with long sleeves.

The trimmings are very pretty—in some instances quite elaborate, and the garments being of a very fine quality, the workmanship in them is a pleasure to examine.

So the provident mother, planning ahead for her children's wear, is thus afforded a means whereby she can procure many dainty summer or party frocks, which at 99c to $9.50 are one-third less than usual prices.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LADIES' AID OF GEORGE ST.

Society Will Have Rev. Dr. Speer Lecture on Feb. 9—A Balance of $100 in Treasury

The Rev. R. G. Peever presided at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the church parlours.

Reports were presented by the secretary and treasurer, showing that a great deal of effective work had been done during the past twelve months, and that the work of the Ladies' Aid had been carried on in an energetic manner last year. Over $500 had been handled by the society in 1913, and a balance of $100 in the treasury was ample assurance of the society's financial condition.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. A. W. Cressman.
Vice-President—Mrs. S. R. Armstrong.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Geo. Carruthers.
Secretary—Mrs. B. Shortley.
Treasurer—Mrs. S. A. Oke.

It was also decided at yesterday's meeting, to have a lecture given under the auspices of the society by the Rev. Dr. Speers, of Toronto, on the night of Monday, February 9th. His subject will be announced later.

After the business of the meeting, refreshments were served by the retiring officers. There was a good attendance at the meeting.

NO CHANGE IN CONDITION OF PREMIER

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 7.—Eleven thirty a.m.—"Sir James Whitney's condition continues serious without definite improvement."

SUFFRAGETTES WILL APPEAL TO KING GEORGE

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 7.—It was announced at the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union to-day that the suffragettes would make no more attempts to interview Premier Asquith and the members of the Cabinet regarding obtaining ballots, as these ministers had degraded themselves by their treachery and cruelty towards women. All further appeals, said the leaders, would be made to King George direct.

BUSINESS MEETING.

The annual business meeting of Bethany Tabernacle will be held in the church on Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Every member is requested to be present.

Night Schools Have Cost Only $500

Expenditure of $800, But $300 of This Will be Refunded by the Government

A GRATIFYING INNOVATION

The Industrial Night Schools, for which an appropriation of $1,000 was provided by the Board of Education, will only cost the ratepayers of this City a little over $500. This was brought out in a report submitted to the Board last night, which showed that the net expenditure was $858.01. Of this over $800 was for salaries, and it is provided that the Government will advance the Board 50 per cent. of the cost of equipment. So that the schools will cost only in the neighbourhood of $500.

The report presented last night was very gratifying to the members of the Board, and showed that the attendance at the Industrial Night Schools was large, the instruction efficient and the results all that could be expected.

Below are given figures in connection with the cost of the schools:

SPECIAL SERVICES AT BRIDGENORTH

The special services that are being conducted in Gilmour Memorial Church by the Rev. W. A. Pugsley have been largely attended. On Tuesday evening the evangelist preached a special service to Christians, taking for his subject "People Who Know Their God Shall be Strong and do Exploits." The sermon was listened to with rapt attention.

The services will be continued throughout this week and next, after which Rev. Mr. Pugsley will go to Selwyn for two weeks.

The music rendered last evening was excellent. A solo by Mrs. James Young was very much appreciated.

CHAMBERLAIN IS RETIRING

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 7.—When Joseph Chamberlain to-day stated that he would retire from Parliament at the next general elections the passing from public life of one of Britain's most prominent commoners was presaged. On account of ill-health, Mr. Chamberlain hasn't been seen in the Commons Chamber for many years, but his old constituency, West Birmingham, has elected him continuously since 1885. He has been Colonial Secretary in the Unionist Government, and was at one time an ardent Liberal, Radical and Republican. In the years of his greatest prominence he was familiarly known as "The People's Joe." He is 77 years of age and father of Austin Chamberlain, M.P., who has been frequently suggested as the next leader of the Unonist forces of Great Britain. It is thought that Neville Chamberlain will succeed his father as member for West Birmingham.

Maple Leaf Band will play at Central Rink To-night.

REV. DYSON HAGUE DENOUNCES THE BIBLE WRECKERS

At the Toronto Bible School Monday night the Rev. Canon Dyson Hague made a strong attack on the critics, whose evident purpose was, so the speaker declared, to attack the unity of the Word of God from every possible quarter. "These are very dangerous days," said Canon Hague; "the attack on the Bible comes not from without but from within.

"At all costs it seems that the Bible must be disintegrated, dissected, contradictions and discrepancies shown up. Some of these very learned men claim that Genesis was written by sixteen or twenty-two authors, Isaiah by four, while Canon Cheyne says he can dissect Isaiah alone into 160 different portions, each of which he attributes to as many authors. So with Zechariah, Romans, Jude, St. Peter, Revelations and many more. It is nothing more than an attempt to bring the whole Bible into discord. As the late Professor Green of Princeton University declared, 'There is nothing for which modern critics have such an aversion as harmony.'

"The great attack on the Bible is the diversive attack. We should take God's Word as it is," said the speaker; "it was never meant for dissection by the mere student of ancient literature, by the mere litterateur, the mere philosopher, or the mere critic. The clever, the massive intellect as opposed to spirituality is nothing.

"What the world wants to-day is not to know the process of manufacture, but to have the product. Scholarly men are delving into things that are off the track, that are of no real interest, things that do them no good or anybody else. People want to hear what the Word of God says, and then what it means. The Bible, the great heterogenous work of thirty-eight or forty authors, one of whom wrote 1,500 years before another was born, was unified by the Spirit of Almighty God, the most wonderful thing that the world has ever known. It is the spirit of life that makes the Bible one. Any unity from the point of view of modern criticism is impossible because modern criticism is at fault absolutely."

SUPERINTENDENT HAS BEEN TRANSFERED

William Tansey, of the C. P. R., Moved to Toronto

A circular was issued yesterday by the management of the C. P. R. advising their employees of several important changes. Mr. Wm. Coulter has been appointed assistant superintendent of the C. P. R. Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway, with headquarters at Trenton. This is the new division along the lake shore from Agincourt to Glen Bay, a distance of 182 miles. It is expected that this branch will be open for traffic shortly. At the present time there are 20 work trains in commission. When it is completed it will touch the following towns: Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Newtonville, Port Hope, Brighton, Trenton and Belleville.

C. P. R. Changes.

Assistant Superintendent William Tansey, of the C. P. R., has been transferred from Havelock to district No. 3, with headquarters at West Toronto. Chief Despatcher, M. Rogers of Farnham, wil succeed Mr. Tansey of Havelock.

A MODERN MIRACLE

He Had Eczema 28 Years and Doctors Said "No Cure."

Yet Zam-Buk Has Worked Complete Cure.

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose case can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh, the gentleman referred to lives at 101 Delorimier Avenue, Montreal, and has lived there for years. For twenty five years he has had eczema on his hands and wrists. The disease first started in red blotches, which itched and when scratched became painful. Bad sores followd, which discharged, and the discharge spread the disease until his hands wer one raw, painful mass of sores. This state of affairs continued for twenty-five years!

In that time four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave us the case as hopless. Naturally, Mr. Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last gave it up. For two years he had to wear gloves day and night, so terrible was the pain and itching when the air got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it, just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs of benefit and a little perseverance with this great herbal balm resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure! And the cure was no temporary cure. It was permanent. He was cured nearly four years ago. Interviewed the other day, Mr. Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return."

If you suffer from any skin trouble, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it with one cent stamp to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box, or three for $1.25. Refuse harmful substitutes.

"THE GIRL OF EAGLE RANCH"

The attraction at the Grand Opera House for matinee and night, Saturday, Jan. 10th, is the romantic western drama "The Girl of the Eagle Ranch," which tells, amid wild surroundings, the story of a young girl's love for a very much wanted man, who, through inheritance, has become the leader of a band of stage robbers. They had previously met, each being attached to the other and when they again became associated she, ignorant of his true vocation, a pretty love story is started. The road agent visits her in her cabin and a real western blizzard prevents his leaving. The Sheriff and a posse of men, however, are searching for him, and disclose to the girl the real identity of the man she loves, and whom, in anger, she turns from her door, with the result that he is badly wounded. He is discovered by the Sheriff (who also loves the girl) and she, desirous of saving her lover, plays a game of poker, which involves the loss of her honour or the safety of the road agent. She wins and finally she and the man go out into the world together to start a new life, where love will reign and the past be redeemed. Specialties of a high order will be introduced during the action of the play, for which a perfect scenic and electric equipment is carried. Popular prices. Matinee, 15, and 25 cents; Night prices, 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents. Seats on sale at Box Office.

OYSTER DIGESTS ITSELF.

Are Recommended to Dyspeptics—Easily Assimilated.

Oysters are highly nutritious food for persons in good health, and are also highly recommended to many dyspeptics who can eat nothing else with comfort.

Unlike most other foods, the oyster contains in itself many of the elements necessary for its own digestion. The largest part of the bivalve is its liver, and the very moment we begin to chew it the digestive juices with which this organ is plentifully supplied are released and at once begin furnishing valuable aid to our stomachs.

An oyster contains about 10 per cent. of protein, together with some phosphorised fats and glycogen. This is a highly nutritive combination and one which can be assimilated by the human stomach without undue strain.

Oysters are recommended for most dyspeptics, for sufferers from ulceration of incipient cancer of the stomach, and also for convalescents from acute diseases, who usually find in oysters a stimulant for their jaded appetites which no other food can give.

The only dyspeptics who should be forbidden oysters, according to Professor Pron, are those whose stomachs are hyer-acid or hyer-sensitive.

WEDDING BELLS

TULLY—FEIR.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. John Feir, Fraserville on Christmas day, when his second daughter, Emma Grace, was united in holy bonds of matrimony with Mr. Joseph W. Tully of Smith.

The bride wore a becoming gown of champagne silk and was attended by her sister, Edith, who wore an Alice blue silk. Mr. Alfred Tully, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Best, of Beaverton, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony the guests, numbering about 25, retired to the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding supper was served. The evening was spent in games and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Tully will reside in Smith.

Said He Took Rings As Joke

Commercial Traveller Appears in Police Court This Morning

A commercial traveller appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with stealing a diamond ring valued at $100 from a local lady. It is alleged that he stole the ring while visiting in this City last week. He went to Ottawa where he was arrested by Detective Ouimet of that city. The ring was found in the possesion of a woman with whom he was known to be in company in Ottawa.

The prisoner elected summary trial and pleaded not guilty. He said that he took the ring for a joke, and was on his way to the post office to send it here by registered mail when he was arested.

He was remanded for a week.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. J. L. Heard of Windsor is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Tully.

Mr. Lawrence Soden, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Soden, left yesterday to resume his studies at Albert College, Belleville.

Mrs E. G. Patterson will receive on Thursday, January 15th and afterwards on the first Thursday of each month.

PRESENTATION TO MISS E. DAVIS

Who Leaves This Afternoon for Shanovan, Sask.—Honoured by Friends

Miss Edna Davis, of this City, who is soon to become a resident of Shanovan, Sask., was honoured last night, when a number of friends gathered at her home last evening and presented her with a handsome suit case.

Many were the expressions of regret at her departure from this City where she is deservedly popular, and the suit case was presented as a token of her friends' good wishes for her success in the west, and of their sorrow at her leaving Peterborough.

The guests were pleasantly entertained and spent a very enjoyable evening in music and dancing.

Miss Davis, who resides at 168 McDonel street, leaves this afternon for Shanovan, Sask., where she has accepted a splendid position.

DUFFUS MAKES THE FORDS GO!

Mr. Duffus, agent for the Ford Motor Car Co., has received his first carload of New 1914 Ford Touring Cars. Pretty good start for the new year; but what else would you expect from the man who polled the largest number of votes in the recent aldermanic contest.

GENERAL LOCAL OPTION VOTE SUMMARIZED

While looking over the results of Monday's vote as a party balked, if not defeated, owing to the "three-fifths" clause, the local option workers of the city yesterday looked forward to even more aggressive campaigns in the future, some prophesying a stiff battle in the next general election.

An analysis of the vote from the figures supplied by the temperance party shows some interesting results. Two changes are made from the results published yesterday. In Alnwick and Bexley the local option by-law was defeated by the three-fifths clause, thus bringing the total defeats by this clause up to twenty. The victory in Flamboro' West raises the number of successes of the local option party to seventeen.

Th following summary is given:

Bars closed	26
Bars protected by 3-5 clause	97
Bars where Liquor Party had majority	8
Total bars vote failed to close	105
Local option majority in 51 places	5,977
Liquor majority in five places.	127

Percentages of Places.

Carried	41
Held up by 3-5 clause	49
Lost by majority	10

Percentages of Licenses.

Local Option won by majority	93.8
Local Option party owing to 3-5 clause receive only	10.8
Liquor party won	6.1
They are given	80.1
Contests won by Local Option party	17
By-laws held up	20
By-laws lost	4
By-laws sustained	15
Total	56

Local option secured a majority in 51 places.

Anti-Local Optionists secured a majority in 5 places, namely, Georgina township, Kitley, Springfield, Morrisburg, Bobcaygeon. Last named was a repeal contest.

Appearances are deceptive. You can't tell from the shallowness of a man's mind how much he can drink.

Railway Board Chairman Talks Bluntly to Moyes

CANNOT EVADE ANY LONGER

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Chairman McIntyre of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board did not mince words in his remarks to John W. Moyes, late head of the defunct Ontario West Shore Railway, at the resumed inquiry into that concern's failure yesterday.

"You need not put on an air of innocence," declared the chairman. "This board is entitled to an account of affairs and will get it. There is no use in being shifty and evasive.

"You had the books explaining these things, and said you turned them over to Mr. Smoke, a man now dead, and whose mouth is closed. It is absurd to talk of these sums in that way. We are entitled to know, and the people are, and we will know

"The only piece of activity that you have displayed is to secure certain documents that we were going to place our hands on," said the chairman, testily.

The outburst came at the end of a dramatic sitting yesterday, when the board and counsel had exhausted every effort to secure the facts they wanted from the head of the railway which has eaten up so much money advanced by various municipalities along its route.

At the conclusion of the hearing yesterday Moyes promised to produce a statement giving his side of the case. This statement will probably be laid before the board when the enquiry is resumed a week from Saturday.

There was also a discussion about two checks which Mr. Moyes had secured on Tuesday from the Dominion Bank, which had been referred to in the inquiry, and about which the bank officials were to be examined. Mr. Moyes had secured these checks from the bank, and under questioning by Mr. Proudfoot was unable to tell at what time of the day he got them.

"What time of the day did you get these checks yesterday?" asked Mr. Proudfoot.

"I do not remember, I think it was the morning."

"Why was it necessary to take the checks; you could have taken the information from them?"

"I took the checks because I was given them. On Monday I went and asked for the amount of the checks."

"At what time yesterday?"

"I would not be positive."

"It is a strange thing that Mr Moyes' memory on things that happened yesterday is so defective," said Mr. Kittson, "and so accurate on things that happened some time ago."

As to the disposal of the unsecured bonds Mr. Moyes was equally vague. He thought he had handed them to Mr. Smoke, although an officer of the trust company testified that they had been turned over to him.

Pressed for some definite answer, Mr. Moyes said, "I am positively unable to give evidence to-day."

Royal George Broke Records.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 8. — The Canadian Northern Liner Royal George, which arrived from Bristol yesterday, broke some records. She made the voyage in six days seven hours and twenty-four minutes, including an hour's detention by fog at sea.

The Royal George brought 165 passengers and 2,237 packages of mail, which was forwarded by special train.

WINTER SPORTS ON MOUNT ROYAL

CANADA AND HER WINTER SPORTS—The climate of the Dominion of Canada, with its wide expanse, is various. However, the winter sports of Canadians are traditional. They furnish for her inhabitants right where they live, the same exhilarating and enervating recreations that the people of the Old Country travel to Switzerland to get. The illustration shows our people at some of the most exciting outdoor winter sports.

NO ADVANCE MADE

Sir James' Condition Remained the Same All Yesterday

TALKED WITH HIS NURSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—While the official bulletins issued from the apartments of Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, yesterday continued to indicate little change in his condition, there was less of the hopeful feeling among those in attendance about his apartments at the Hotel Manhattan.

During he day Dr. R. A. Pyne said that his patient was resting comfortably. An earlier bulletin, issued during the forenoon, after an examination and consultation in which Dr. Pyne and Dr. Herman Biggs, the neurologist, participated, a bulletin was issued, indicating that the condition of the patient was still serious.

Dr. Pyne issued a bulletin last night, about nine o'clock, and about an hour later stated that the conditions were still the same. The night bulletin read: "Practically no change in Sir James Whitney's condition during the last twelve hours."

While both Horace Wallace, the

SIR JAMES P. WHITNEY.

Premier's secretary, and Dr. Pyne went out yesterday, they did not leave the apartments at the same time and last night Dr. Pyne remained within the hotel instead of taking a stroll outside, as he has usually done, even during the trying period following the Premier's collapse on Friday last.

The Premier sank into a restful slumber before midnight on Tuesday, and it was hoped that he would experience a refreshing night's sleep. About four o'clock in the morning, however, he awakened and shortly thereafter it became evident he was in a more weakened condition. He lay with his eyes open, but with none of the usual light in them, and seemed for the first time to be in great pain. For two hours he lay thus, moaning continually. Just after daybreak he called one of the nurses and asked her where he was. "Still in New York, Sir James," the young woman replied.

"Oh, yes, New York," he murmured, and lay silent for a few moments.

Then, true to life conviction, he insisted for several minutes in assuring the nurse that great as was New York and the American Republic, it was a still greater and grander thing to be a citizen of the British Empire. While he was talking something of the old flashing forcefulness was manifested for the time. Then he lay back apparently cogitating on words. He was not in any sense delirious, but was evidently thinking out problems which oppressed him. Dr. Pyne told of one characteristic touch. He had apparently been reviewing some line of happenings or conduct.

"Meagre, that's the word," he exclaimed suddenly, repeating the word over and over again to conclude with the emphatic admonition: "Be one thing or the other."

All morning Sir James rested fitfully, cognizant of all that was going on about him, and at time murmuring to himself, nearly always about public problems. Early in the afternoon came the first real rallying flash of the day. He turned to his colleague, his eyes lighting up with the old-time impetuosity.

"Ah, Pyne," he exclaimed, "this will never do," evidently alluding to his condition and his determination to "get up steam again."

CONVICT MONEY STUCK TO GUARD'S FINGERS

Commission Elicited For Smuggling Funds to Kingston Prisoner

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 7.—When the Prison Reform Committee met to-day, H. C. Stewart announced definitely that Mrs. O. Freese, of Milwaukee, whose son died in the penitentiary, would not come to Kingston to give evidence, owing to the fact that she was ill.

The Chairman then called Frank Randall, a guard, said to be from Peterborough, and questioned him about trafficking in tobacco. The guard denied the traffic. The Chairman then produced a post-office money order for $20, which witness had received, and asked what was done with it.

"I gave it to the convict."

Pressed further, witness said he gave $15 to the convict and kept $5 for himself. He said he had only been in the position a short time, and did not know it was wrong to do this.

"Gunman" Gets Five Years.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 8. — William Murray, the colored man who ran amuck with a gun, was sentenced to five years on each of the six charges preferred against him, sentences to run concurrently. Each of the six charges against him was sufficient for a life sentence. Prisoner's counsel pleaded in extenuation that Murray was crazed with drink, otherwise nothing would have occurred. Magistrate Livingstone pointed out that that plea of drunkenness at the time of the offence was no excuse. It might take the edge off the intent to commit crime, but it was no excuse in the eyes of the law.

CATTLE ARE GOING.

Buyers Blinding Ontario Farmers With Gold, Says Dairyman.

CORNWALL, Jan. 8. — Cornwall was invaded yesterday by a very large number of leading dairymen from all over eastern Ontario. The gathering is the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario. Sessions will continue until to-morrow afternoon.

The convention opened yesterday morning with the delivery of the president's address by G. A. Gillespie of Peterboro, who gave an interesting resume of his tenure of office and the work undertaken and accomplished since the association last met, in annual convention.

Senator Derbyshire, of Brockville, and John Hyatt, of Picton, each gave a brief address.

One of the features of the day was a passage in the remarks of Mr. Hyatt.

"We are doing the wrong thing in Prince Edward county," he said, "we are selling all our cattle. We are not trying to sell them, but people are coming in and blinding our eyes with gold and taking them. This should not be. We on the farms are at the parting of the ways. Our cattle are going. What are we to do?" Mr. Hyatt argued that the farmers should not sell their dairy cattle, as there would be money in selling their milk and cream for butter and cheese. It was just as great folly to sell calves as to sell seed wheat, even if offered $40 each for them, for the calves were the seed of the cattle industry.

At the afternoon session addresses were delivered by C. F. Whitley, dairy commission staff, Ottawa; Prof. J. H. Grisdale, director experimental farm, Ottawa; by Prof. H. H. Dean, B.S.A., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Drenched In Alcohol.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Jan. 8.—That her invalid husband, Peter Rooney, had poured alcohol on her and then set her "on fire with a match," was the ante-mortem statement made by Mrs. Mary Rooney, 43 years of age, who died in a hospital here last night as the result of burns received Tuesday night. Rooney, who had been held by the police for "atrocious assault," is now in detention on the charge of murder.

WILLING TO WAIT

Methodists to Assist Presbyterians With Church Survey

CHANGES ARE NOT VITAL

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — That the changes in the basis of church union proposed by the Presbyterian Church did not present any insuperable obstacles in the way of consummation was the decision reached last night by the Methodist General Conference special committee. The committee put itself on record as being in favor of co-operating with the other churches in a survey of church conditions throughout the Dominion. The next meeting of the general conference will be held in the Dominion Church at Ottawa on Sept. 23.

The resolution passed by the committee with regard to church union was, in part, as follows:

"While the committee are of the opinion that the proposals present some vital changes in the principle of the basis of union, and that the proposed survey would be of advantage to the future work of our church or churches, in view of the fact that our general conference and all our lower courts have taken action on the present basis, and that our general conference will meet next September, we do not feel at liberty to take further action to pass forward the proposed changes in the basis to our general conference with an expression of our opinion that they do not present any insuperable difficulties in the way of consummating union; nor should they involve any delay in reaching a final conclusion on the question of union.

"In view of the intimation contained in the letter of Rev. Principal Gandier that the information which may be made available through a church survey is desired by their committee on church union for use at the next general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, we are prepared to render all such assistance as lies in our power to secure this result, and we hereby appoint Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., and Rev. W. B. Creighton, D.D., as our representatives to co-operate with the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches in this work."

BIG SHIP MADNESS.

That Is What Costs In Armaments Says Mr. Hobhouse.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Rt. Hon. C. H. Hobhouse, M.P., whose speech last night on the naval question was looked forward to with considerable interest, said that while he himself wasn't a naval expert, he had ample opportunity of consultation with those who were. There was no doubt in his mind that much of the increases in our armaments were due to the creation by England of greater ships than she had ever possessed before.

If it were possible to reduce the size, power and cost of those ships, he was informed by naval officials that past history and present experience would lead to other nations reducing the proportionate size of their ships, and if that, which was not a Utopian hope, came true we should have at once in our power the way to reduce these costly armaments without affecting our margin of safety.

WANT LABOR BUREAU.

Premier Roblin Receives Deputation of Union Men.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—Headed by J. V. Johnson, president of the Trades and Labor Council, and a delegation representing organized labor in Winnipeg, waited upon the members of Government yesterday morning in the interest of securing legislation of advantage to labor men. The delegation was received by Sir Rodmond Roblin, Hon. Dr. Montague and Attorney-General Howden. Among the questions presented to the Government was that of establishing a bureau of labor, amending the liquor license law regarding the granting of licenses to bartenders, the issuing of licenses to barbers, amendment to the Building Trades Act, the use of convict labor and the abolition of the requirements for a political candidate to make a deposit.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The New York Legislature opened yesterday. Governor Glynn's message dealt solely with the state finances which are in a bad way.

The brigand Hwang-Liang, who during the anti-Manchu revolt in China, proclaimed himself Ming Emperor, still defies the authorities.

While attending a patient at Victoria Hospital, 54 Isabella street, Toronto, last night, Miss Myrtle J. Jones, a nurse, dropped dead from heart failure.

The Dominion Public Works Department has ordered resumption of work on the workshops at St. Malo of the N.T.R., which were stopped for the winter.

James Dobson, of Winnipeg, aged 66, the oldest engineer in the employ of the C.P.R., has resigned, having served continuously with the company since 1881.

The annual losses suffered by merchants through commercial frauds committed in New York city aggregate $25,000,000, according to a report made yesterday.

Samuel Rand, aged 30, of Oulmet Township, died in Port Arthur of wounds in the abdomen caused by a gun shot when he was mistaken for a moose near his summer home.

Pulling a gun and firing a shot at S. J. Montgomery, clerk of the civic board of works, one of the army of Vancouver's unemployed created a sensation at the city hall yesterday.

English suffragettes are organizing a deputation to make another attempt to present to the King a formal protest against the alleged torturing of women prisoners. Incidentally they will demand the vote.

Smallpox Hits U. S. Sailors.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 8.—The third death from smallpox among men exposed on the battleship Ohio, which took the the infection on the recent Mediterranean cruise, was recorded here yesterday. It was that of a coal-passer named Ackerman. He died in quarantine.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — Thirty-two more cases of smallpox were reported from Guantanamo naval station among sailors exposed on the battleship Ohio. The station has been quarantined.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the sugar syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequaled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Six Feet.

A teacher was giving a lesson in mathematics and English combined.

"A fathom," she said, "is a nautical word used in defining distance. It means six feet. Now I want some little girl to give me a sentence, using the word fathom."

Instantly a hand shot up in the rear of the room.

"Well, Mary, you may give your sentence."

Mary stood up proudly.

"The reason flies walk on the ceiling," said she said, "is because they have a fathom."

EXPERIENCE OF MOTHERHOOD

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experiences of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CONCERT IN AID OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

Held at Hastings Was a Great Success

Examiner Special:

HASTINGS, Jan. 5.—The pulpit in the Methodist Church was occupied on Sunday night last by Rev. (Dr.) T. Albert Moore, who delivered a very able address in the interests of "social and moral reform."

Schools re-opened on Monday after the mid-winter vacation, with Mr. Ostrander as principal.

The annual school meetings were held on Wednesday last, when the business of the year was reviewed and books audited.

Word came to town last night of the death of Mr. Wm. Harris of Keene. Deceased, who had reached a good old age, was the father of Mrs. Joe Carter of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Carter attended the funeral on Thursday from his late residence. The many friends of Mrs. Carter extend sympathy.

The inspector of stations passed through here on Saturday and stopped off for a short time.

Miss Mae Beavis is visiting friends in Lakefield and Peterborough.

Mr. John Humphries took a trip to Peterborough on Saturday.

The concert held in the Town Hall last week in the interests of the Public Library, was well attended. Those present report a fine programme.

Mr. D. Fife spent New Year's Day with his sister, Mrs. Hore of Percy.

Mr. Howard Runnels of Toronto, spent his vacation under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Payne of Lakefield, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore.

Mrs. J. More spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mrs. Hamblin of Lakefield, has been visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Seymour are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter.

A bunch of boys went over to Norwood on Monday night for a game of hockey, but returned disheartened, having been defeated by the Norwood team.

Mr. G. Mikel of Colborne, spent the week end with friends here.

Mr. Ostrander spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Miss Lizzie Laing returned on Monday from the Christmas vacation.

Mr. Alf. Parsons spent New Year's with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Ivan Tapping of Oshawa, spent the holiday with his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gould spent the holiday with his parents at Colborne.

Election day passed very quietly in our town, the old council being returned by acclamation.

In Asphodel the contest was very exciting between Mr. M. Brown and Mr. John McNaughton for reeve, the result being that Mr. Brown was returned by a large majority.

Mr. Leo Pearce has been holidaying with friends in Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Beavis spent a few days during the past week in Lakefield and Peterborough.

We regret to learn that Mrs. (Dr.) Edmison is ill at her parents' home in Toronto. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

BROWN HAD 137 MAJORITY

WESTWOOD, Jan. 6.—A the municipal election for Asphodel held yesterday, Maxwell Brown, the late Reeve, was elected by a majority of 137 over Mr. McNaughton. The Councillors elected by acclamation are: Andrew Quinlan, Thomas Davidson, John Scott and Adam Humphries.

HE IS A MAN.

The man who is a man,
Does the very best he can;
Helping others in distress,
Holds no grudge but forgiveness.
Always wears a pleasant smile,
Doing what is most worth while;
Doesn't have that nagging way,
But is cheerful all the day.

Doesn't bully, or brag and bray,
About what he can do always;
But takes things as they come,
And from hard work he never runs.
Doesn't cry and whine all day,
When a trouble comes his way;
But braces up and hard he fights,
And overcomes it by his might.

Doesn't gamble, or drink his pay away
But saves a little for a rainy day;
Always ready to pay the price,
To make his home a Paradise.
He never tries to break the law,
Or use another for his catspaw;
But gives truth and justice all he can,
He is, Yes! he is a man.

Child Had Bronchitis

Once people get acquainted with the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exerts over bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and colds it is not easy to persuade them that anything else is "just as good." This is why the imitators never get very far.

In 1902 Mrs. Eugene Iler, King street, Truro, N.S., wrote as follows:

From an infant one of my children was troubled with bronchitis, and the least cold would aggravate the trouble. We could not get anything to help her, and were often greatly alarmed. Hearing of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a treatment for bronchitis, we used it, and are glad to state that it effected a complete cure. If any of the children take a cold or cough I give this medicine, and have never known it to fail to bring relief."

Mrs. Iler now writes that she has since proved this medicine to be a cure for whooping cough, and would not be without it in the house.

Melba's Pullman Porter Critic.

One American experience recurs to me at the moment," says Madame Melbt in the January Strand. "I had been appearing in "Faust" at Washington, and, getting into the train after the performance, rather tired, was not unnaturally annoyed at finding my stateroom unprepared. I called the coloured attendant, who kept me waiting a long time before he condescended to appear.

"Why is my berth not ready" I began.

He looked me up and down indifferently.

"I saw you play Margaret (Marguerite) this mornin'," he said, defiantly, "an' I thought you weren't a bit o' good. You'll hev to wait. But Plankon (Plancon) was fine," he added as an afterthought.

Two years afterward I received a letter from this same ebony critic. It ran: "I heard you last night, and it was real fine. You beat the band. I take it all back."

HEART WAS SO BAD

Could Not Do Her Housework

Many women get run down and are unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung. To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Thomas Melville, Saltcoats, Sask., writes:—"I thought it my duty to write and tell you how much your Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart was so bad I could not sleep, eat nor walk about the house. I could not do my housework at all, and what my husband could not do had to go undone. I had two small children depending on me besides three men to cook for, and it worried me to not be able to do anything. My husband had taken some of your pills some years ago, and insisted on me trying them, so I started, and before I had taken them two weeks I was considerably better, and before I had taken two boxes I was doing my own work again. Any one suffering from heart or nerve trouble should just give your pills a trial. If anyone cares to write me I will gladly give them all the information I know concerning your wonderful medicine."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Furnace Fire Is Out.

Through diaphonous pyjamas
The winds of winter blow
As I shivering go
To murky realms below.
Even so.
I've been routed from my slumbers
For my mansion, it is chill;
My wife's voice, a voice that's shrill,
Has repeated oft the shout,
"Hustle down, you lazy lout;
Yes, the furnace fire is out."
Then my kneese, they knock together,
It's some frigid, is the weather;
And I tackle my old furnace
With a feeling of despair,
For it's full of stubborn clinkers,
And the frost is in the air.
Then comes floating down the stair
One fond voice I'll ne'er forget:
"Ain't you got it started yet?"
Then I shake it like a demon,
Till my elbows rack with pain,
But find there's nothing doing,
So I crank her up again.
Then I burn up old newspapers
And a barel and a chair,
And a table and all other
Of my wife's furniture I dare.
If I'm lucky and naught happens
And my plans all come out right,
I most always have my furnace
Going pretty good by night.

Many a man's wonderful self-control is due to the fact that he has a wife able to advise him; a real helpmeet.

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

A FLIGHT FROM RAZORBACK

By Mrs. Ella M. Paquin.

(Copyright, 1913, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

My stepfather brought them in, one under each arm. Bending, that they might not receive the least jar, he deposited them on the floor. Straightening up in a nearby chair, he removed his hat, drew from the crown of it a red bandanna handkerchief and mopped his head and shiny pate. Replacing the handkerchief, he put the hat on the floor by his chair, leaned back, crossed his legs and beamed. Evidently my stepfather's little tin cup of joy was "plumb" full.

The two hound pups, vacuous of expression, wabbling of legs, quivering of tail, "nosed" about my stepfather's feet until the female pup, in a sudden rush of brain power, brought forth a fragment of a bark.

The effort cost her a tumble to her side, but my stepfather was quick to set her on her unsteady legs, soothing her whines by rubbing her long, velvety ears, ending by holding her up by the nape of her neck, to test her "grit."

She howled, which, according to dog lore, was not the right thing. However, my stepfather was nowise cast down. He just shook the delinquent and set her on her legs; then, as he watched her waddle around, he gave us a "talk" on hounds, especially the race from which his pups had sprung.

"As pups they've not got much sense" (that seemed true), "nor will they know anything up to a year old. Then they'll develop head. Now, the mother of these pups"—— A neighbor turning into the path which led to the house cut short the feats of one hound.

It was our assertive neighbor, a good enough man, but a born "grater," at least to my stepfather.

"Hello, old man, where did you get them things?"

There it was! "Old man" was an appellation like grit to my stepfather's nerves; then to call the very apples of his eye "things!"

"They are full-blood hound!" asserted my stepfather, with much dignity. "None of your worthless cur dog about them."

"A full-blood hound is one or the most ornery, no account dogs on earth. All they are fit for is to eat and yelp. They'll howl to raise the roof if they stub their toe or a flea bites 'em."

And, to my stepfather's unspeakable indignation, the speaker added to his tirade the turning of a pup on its back with the toe of his boot, leaving it there sprawling. My stepfather immediately bent to the rescue, tenderly turning the helpless thing right side up, whereupon our neighbor winked at me knowingly.

Having had his "fling," he did his errand, which was to say that they were going to the bayou that night to "gig" fish, and would my stepfather come along.

As he turned to leave, his own dogs, big brindles, a cross of all dog breeds, I guess, caught his eye.

"Now there are dogs that are dogs! Just enough hound in 'em to give 'em a nose, enough bull to make 'em fight, enough"——

My stepfather stamped across the room to the water bucket, his heavy boots drowning the name of dog from the house. Just then my mother came in to announce dinner, and with another knowing wink our neighbor went his way.

My step-parent sat down to the table with an audible grunt, picked up a fork and empaled a potato. It was plain that his thoughts were of his neighbor.

"He's nothing but a bag of wind! No things like his things! No ways like Southern ways! No dogs like that pair of brindle curs!"

The pups drew my stepfather's attention. They had scented him out and were tumbling over his feet. Gazing down upon them with the satisfied air of a proprietor he added:—

"Now, there are dogs that are dogs, or will be dogs! For pups of their age they can't be beat!"

Whatever the pups were to be, they led my stepfather—in fact, the whole family—a merry dance getting there.

They began at nightfall, whimpering low, then higher, then still higher, until from their wails one would suppose that they were undergoing vivisection in a half dozen different forms. I guess they were pretty hollow, and doubtless they missed cuddling against the warm body of the mother hound.

Raising Them on Milk.

My step-parent was very patient with them—patient for a man. More than once that first night I awoke to see him trotting out to them in his night shirt, a saucer of milk in his hand. Nor did he scold them the following morning. Instead he made excuses for them. He expected to have a "time" until they were weaned.

"Well, if my stepfather thought that the "time" would end with the weaning he found himself mistaken. Really it had just begun.

Worms at first, caused by feeding too much cow's milk, the neighbors said. For awhile the poor pups were mostly eyes and stomach. My stepfather dosed them with gunpowder and calomel; then they had fits. Later they caught the mange and went about coated with sulphur and grease. Soon they developed enough "head" to suck eggs, and were tempted with empty shells into which a lot of cayenne pepper had been blown. They got the stuff into their eyes as well as mouth, and for a time they were as blind as moles. However, their hankering for poultry product was quashed. Ever after they gave an egg as much room as men given to the deadly bomb.

At the age of eight months they had come through it all and were long legged, gaunt, innocent looking animals; my pets, you may be sure. When scolded for their mischief they had a way of sitting on their haunches side by side and looking up at us in the most repentant, shame faced manner.

As a final expression of their good intentions they usually laid themselves down, side by side, and, with nose resting on their forepaws, watched us. Let us turn our backs five minutes, and they were digging holes in the garden, or chasing the chickens, or perhaps turning some inoffensive betsy-bug on its back, that they might watch it kick. When there was nothing else on hand they quarrelled with each other incontinently.

About that time they developed the "going" trait. Two hound pups were at our heels the moment we stepped out of the house.

My stepfather didn't object to their following about the farm. It would teach them to "trail," he said. As a result we were never at loss as to the whereabouts of any of the family that happened to be out of doors. The howls of those pups located them as exactly as though they had been strapped to a fog horn.

Really, they yelped at everything, and about all things. Did I cross a "slash" on a pole too small for their walking, they would stand and howl because to follow they must wet their feet. Did the male pup dare to trot on ahead the female jumped on him and "thrashed" him until he made the woods ring. The female pup being the largest was the boss, and she always saw to it that the male pup walked behind.

The one mercantile house at Lauratown had given out that it was in the market for eggs. On hearing the news the possibility of a new dress had dawned upon me, and every egg upon which I could lay my hands was "saved up" until I had eight dozen nicely packed in a tin bucket.

The "trading" part bothered me. I was too shy to start out in the egg business alone; still I was sure I must "pick" the goods. The matter was solved when, on the afternoon of a day too wet for ploughing, my stepfather said he must go to the town on business.

"Yes, I'll do the selling; you can go along and pick what you want."

He was rather surly about it. He deemed mother and I hard to please in the line of garb, so often we had flouted his roses—he invariably selected roses usually as large as tea cups, yellow or purple preferred. His latest had been a "waist." Over and over my mother had said, "White ground, with small black dots." He had brought home white ground strewed with red roses the size of a quarter. And he was so elated at his success in choosing small figures that my mother said not one fault finding word—to him. To me she declared her belief that he was as color blind as a bat.

Well, a dress, "saved up" egg by egg, is precious; so, surly or not surly, the choice of my new garb could not be left to a man who was color blind.

Donning his best hat, my stepfather went around to the chimney, where stood his "canes;" in reality they were dwarfish poles, about the size and length of a broomstick. They numbered perhaps twenty, all sassafras. It seemed that every fine, straight sassafras bush he came across was cut with his pocket knife and trimmed into a "cane." He cut them long that they might serve as a weapon to kill snakes, and I think that his choice of that particular wood was that, after seasoning, it was light.

Coveted His Canes.

Even yet I remember his "canes" as an unsightly blotch on the side of the old log chimney. How my fingers used to itch to end them as a part of a burning brush heap.

After selecting the strongest of his cane assortment my stepfather was ready to start. So was I, bucket of eggs in hand. The pups were ready, also, bouncing around us and barking at every jump.

My stepfather ordered them to their kennel, threatening them with his cane. They must stay at home sometimes, he informed them.

They submitted, lying down side by side, each one resting its nose on its fore paws, its long, soft ears framing eyes that, just then, were very bright and sharp. However, they were meek enough and we thought no more of them.

The road led down to the corner of the field, then turned and ran along one side of it for maybe an eighth of a mile, there, turning again, it plunged into the woods. Sometimes we cut across inside the corner, climbing the fence at the last turn of the road. However, that day it was too wet to do so.

We had walked around in the outside track until we were at the last turn of the road. As we were leaving the field I looked back. Two pair of wishful eyes were peeking through a crack of the rail fence. The wet had not prevented the pups from cutting across that corner.

I scolded them, my stepfather turned and shook his cane at them. They appeared all broken up, crushed to the very earth, and we left them there, huddled together.

We travelled on, my stepfather ahead, I close at his heels, carrying my precious eggs gingerly that not one might be cracked.

A "cottontail" went by; after it, like a shot, two hound pups, in full tongue. Those wretched dogs had sneaked behind all the way. At the sight of a rabbit they had thrown all caution to the winds. That, as they sneaked, they had refrained from betraying themselves by a single yelp rather upheld my stepfather's belief in their "head."

They yelped now, as they lost their rabbit to find it and lose it again, running to us between times, a living picture of dog joy. However, they were very careful not to get within reach of my stepfather's cane, nor would they allow me to get my hands on them.

Shortly we came to an old "deadening," a wreck of a house standing on a knoll at one end. The place was known as the double cabins, also as a relic of before the war days.

The pups, in circling about the cabins, started a razorback pig. With a "woof" it disappeared, the dogs after it in full tongue. In about two minutes they came back as fast as they went, after them two old razorback sows in milk.

Droves of half wild hogs were common in Arkansas at that time—forty years ago.

The millionaire hunting timber to multiply his dollars, the workingman in his wake cutting it for a bare living in a board hut, were not the order of things then. Consequently sturdy oaks stood as they had stood for years, showering their acorns down each autumn. The primitive wild was everywhere, and the wild of the razorback fitted in it well.

Quite often I had come upon droves of these hogs, more or less wild. Usually they disappeared, with their characteristic "woof," and that was the last of them. However, once I had seen them rally at the squeal of a pig. Only a nearby fence over which we had scrambled had saved us—a girl friend and myself—from faring badly.

Well, there was no fence near now, and those old sows were in dead earnest.

To the pups my stepfather's legs were a haven of refuge, and around said legs they fairly twined themselves. The hogs were not particular as to what they attacked—legs or dogs were as one to them. Only by flourishing his cane could my stepfather keep them off.

Had the cane been of hard wood, hickory for instance, it would have served to give "knockout" blows, but the dry sassafras would break and a broken stick or a half hearted blow could certainly enrage the sows still more.

Could we drive the pups from us they could outrun the hogs, thus drawing them off and ridding us of the fracas. My stepfather tried it, the poor pups clung still closer and yelped. Of course their noise added to the fury of the razorbacks. Indeed, their lunges at us became rather alarming. However, at their snorts of rage the rest of the drove began gathering—other sows, shoats and several big males.

Retreat to the Cabins.

"Run for the cabins, Ella," said my stepfather. I guess that ending his career as hog meat was in his vision just then.

Somehow I couldn't leave him.

"You come, too!" I pleaded. "He's back up!"

We edged toward the cabins, the point being to keep the pups as still as possible (they were only whining now), and not even a cross word did we give them lest their little ray of understanding vanish and howls commence.

We were perhaps half the distance when I knew that some of the shoats were closing in behind us. We were in a fair way of being surrounded.

"We'll run for it now! You go first!" directed my stepfather.

I flew, he close behind, the wonder being that the pups didn't trip him, for they still clung to him. To make matters worse, the moment we rushed the pups howled, a yelp coming at every jump.

Our sudden move dazed the hogs for a second and that saved us. However, by the time we reached the cabins they were right to us. At the door they halted, in fear of a pen. We scaled the log walls—as one climbs a rail fence—to some bare poles which had once held up a loft. I climbed to one pole, my stepfather to another; and, seated thereon, our backs against the wall, we looked down on a melee such as only the backwoods can produce.

The cabins were set on blocks and doorless, so our pursuers were soon inside. The pups had entered at our heels, and, with the luck of fools, had managed to squirm under a couple of sills that had once been the foundation of a lean-to. There they stayed and howled defiance until the very eyes of the razorbacks were shot with blood. Out of the sills which shielded their hated adversaries those old sows tore mouthful after mouthful of half rotten wood, their white tushes red from the bleeding of their lacerated gums. As I went up the wall my bonnet had fallen. The young hogs pitched at it, and soon it was in shreds. My bucket of eggs—I had clung to that bucket until forced to climb! It was hard to part with the wherewith of that dress, saved egg by egg. Well, the "wherewith" didn't go egg by egg. It went in a heap, a half dozen young razorbacks "dancing jubes" upon it as they fought that tin bucket with the ferocity of grizzly bears.

Could we have made the pups stop their noise the hogs would have quieted down, maybe to the point of leaving. But no! Not a thing we said had the least effect on the crazy hounds. Indeed, the more my stepfather ordered them to "shut up!" the louder they barked.

It was not pleasant up there astride the beams, nor was it altogether safe. Once I nearly lost my balance. For a moment I guess the hair of my head stood as straight as the bristles of the razorbacks.

At last the pups appeared to have given up the fight—I suppose they really deemed their noise fight. The hogs, having silenced their foe, evidently believed themselves victors; but the old sows stood with their long snouts near the ground, listening unbodily. One by one the young hogs drifted out. Outside they got into a rumpus among themselves, and the sows went out to see about it. Then it seemed that the whole drove had departed.

I made a move to get down. At the stir the pups again set us their yelping. Back came the razorbacks, and the performance, so to speak, commenced once more.

The cloudy weather had darkened. More rain was imminent. And as a hog appreciates shelter in wet times, our besiegers might hang around all night.

The second act had been on perhaps ten minutes, when, peeping through a crack, I spied two horsemen approaching. They were coming straight toward us, attracted by the racket, of course. A second peep showed me that one of the men was our assertive neighbor. Almost any one else would have been preferable just then. But there he was, long, lean, lantern jawed—like a razorback—a true backwoodsman is never fat, only when a baby.

Through the doorless door it was easy for our neighbor to take in the situation at a glance. Grinning prodigiously, he leaned forward on his saddle horn and peered up at my stepfather, sitting astride his beam.

"Hello old man; what's the matter with your full-blood hounds?"

As I remember, my stepfather did not deign to reply. Sadly he began unwinding himself for a descent to be earth—a razorback distrusts men on horses, and our lot had bolted as our saccor rode up.

Punishing the Pups.

Hardly had my stepfather set his foot on the ground when out squirmed the pups, bounding about him, with little, glad yelps.

"Now if my dogs had happened to be along"——

The wild howls of a couple of hound pups, belabored with the remains of a sassafras cane in my stepfather's hand, nipped our neighbor's dog's tale in the bud.

"Whip one pup over another man's shoulders." Poor pups! However, they had earned a thrashing on their own account, no doubt of that.

The rain was coming down by that time, and with, "I hope you won't have up any more wills, old man," our neighbors rode off.

The pups had left, too. For once those wretched hounds had evolved enough sense to go home.

My new dress having passed into a dream that was over, I longed for home as well. Besides, I was homeless, and backwoods style absolutely forbids the appearance of a barefooted female on the streets of a town.

My stepfather was to remain to transact business, so we both turned back, carrying my battered tin bucket.

Home, enveloped in a good drizzle of rain, came in sight. There, side by side standing on their hind legs, their forepaws resting upon the top bar of the fence were two hound pups ready to welcome us joyfully.

"Run for the Cabins, Ella!"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A half mile farther on the bridge grounded against an island of bushes on a slight elevation. In a moment it swung shoreward and came to a dead stop. Gordon could see the woman lying face downward across the rough timbers.

He plunged into the seething torrent 100 yards above with the determination to reach the wreckage. He had given himself that distance as a leeway against being beaten down by the current. Wading obliquely with the current he was soon waist deep, then shoulder deep in the tumbling, drift-laden waters.

He kept his feet with difficulty and was in the act of taking a long breath for the final plunge when a section of board fence floated against him. He grasped it with both hands and braced himself to stop it. It swung in below him and bobbed lightly in the less agitated waters.

Clinging to the raft with one hand and holding on to some bushes with the other he looked about. He had his raft, but he lacked means of propelling it. Looking up and down he saw a long fence stake floating nearer shore.

Pulling the raft to where the water was less than knee deep, he secured the stake, stepping on the raft and pushed out, poling with all his might. The raft carried him safely enough, but was being swept down by the current so rapidly that he feared he would miss the bridge.

Setting the end of the pole in the softened earth, he braced himself and sent the frail craft forward at good speed. He was within a few yards of the end of the bridge and was floating by at an alarming rate of speed.

Once more he thrust the pole down His heart almost stopped, for he could not reach bottom. At that instant there was a scraping sound at his feet and he saw the top branches of a sapling raking by.

Dropping the pole he clutched one of the branches and lying flat on the raft he held on with set teeth. The shock of the sudden stop almost tore the flesh from his hands. Gradually the strain slackened and the raft then swung against the bridge.

He shifted his position quickly, and grasped one of the bridge timbers. The next moment he was standing on the bridge. The raft was pulled up sufficiently to prevent it from washing away.

Gordon then sprang toward the woman. "Poor old soul," he exclaimed, stooping over her.

She wore a sunbonnet which had become wet and hung over her face, hiding her features. A faded shoulder shawl had slipped up about her neck, while a cheap calico dress clung about her drenched form. All this Gordon saw at a glance as he stooped to raise the limp body.

"She's probably some poor old grandmother," Gordon said, half aloud as he staggered along with the body in his arms towards the raft. Placing her on one of the planks with her head lying on one of the posts, which served as a cross section to the raft, he pushed off, grasping the tops of bushes here and there to start him ashoreward.

Then grasping his pole, he worked frantically until the raft was safe in shallow water. Jumping into the water waist deep he picked up the woman and waded ashore.

Reaching a grassy spot he gently lowered her to the ground and pulling back the wet fold of the bonnet, which had concealed her face up to that time he looked at the still face, staggering back with blanched face, he cried: "My God, it is Nellie!"

At first he fell to chafing her hands and calling her name imploringly, then springing to his feet he ran to the buggy for the lap robes. Wrapher in them he hurried with her to the buggy and lifted her in the best he could.

He grasped the lines with one hand and steadied her with the other. The heads of the horses were turned towards the high road leading to the Stewart home.

They had not gone 100 yards before the girl shuddered and otherwise manifested symptoms of returning consciousness in response to the lover's agonizing appeals to her to speak.

"O, Wallace, can you ever forgive me?" she whispered when she could speak. "O, what a foolish, foolish thing I did!"

He pressed her closer.

"I was going to test your respect for old age. I came out in these poor clothes to meet you and I expected somehow to find a way in the guise of a poor old woman to test you without being found out. Then the storm came and I was caught in the bridge."

For a moment there was silence. Then Gordon asked: "Nellie, do you still doubt me."

"No," was the faint whisper near his ear. "Now, I doubt only myself."

Next To Consumption.
There Are More Deaths From PNEUMONIA
Than Any Other Lung Trouble.

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than what used to be called "Inflammation of the Lungs."

Consumption may be contracted from others, but as a rule pneumonia is caused by exposure to cold and wet, and there is only one way to prevent pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold on its first appearance.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this for you if you will only take it in time.

Mrs. Wm. M. Steeves, River Glade, N.B., writes:—"Please allow me to express my gratitude for the presence of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house, for I believe it saved our little boy's life. Three years this fall we were in the lumber woods, and it was very hard to get a doctor to us, and our little boy got pneumonia, and was very ill. The only relief he could get was to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and with the combined use of the Syrup, and your British Troop Oil Liniment, he soon got better, and was around in a couple of weeks. It certainly is a great remedy."

Price, 25 and 50 cents.

Like a Man.

"Men are idealists, women are realists," said Mrs. Wilkins Freeman, the noted novelist, at a tea in Metuchen.

"Womans realism, which begins in childhod, makes her seem cynical, whereas she is only perspicacious. Take, for example, the story of little Mary.

"Little Mary, a Metuchen girl, was set to watch a flock of chickens. The hens kept together very well, but the rooster was inclined to wander inquisitively towards another flock of chickens next door. Time and again she had to turn him back.

"After a while she thought she had him cured of his wanderer's habit, and took up her doll a moment. But, when she lifted her head, there were the hens together in the corner, and there was the rooster strutting, calm and important, across the lawn towards the next yards again.

"'Come back here!' cried Mary. 'Come back to your own family!'

"But the rooster kept straight on.

"Mary looked at him a moment, disgustedly; then she said in a low, bitter voice:

"'That's just like you men.'"

Nervous Energy Is Limited

There is only so much energy in the human body. A few people have an abundance, but more have not enough. Hence the necessity of conserving vitality.

If wasted by mode of living, disease or worry there must be a reckoning, and trouble is sure to come It may be headaches and weak, aching eyes; it may be nervous indigestion, or it may be merely lack of energy and ambition, and feelings of fatigue or helplessness. Of course, sooner or later exhaustion of the nerves leads to prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia, but there is no need to let the trouble develop that far.

By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can restore to the feeble, wasted nerve cells the energy they have lost. It will take some effort on your part to give up worry and anxiety, but you should realize your serious condition. Rest and use this great food cure and you are bound to improve in health and vigour.

DAY OF SMALL WAGE IS PASSING

Bishop Believes the States will adopt Laws Controlling Earnings

An interesting contribution to the bulletin on vocational training that will be sent out shortly by the National Retail Dry Goods Association came from the pen of the Rt. Rev. John N. McCormick, D.D., Episcopal Bishop of Western Michigan. At the recent gathering of Bishops in Buffalo, Dr. McCormick made refereace to the need of vocational training and minimum wage laws for young Americans, and his remarks at that time attracted considerable attention. At the invitation of Secretary Pinkham of the association, Dr. McCormick prepared the following resume of his his ideas on the subject especially for the forthcoming bulletin:

"There is every reason to forecast that many of the States of the Union will soon adopt some sort of a minimum wage law. The drift of public opinion seems to be in the direction of State control, both as to hours of work and wages, especially in regard to the employment of women and children. The Oregon State law creating an industrial Welfare Commission empowered to regulate the wages and the hours of labor for women and children has just been declared constitutional by a judge of the Circuit Court, appeal having been taken to the Supreme Court of the State. Judge Cleeton, who made the decision, declared that the laws fixing minimum hours of labor and minimum wage are complements, the minimum wage law being necessary in some instances to make the maximum wage law effective. There is every reason for believing that legislation of this sort, along lines similar to those adopted in Australia, New Zealand, England, and now in Oregon and Masachusetts, will be adopted at an early date in many states.

"Prof. John Bates Clark of Columbia University, said in the September Atlantic Monthly: 'Of pending measures of economic reform, few appeal so strongly to public feeling as does the minimum wage act.' In the article referred to he reminds us of the intricacies and the practical difficulties of such experiments, and of the absolute necessity of approaching them only in a conservative way, and only after the most careful and thorough study of conditions. It seems quite evident to him that if radical laws are passed the State itself would have to provide emergency employment. He states the possibilities as follows:

"'Between the conservative policy, which estimates as best it can, the productive power of labor in ill-paid occupations and prescribes a corresponding amount as the minimum of pay, and the radical policy, which boldly demands whatever labor needs for a life of modest comfort, there are various gradations of policy, and the guiding principles in choosing between them are: first, that any legal rate above the value of labor to its employer will cause idleness; second, that the amount of the idleness will be greater the higher the rate established; and, third, that any idleness created in this way and not relieved by natural causes will give to the workers an unanswerable claim on the State for emergency employment.'

"Other factors than that of the minimum wage are also entering into the problem. For example, the State of Ohio has raised the age limit for employment to 16 years and other States are likely to follow.

"On the employer's side there is the business efficiency campaign which demands as one of its essentials employees who are more intelligent, more capable and more interested in their work. It appears therefore there is good reason for the emphasis now being placed on vocational guidance and industrial training, especially in connection with the public schools. The campaign conducted by such leaders as Mrs. Prince of Boston, will become more widespread and effective. The public schools will take more seriously into consideration a kind of training whereby girls, especially, who are likely to be compelled to earn their own living, can be raised above the ranks of unskilled labor and can be prepared to make good under the new conditions. In Grand Rapids, for example, there is a department of Vocational Direction under the Board of Education, and there are courses of salesmanship in both the day and night schools. At the present time 216 girls are taking a commercial course which will include salesmanship. The heads of most of the department stores have expressed willingness that their clerks shall attend part-time classes for at least one-half day in the week without loss of pay. Boston has done advance work on these lines and courses are in contemplation in Cleveland, Philadelphia, Detroit and other cities.

"Society is demanding more efficient production, but it is also demanding that women and minors of the so-called working classes in particular shall be legally protected. It is quite likely that there will be an epidemic of legislation on the various phases of this subject and it is certain that along with this legislation will move forces of economic pressure. Education must, therefore, be alert in assisting wage-earners to face the changing conditions."

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dropsy. I had nervous headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a semi-invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased and gave me up. By using 10 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 28 pounds in weight."

GIRLS! CLEAN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR; NO MORE DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Stop Washing Hair! Try this! Makes it Glossy, Soft and Abundant

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil — in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

"Farm and Dairy" Live Stock, Produce and Grain Market Report

Toronto, Monday, Jan. 5.—What has been the trend of markets for farm produce during the past year? Farm and Dairy's Marketman believes that the big lesson to be derived from the year's operations is the increasing importance and profitableness of the live stock end of farming. With the exception of hay the raw products of the farm are not substantially higher priced at the beginning of 1914 than they have been in past years. Live stock, however, is selling at such prices as were never before realized in Canada. The rapid growth of our cities is creating a great demand for milk and cream, and the supplying of this demand opens up a new and most profitable market for the Canadian dairyman. The farmer who continues to devote his attention to the cropping of his farm, is working in the wrong direction.

Taking the year as a whole, other industries in Canada show a satisfactory balance. The year has been particularly prosperous for the building trade. The latter part of the year, however, has been characterized by dullness, which is being more and more attributed to the tying up of all the loose capital in the country in lands, particularly in Western Canada. The demands of productive industries for capital in this country are too great to allow of capital being diverted to land speculation without a serious retarding of our growth.

WHEAT

Reports from the winter wheat belt are most favorable, the entire belt being covered with snow. The market shows a steady demand all around, particularly for local consumption. The statistical position in Canada, however, is strong, a large percentage of the crop having been shipped early in the season. Quotations are a trifle stronger than last week, and substantially the same as a year ago. No. 1 Northern, 93½c; No. 2, 91½c; Ontario No. 2, 84c to 86c outside; 90c to 91c here.

COARSE GRAINS

The holiday spirit seems to possess the coarse grain market and trade has been below normal for the past week. There have been few price changes. Quotations are as follows: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 41c; No. 3, 37½c; Ontario No. 2, 36c to 37c outside; 39½c to 40c here; corn, 71c to 76c; peas, 91 to $1.05; barley, malting, 55c to 56c; 47c, 46c to 46c; buckwheat, 65c to 66c. Montreal dealers quote as follows: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 41½c to 42c; No. 3, 40½c to 40¾c; No. 1 feed, 40¾c; corn, 73c to 74c; barley, malting, 46c to 46c; feed, 45c; buckwheat, 65c; rye, 70c to 72c; feed wheat, 75c to 80c; peas, $1.75 to $1.80.

MILL FEEDS

Supplies of bran are short and quotations have ruled firm at recent levels. Toronto prices are: Bran, $22; shorts, $23.50 to $25; middlings, $29 to $30. Montreal dealers ask for bran, $23 to $24; shorts, $25 to $26; middlings, $28 to $29.

HAY AND STRAW

Reports to both the United Kingdom and the United States have been practically all during the past week. A strong demand, however, has developed from outside Canadian points. Many parts of Ontario are calling for hay, and Quebec province has been shipping heavily to the Maritime Provinces. Wholesale dealers here quote: No. 1 hay, $14.50 to $15; No. 2, $11 to $14; No. 3, $9 to $9; baled straw, $8. At Montreal quotations are: No. 1 hay, $16 to $16.50; No. 2, $15 to $15.50; No. 3, $10.50 to $11.

EGGS AND POULTRY

Hens are laying freely in the country and supplies of new-laid eggs are liberal. Consequently the price is a shade easier. Cold storage eggs, on which most people still depend, are on the upward march. Wholesale quotations are: New laids, 40c to 45c; storage, selects, 30c to 32c; country selects, 27c to 28c; storage, 25c to 26c. At Montreal the market is stronger, with fresh fall stock at 45c; No. 1 stock, 34c; selects, 38c and new laids, 50c.

Quotations on poultry are: Dressed fowl, 12c to 14c; alive, 12c to 11c; spring chickens, 15c to 20c; alive, 11c to 14c; geese, dressed, 15c to 18c; alive, 10c to 11c; turkeys, 17c to 23c and 14c to 17c.

POTATOES AND BEANS

A strict embargo has now been imposed by the United States on Canadian potatoes, until such time as we can prove that there are no potato diseases in this country. This will make permanent the recent decline of 10c in Canadian prices. Ontario and New Brunswick potatoes are both quoted here at $1 to $1.05 a bag out of store and 85c to 95c in car lots. At Montreal Green Mountains continue easy at 85c a bag; Quebec potatoes, 80c. It is noticeable that the trade prefers Green Mountains at the higher price.

Prime beans are quoted at Toronto, $3.10 to $3.20 a bus.; hand-picked, $2.90 to $3.00. Three-pound pickers are bought in Montreal for $1.90 and hand-picked at $2.

DAIRY PRODUCE

The standard complaint regarding dairy butter at this time of year is its stable odor as well as its greasiness. This year is no exception. Farmers receive better returns for their butter when it is made at the creamery, when the dealers can depend on a well-made and uniform product. Prices continue steady in a moderately active market. Wholesale dealers are quoting farmers' separator prints at 24c to 25c and ordinary prints at 23c to 24c; fresh creamery prints, 30c to 31c; fresh solids, 28c to 29c; storage, 26 to 27 lower. Cheese quotations are: New large, 14½c; twins, 15c; old large, 13c to 13½c; twins, 13½c to 13¾c.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Saturday, January 3.—The market for live hogs has remained steady and unchanged throughout the week, and prices current are the same as those of last week, selected lots being quoted at $8.25 to $8.35 a cwt. The market for dressed hogs is also steady, but without change in values, sales being made at $11.75 to $14 a cwt. Supplies are light.

MONTREAL BUTTER AND CHEESE MARKETS

Montreal, Saturday, January 3.—The principal item of interest in the cheese trade this week was the publication of the stocks in store in Montreal and the principal markets in Great Britain, and below is shown a statement giving the quantities in store as compared with a month ago and the same date a year ago:

	Jan. 2, 1914.	Nov. 29, 1913.	Jan. 2, 1913.
Montreal	38,256	67,767	38,549

English Stocks of Cheese

The following table shows the stocks of Canadian cheese in the principal English markets on the dates mentioned:

	Jan. 2, 1914.	Dec. 31, 1913.	Jan. 2, 1913.
Liverpool	33,100	58,100	55,600
London	159,000	200,000	125,000
Bristol	33,000	107,000	120,000
Total	225,100	365,100	300,600

The figures show a very small quantity of Canadian cheese available this year, and the small stock is due to the fact that there has been an exceptional demand for Canadians during the last few weeks on account of the small arrivals of cheese from New Zealand the strike of the dock laborers in New Zealand having interfered with the shipment of cheese from there to Great Britain. The strike is now declared to be over and the cheese are beginning to go forward in larger quantities, but will not reach England for four or five weeks, and it is very likely that the markets in England at the end of this month will be almost entirely cleared of stock, and the 60 to 70,000 boxes, or 15,000 more than for 1913.

The note circulation increased from $4,760,000 to $5,320,000, while total deposits made a gain of nearly $9,000,000, and now stand as $64,000,000. The bullion, Dominion notes and other quickly available assets also show large gains over the figures for the previous year, and amount to over 34 per cent of the liabilities, while current loans and discounts have gained nearly $1,000,000, and now stand at $43,000,000. Total assets have gained from $60,000,000 to $68,000,000. The report bears evidence that careful and conservative management characterized the bank during the year, and the showing made will prove gratifying alike to shareholders and management.

Sympathetic Teeth.

An Irishman, with one side of his face badly swollen, stepped into Dr. Hurken's office and inquired if the dentist was in.

"I am the dentist," said the doctor.

"Well, then, I want to know if you can tell me what's the matter with this tooth."

The doctor examined the offending molar and exclaimed, "The nerve is dead; that's what is the matter."

"Then, be the powers!" exclaimed the Irishman, "the other teeth must be holding a wake over it."

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active, and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

LAUGHING PROHIBITED.

German Colonel Said He Would Stop It With Volley.

STRASSBURG, Germany, Jan. 8.—The readiness of Col. Von Reuter of the 99th Infantry Regiment to reply to the laughter of the citizens of Zabern with a raking fire from his machine guns was demonstrated in the testimony given yesterday before the court-martial sitting to try him and Lieut. Schad, a junior officer of his regiment, on charges of illegal assumption of authority.

District Commissioner Mueller of Zabern swore that when Col. Von Reuter was requested to withdraw the military patrols from the streets of the town, as they were merely irritating the populace, he curtly refused even to discuss the subject.

The colonel was then reminded that the civilians were merely standing about, to which he responded:

"I intend to prevent this standing about at any cost. I do not intend to let the people laugh in this way. If it continues I shall order the troops to shoot."

WILL NOT FIGHT ROUX.

But He Will Fight Quinton Declares Jules Vedrines.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—A duel is in prospect between Jules Vedrines, the aviator, and Rene Quinton, president of the French Aerial League. M. Quinton said last night: "I am awaiting M. Vedrines' seconds."

According to the announcement made Tuesday Vedrines, who recently made a flight from Paris to Cairo, was ordered by M. Quinton to give satisfaction immediately to Henry Roux, his rival, who had made a similar flight, and who challenged Vedrines to a duel after Vedrines had struck him in the face.

A telegram was received by M. Quinton from Vedrines yesterday reading as follows:

"I will not fight the anti-Frenchman Roux, but will fight you as soon as I return to Paris."

Quinton affirms that he did not send an order to Vedrines to fight or return to Paris. He merely telegraphed a friend at Cairo, asking him to suggest to Vedrines that it would be well to accord the reparation demanded by Roux.

LONDON APPLE COMBINE.

Movement on Foot to Get Justice For Canadian Exporters.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.) The Canadian Press learns that a movement is on foot among those concerned with the sale of Canadian apples in the London market to break down the combine which exists among the London dealers, under which Canadian apples are sold at practically any price the combine chooses to fix.

Arrangements are being made on behalf of the apple shippers of New Brunswick, Ontario and British Columbia to institute an independent sale centre in London solely for Canadian apples.

Investigations are also being made into the allegations that recent consignments of apples have been tampered with wholesale at the port of entry, inferior articles of English growth being mixed in large numbers with Canadian apples.

Wilson's Message on Trusts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—When President Wilson returns to Washington early next week he will find Attorney-General McReynolds prepared to take up in detail all the proposed "trust legislation" which has appeared in the form of bills in Congress during the last nine months.

That President Wilson's special message on the trust question will be delivered very soon after Congress convenes next week is the general belief in official circles.

This Man Has Aspirations.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Al J. Jennings, once a notorious train bandit, announced here yesterday that he will attempt to come back in Oklahoma politics, this time as the Democratic candidate for governor.

"No self-respecting outlaw can associate with the political thieves of my state," said Jennings, adding that he meant the present Democratic leaders. "I'll fight 'em to the finish."

Jennings was nominated in 1913 for county attorney, but was defeated.

Say Thaw No Menace.

CONCORD, N.H., Jan. 8.—The release on bail of Harry K. Thaw would not menace public safety, is the opinion expressed by two of his custodians yesterday at a public hearing before the commission appointed by the Federal Court to pass upon the matter of Thaw' mental condition in its relation to his liberation under bonds.

Department of agriculture officials say cold storage is responsible for the high price of eggs, but the egg sellers insist that it is the fault of the hens. Neither of the explanations is wholly satisfactory to the consumer.

KINGSTON PROBE ENDS.

Next Session of Prison Commission to Be Held In Toronto.

KINGSTON, Jan. 8—The taking of local evidence in the Kingston Penitentiary probe has been concluded, the last of the testimony being secured yesterday afternoon when the commission adjourned to meet in Toronto, Jan. 16, in the Parliament Buildings.

A session is being held at Toronto so that the members of the commission can meet prominent labor men and discuss labor questions at the prison. James Simpson, of Toronto, and Patrick Draper, of Ottawa, have been mentioned as among those who will be called as witnesses.

In addition to securing the evidence of prominent labor men while in Toronto, the commission will meet the members of the parole board of the penitentiary in order to get evidence in regard to the working of the parole system and get views of the members on prison reform.

Counterfeiters Guilty.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — Valentine Phillips and Frederick Sutherland, arrested here Tuesday on a charge of manufacturing and passing counterfeit Canadian fifty-cent pieces, yesterday morning pleaded guilty. They were remanded until Friday for sentence.

Mrs. Sutherland pleaded not guilty. The men said that they came here from Hamilton.

TO ASK REFERENDUM.

Grain Growers Will Deal With Naval Question at Convention.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 8. — The eleventh annual grain growers' convention convened here yesterday. The morning session handled the president's and secretary's report. Inter-municipal hail insurance raised the most discussion. The Saskatchewan Act was criticised, and officials were proposed to the projected Manitoba bill which will come before the present session of Parliament.

Among the more important resolutions to come up are: "Whereas, the policy of the political parties favors the spending of millions of the peoples' money on a navy; resolved, that in the opinion of this convention, before this expenditure is authorized by Parliament it should be submitted to the people through a referendum.

"That in the opinion of this association the money that is asked to build naval vessels might better be applied to the establishing of a merchant fleet, to give relief to the Canadian people from the extortion of the steamship combine."

Hudson Bay Railway, tax exemptions to manufacturers and electoral corruption will also come up.

Oysters haven't joined the food trust. Still, it's hard lines having to pay your way on a slow pearl hunt.

Receipts were light, 135 all told, and prices were as strong as ever. Choice veals, $10 to $11; good, $9 to $10; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common, $6 to $7; eastern rough quality calves, $5 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $5.50 to $6.25; culls and rams, $3.75 to $4.50; lambs, $8.75 to $9; extra choice quality light lambs, $9.25. There are too many heavy lambs being offered.

Hogs.

Selects fed and watered sold at $9 to $9.10.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—At the C. P. R. live stock market, offerings for sale this morning consisted of 400 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 925 hogs and 100 calves.

The trade in cattle today was more active, there being a better demand from both butchers and packers for supplies, which were small, and the feeling was firm. Best steers sold at $8, and the lower grades from that price down to $6 per cwt. Butchers' cows brought from $4 to $7, and bulls from $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and lambs were weaker, and prices declined 50c to $1 per 100 pounds, owing to the fact that the demand was limited, as butchers in most cases have ample supplies of frozen stock on hand to supply their wants. Sales were slow lambs at $8 to $8.50, and sheep at $4.50 to $5 per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for hogs was strong, under a good demand and small offerings, and sales of selected lots were made at $9.75 to $10 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Demand for calves was fair at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Cattle—Receipts, 19,000; market, steady; beeves, $6.70 to $9.40; Texas steers, $6.90 to $8; stockers and feeders, $5 to $7.65; cows and heifers $3.50 to $8.40; calves, $7.50 to $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 44,000; market, mostly 10c lower; light, $7.90 to $8.05; mixed $7.85 to $8.15; heavy, $7.65 to $8.20; rough $7.85 to $7.95; pigs, $6.75 to $7.90; bulk of sales, $8 to $8.20.

Sheep — Receipts, 27,000; market strong; native, $4.90 to $6.25; yearlings $6 to $7.10; lambs, native, $6.85 to $8.30.

Death of Dr. J. D. Balfour.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Dr. J. D. Balfour, one of London's best known doctors, died at six o'clock yesterday morning of pneumonia. Exposure to Saturday night's storm is thought to have brought on his illness. He was 57 years of age, and had practiced here for many years. He was former superintendent of Victoria Hospital, and a lecturer at Western University, where he received his medical education. He leaves a wife and family of four two of them grown up.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Pills Act on Liver and Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Syrian Cook Accused of Killing Syrian—Body Is Found.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 8.—Charles Asaff, a Syrian peddler, was murdered and his body buried within a few hundred yards of the house in which he lodged at Sheet Harbor on the night of Dec. 9.

The body was found last night. There was an ugly gash in the head and the body was otherwise badly battered. A searching party found the body and an inquest was held before the coroner at Sheet Harbor, the jury returning a verdict that the deceased came to his death from an axe wound, caused by a person or persons unknown. The body is being brought to Halifax and an autopsy will be held here.

Detective Hanrahan and Chief County Constable Umlah are on the way to Halifax with Edward Cook in custody. On arrival here he will be charged by the crown prosecuter with the murder of Asaff.

Drastic License Changes.

QUEBEC, Jan. 8.—Drastic amendments to the license law were urged by a large temperance delegation, which was received in private by the Prime Minister yesterday morning. Sir Lomer Gouin, in replying to the delegation, made it clear that the licensing bill, as was forecasted some weeks ago, will provide for the reduction of hotel and restaurant licenses in Montreal to 350 (as was recommended by the commission on licensing). The present number of hotel and restaurant licenses in Montreal is 473.

Parcel Post Soon.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. — Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, will return to Ottawa at noon to-day. It is understood that the negotiations between the Department and the railway companies are nearly completed, and an announcement is looked for at a very early date, first as to the price to be paid the railways for carrying the mails with the new parcel post in operation, and, second, as to the parcel post rates themselves.

Not Son of Andrew Watson.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 8.—Andrew Watson, the livery stable man, says that Roy Watson, who suicided in Toronto on Monday, cannot be his son. He has a son named Roy, but he is traveling for a local drygoods firm in New Brunswick, and the father was in touch with him on Tuesday.

Favors Power Plant.

QUEBEC, Jan. 8.—The Provincial Waterways Commission, of which the Hon. S. N. Parent is president, has completed its report, which is now before the Government.

While no particulars have been given out as to the recommendations the report embodies, it is understood that the commission, supported by expert engineers, favors the harnessing of the St. Maurice river in the vicinity of La Tuque by the building of a dam, which will make possible the development of 500,000 horsepower for industrial purposes.

BREAKS A BAD COLD IN A JIFFY! TRY IT

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends cold and grippe in a few hours—Don't stay stuffed-up!

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1914

INFANT MORTALITY IS HIGH IN PETERBOROUGH

Sanitary Inspector Spence Points Out Need For Greater Care of Children — So-called Mild Diseases May Be Anything But Mild —Homes Need More Light.

ADDRESS TO CITY'S NURSES

Mr. Claude A. G. Spence, Sanitary Inspector, gave an interesting address on Wednesday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Chapter of the Graduate Nurses' Association. Miss Bertha Mowry presided and a large representation of the members listened to a frank and comprehensive treatment on the subject of the administration of public health in this city.

A summary of Mr. Spence's remarks is given as follows:

The efforts of the public health administration are not limited merely to the prevention of death or even of disease, but embrace the promotion of health, and to secure those conditions of the health of a community that shall enable it to display the utmost activity of its physical and intellectual energies. It is the duty of the state and of local authorities to concert the public measures requisite in order to obtain these desiderata and to enforce them by statute and municipal law for the protection of the community. These measures are embraced as a whole in the modern term "sanitation."

"Life is not to live but to be well," said Martial, who lived in the first century, when Rome was in the full enjoyment of her aqueducts, baths, gymnasia, public lavatories, pavements, scavenging system, and sanitary laws, and it is a question whether Peterborough would compare favourably as regards sanitation with the Rome of twenty centuries ago.

It is said that most of the diseases prevalent among mankind are preventable, and the question naturally arises in our minds, "if preventable, why not prevented?" In reply it may be said that apathy and ignorance on the part of the public are mainly responsible, and until the people wake up to the fact that without their assistance our efforts to stamp out contagion will not avail much, little advance can be made.

Peterborough Lowest Death Rate.

Like the health of the individual, the health of the community is mainly measured by negative results, the minimum mortality and morbidity, that is, the fewer deaths and the fewer sufferers from disease per annum of the population, sex, age, and other factors being equal, the healthier the community. And, if we take this view we may well congratulate ourselves on the fact that Peterborough for the past year shows the lowest death rate of any of the cities of Ontario. But the infant death rate is a more reliable standard, and of this I shall have more to say later on. To revert to the former statement of Peterborough's position in the annual death rate, it would be interesting to compute what it costs us in cold cash for this honour. Of course you need not take the following figures seriously, but they will set us thinking, nevertheless.

Some Interesting Figures.

There are, I believe, somewhere about 28 doctors and 8 druggists in the City, and putting their average annual income at the very moderate figure of $9,000, this gives us a sum of $72,000. There are also about 30 nurses, whose earnings must be considered, which, with other expenditures, one cannot detail on the spur of the moment, added to the aforementioned sum, would probably give us a total amount of $100,000. Taking the population at 20,000, this means that we are spending about five dollars per head per annum. That is the price we are paying for the record to which we point with so much pride. This might be termed the voluntary subscription to the goddess of health, while the compulsory subscription to fight this, in the shape of the Sanitary Inspector's salary, comes to about three cents per head per annum.

Infant Mortality.

It has been truly said that one of the best tests of the sanitary state of a district is its infant death rate, first, because the statistics being calculated upon the births, are not dependent upon what may be a mistaken estimate of the population, and secondly, because infants are, as a rule, more susceptible to diseases that specially arise from insanitary surroundings. I wish I could give reliable statistics from this standpoint, because whenever I read an obituary notice, especially of a child, I feel a personal interest—I was almost going to say, responsibility—in the sad intelligence.

There were, I think, about 280 deaths altogether, during the past year, in this City. Of this number 94, or nearly 30 per cent., were children five years old, or under, and of these eighty-four, 33, or nearly 40 per cent. were stillborn, or died at birth. I do not know how this compares with other cities, but it seems an appalling number of little lives needlessly nipped in the bud—a veritable slaughter of the innocents.

BIG INCREASE IN CURRENT EXPENDITURES

Is Noted in the School Board Estimates-Summary of Tuesday Night's Meeting

FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

Chief among the items of business transacted at the final meeting of the Board of Education on Tuesday evening was the submission of the estimated expenditures for the year 1914. The estimates call for the payment of $87,560, an increase of $8,000 over last year's estimate for current expenses. The increased expenditure is attributed to the following five provisions:

1.—Industrial night schools.
2.—Medical supervisor for schools.
3.—Increased number of children attending school.
4.—Extra teachers in new schools, and yearly increase in salary of teachers as provided by schedule.
5.—Fuel for new schools.

More Ventilation Wanted.

The matter of installing a motor and fan with which to improve the alleged bad ventilation at the Collegiate Institute was referred to the Property Committee. This Committee will also consider the possibility of equipping the King Edward School with fire-escapes.

Re-invested.

2,000 which came to the Board from the money invested in City debentures, which expired at the end of last year, was re-invested in City debentures at par at 5 p. c. This is the money for the maintenance of the Nicholls scholarship.

Contractor W. J. Johnston's request for $300 more than the contract for the construction of the East City School calls for, was received and no action taken.

Mr. Ritchie was re-appointed to the Library Board for a term of three years.

Accounts to the amount of $1,129.72 were submitted to the Finance Committee.

Monies received, $6,744.01.

The Finance Committee reported expenditures amount to $1,658.24. The committee also recommended that the Treasurer be paid the sum of fifteen dollars for petty cash.

The payment of accounts amounting to $5,050.49 were confirmed.

The Committee on Appointments recommended that Miss Euna Kennedy be appointed on the Public Schol staff as health supervisor at an initial salary of $650, with an annual increase of $50 to a maximum of $800, first increase to date from 1st of September next.

Miss Kennedy will take a preliminary training course in the Hamilton Public Schools.

The report of the Industrial Night Schools, for which an appropriation of $1,000 was provided by the Board of Education, was $858.01. Of this over $600 was for salaries. Fifty per cent. of the total cost of equipping the schools comes from the Government.

HAND LACERATED IN ACCIDENT

Employee of Quaker Oats Company Injured Tuesday

On Tuesday, Mr. Harran, an employee of the Quaker Oats Company, had his hand lacerated in an accident. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the City ambulance, where his injuries were attended to by Dr. McNulty.

Yesterday he was able to leave the Hospital, but he will be unable to return to his regular work for some time.

To-day another employee met with a minor accident, but it is not expected that he will be incapacitated for more than a day or two.

GREAT VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL

A new programme of four new vaudeville acts and new pictures will open at the Royal Theatre to-day and continue for the balance of the week. The introduction of a big bill of vaudeville at the Royal has been received with great pleasure by the patrons, and the four acts put on for the first part of the week were enthusiastically applauded. It is said that the bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is even better.

The Water Famine in Montreal—For over a week now a general water famine has prevailed in Montreal as the result of a break in the water intake main. Several serious fires have been prevented only by the use of snow. In the picture is shown water carriers vending the precious fluid in restricted quantities to the residents of Montreal.

TWO CHILDREN TAKE STRYCHNINE

Little Ones Swallow Poisonous Tablets and for a While Their Lives Were Despaired Of.

LITTLE GIRL VERY ILL

Two small children of Mr. Thos. Darrah, Lisburn Street, narrowly escaped death by poisoning yesterday. Their lives were saved, however, by prompt medical attendance, and it is hoped that both will ultimately recover.

Yesterday, while playing in their home, the little five-year-old girl and three-year-old boy got beyond the watchful eye of their mother and went rumaging in anold trunk that is kept in the back of the house. In it they discovered a number of strychnine tablets, and proceed to devour them. When it was too late to prevent it, Mrs. Darrah realized what danger her children were in, they having told her of taking the tablets. Dr. Eastwood was summoned and the two children taken to Nicholls Hospital. There the son's sickness yielded to medical treatment, but yesterday evening it was feared the little girl might succumb to the poison. This morning, however, hopes were held for her recovery.

The tablets that were swallowed by the children had been kept in the trunk for eight years. They are intended to be taken by adults one at a time, and it was only skillful medical attendance that saved the two children from succumbing to the over dose of poison.

THE PRIZE POULTRY SHOW HERE

The feature of the average poultry show is the prize-giving to the competing birds. But the sixth annual exhibition of the Peterborough Poultry Association is worthy of a prize in itself. It is beyond all odds the best ever held in this district, and one of the biggest and best in the province. There has been also a record attendance of the public to see a record collection of birds of general great excellence of variety that have well repaid the visitors.

The exhibition is a credit to Peterborough and the local promoters. The entries are 1,300 in number, 250 ahead of last year, and the veteran poultry exhibitor, Mr. Wales, of Milton, who has been showing for 25 years, says he is leaving this show with less money in prizes than ever before, not because his birds are poorer, but he has met stiffer competition than ever before.

The exhibits are something to cackle over, and there are several novelties for poultry men. Mr. S. S. Spence of Lakefield, shows a new variety, the Sicilian Buttercups. They are different entirely; claimed to be everyday layers, of beautiful plumage, easily fed and of good table quality, the cocks weighing six, to [illegible] pounds. Blue Orpingtons, shown by Charles Ansell, Port Hope, are different only in the colour of plumage. These are imported birds, and a coop of four cost the owner $200. Mr. Wales of Milton, shows a black bantam cock for which he refused $50 to-day. The mother of this bird was sold for $200 in Madison Square Gardens, New York, in 1912. In addition there is a noisy collection of over a hundred dozen beautiful birds of all kinds, well worthy of the inspection and admiration of lovers of poultry. A visit to the exhibition will be well repaid. It closes to-night.

DEATH.

DILLON—On Tuesday, January 6th, 1913, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Sarah Cadigan, wife of James P. Dillon.

Funeral will leave the family residence, corner Mark and Sophia streets, East City, Friday morning at 9 o'clock and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY IS VERY WEAK

At 1:45 This Afternoon He Had Shown No Improvement Although He is Resting Well.

THE LATEST REPORTS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 8.—(1.45.)—Sir James continues very weak.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The uncertainty as to the outcome of the fight which Sir James Whitney is making for life increases instead of diminishing. For four days he has been in a critical condition, so weak that a sudden bad attack would snuff out the thin flame of life in a few seconds. Just now he is resting quiescent, but very weak. The two doctors made a most thorough examination of the patient this morning and had a long consultation before issuing their bulletin. Strychnine and digitalis have been administered right along in an endeavour to keep the aged and worn muscles working strongly and steadily enough. In the meantime the Premier is resting quietly. Last night he got several hours of undisturbed sleep. To-day he took his breakfast of toast and milk, and his luncheon of toast and broth with a hearty appetite. He seemed to relish the food very much. He has not talked much during the past twenty-four hours. He has not said much about public affairs since Tuesday. Most of the time he lies half dozing. Those attending on the Premier are bearing up under the strain well. Lady Whitney came down to the hotel dining room for breakfast to-day. She looked a little pale, but walked erectly and briskly. Dr. Pyne is suffering to some extent from lack of rest and from constant anxiety, but is far from exhausted. Everything possible has been done. It only remains to be seen whether enough natural strength remains in the veteran warrior to enable him to rally.

REV. F. J. O'SULLIVAN

First Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's T.A.S. His duties in Port Hope will prevent his attending Friday Night's concert.

British Films At The Red Mill

Manager Clayton Shows Sixty-five Reels a Week at His Three Theatres

Manager Clayton has made arrangements by which, commencing tomorrow, the Red Mill will be devoted entirely to British motion pictures. Mr. Clayton feels that owing to the number of English people in Peterborough, they should be recognised, and he has been successful in making arrangements for a British film service. Three and four-reel feature films will be shown, and the programme will be changed daily.

An indication of the manner in which Mr. Clayton is looking after the interests of his patrons is given by the fact that each week he secures sixty-five reels of film for his three local shows. The Mutual service, the best of the independent films, is being shown at the Princess Theatre, the admission price of which is 5c. At the Royal the cream of the licensed films are shown, the Vitagraph, Biograph, Selig, Essanay, Kalem, Edison, Pathe Freres, etc., features being included in the programme.

A LITTLE CHILD SHALL FIND 'EM

There is no irreverence in adapting Scripture to a good cause like that of showing the finding power of Examiner "Want Ads." Yesterday evening a young lady inserted an advertisement in The Examiner, recording the loss of a pearl wish-bone pin. This morning Master Jack McClelland, 494 Gilmour street, brought the missing pin to The Examiner Office and it is now in the owner's hands, thanks to the sharp eyes and honest impulses of the little five-year-old—plus the want ad. This proves the benefit of two things—a bright-eyed boy, and a want ad. in The Examiner.

MAYOR BULLER WILL PRESENT THE PRIZES

His Worship Mayor Buller will make he presentations of the special prizes won at the Poultry Show this evening in the Market Hall, at 8 o'clock. There promises to be a big attendance for the closing night of the big show.

NO EMBARGO ON U. S. "SPUDS"

Special Wire to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—The report that it is the intention of the government to place an embargo upon U. S. potatoes in retaliation for the action of the United States' authority for declining to allow Canadian potatoes to go into that country, is denied in official circles.

RECORD PRICES FOR CATTLE

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 8.—Frank Simmons, of Montreal, is scouring this part of Ontario for cattle to be delivered in May, and is offering record prices. The counties about here are being stripped of their finest young steers and heifers.

MILK MUST BE PASTEURIZED

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Chief Medical Officer Hastings has laid down a radical rule that all milk sold in Toronto after May 1st, 1914, must be pasteurized. Any dealer not complying will lose his license and anybody delivering milk not pasteurized will be prosecuted, fined or jailed.

1,102 NEW BOOKS IN LOCAL LIBRARY

Interesting Figures Given in Librarian's Report at the Annual Meeting of the Library Board Last Night.

YEAR'S GOOD SHOWING

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Public Library Board was held in the board room of the Library on Wednesday evening. Those present were: Messrs. W. G. Morrow (chairman), E. H. D. Hall, A. Mowat, F. Sollitt, H. R. H. Keaner and H. Ritchie.

A report was read from Mr. T. A. S. Hay, Curator of Museum, on the progress and use of the museum during the past year, also pointing out the necessity that more room be allotted for exhibits. Mr. Hay's report was received and will be dealt with by the new Board.

The Librarian's Report.

The report of the librarian, Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, was also received. The report is as follows:

Report of the Librarian.

Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, Librarian, presented the following report:

The Chairman Public Library Board.

Dear Sir,—I beg herewith to present my report on the work accomplished in the Library during the past year.

It has been a satisfactory year in many ways, as there has been a steady influx of visitors throughout the whole period and interest taken in the Library and the museum by our own citizens as well as strangers to the City has been very gratifying.

There has been a falling off in the reading of fiction, but in this we are experiencing the same state of affairs as exists in other libraries, the trend of the present day reading pointing markedly to sociological works, as well as books dealing with history or travel. Our readers are not behindhand in this respect, as will be seen from the fact that whereas in 1912 the total amount of sociological reading was 458 volumes, in 1913, it had increased to 750. There has also been a great increase in the circulation of magazines and periodicals, as will be seen by the tabulated statement given below:

Fiction	44,988
Biography	539
Philosophy	170
Religion	266
Sociology	750
Natural Science	577
Useful Arts	459
Fine Arts	288
Literature	966
Travel	763
History	751
Magazines	730
	51,239

Last year there were no figures available for magazines, but there is no doubt that during the past year there was a far greater run on this branch of reading than in former years.

Reading and Reference Rooms.

The Reading Rooms and the Reference room have been better patronized than in the preceding year, as also has the Boys' Department which gives every promise of becoming a very important factor in the Library as soon as arrangements can be made for increasing the accommodation.

Donations of Books.

Through the kind offices of Mr. Burnham the Library is now in possession of as complete a set of the Patent Office Records as it is possible for us to procure. The Department of Education at Washington also has added this Library to its mailing list and during the past year we have been in receipt of some very valuable educational literature from this source.

We have been in receipt of a few books from individual friends of the Library and also of two pictures from Mr. F. H. Dobbin for our Men's Reading Room. These now hang on the walls and form a very welcome addition to the decorations.

Books Added to the Library.

During the year 1102 volumes were added to the shelves, the different departments, being represented as follows:

Adult Fiction	635
Juvenile literature	197
Reference works	18
Religion	8
Sociology	55
Biography	34
Useful arts	91
Natural science	89
Literature	64
Travel and description	47
Fine arts	29
History	49
	1102

Tickets Issued.

673 tickets were issued to new members and of these about ninety were juveniles. The total number of tickets issued since the Library was opened to the public amounts to 3908.

Fines, Etc.

The amount received in fines was about fifteen dollars less than in the

TWO YEARS' COURSE IN RELIGION

It is Proposed to Make the Subject one of the Tests at the Entrance Examinations

INSTRUCTIONS AT HOME

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The Ontario Department of Education has under consideration a two years' course of the most suitable parts of the old and new Testaments, with selected passages for memorization, as a beginning. The subject is to be one at the High School entrance examination, a paper being set on the prescribed course. This suggestion is now being passed upon and placed before the clergymen of the different Protestant denominations in a long circular which has been sent out by Dr. Jno. Seath, Superintendent of Education in Ontario. The circular fully sets forth the scheme in religious instruction and in morality for the primary schools of the Province. The essential part of the scheme is that no instruction in the course shall be given by the teacher as part of the school course of study. The instructions is to be given at home and particularly in the Sunday School. Dr. Seath thinks that this examination would be tried by a large proportion of those writing on the Entrance test.

Conditions Are Very Bad At Regina

Special Wire to The Examiner.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 8.—So many workless men are around the streets and the feeling among them is so desperate that the local police have asked the assistance of Northwest Mounted Police to preserve order and protect property. A man named Jerry Miner, who has assumed the leadership of the unemployed has issued a proclamation that the gang will do terrible damage if not provided with work by Friday night. All women and children without escorts have been warned to keep off the streets after nightfall.

Summer Sports In The West

Special Wire to The Examiner.

WINNIPEG, MAN., Jan. 8.—Mild weather still prevails all over the Western provinces, with ploughing in some parts. Skating and hockey have given way to summer sports, such as baseball, soccer and harness racing.

BURNS' "PAL" IS LOCATED

The police have located the man who accompanied John Burns on his despicable New Year's Eve escapade, involving an assault on an East City girl. They are in a position to have him appear in Court any time now, if they find it advisable to lay a charge against him. In all probability, however, there will be no charge laid against Burns' "pal," as his part in the episode which landed Burns in Police Court, where he had to face a serious charge, was a minor one. Burns will come up for trial to-morrow morning.

ANNIVERSARY OF HIS PASTORATE

Next Sunday is the seventh anniversary of the settlement of Rev. J. R. Webb as pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church. Last Sunday he announced that unknown to him arrangements had been made to bring to the city as the preacher of the anniversary sermon, Rev. Thos. B. Brown, of Edmonton. It appears that Rev. Mr. Brown, who is a preacher of unique gifts, was most closely associated with Mr. Webb during his pastorate in the City of Montreal, and that knowing this the people of Murray Street Church completed their plans and surprised their pastor on New Year's Day by laying before him the telegram of Mr. Brown accepting the invitation.

Those who heard this distinguished preacher on the one other occasion, when he visited our city, will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him next Sunday morning

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

THURSDAY, JAN. 8, 1914

ORNAMENTAL, ANYWAY.

Hon. George E. Foster, nominal Minister of Trade and Commerce, is the greatest globe trotter of history. He has been in office three years nearly, and has, to us an Irishism, been more out of office than in it. He has been circumambulating the globe in pretended search of trade. He is supposed to be a member of the cabinet, but his attendance at cabinet councils has been more honoured in the breach than the observance. If the Honourable Mr. Foster were compelled to punch a time clock, installed in the Dominion Cabinet Council chamber, and was paid accordingly, he would draw very little salary from the public chest. As Minister of Trade and Commerce, his salary is $7,000. This, plus his sessional indemnity of $2,500, makes his total salary $9,500. We don't say that this is too much, in the abstract, but it seems to be too much for a cabinet minister who is no cabinet minister, who does not sit often enough about the Council Board to keep the dust off his seat. It is safe to say that Hon. Mr. Foster's travelling expenses and state in his globe trotting, will easily amount to more than his salary. And what use is it? He doesn't seem to get much trade. He seems to be an ornamental, movable feature of the cabinet, whose room is regarded by his fellow cabinet ministers as better than his company. The moment a session approaches, Mr. Foster is bundled off. He is now in London, England, and it appears that somebody has been civil enough to 'put him up' as a visitor at a couple of London clubs. This is nothing extraordinary. It is an exhibition of courtesy to "colonials" that Englishmen are considerably addicted to. But Mr. Foster and his friends seem to regard it as something remarkable, and use it as a means of emphasizing the purely ornamental charaiter of Mr. Foster's cabinet relations. It has been recorded in a special cablegram to the Canadian Conservative press. There is no objection to this. If Mr. Foster won't be useful he might be ornamental, anyway.

CUI BONO?

Cui bono? Every High School boy will tell us that "cui bono" is the Latin, freely translated, of "What's the use?" This is suggested by the splendid show of the Peterborough Poultry Association; and this suggests the incident of the farmer's wife who was glorifying the virtues of her pet cow —"she's the best little cow in Canada, but she doesn't give much milk." We have in Peterborough the very best poultry show ever held in the Midland district and one of the best ever held in Ontario—thirteen hundred birds, all of prize winning calibre. The competition is so keen that the judges in their struggle to award prizes to the best birds are flat with nervous prostration. But cui bono? We have these spleidid birds gathered from all parts of Ontario, from Quebec to London, and still the egg famine is upon us. It's either cold storage eggs, worthy of the veneration given old age, or other more juvenile eggs at siege prices. What we want to know is, why, with the highest quality of hens, throughout the province, on the prize-winning lay, there are so few on the egg lay? Why, with high-bred, blue blood fowls as plentiful as sparrows, are eggs as scarce as hen's teeth?

The inquiry might be carried still further. We have seen Ontario sweep the prize lists in competition with the continent, and yet we have to break our molars on bull beef at famine figures and, look upon mutton chop as dear as a slice off a web of cloth of gold. We have prize-winning pigs that down a continent, yet we pay more for bacon than the households of Liverpool and Manchester. We grow per year two hundred million bushels of the best wheat ripened by the sun of Heaven. We have the cheapest motive power for the best flour mills in the world, grinding our own wheat right alongside the harvest fields. Yet the Cockney of London, the coster-monger and the Queen get Canadian flour cheaper than we do. Now, in all seriousness, why are these contrasting conditions in such outlandish conjunction? Why do we have the best productive material and means, and have so little production that we have to import eggs, butter and beef from little seven-by-nine New Zealand fifteen thousand miles away? Will Mr. Duff, our stop-gap Minister of Agriculture tell us? Will Mr. Martin Burrell, our ornamental Minister of Agriculture explain?

PRINT ASSESSMENT ROLL?

There is a demand in certain quarters for the printing and publication of the assessment roll, so that it may be easily accessible to everybody. Whatever other justification there is for this demand there is justification on the ground that the ratepayers are entitled to the fullest measure of information that will enlighten them as to the way in which civic affairs are managed.

Of course there will be the objection that it costs money to do it. But the ratepayers have to furnish the means out of the taxes they pay, and the average ratepayer will be willing to pay taxs for the printing of the assessment roll, if in this way he can be assured of not helping to pay his neighbour's taxes through inequality of assessment. This inequality can be best revealed by publication of the assessment roll.

Of course it will be argued that the assessment roll is accessible at the City Hall to every ratepayer. But how many ratpayers can, or will spare the time to worry through a formidable volume for some particular assessment? If the roll were printed he could consult it at home in his leisure moments after the day's work was done and would be able to compare his own assessment with that of the owners of other properties well known to him. If he finds a grievance, if he perceives that in the assessment an injustice has been done him, either wittingly or unwittingly, he has leisure to think the matter over, and take such action as the circumstances call for.

And here is where some such a body as a Ratepayers' Association can come into good play. Every citizen is disinclined to play the informer—to complain that his neighbour's assessment is too low compared with his own. If he could report his case to a Ratepayers' Association the matter could be dealt with in a quasi official way; this quasi official body would have more weight than individual action, both on account of its organized and representative character and its freedom from a charge of personal pique or jealousy.

No one will deny the desirability of the ratepayers, as a body, taking more interest in the management of municipal matters. No one will deny the desirability of the general body of the electors being informed in the fullest possible way of the progress of municipal management. We must have some means of keeping awake the interest of ratepayers—electors—from one municipal election to the other—an interest which is generally dormant ten or eleven months in the year, and only awake a few days at election times.

The newspapers publish full reports of council, school board, and other meetings, and however excellent this may be, they are read very often very carelessly and often speedily forgotten.

The Examiner proposes to try to stimulate public interest in these reports, and keep the ratepayrs better infromed. After, or accompanying every report of the City Council, School Board and other public bodies having to do with the people's business the Examiner will publish a condensed summary, embodying the chief things done—something that may be read at a glance. If these summaries—these birds-eye views of our civic business—are cut out and preserved in a scrap book or otherwise, and consulted at intervals, throughout the year the ratepayers will not only be kept in touch with current civic movements, but be given a new interest in the management of their civic business, and at the end of the year they will be well primed with knowledge to enable them to enter intelligently into the important work of choosing representatives and effectively calling to account the several public servants who have been managing their affairs.

In this manner, with the Examiner's daily circulation of 4,500, of which 3,400 find their way into the homes of ratepayers, a great deal can be done to excite and maintain public interest in, and give information to the public in regard to, the administration of civic business.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

THE CITY LEAGUE HAD A SPLENDID OPENING

Boston Exploits and Y. M. C. A. Were the Winners in Last Night's Games--Mayor Buller Faced the Puck

Boston Exploits 10, Wanderers 2.
Y.M.C.A. 2, Alerts 1.

These were the scores in the opening game in the Junior City Hockey League, which was successfully launched at the Brock Street rink last night with His Worship Mayor Buller gracing the debut of the new organization by facing the puck and making a neat little speech. Several hundred fans were in attendance and in spite of the soft ice, they saw two good games of hockey with some clever youngsters in action.

The first game between the Boston Exploits and the Wanderers was easy for the former. The Wanderers showed little but classy uniforms. They had far more weight than the Exploits, but they lacked the speed and team work that would have made their weight a valuable asset, and they were beaten all the way. The Exploits turned out a neat little team, with three fast youngsters on the forward line in Butcher, Graham and Rose. Graham, the import from Lakefield, who played rover, is lightning fast, and a fine stick handler. The defence had little chance to show what they could do, as they were rarely pressed. Brotherson and Patterson were the best for the Wanderers.

The Exploits took an early lead, scoring a couple of goals right off the reel, and they had counted four times before Patterson scored for the Wanderers. It was 4 to 1 at half time. Then "Corn Soups" came back with a counter in the first minute and Patterson followed with the Wanderers' second goal on an easy shot. After that it was all Exploits. The teams were:

Exploits—
Goal—Latimer.
Right defence—Phelan.
Rover—Graham.
Centre—Butcher.
R. wing—Rogers.
L. wing—Rose.

Wanderers—
Goal—Clarke.
Right defence—Revoy.
Rover—May.
Centre—Patterson.
R. wing—Stewart.
L. wing—Brotherson.

The scoring summary follows:
1 Exploits—Graham.
2 Exploits—Butcher.
3 Exploits—Graham.
4 Exploits—Butcher.
5 Wanderers—Patterson.
6 Exploits—Butcher.
7 Wanderers—Patterson.
8 Exploits—Regan.
9 Exploits—Rose.
10 Exploits—Butcher.
11—Exploits—Graham.
12 Exploits—Butcher.

Y. WON SECOND GAME.

The second game between the Y.M.C.A. and Alerts was a much better game, the teams being more evenly matched. The Y.M.C.A. won by 2 to 1 after a close, hardchecking battle. Half way home the Triangle men were in front 1 to 0, and they had a shade the better of the going all the way, only the good goal keeping of Legros keeping the score down. The pace was fast from start to finish and although the Y. had many more opportunities to score than their opponents, the Alerts came very near to tying up the game in the dying stage. In fact the losers claimed a goal that would have left the score a tie, and as a result the goal umpire was removed. It was a tight game from start to finish, and both teams look good.

The Y.M.C.A. had a surprisingly good forward line, and on fast ice and with a little more practice, they will take a lot of beating. Knapman at right wing, was the individual star, getting both goals credited to his team. Smyth and Cranfield performed well on the defence.

For the Alerts, Legros in goal was the pick. Lowes showed up well on the forward line. The teams were:

Y.M.C.A.—
Goal—Hamilton.
Right defence—Smyth.
Left defence—Cranfield.
Rover—Stevenson.
Centre—Quinn.
Right wing—Knapman.

Alerts—
Goal—Legros.
Right defence—Davidson.
Left defence—Legendre.
Rover—Bartley.
Centre—Lowes.
Right wing—Galvin.
Left wing—Heath.

Summary—
1 Y.M.C.A.—Knapman.

2—Y.M.C.A.—Knapman.
3 Alerts—Lowes.

PROTEST TO BE LAID AGAINST MIDLAND

Toronto R. & A. A. Claims Armstrong and Drummond Are Ineligible

Manager E. J. Livingstone of Toronto R. and A. A. has given notice of protest of last night's game on the ground that Hobe Armstrong, formerly of Peterborough and Trenton, (who played 15 seconds last night) and Kenneth Drummond of the Midland club, did not qualify under the residence rule.

Armstrong claims to have gone to Midland in July, but T. R. and A. A. say they have evidence to show that he did not arrive until later.

Drummond has lived in Midland for fourteen years, but went to Grand Mere in October for seven weeks on business, he says, for his father, but T. R. and A. A. claim he was working there for another firm.

The T. R. and A. A. does not claim that Armstrong went to Midland for hockey purposes, but that he does not qualify under the rules.

Band at Brock Street Rink (to-night). Good Ice.

THE MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE

Important Meeting Held Yesterday Evening

An important meeting of the Mercantile Hockey League was held last evening, as announced in the "Examiner," at the offices of the "Review" on Hunter Street at 8 o'clock.

All the officers were present and the proceedings throughout were marked with considerable animation. The first business dealt with was the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, which were duly confirmed. The next item on the agenda was the constitution. This document, which has been considerably amplified and the searchlight, so to speak thrown on it, provoked a considerable amount of animation, and was finally accepted and passed, on the motion of Messrs. Cassidy and F. Russell.

Following is the constitution of the Mercantile League:

1. This organization to be known as the Mercantile Hockey League.
2. Executive to consist of President, Secretary Treasurer and a committee of three.
3. The annual meeting to be called prior to December the first, and to be called by the President.
4. Any Commercial or Manufacturing concern in the city will be entitled to enter a team if application is made and accepted by League.
5. Teams shall consists of bona-fide employees of such concerns, engaged at least two weeks prior to any game in which they play.
6. Intermediate O.H.A. players of the present season are barred. By Intermediate O.H.A. player is meant one playing two Intermediate O.H.A. games.
7. Entrance fees to be paid to the Secretary-Treasurer before the first league game.
8. Any club playing a player who is not eligible shall forfeit the game or games in which he played.
9. Protests must be in writing, must be in the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer of the League within forty-eight hours after the advertised time of the game protested, and must be accompanied by a deposit of $3, which sum shall be forfeited to the League should the executive dis-allow the protest.
10. All referees shall be appointed by the Executive.
11. The Secretary-Treasurer shall take charge of all funds, shall look after the taking of gates, and hold the receipts in trust to be divided after expenses are paid among he League teams finishing hte season.
12. No member of the Executive shall in any way be connected with anw of the League teams.
13. Notices of motion re the amendment of the constitution shall be made in writing to the Secretary-Treasurer a least one week previous to the annual meeting and he must make such a motion public through the press.
14. Any clause or clauses added to the constitution or the schedule must be given the consideration of the Executive in meeting with one representative of each club, before confirmed.
15. Any team not ready to start the game within 5 minutes after the game is called by the referee, shall be subject to a fine of $2.00. Fine to be paid to the League Secretary before they can start another league game.
16. Tie games affecting the League's standing will be played after the regular League schedule is finished.

Various rules were proposed, discussed and carried, each of which is calculated to promote the salutary making of this somewhat important Hockey League. One of these rules refers to punctual attendance, and is to the effect that any team not being ready to take the ice within five minutes of the game being called by the referee, shall be mulcted in a penalty of two dollars.

Another regulation was passed to the effect that all ties not affecting the standing of the league be played off after the official schedule has been completed.

Another provise is that each team shall provide its own timekeeper and goal umpire.

Some real good sport may be expected, as most of the teams appear to be in good shape.

Mr. J. Murphy was added to the names of the members of the Executive committee, and Messrs. Kelly, Kennealy and Dobson are to be requested to act as official referees.

The first games have been scheduled for play at the Brock Street rink, on Monday next — ice permitting — commencing at eight o'clock, and will be played off as follows:

Tool Room v. Bankers.
Test Room v. "Examiner."
De Laval v. Plumbers.

These six team should provide hockey fans with some good, lively hockey.

The price of admission will be only 10 cents, surely a nominal sum for three hours' good sport, while a limited number of season tickets at 50c. may be had on application to any member of the league or to the Vice-President, (F. Russell) at the Examiner Office.

The official schedule for the season will be published in the "Examiner" in a day or two.

STRUGGLE IN THE SECOND DIVISION IS INCREASING

As the Weeks Slip By Any of the First Eight on the Table May Qualify at the End of the Season--Southern League After James Blair

The struggle for the two leading positions in the Second Division of the English League grows more strenuous as the weeks slip past, and many of the first eight on the table may qualify at the end of the season. It is generally the Cup ties that find out the weak points in a side, and when they come on some of the teams who appear to have a chance of qualifying just now, may get such a gruelling that they will quickly drop into the "also ran" class. When the pinch comes those who have the most efficient reserves will likely fare best.

Gunners Favoured.

In the South keen interest is taken in the progress of Arsenal, Fulham and Clapton Orient, and while there is a general consensus of opinion that the former has the most chance of figuring at the top, hope is not altogether lost in the ability of Fulham and the Orient to come with a wet sail in the latter part of the season. Both have drawn matches that on play they ought to have won, and won handsomely, and if fortune but favour them in this respect in the matches to come, Fulham and Clapton Orient may be the favoured couple, but it would be a nasty jar to Woolwich Arsenal, wouldn't it?

A Wise Choice.

The transference of Fred Mavin of Oldham to Bradford came as a direct surprise to followers of the game in West London. Russell's rapid rise to fame had, for the time being, fairly eclipsed Mavin, and one would have fancied Mr. Maley would have wanted a player with a bigger name to fill the place of the disabled Howie, but the Bradford manager has done so many successful things in football that the engaging of Mavin may very well be followed by a run of success that will firmly establish Bradford at the head of the Second Division.

There is no doubt about Mavin's earnestness, and if he can regain the ability to shoot as he formerly did, Mr. Maley will have no reason to regret his bargain. Anyhow, after watching Mavin against Chelsea Reserves at Fulham in the final of the Middlesex Cup he was quite satisfied the Tynesider would adequately fill Howie's place which, by the way, is asking a good deal as the Scot has been a very fine player for Bradford and has few superiors in his position.

After Blair.

The representatives of more than one Southern club crossed the Border to watch James Blair of Clyde, play against Hearts of Midlothian, at Edinburgh. At the time of writing, it is not known if business had been done, but the odds are that the matter has been left in abeyance as the price asked by the Clyde Club, $10,000, is considered much to stiff. More especially as Blair has been off the field lately, and only resumed playing for the first time on Saturday. When in form Blair is a back of the very highest class, but $10,000! It's a big price, and a club paying it would require to go into the final of the Cup to justify such an outlay. Unless Clyde reduce considerably it is unlikely the deal will go through, but a brilliant display by the latter player against the Hearts of Midlothian may have worked the oracle.

J. Stirling, of Middlesborough, who is on the transfer list, is already being angled for by a Scotch club.

Now that Utley has gone to Sheffield United, Barnsley have lost all three half-backs who helped them to win the cup against Newcastle United.

A. Ducat, the English international half-back, is still on the books of Aston Villa, although his injury still prevents him playing or even to start training yet.

All hail to the men of the Highlands in having fought their way into the qualifying semi-final. Inverness Caledonians are indeed the surprise packet of the competition, and won't there be joy and pride in the Highland capital should they become finalists and carry off the trophy.

The fact that Queen's Park scored four goals v. Hibbs is history now, but their doing so previous to that might almost be called ancient history.

In fact, we have to go back to season 1909-10 before we come across them having done so, but then they performed the feat or went even better on fewer than on three occasions They beat Airdrie, at Broomfield, too, by 4-3; Morton, at Hampden, by 5-2; and the now defunct Port Glasgow Athletics by 6-1, also on Hampden. Bob McColl being responsible for the half dozen.

HOCKEY

The Bowmanville Statesman has the following report of the intermediate game in Bowmanville:

Bowmanville played their first home game in Taylor's Arena Monday night and again met defeat at the hands of Peterborough's fast septette, score 10 to 5. The ice was keen and some fast hockey was indulged in on both sides, but the steady consistent combination work of the visitors together with their accurate and bullet-like shots earned for them the decisive victory. Half time score was 5-3. The local boys made several good individual rushes, but until they learn combination and team work they need not expect to win many games. The game was free from rough play, there being only one penalty for a minor offence. Just before half time Giroux received a nasty cut in the leg requiring seven stitches. Jones also had medical attention for a cut hand in the second period. Neither accident was caused by rough play. Harvey Sproule, Toronto, gave entire satisfaction as referee at both games. The local line-up was the same as Friday night. About 500 spectators witnessed the game and many expressed surprise at the good showing made by the local boys against such strong opposition.

WHO KNOWS JOHN BELL, THE POET?

Who knows John Bell, the poet?
A man of mighty fame,
Who, for himself, in the City,
Has earned a lofty name.

He wrote of any subject,
From heaven to the earth,
And for his many readers
Has furnished heaps of mirth

Let's ask him now to write a song
About the new arc lights,
And thank the men who got them
For to light our Town at nights.

The paved streets, too, he has forgot,
Oh, run, someone, and get him.
When there is work like this in Town
Be sure you don't forget him.

Go, tell John Bell, the Poet,
For Buller now to cheer,
And charm him with a touching verse,
So our taxes won't be dear.

Surely, for all the City Dads,
He'll write a little song
For them to sing in Council,
So the time won't seem so long.

In Peterborough, John has spent
A good many years' time,
And written several poems,
Though they didn't always rhyme.

I offered my assistance once
To the bard so leal and true;
He just ignored my kindness,
So to him I'll say, adieu.

E. Mantzakos,

GROUP LEADERS PLAY HERE TO-MORROW NIGHT

Oshawa Intermediates will play here to-morrow if the ice conditions will permit, and the game should be a battle Royal all the way through. The Oshawa team is leading the group, and they promise to give Peterborough a battle royal. The Petes, however, will be stronger than at any other time this season, with Denison back, and Kelly, Park and the rest of the team going well. To-morrow nigh's game will have a very important effect on the ultimae leadership of the group, and both teams will work their hardest for victory. There should be a big crowd on hand for the contest.

Fred Denison and Harold Morrow, the two local boys who accompanied Ottawa College on their long tour in the United States, returned home this morning. They report a most successful and enjoyable trip.

James, the ex-Regina goal-keeper, was out at practice last night and delighted the rail birds by his clever work. He blocks coolly and neatly and clears very fast

SCHEDULED GAMES POSTPONED TO-NIGHT

There will be no scheduled games played at the Curling Rink to-night. The rules of the Ontario Curling Association require two degrees of frost in the rink. This afternoon the thermometer registered above this mark, and it showed no tendencies to drop back. There may be a few scratch games. The ice appeared to be in good condition, but it wouldn't hardly stand up under much use.

Keep Ballots Under Seal

New Law Makes It Impossible to Secure Evidence of Illegal Practice at Municipal Elections

Do you want to find out if some person exercised the privilege of voting in your place at the municipal elections? Do you want to know if any officials were guilty, as some were a few years ago, of stuffing the ballot boxes? If so, you must possess your soul in patience for a period of one month, as ballots, poll books and voters' lists used are still in the boxes under the City Clerk's seal, which cannot be broken for one month.

Change in Law.

In former years it was possible to have a scrutiny of the poll books immediately after the election. The new law changed that, and placed on the city clerk the obligation of sealing the boxes immediately on their receipt.

Section No. 123 says that "the clerk, upon the receipt of a ballot box, shall take every precaution for the safe-keeping and preventing any other person having access to it, and shall immediately on the receipt of it seal it with his own seal in such a way that it cannot be opened without the seal being broken."

Keep Them One Month.

Section 146 says that the clerk shall retain the papers in his possession for one month, unless otherwise directed by the judges, and then shall destroy them in the presence of two witnesses.

Section 147 provides that no inspection can be made without an order from the judge.

The Time Limit.

No person can secure a recount of the ballots cast unless he takes proceedings within two weeks of the election, although the Council may order it within a month. Section 162 provides that proceedings to invalidate an election may be taken within six weeks after it is held, or within six weeks of the time when the facts come to the knowledge of the complainant.

Chauffeurs Will Be Rigidly Examined

All Applicants for Chauffeur's Licenses This Year Must Go Through Three Separate Examinations

Those applying for chauffeurs' licenses for 1914 will be compelled to answer to a great array of questions and go through three separate examinations before their request can be granted. The new application blanks issued by the Government this year are a big departure from those of previous years, due to the fact that the Government is trying to put a stop to the number of automobile accidents by a more rigid examination of the applicants. It will be necessary to supply a photograph and give a complete personal description as well as to answer some sixteen questions on the application sheet. The applicant must be familiar with the Highways and Motor Vehicles Act, and must supply a deal of his own personal history which will make it difficult for an unfit person to procure a license.

W. E. Craig has been appointed technical examiner for Woodstock. He will examine all the applicants as to their mechanical ability, and will grant certificate No. 1. J. S. Meyers and A. H. Clynick have been authorized to grant certificate No. 2. After these certificates have been obtained the applicant must go to Chief Killing, who will grant the final certificate if there are no reasons why it should be withheld.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

Entertain at a Particularly Successful Banquet in the Sunday School Room Last Evening

Close around the century figure was the number of men present at the "Get Together" annual supper held in the St. John's Anglican Church school house last evening. The company present consisted of the members of that highly successful St. John's Bible class, together with some of the more prominent officials of that church, the Sunday School and friends of the members sympathizing with the object of the association. The banquet which was elegantly served in the Messrs. Coleman Bros'. usually good style, was greatly enjoyed by those present. The menu, which was written in some occult language, probably understood by Biblical students, is appended. The names of many of the dishes being interpreted as named in the wards within brackets.

Menu.

Football Juniors
Creamed (Potatoes) Football Intermediates Smashed (Turnips)

Heart Throbs (Roast Beef)

Hard Head Salad (Cabbage Salad)

Well Wisher's Offering (Bread sent by a lady admirer)

Lover's Compound (Compote)

Elementary Gymnastics (Jelly) Bible Class Cake

Coleman's Revenge (Ice Cream)

Tongue Loosener (Tea) Sleep Reducer (Coffee)

Adam's Ale

The outer cover of the menu, which was elegantly got up—being the work of The Examiner Printing Company, bore an appropriate hand sketch of a youngster in an aeroplane scudding through space, the work of Mr. A. Kingdon. One of the wings bore the legend "St. John's Men's Bible Class," the other wing being dated "1914," and the motto: "Here we come boys, we are going some this year."

After due and careful attention had been paid to the viands, Mr. W. J. Common, who acted as toastmaster, announced the toast list which was as follows:

Toast List.

The King—W. J. Common.
Our Country—J. A. Aylmer.
Our Rector—W. E. Conway.
Our Officers—H. Lemmings, T. Tooms.
Our Friends—Chris Graham, E. Tucker, J. Butcher.
Our Guests—A. Kingdon, T. Comstock.
Hymn 383, Onward Christian Soldiers.
"Story of Past Year"—A. Theobald.
"Hopes of the Future"—T. Tooms.
"What the Class has done for Me"—F. Dainton.

"The Bible Class, Its Relations to the Church"—R. J. Devey.
"Our Local Opportunity"—A Kingdon.
"Messages from Absent Members."—A. Theobald.
"Lend a Hand"—D. J. Eldred.
"The Tie that Binds"—E. Tucker.
The National Anthem—"God Save the King."

Many of the speeches were much to the point, but as it would be impossible in the space available to report them it would scarcely be fair to the many speakers to individualize them. Let it suffice to say they were all well received.

Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, was present during part of the proceedings, but had to leave for New York to be present at the burial of his brother, who, it may be remembered, died suddenly on ship-board.

A verse of the hymn "Bles'd be the tie that binds," was sung after Mr. Tucker's speech, followed by three cheers and "a tiger" for the toastmaster.

Mr. R. T. Devey presided ably at the pianoforte.

The officers of the Bible Class are as follows:

Hon. President—The Rector.
President—Mr. T. Tooms.
Vice-President—Mr. E. Tucker.
Secretary—Mr. A. Theobald.
Treasurer—Mr. D. J. Eldred.
Leader—Mr. A. Kingdon.

The principles underlying the general motives of this Bible class will have been gathered by a perusal of the items on the toast list, as well as by the sentiments below, which were printed on the fourth side of the menu:

Call to Service.

You, who are enlightened, self-sufficient, self-governed, endowed with gifts above your fellows, the world expects you to add to and not to subtract from its store of good, to build up and not to tear down, to ennoble and not to degrade. It commands you to take your place and to fight in the name and honour of chivalry against the powers of organized evil and of commercialized vice; against poverty, disease and death, which follow fast in the wake of sin and ignorance; against all the innumerable forces which are working to destroy the image of God in man, and unleash the passion of the beast.

—From Baccalaureate Sermon by Dr. John Grier Hibben, President Princeton University.

Forward Look.

What of the New Year in our Bible Class?

What do the coming months hold of deeper service, of higher opportunity, of more splendid work?

Let there be an occasional backward look, if you will, if only to mark the way one has come and to note the experiences it has to reveal. Let there be a backward look at times but only as preliminary to the forward look.

And then let the forward look be a higher and more far-reaching one. Let it include more people than any previous look ever included. Let it take in those who are most often overlooked and forgotten.

Let the forward look include a determination to accomplish more for the Master and to do it better than ever in the past.

Let the forward look be a new standard of life and service that will make the coming months richer in love and life and that will lift to higher planes and loftier hemispheres.

Let the forward look be one that will stimulate and uplift and thrill. Then 1914 will, at its end, show visions realised, and a successful season that will stand for yet higher attainments in the years to follow.

—FRANK YEIGH.

WHAT THEY SAY OF "THE LITTLE DAMOZEL" IN THE WEST

To a well filled house at the Avenue Theatre last night, Lawrene Brough and his company of English players, presented Moncton Hoffe's comedy, "The Little Damozel," which comes to "The Grand" next Wednesday, Jan. 14.

It is a very lovably human little damozel, as played by Miss Olga Ehme, assured that she is pretty enough to deserve a rich husband, flattered at the prospect of being a maried person, outraged in her vanity at being jilted by Capt. Partington, ready to accept consolation in the offer of Recklaw Poole to marry her, happy as a child with her irresponsible husband whom she learns to love, and finally outraged in her affections at learning that her husband had accepted money from Partington to marry her out of his way. The little child-hearted damozel became a woman in an instant in that dramatic moment at the close of the second ac.

As Recklaw Poole, Mr. Lawrence Brough gave a finished presentation of that frail but happy-go-lucky hero, who at the close tried to make amends in his own peculiar way to the little damozel of the Cafe Angelique, and brought back her happiness and his.

The Bohemian atmosphere of the setting gives much opportunity for the unusual. The play owes much to the splendid support of that sterling actor and actress, Alfred Hemming and Amy Singleton, who as Walter Angel, proprietor of the Cafe Angelique (where the little damozel is employed as a harpist), and as Mamma Bartholdy, the leader of the cafe orchestra, gave finished presentations of character work. Rule Pyott, as Hon. Fitzroy Locke, had an entertaining part which he made the most of, contributing greatly to the humour of the occasion.

There are many clever epigrams in the play, one of the most telling being Poole's remark at the wine supper. "Whenever I see three mn drinking champagne together, I think one of them is being taken in by the others."

INFANT MORTALITY.

It rests with sanitary authorities to see that children are wholesomely housed; but ignorance and neglect on the part of the parents have also to be deal with. If all mothers would realise that milk is a food upon which children can live, and thrive, and that fresh air, warmth and cleanliness are essential to child life how many lives might be saved! Mothers going out to work and leaving their babies to the care of their little brothers and sisters, or other people, cannot be too severely condemned; although it is hard to blame them when poverty is the cause. Such conditions I meet frequently. If some of our ladies' organizations would take up the question of establishing a creche or day nursery, where poor, hard-working mothers could have their babies well cared for while at work, they would indeed be promoting a noble undertaking, and one that peculiarly belongs to the gentler sex.

It is to be regretted that inquests are rather the exception than the rule, in Canada. I believe that every death, other than from natural causes, should be the subject of an enquiry, for no doubt many infants' lives are lost through neglect, improper feeding and ignorance.

So-Called Milder Diseases.

Ignorance and in these enlightened days, when the subject of health is so much before the public, in the press and on the platform) criminal ignorance is not too strong a term, is one of the main causes of the origin and propagation of disease. To combat this, the science and art of living in accordance with the laws of health, should be a compulsory subject in our schools, so that at least the coming generation may not suffer for the sins of their fathers. The idea so prevalent with many parents, that measles, whooping cough, and scarlet fever are diseases of a mild nature, are sure to be contracted by their children sooner or later, and that therefore they need not be careful in protecting them from infection, cannot be too strongly condemned for the following reasons. A mild case may give rise to a serious one. It by no means follows that all should suffer during some period of their existence. One attack does not necessarily afford protection from a second. The fatality of children is nearly always greater than in adults. The liability to attack diminishes with age.

Most of the deaths from these diseases occur among children under five years of age, so that if a child up to that age has escaped from an attack the less likelihood is there of its occurrence, and if it should occur it is less likely to prove fatal. These facts cannot too forcibly be brought home to those whose duty it is to protect the children from unnecessary risks and exposure to infection.

More Light Needed.

Another point that should be more generally known by the public is the value of light in our homes, and some standard should be set by law as to the amount of light necessary when issuing a building permit. Light is stimulant, darkness sedative. It may be generally stated that the absence of light directly causes in the healthy depression of mental and vital activity, leading to a general debilitated condition, and in the convalescent delays recovery, bodily and mentally. The value of daylight and sunlight in wards for the mentally and bodily afflicted is universally recognized and it has even been said that the patients on the brighter side of a ward tend to recover more quickly than those on the darker. Deficient light is generally accompanied by deficient space, and also by air deficient in quantity or quality. Every access of daylight is a possible source of air, hence adequate window space to rooms, and ample front and rear space to houses are doubly desirable. A window should occupy one-fourth of the area of the wall in which it is situated, and the daylight should have free access all the time.

But the public seems to think that daylight and sunlight are a curse, rather than a blessing, judging by the pains they take to expel it from their houses. Next time you take a walk in the day-time notice the number of houses with windows whose blinds are wholly or partly down, probably with the idea of saving the colours from fading in the best carpet, with never a thought as to the possible value to health the light affords as a set-off to the value of the carpet. The question of adequate lighting and ventilation and free air space in and around dwellings will soon have to be dealt with by the City Council in the issuing of building permits, if we don't want to be in the unenviable position of Toronto. That city is facing a problem of over-crowding and slum conditions, the fighting of which is almost like leading a forlorn hope. The time to tackle these conditions is before they exist, by preventive measures.

There are other features relating to the public health that time will not allow me to touch upon, and in conclusion I will just refer to some conditions that I have met during my inspection of last year.

Inspector Spence then dealt with a number of points that will likely be included in his annual report to the Board of Health.

At the conclusion of his address a hearty vote of thanks was unanimously accorded the speaker for his very interesting address.

INTERESTING DEMONSTRATION AT THE POULTRY SHOW WINTER EGG PRODUCTION

Miss Yates, of the Department of Agriculture, Shows Father How to Carve the Duck—The Operation is Best Performed by Two Forks—Valuable Formulae That May Help to Solve the Problem of Winter Egg Production—One Thousand Roosters in Chorus.

That the Peterborough Poultry Show is the second largest in Ontario and the number of entrants has grown in six years from six hundred to thirteen hundred, was the statement made by Mr. R. F. MacGregor at the Poultry Show on Wednesday evening. Mr. MacGregor attributed this remarkable expansion to a capable and efficient directorate, coupled with active and consistent co-operation on the part of those engaged in the poultry industry throughout this section of the country.

Mr. MacGregor introduced Miss Yates of the Department of Agriculture, who gave an instructive and interesting demonstration on the 'Host's Method' of carving a fowl. Miss Yates performed her task in a manner that precluded all doubts as to her ability to successfully accomplish what often obtains as a very distressing operation especially when one emaciated looking chicken is expected to satisfy the demands of a large family.

A Dignified Act.

Miss Yates observed that it was a great pity that so few men know how to properly carve a chicken or any other kind of fowl. "It should be a dignified art," asserted the demonstrator. Miss Yates remarked that the difficulties of carving a bird increased in proportion to the age of the feathered biped; a theory which no one in the audience undertook to dispute. In carving the bird, Miss Yates made use of two forks, one large fork to hold the chicken in position and prevent it caroming over the landscape and the other to transfer the dissected portions of meat from the carving platter to the small plates.

Winter Egg Production.

At the conclusion of the demonstration, Miss Yates introduced the all-important subject of egg production in the winter time, when cold storage eggs are selling at forty cents a dozen and the hens are consistently endeavouring to curtail the visible supply. Miss Yates was forced to withhold any extended remarks on the subject owing to the din created by the lusty-lunged cocks.

The following formulae as used in the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University were recommended by Miss Yates as something that would produce results in the form of eggs. The formulae were passed around for the benefit of those who cared to peruse them, as it was impossible to proclaim its merits in a room where nearly one thousand roosters were confined. The formulae are given below:

Cornell Ration For Laying Hens."

The following whole grain mixture is fed morning and afternoon in a straw litter:

By Weight Winter	By Measure Winter
60 lbs. wheat	32 qts. wheat
60 lbs. corn	30 qts. corn
30 lbs. oats	30 qts. oats
60 lbs buckwheat	20 qts. buckwheat
30 lbs. buckwheat	20 qts. buckwheat
By Weight Summer	By Measure Summer
60 lbs. wheat	32 qts. wheat
60 lbs. corn	36 lbs. corn
30 lbs. oats	30 qts. oats

The following mash is fed dry in a hopper kept open during the afternoon only:

By Weight Winter and Summer.

60 lbs. corn meal.
60 lbs. wheat middlings.
30 lbs. wheat bran.
10 lbs. alfalfa meal.
10 lbs. oil meal.
50 lbs. beef scrap.
1 lb. salt.

By Measure. Winter and Summer.

57 qts. meal.
71 qts. wheat middlings.
57 qts. wheat bran.
20 qts. alfalfa meal.
8 qts. oil meal.
43 qts. beef scrap.
1-2 qts. salt.

Green Feed Required.

The fowls should eat about one-half as much by weight as whole grain. Regulate the proportion of grain and ground feed by giving a light feeding of grain in the morning and about all they will consume at the afternoon feeding (in time to find grain before dark). In the case of pullets or fowls in heavy playing, restrict both night and morning feeding to induce heavy eating of dry mash, especially in the case of hens. This ration should be supplemented with beets, cabbage, sprouted oats, green clover or other succulent food, unless running on grass covered range. Grit, cracked oyster shell and charcoal should be accessible at all times. Green food should not be fed in a frozen condition. All feed litter used should be strictly sweet, clean and free from mustiness, mould or decay. Serious losses frequently occur from disease due to the fowls taking into their bodies through their intestinal tract or lungs, the spores of the fungus acuaing moulds.

Cornell Ration For Chick Feeding.

The Ration.

Mixture No. 1—
8 lb. rolled oats.
8 lbs. bread crumbs or cracker waste.
2 lbs. sifted beef scrap (best grade.)
1 lb. bone meal.
Mixture No. 2—
3 lbs. wheat (cracked.)
2 lbs. cracked corn (fine.)
1 lb. pinhead oatmeal.
Mixture No. 3—
3 lbs. wheat bran.
3 lbs. corn meal
3 lbs. wheat mid llings.
3 lbs. beef scraps (best grade.)
1 lb. bone meal.
Mixture No. 4—
3 lbs. wheat (whole).
2 lbs. cracked corn.
1 lb. hulled oats.
Mixture No. 5—
3 lbs. wheat.
3 lbs. cracked corn.

The Method.

1-5 days.
Mixture No. 1, moistened with sour skimmed milk, fed five times a day; Mixture No. 2 in shallow tray containing a little of No. 3 (dry, always before chicks. Shredded green food and fine grit and charcoal scattered over food.
5 days—2 weeks.
No. 1 in light litter twice a day.
No. 2 moistened with sour skimmed milk, fed three times a day; No. 3 (dry) always available.
2-4 weeks.
As above, except that the moist mash is given twice a day.
4-6 weeks (or until chicks are on range)
Reduce meals of moist mash to one a day; mixture No. 4 in latter twice a day; dry mash always available.
6 weeks to maturity.
No. 3 and No. 5 hopper fed. One meal a day of moist mash if it is desired to hasten development.

Further Instructions.

1. Provide fine grit, charcoal, shell and bone, from the start.
2. Give grass range or plenty of green food.
3. Have fresh, clean water always available.
4. Feed only sweet, wholesome foods.
5. Avoid damp and soiled litter.
6. Disinfect brooders frequently.
7. Test all beef scrap before feeding.
8. Keep chickens active by allowing them to become hungry once daily.
9. Feed moist mash sparingly.
10. Keep dry mash always before the chicks.

It will be noted that the grain ration is fed morning and afternoon in a straw litter. The second is what is known as the Cornell ration for chick feeding. Miss Yates procured the formulae while over on a visit to Cornell University last February. She was so impressed with the results obtained by the use of the formulae that she had no hesitation in recommending their use among poultry raisers on this side of the line.

No Change In The Weather

The lad may bemoan his fate at not being able to use the skates Santa brought, and the ardent hockey enthusiast with thought of many important games on his mind, may mutter dire threats at the weather man, but both will have to possess their souls in patience for a few days. The probs. say: "Fresh west to southwesterly winds, cloudy and quite mild to-day."

Nice prospect for the first week in January, isn't it? And the weather man can give us no comfort. He goes on to say: "Shallow barometric depressions are at present passing rapidly across Northern Canada. The weather continues moderately cold in the Maritime Provinces and unseasonably mild everywhere west of Quebec."

Unusual temperatures were registered in Southern Alberta and Southwestern Saskatchewan yesterday. Calgary reports a temperature yesterday of 56, Swift Current the same; Medicine Hat comes second with 50, and Kamloops likewise. Edmonton is next with 38.

Natives ask, "What are Canadian winters coming to?" And the man "just over" inquires, "I say, old chap, when does your bally Canadian winter really commence?"

ANDY JOBE GOT THERE!

An incident in the municipal elections in Smith was the plucky fight which Mr. A. J. Jobe of Bridgenorth, put up for a place among the councillors for 1914. It is said he was a little handicapped by the stiff opposition from a combination of some of the old councillors who wanted Andy left out. This had the effect of making the man from Bridgenorth put on his war paint, with the result that he took second place, receiving the second highest number of votes in the contest.

ST. PETER'S TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETY ENTERS UPON ITS FIFTEENTH YEAR TO-DAY

Was Founded Fourteen Years Ago To-day With a Membership of About Seventy-five — Bishop O'Brien Its Guiding Spirit.

SKETCH OF ITS PROGRESS

"Please convey my sincere felicitations to the Total Abstinence societies of Peterborough and my best wishes for continued progress." Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, Port Hope, to The Examiner this afternoon.

To-day is the fourteenth anniversary of the organization of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. To-morrow evening the members and those of the branch society in the parish of the Sacred Heart will quietly celebrate the passing of the 14th milestone with a concert in the Grand Opera House. The feature of it will be an address by Mr. C. J. Foy, of Perth.

To those who recall the planting of the mustard seed of total obstinence the circumstances come back quite clearly through the mist of years. January 8th, 1900, saw the inauguration of the society, with Dr. Moher as president, and Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, of Port Hope, Spiritual adviser. The membership was only a handful, and, strange to say, it was the opinion of the majority of those who gave the infant society a second thought that by its very aims it was foredoomed to failure, and an early one at that.

This attitude on the part of many from whom encouragement had been expected proved one of the most serious obstacles to the initial progress of the society. But to the handful of pioneers opposition called forth steadfastness, unity and unwavering zeal. In the first few months, the assistance of Rev. Father O'Sullivan was the bond that held the members together and inspired them with confidence for the long struggle that loomed ahead.

Then came a change in the guiding hand. Rev. Father O'Sullivan was made parish priest in Port Hope, and was succeeded by Rev. Dr. O'Brien as spiritual adviser of St. Peter's T. A. S. The achievements attained under his care are known hroughout the city. He began his duties six months after the formation of the society.

From the pulpit he fought the evil of intemperance with words that still re-echo through the parish. He overcame a certain, undefined prejudice against the society, a prejudice that was probably based upon a feeling that total abstinence would prove but temporary. Gradually winning approval and then esteem for the T.A.S., a brighter period was entered upon, and the membership grew with leaps. The struggle, even the inspiration thrown into the fight by the present Bishop of Peterborough, was in itself an achievement that might be regarded as a life's work. Especially so when the influence of St. Peter's T.A.S. spread to surrounding parishes.

When Rev. Dr. O'Brien was placed over the new parish of the Sacred Heart, he was succeeded by Rev. Dean McColl under whom the good work has steadily advanced.

There have been twenty-eight presidents of the society. M. J. Haher, A. J. Sharpe, Thos. Lane, J. Begley, Jno. O'Brien, J. J. Hickey, F. McAuliffe, were the first eight to occupy the chair. The faithful attachment of the officers, their example and their missionary work, was of paramount importance in the factors that lead to success. Mr. Jos. Primeau, as treasurer, and Mr. Alf. Lehane, as secretary, served for years in those positions, and others are worthy of similar mention.

The membership grew from about seventy-five to over one thousand, including the south end branch, and deeds speak more loudly than words.

THE RIGHT REVEREND M. J. O'BRIEN, D. D.
Who for years was Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's T. A. S. and likewise the temporal adviser during the years when every step of advancement was won only after a strug gle.

Seek Working Plan For Perfect Race

Special Wire to The Examiner.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 8.—Many men and women having a common interest in the problems relating to the welfare of humanity assembled here to-day for the first national conference on race betterment. The conference, which will continue its sessions several days, aims to devise a working plan having as its ultimate purpose the building of a perfect race of mortals.

Eugenics heads the list of subjects scheduled for discussion. Other subjects that are to receive the attention of the conference are infant mortality, school hygiene, community hygiene, education for parenthood, public repression of the social evil, and the cost of living as a factor in race degeneracy.

Prominent among those who have accepted invitations to address the conference are Jacob Riis, the noted sociologist and writer; Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, president of the American Medical Association; Dr. Booker T. Washington, principal of Tuskegee Institute; Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the public schools of Chicago; Dr. C. B. Davenport, director of the Carnegie Station of Experimental Evolution; Judge Ben. B. Lindsey, of the Denver Juvenile Court, and Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris, of Michigan.

Yegg's Liberty Of Short Duration

Special to The Examiner:

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 8. — "Oakland Sammy" Williams, who, under one name or another is known to the police of half the States of the Union, was arraigned in the United States district court here to-day to stand trial on a charge of robbing the postoffice at Marion, Ala., more than twelve years ago. Williams was released from the South Carolina penitentiary in November, being one of the 100 convicts who wre turned loose by Governor Blease on Thanksgiving Day. He was arrested as he was leaving prison and returned here for trial on the twelve-year-old charge.

Williams originally came from Oakland, Cal., but for many years he has been known as one of the most daring yeggmen who ever operated in the Middle West and South. Jail-breaking is the specialty for which he is noted. In 1898 he escaped while being taken to the Missouri penitentiary to serve a sentence for burglary. In 1901, he was arrested for robbing the safe in the postoffice at Marion, Ala. While confined in the jail in this city awaiting trial he made his escape during a heavy storm. Some months later he was recognized and arrested in Quincy, Fla. He set fire to the jail and again made his escape. He was not heard of again until 1908, when he was arrested in Charleston, S.C., on a charge of having burglars' tools in his possession. Two days after his arrest he unlocked his cell door with a wooden key, but his attempt to escape was frustrated. He was given a speedy trial and on the strength of his bad record was sent to prison for fifteen years.

Bank Clerk Gets 30 Days

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — Very lenient was the sentence passed upon Forbes Skene in the police court at the City Hall yesterday when on the charge of fraud he was sent to jail for thirty days.

He pleaded guilty to attempting to steal from the Bank of Montreal $150 and defrauding Karl and Wright of $25.

Skene was a ledger keeper in the Bank of Montreal branch at Lindsay, and on New Year's day he came to Toronto with $1,000 worth of cheques which he had marked good with the company's rubber stamp.

He passed one of the cheques for $25 at the Walker House and then attempted to get $150 from the local branch of the bank here. The teller, however, was suspicious and refused to honour the cheque, and Skene left disappointed. Not long afterwards, word of the theft of the cheques was received from Lindsay, and a search for Skene was begun. Yesterday afternoon he was caught in the bank at Hamilton trying his luck there.

POTATOES WILL BE CHEAP AND PLENTIFUL

Regulations About Shipping to United States are Strict and Farmers do not Want to Take the Chance

LOCAL CONDITIONS

For the past three or four months potatoes on the local market have been selling at from one dollar to one dollar and fifteen cents a bag. There is every prospect that the prices will decline rather than increase. The supply of potatoes among the farmers is believed to be greater than was at first estimated.

The recent exacting regulations restricting the importation of potatoes into the United States has also had something to do with the drop in prices. Canadian farmers can ship to the States at their own risk, subject to inspection by United States officials. If the potatoes are sound, well and good, if not they will be condemned and destroyed, and the farmer will as a consequence be the loser.

Lower Prices Here.

The closing of the American market to Canadian grown potatoes will tend to lower the prices in Canada. In consequence there will probably be more potatoes on the market this year than usual, since the Canadian crop has been a heavy one, and certain districts be unable to export their produce.

ARMY OFFICERS ARRESTED ON GRAFT CHARGES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 8.—Sixteen summonses were issued to-day at the Bow Street Police Station against army officers, mostly quartermasters, on charges of graft and bribery in connection with the canteen supplies. They are said to have made considerable money through rake-offs. Some prominent military men are involved, and the affair is causing greatest sensation in the British army for many years.

MR. J. J. GIBBONS SPOKE TO STREET R'Y MEN

Mr. J. J. Gibbons, business agent of the Street Railway Employees' Union, Toronto, was a recent visitor to the local union and addressed a fairly large meeting of the members. He gave an account of the big convention of Street Railway men held in Salt Lake City, Utah, and also related some of his experiences as a motorman in the old days of the open front vestibule cars. Mr. Gibbons is visiting the local unions throughout the district.

Here to Promote Peace Celebration.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Among the notable pasengers who arrived in New York this week on the Baltic was the Earl of Kintore, who is a firm believer in closer Anglo-American relations and has come over to assist in the efforts to make the celebration of the hundred years of peace among English-speaking peoples an epoch-making event. The Earl is a prominent figure in social and political life in England. He was at one time a Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria, and subsequently served as Governor of South Australia. He was born in 1852 and succeeded his father in the title in 1880. The title is a very old one. The first Earl of Kintore was created a Knight-Marischal of Scotland in 1660, and that office was made hereditary in his family in consideration of the loyalty and dexterity he had displayed in preventing the Scotch regalia from falling into the hands of Cromwell.

LETTER CARRIERS ANNUAL BANQUET

Held in Coleman's Palm Parlours was an Enjoyable One

Tuesday night, in Coleman's palm parlours, the letter carriers of the City held a most enjoyable and successful banquet. Mr. Grisdale presided at the gathering, and it was a very sociable affair.

Twenty were present at the function, and besides the carriers themselves there were entertained Postmaster Edgar, Chief Superintendent Ross, of Toronto, and the General Secretary of the Letter Carriers' Association.

The banquet provided was a sumptuous one, and was done ample justice by the guests. It was a credit to Coleman Bros., who prepared it, and was appreciated by all.

After dinner a splendid musical programme was given and a number of brief addresses, all of which contributed to the pleasure of the evening.

An Expert.

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—VINCENT.

The wedding was solemnized at St. George's Church, last evening, at 6 o'clock of Miss Mary Jane Vincent to Mr. John Cray Smith, both of Browntown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. Price, Rector of St. George's Church. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Brownton.

OBITUARY

THOMAS FINLEY.

A prominent resident of Northumberland County, Mr. Thomas Finlay, passed away in the Nicholls Hospital last evening. The late Mr. Finley was taken to the hospital a few days ago for a serious operation, from which he did not recover.

The deceased gentleman was an old resident of Northumberland County, of which he was bailiff, and resided for years near Grafton. He was very widely known in that section, and won the deep respect of all with whom he came in touch. His death will come as a shock to the large number who were anxious for his recovery. His family accompanied him to this City, and were in town when the operation was performed.

The deceased is survived by a sorrowing wife and three sons, Gordon and William, of Northumberland County, and G. S. Finley of Stratford. Two sisters, Mrs. Finley of Westfield, N.Y., and Mrs. J. Owens of Warkworth, Ont., as well as one brother, Robert of Bowmanville, also survive.

The funeral will be held in Grafton to-morow afternoon, the remains being taken to that village on the 8.10 G.T.R. train to-morrow morning.

MICHAEL RYAN.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday of Michael Ryan, an old and well known resident of this city, after an illness of several months. The late Mr. Ryan was born in Napanee, but came to this city many years ago and has since resided here. He had a large number of friends and acquaintances, all of whom were impressed with his sterling qualities, and who will be very sorry to learn of his death.

The deceased gentleman is survived by his son, Jack, of Niagara Falls, and a daughter, Mrs. See, of Ontario Centre, N.Y., both of whom will be in the city for the funeral.

The funeral will be held from Belleghem's undertaking rooms to-morrow morning to the 8:10 G. T. R. train, and to Wooler, Ont., for interment.

1,102 NEW BOOKS

preceding year, which may be accounted for in measure, perhaps, by the fact that the public are getting more used to the system and taking care to bring in their books in good time.

Books Lost or Withdrawn.

Under the open shelf system it is impossible to say exactly how many books have been deliberately taken from the shelves. Undoubtedly some have been taken without the formality of having them entered at the desk, but only one volume of value has been missed this year. The book in question "The Cyclopaedia of Receipts, Notes, etc." and compiled by A. A. Hopkins, and published by the Scientific American, was lent to the Library by the Education Department. Its value is placed at $5. Presumably the Library Board will have to make this loss good to the Department if the book is not returned. Every effort has been made to trace its whereabouts, but so far without result.

About 350 volumes have had to be withdrawn owing to wear and tear. All but twenty-two of these belonged to the old Library and very few indeed showed a circulation of less than twenty. The high water mark of circulation attained by any book was 98.

There is one point on which I would like to lay special emphasis, and that is the importance of at as early a date as possible, having the Children's Department separated from the adult. It is absolutely impossible with the shelves arranged as they are at present to prevent the children from obtaining access to the adult departments. The consequence is that they often take away books of fiction to which they are not entitled and help to swell the grand total of adult reading at the expense of their own department.

Thanks to the Newspapers.

I would be ungrateful if I were not to take this means of thanking the newspapers for the very great help they have always accorded in placing the aims of the Library before the public. They have shown themselves to be thoroughly imbued with the feeling that this institution is for the benefit of the public as a whole and have disinterestedly aided us in every way possible.

In conclusion, Sir, I desire to thank you and each member of the Board on behalf of my assistants and myself for the hearty support that has been accorded to us throughout this year.

Mr. Dale Fesse was authorised to visit the libraries of Berlin, Brantford and Toronto, and his expenses will be paid on certificate of the chairman.

The report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of a number of accounts, was received; also the financial report as presented by Mr. Hall.

Mr. Ritchie's report re the Library Committee for the year was adopted.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin waited on the Board in reference to compiling an Historical Index of the City of Peterborough.

Moved by Mr. Ritchie, seconded by Mr. Sollitt, "that a committee of Messrs. F. H. D. Hall, A. Mowat and the Librarian, confer with Mr. Dobbin regarding preparation of this work." Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mowat, seconded by Mr. Sollitt, "that the thanks of the Board be tendered to those who have presented the Library with books and pictures during the past year."

HAD RESTLESS DAY

Sir James Whitney's Doctors However Showed More Hope

STILL TALKS OF BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—While the official announcement from the bedside of Sir James Whitney, the Ontario Premier, at the Hotel Manhattan, last night was that his condition was unchanged, there was evident among his faithful attendants a feeling of optimism.

The evening bulletin, issued at 9 o'clock, by Dr. R. A. Pyne, read:

"Sir James has had a rather restless day; otherwise his condition is unchanged."

Within an hour after the issue of this announcement, Dr. Pyne stated that his patient was once more resting comfortably. The Minister of Education was down in the hotel rotunda to spend an hour reading the newspapers and chat with friends, while Horace Wallis, the Premier's secretary, had gone out for a stroll. The simultaneous absence of the two who watch over their chief so closely was, in itself, a sign that things looked brighter. Both, however, insisted that conditions in the sick room had not changed.

Dr. Pyne explained that the restlessness referred to in the bulletin had come late in the afternoon. He did not regard it as an alarming symptom, however, nor did it give rise to any ground to state that a decided improvement had taken place.

The doctor also said that the periods of delirium still manifested themselves, though since Monday Sir James had been conscious most of the time, and had made enquiries at times about details of matters left unfinished at his office when he left for the south. He was apparently satisfied with the assurance that everything had been attended to, and there was nothing requiring his attention.

In talking over the case, Dr. Pyne remarked that he had been well satisfied with the patience manifested by Sir James. For a man who has always been so active and impetuous in his movements, he has submitted with remarkable docility to the requirements of his physicians.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The death occurred in London of Viscount Cross, who was one of the prominent Conservative statesmen in England about thirty years ago.

With practically no ice available because of warm weather, hockey, skating and other winter sports are giving way in Alberta to baseball, soccer and lacrosse.

Magistrate Campbell of St. Catharines yesterday fined his own firm $1 among several other defendants charged with non-observance of the snow-shovelling bylaw.

The funeral of Mrs. Jacob Easterman of Wainfleet Township, near Welland, took place on Wednesday. Mrs. Easterman was born in Germany and was one hundred years old.

Captain James J. Riley, superintendent of pilots in Montreal, and examiner of candidates for certificates as masters or mates, died at the Mount Royal Sanitarium yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, of Grace Baptist Temple, Philadelphia, has refused a salary of $15,000 offered by the Calvary Baptist Church, New York. He now receives $10,000.

Andrew Carnegie recently reduced his fortune by $10,000,000, it became known yesterday, in making a gift of that amount to the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust in Dunfermline, Scotland.

Sir Rufus Isaacs, Lord Chief Justice of England, who was raised to the peerage on New Year's Day, has chosen the title of Lord Reading, the name of the town which he represented in the House of Commons from 1904 to 1911.

Youthful Criminals Arrested.

WELLAND, Jan. 9.—Four local boys, all under fourteen years of age, were taken into custody yesterday afternoon by the police. The youths confessed to being responsible for a series of petty thefts ranging over a period of two months. Clothing, copper wire, brass, poultry, iron and postoffice keys were included in their loot. Half a dozen houses and as many business places were entered.

Knows Nothing of Message.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Godfrey Isaacs when questioned by The New York Times said that he had received no report of a wireless transatlantic conversation, and he would have certainly heard if such had taken place. The wireless telephone experiments were proceeding, but it would be going too far to say that telephonic communication across the Atlantic had been established.

Less Than 1,000 Struck.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 9.—Less than a thousand of the 50,000 South African railroad employes who were expected to go on strike obeyed the strike order yesterday, and it is confidently believed that the general railway strike has fizzled out. Traffic has not been impeded to any noticeable extent.

No Split In Party

British Liberals Not Divided on Naval Issue, Says Minister

WHAT IT ALWAYS HAS BEEN

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Speaking at Keighley last night, the Solicitor-General, Sir Stanley Buckmaster, made a statement on the armaments question, which, in view of the recent utterances from Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Winston Churchill, will be regarded as of the highest importance. He assured his vast audience that there was not even a rift in the Liberal ranks on this issue.

Their policy had remained what it had always been — namely, "in the first place to preserve beyond risk the safety of ourselves and our Dominions, and to establish and maintain the unassailable superiority of the fleet at the same time," and with no less emphasis they meant to make it plain that "neither for aggrandizement nor aggression would we add a single unit to our naval strength."

Their object was to show "that as we wished only to maintain our own rights, so we did not seek to menace the rights of others, but desired good-will and friendship to all. It was their hope that this policy, plainly expressed and steadfastly pursued, would in the end exorcise a nightmare of suspicion and distrust under the pressure of which the nations of Europe gasped for breath. Nothing could more deeply shock the very soul of Liberalism than that their party should accelerate the rate of increase in armaments or lend themselves to the promotion of a scare between themselves and their fellow-citizens in Europe."

Fired Shot at Birrell.

DUBLIN, Jan. 9.—A bullet was fired through a window of Dublin Castle early Tuesday immediately under the room of Chief Secretary for Ireland, Augustine Birrell.

It is believed that it was fired from an airgun, as the sentries and the police, the detective service of which is nearby, heard no report.

The authorities think it was done as a protest against the constitution of a police commission to enquire into the recent disorders.

F. S. DuMoulin Consecrated.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9.—American and Canadian prelates of the Episcopal Church united yesterday at Trinity Cathedral here in the solemn rite of consecrating Very Rev. Frank S. DuMoulin, for seven years dean of Trinity, as coadjutor Bishop of Ohio.

WOULD LET 'EM OFF EASY.

Judge Favors 7 Days For Von Reuter and 3 For Schad.

STRASSBURG, Germany, Jan. 9.—Very light sentences were yesterday proposed by the judge advocate, acting as prosecutor of the German officers now under trial by court-martial, on an indictment charging them with illegal assumption of authority, wrongful imprisonment, and the invasion of private houses during the recent serious disorders between the military and civilians of Zabern, Alsace.

At the conclusion of the testimony, and the pleas for the prosecution and defence, the judge advocate suggested that Col. Von Reuter, commander of the 99th Infantry, should be sent to jail for seven days on the charge of wrongful imprisonment, while for Lieut. Schad a sentence of three days in jail for assault, was sufficient. The other charges were dropped.

The verdict is to be pronounced on Jan. 10.

Leeds May Get Wardenship.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 9.—With the municipal elections over the personnel of this year's council to represent the united counties of Leeds and Grenville is available. The representatives elected show that many new faces will be seen on the board. The majority of the old members have been returned and among these the choice for warden goes to Leeds County, with Hugh Stinson, reeve of Kitley, as the most likely candidate.

Expiated Crime In Jail.

MONTPELLIER, France, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Violet Geold, who with her husband, Vera St. Leger Goold, was serving a term of life imprisonment for the murder of Emma Levin in the summer of 1907, the crime being known as "The Monte Carlo trunk mystery," died in prison yesterday.

C. P. R.'s Building for 1914 Will Not Go Ahead Just Now

STATEMENT IS PUBLISHED

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—Discussion involving expenditures in the west by the C.P.R. have been carried on in Montreal during the past few days between Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and George Bury, with the result that appropriations have been passed.

A statement issued last night by the C. P. R. states:

"The position this year is somewhat different from that of former years; 1913 was a year when large and comprehensive schemes for extensions, betterments and double-tracking the company's system were pushed. These schemes cannot be completed in a day or two, and must be carried to a certain point before further extensions are undertaken, so that the expenditures estimated for in the western appropriations of 1914 are almost entirely confined for the present to the completion of tracklaying, etc., on grades already built, on branch lines, extensions and double-tracking, the latter of which will eventually connect with Vancouver and to the building of the Rogers' Pass tunnel, which will be pushed with vigor.

"So far as grading is concerned, no less than 600 miles are now ready for the rails, and there is extensive terminal work at Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, the completion of which has been provided for.

"The consideration of the new construction will come up again later in the year, when further data has been secured and there will be then another conference with the president."

Mr. Bury said that under the direction of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy C.P.R. expenditures had always been directed in accordance with the actual exigencies of traffic and with the building up of western Canada, and it was owing to this comprehensive policy that the C.P.R. in 1913 was able to move such a large grain traffic so expeditiously, at a time when the great strain of moving the harvest came. The facilities provided in rolling stock were such that car requirements in other directions were able to be met promptly and other traffic moved currently as well as the grain.

Regina Anxious as Date Set For Demonstration Arrives.

REGINA, Jan. 9.—Not knowing whether to expect murder, rapine and arson, or demonstrations with fiery talk and fiery banners, or merely a frost, Regina is on the anxious seat to-day in regard to the "unemployed" situation. The unemployed are not saying anything, so the authorities are preparing for any situation they may be called upon to face.

The entire police force will be on duty to-night when the unemployed have threatened to start their deadly work. The mounted police are ready to turn out and assist if anything serious develops.

The excitement is due to a letter said to have been written by "Jerry" Miner," the alleged leader of the "unemployed gang," threatening Regina with fire and violence if work is not found for the unemployed, and warning women and children to keep off the streets on Friday night.

SHOULD DRY PEACHES.

That Would Prevent Waste Says Fruit Growers President.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 9. — The problem of preventing a repetition of the great waste of peaches of last year was laid before the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon by Major Roberts, the president, who suggested the plan of drying the peaches for later shipment. Major Roberts regretted the fact that many growers paid more attention to quantity than to quality in their shipments. He contended that fruit growers required a business system even more than a manufacturing concern.

Mr. F. W. McIntosh, the transportation expert of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, suggested for the benefit of the growers and consumers that the speed of fruit cars be regulated by act of Parliament.

U. S. Buyers Can Have Old Cows Says J. A. Ruddick.

CORNWALL, Jan. 9.—Yesterday, the second day of the 17th annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, was cheese and butter-makers' day. It brought out a considerably larger attendance than did the opening.

In the morning, George H. Barr, chief of the dairy division, Ottawa, presented the report of the judges who handled the excellent display of cheese and butter put on exhibition.

L. A. Zufelt, superintendent of the Kingston Dairy School, gave an inspiring address on "Butter-making and Its Development in Eastern Ontario." He was followed by J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, Ottawa, who spoke on "Some Dairy Figures From the Census of 1911."

At the afternoon session G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, gave his report showing the advance made since the last convention. Addresses were made by A. J. Ayer and A. C. Wieland, export merchants of Montreal.

Another open meeting was held last night. J. R. Dargavel, M.P.P., honorary president, was in the chair and addresses were delivered by J. C. Milligan, M.P.P., Cornwall; Dr. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Andrew Breder, M.P., Morrisburg, and G. A. Putman, director of dairying, Toronto.

Mr. Ruddick said he did not altogether deplore the export of so many head of cattle.

"The swarm of United States drovers which overran Ontario and Quebec when the duty on cattle was removed was not an unmixed evil from the standpoint of the dairy industry," declared Mr. Ruddick.

"They are welcome to our worn-out and discredited cows, which were picked up in rather large numbers. This is a better way for the progressive farmer to dispose of his unprofitable animals than to sell them to his neighbors. The only regret we may have over this export of cattle is for the young, untried heifers, which unprecedented prices induced some farmers to part with."

COMMENCE THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

Headache, eyestrain or any trouble with your eyes or glasses may cause you many uncomfortable and painful days, or make impossible for doing perfect work with your studies or your business

IF YOU MUST WEAR GLASSES

Why not begin the year right? A little precaution and care now may be of untold value for each day, and even for years to come. Our Parlors are arranged especially for eye examination and we devote our entire time and study to the scientific examination of the eye and the furnishing of glasses. To Smokers.

You know that unpleasant, dry, "throaty" feel after a hard smoke? Pepe will remove it. Some smokers try gum, but gum has no effect whatever upon the membranes of the throat. Not only so, but that chewing habit is so disagreeable.

When next you have a sore mouth, "smoker's throat," or a heavy breath, try Pepe! One little Pep allowed to dissolve on your tongue will liberate pleasing pine essences which will bathe the inflamed throat membranes in a medicinal vapour bath. This will give you instant ease, and at the same time will sweeten the breath.

For a bad cold, sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, or any allied trouble, Pepe is the latest and best treatment. They are "the breathing treatment." When throat and lungs are ailing, don't you see how useless it is to swallow medicine into your stomach—an entirely different and unconnected organ. Get to the lungs and throat direct, and Pepe alone do that.

THE ROMANCE OF A RAILWAY TICKET

Bit of Pasteboard That Undergoes a Constant Process of Evolution

A SUPERHUMAN MACHINE

Activities of C. P. R. Passenger Department Beyond the Comprehension of an Ordinary Layman

If one had time one might trace, in a great department of the C. P. R., which is of itself a world in microcosm, the history and romance of a railway ticket, from the moment it is printed until a certain remorseless machine tears it at last to minute pieces which are put in bags and sent to the paper manufacturer, where it does not perish at all, but continues to live, and, by the law of the conservation of energy, fulfills its unceasing mission in endless transformations.

Hardly anybody knows of the existence of this great department of the C. P. R., which runs from Windsor street west to the end of the general offices, and in which 250 men and women are employed the year round.

This is the department devoted to the auditing of passenger receipts, and which is presided over by Mr. J. H. Shearing, who will tell you, laughingly, that when he first came to the C. P. R. there was only himself and two others to represent this accounting work, which has now grown to such enormous proportions.

"Yes, it is a big room," said Mr. Shearing, "but, judging by the ratio of growth, we will need in the not distant future a great deal more room. In fact, I have in my mind how much, but some might think it extravagant. However, I remember the advance in thirty years; and I feel that if we do not waste our resources but husband them, as I have seen smaller countries of Europe husband them, our advance in development and population could hardly have limits set to it. And don't you think that the C. P. R. will grow with this growth?"

In that vast department are 250 men and women at their desks, with bent heads, each with his or her allotted task of verification, or examination of conductors' reports, or checking agents' accounts, or figuring out the reciprocal obligations between the C. P. R. and the other companies with which relations are constantly sustained.

Work Is Complex.

Most of the army of workers are young, but one may note the grey head here and there. The work is complex to a degree. Reports and records and receipts are received from every station on the entire system. Every ticket sold must be accounted for to the last cent, and every step taken by a C. P. R. passenger upon another connected railway has to be explained. The conductors upon every train on the system have to report to this department, and send in their cheques and the money they have taken in. The reports would total monthly something like 20,000. Each is a big package, sealed, with the name of Mr. Shearing on the back. The contents are examined and compared, and the packages all put away.

All tickets, indeed, have to be put away and kept for years. The Interstate Commerce Commission made a law that tickets were to be kept seven years in the States; but they accumulated so that they had to be stacked up in the round houses of the systems. At last the managers of the roads begged the commission, with tears, to modify the law. They did.

But on the Canadian railways the tickets are kept for many months, sometimes for years. Then they are carried into the department, on the C. P. R. in which stands a big machine with two rollers, which show long iron gashes. Into a kind of hopper they are put and come out tiny bits of cardboard, sent at last, as has been stated, to other destinies and uses and missions.

There are accounts so hopelessly involved as it would seem that the average mind might well be baffled; but, then, it is not the average mind that is employed for this purpose on the C. P. R. It is the remarkable mind; the mind of the expert. This, in particular with reference to the determining of mutual obligation in respect of the degree in which use has been made by pasengers of other systems. There must not be a fraction of a cent of loss or advantage either way. Each at the end of the count must come out right. The degree of indebtedness must be fixed beyond peradventure. The ordinary mind would stagger; the complexity would dethrone the reason. There are men there who have made a lifelong study of this kind of work. Double or treble entry in bookkeeping is not a circumstance to it. The "pons asinorum" is child's play by comparison. The human mind, by long training, is found equal to the task. Of course you expect to see the faces of such men as do this work pallid and "sicklied over with the pale cast of thought," and that is the truth.

An Uncanny Machine.

And there are scores of young girls adding, checking off the agent's reports with the aid of adding machines. These latter display an almost diabolical subtlety and intelligence. They not only supplement the human brain. They beat it to a frazzle. They conquer and laugh at their maker.

It is uncanny. A young girl of ordinary intelligence sits at that machine and calls its profound mathematical lore to her aid and the resonse is instant and effectual. Indeed, but for the adding machine, the work could not, it might be said, be done at all, or done so slowly as to be ineffectual.

But this is only a segment of the work of this east department. It has to account for the tickets sold to 1,766,982,013 passengers during the year. It has to make a record of all the passengers for the various distances they travelled. Every revenue earning ticket over the entire C.P.R. system—that is in passenger service—has to be handled and certified and verified by this department. To merely state this hardly gives a notion of the minute and constant and painstaking care which are needed to accomplish the multiform ends in view, before that Moloch in the dark corner there "chaws" all the tickets up.

The tickets which have been used in all parts of the world find their last resting place in this department. The work includes all the steamships of the company in whatever part or clime or station—from the Atlantic, the Pacific, the lakes, the coastal service—all pour their receipts into the department, which examines them, verifies them, checks them, certifies them, and from chaos, or seeming chaos, brings order and regularity and safety, so that the dividend is secured through probity and minute analysis, as much as by statesmanship—if one dared say so.

At last, the railway statesmanship, by its policies, makes the dividends possible, and this department secures them, ticks them off, determines, in a sense, their amount.

Mr. Shearing is interested in distant Austria. He is concerned for the state of the old Emperor's health. He has an eye on Herr Ballin, the chief actor in the curious drama, the underlying motive of which has yet to be disclosed

For the receipts from the Austrian business of the C.P.R. flow into this department. This is the place where everything is submitted to a last and determined and implacable analysis. The tickets of the poor peasants who sneaker out of the country to prevent their enforced enlistment are among the vast piles which are stocked all over the place.

Romance of a Ticket.

"It is not hard to associate romantic and human interest with a railway ticket," said Mr. Shearing, reminiscently.

"A man buys a ticket when he is wearing a particular coat. He changes his coat when he is about to use that ticket, but he forgets to take the ticket out of his old coat. When he is asked on the train to show his ticket he fumbles and at last declares he has lost it. A lady, who is not in the habit of travelling a great deal, is apt to get 'put out' if she cannot find her ticket when the conductor asks for it. That seemed to upset her. She fumbled in her purse, her bag, and so forth in vain. 'I have lost it,' she said, in a kind of nervous misery.

"The conductor did not stay. He went about his duties for a while and returned. She had not found it, and she had rumaged again and again. The conductor respectfully asked to be allowed to help her. 'Oh, I know I have lost it,' she persisted. The conductor helped her and found it almost immediately in her bag.

"A lady in a Pullman put her purse on her bed after her section was made up. A gentleman who saw it remarked that that was putting temptation in the way of the porter or conductor, or other travellers and that if that purse was stolen, while the lady was in the dressing room, it might direct suspicion to innocent persons.

"The gentleman remarked this to the lady herself when she returned. 'Well, why didn't you come after me to the dressinging room with the purse?' she demanded.

"'Now, Jack,' said the gentleman's wife severely, 'perhaps you will mind your own business for the future.'

"And why, why, Mr. Shearing, must they be so long?"

"Because people travel by half a dozen or a dozen or a score of lines on this continent of vast distances, and each line must have its record. I do not think you can make the record less. If you do not have the long ticket you will have thick tickets—that is, you will have them doubled up like coupons as Cook does with his tourist tickets, which are so arranged that for everything you need, you simply hand out a coupon.

"But you can see at a glance, and without going into the minutiae of our work, how complete is the history of a railway ticket from the time it leaves the printer until it goes into that machine, and from that, in bits, proceeds to the paper factory."

Here Is the Secret of Long Life

While looking forward to health and long life it is possible that you are unaware of the conditions necessary to attain healthful old age. Careful eating, and consequent preservation of the health and vitality of the digestive and excretory organs, is of the greatest importance.

Overeating is the usual cause of torpid, sluggish liver action, and when the liver fails additional work is thrown on the kidneys and they break down. Kidney disorders are the great source of suffering in old age. Rheumatism, bodily pains, aching arms and legs, backache and lumbago are the result.

By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels, as occasion requires, you not only overcome the suffering, inconvenience and unpleasantness of attacks of biliousness, indigestion and constipation, but you actually prolong life by keping these organs in good, healthful condition. This medicine is a wonderful source of comfort for people in old age.

High Collar Not Worn.

Of one thing you may be sure, that no matter what the cut of the blouse or the coat you wear this winter, the low collar outbids all others for favour. It is worn on the street as well as the house, but women have become more expert in the handling of the dark coat collar which comes high at the back.

Possibly the dressmakers are more expert, for they have little for the women to do. They have abolished revers, and when they use a high collar, it is cut in the L'Aiglon fashion and made of fur, usually a striped fur, by the way. It is a temptation to talk about this use of broad stripes in pelt not grown by the animal; but that can try some of which are painted and wait over for another time.

The main thing to remember about the collarless blouse, when worn on the street is that something must be arranged to keep the coat from resting against the skin. Now that the fur wearing time has come, a woman can easily manage this by hiding the neck and the shoulders with her fur collar; but if she is one of those who believe in the danger of smothering her neck in fur every day, she must comit revers and arrange a standing frill of lace or net to rise about the dark cloth of the coat.

ORIGIN OF BANKING

The first modern bank in England was established in London about 1663 by Francis Child, who died in 1713 In ancient Greece, Rome and Babylon there were banks similar to present day institutions. Banking reappeared first in Italy upon the revival of civilization, the Lombard Jews establishing banks in that country as early as the ninth century. The business of banking spread from Florence over Italy and to France and Holland. The mint in the Tower of London was the depository for the cash of London merchants until Charles I. seized the money as a loan. The traders then began to lodge their money with the goldsmiths in Lombard Street. Francis Child was one of those, and he found the business so profitable that he determined to devote his entire time to banking. He visited Holland, where several banks had been established for some time, and studied the methods in vogue there, applying them to his own transactions. Within a few years he had many competitors, and Lombard Street abounded in banks. The first run on the London bankers occurred in 1667. The Bank of England was founded in 1694.

VOLUMES OF RECORDS

Unique Collection of Blue Books in House of Commons

To many people the House of Commons library in London, England, would present the spectacle of shelves laden with good looking books but never a book to read. The collection of official records is the most complete of its kind, with the exception of that in the British Museum.

The dusting alone of the 100,000 volumes occupies nearly six weeks.

All the latest blue books and the legislative enactments of every self-governing colony are constantly added to the miles of shelves and catalogued in readiness for the first unexpected query. The Federated Malay States, for instance, might cable at any moment for the words used by statesmen a century ago on colonial expansion.

In many respects the House of Commons library is unique. It contains all the Parliamentary journals from 1547, the earliest records being in manuscript. There is the original death warrant of Charles' I. and the journal from which Cromwell tore a page of proceedings. Not a single novel finds a place in the collection—not a paragraph of fiction in the million pages of official doings!

European Monkeys

One of the rarest of living creatures is undoubtedly a European monkey. The only place in the Continent where these animals may be found is on the rock of Gibraltar. They are of the type known as Barbary apes, and are about the size of a terrier dog. A most noticeable feature is that they do not possess tails.

Only about twenty of the apes exist, and only by unceasing protection and artificial feeding is the species preserved.

Many theories are advanced as to how these apes first came to Gibraltar. A popular idea is that a subterranean passage exists between the rock and the adjacent coast of Africa, and that the monkeys pass to and fro; but the more matter-of-fact theory that they were originally imported by some local inhabitant is probably correct.

Costly Apples

A schoolboy was fined by the Stradbroke (Suffolk) magistrates $2.90, including costs, for stealing ten apples.

Election in a Belfry

The election of the Mayor of Brightlingsea, Essex, took place with old-world ceremony in the belfry in the parish church.

Thought She Would Go Mad WITH HEADACHE.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, for with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time. Headache powders just relieve for the time being, but what is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all descriptions than Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Althea Bowman, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I have suffered terribly with my head for weeks at a time till I thought I would go mad. A friend advised me to give Burdock Blood Bitters a trial, so I got a bottle and found relief. I have used four bottles in all and I am glad to say that I have had no more headaches since. I would advise all sufferers to give it a fair trial."

BLACK, GREEN or MIXED

ANCIENT DIVING BELLS.

Diving bells were first mentioned, though somewhat obscurely, by Aristole about 325 B.C. They were used in Europe about 1500 A.D. One is said to have been used on the coats of Mull, Scotland, in searching for the wreck of part of the Spanish Armada before 1682.

Halley, about 1716, greatly improved this machine, and was, it was said, the first who, by means of a diving bell, set his foot on the ground at the bottom of the sea. Smeaton made use of the diving bell in improving Ramsgate harbour. A man named Spalding was drowned with his assistants going down in a diving bell on the Irish coast.

The British man-of-war, Royal George, sunk off Portsmouth in 1782, was first surveyed by means of a diving bell in 1817. The talpa marine, or sea mole, a diving machine for laying torpedoes and the like, being a cylinder provided with compressed air sufficient for two persons for 50 hours was invented by Toaselli, a Venetian, and was successfully tried in the Bay of Naples in 1871.

CANADA'S MINERALS A MIGHTY RESERVE

East and West There Is Much Exploration to be Done in Years to Come

Canada's wealth of minerals is strikingly shown in a pamphlet issued by the Dominion Department of Mines. In a brief introductory statement some interesting data are given respecting the main geographic and geologic features of the country. Its area of about 3,739,035 square miles—larger by 112,000 square miles than that of the United States, including Alaska—comprehends six great physiographic units. Of these the greatest covers an area of over 2,000,000 square miles extending in a more or less U shape from Labrador on the east to Coronation Gulf on the west, bordering the great Hudson Bay Depression. This area, designated the Laurentian Peneplain or Plateau is a region of great potential importance as a producer of minerals of economic value. Within this region occur the phosphate deposits of the Ottawa Valley; the silver mines of Cobalt; the gold deposits of Porcupine; the nickel-copper deposits of Sudbury and the iron mines of the Michipicoten district. The importance, the department officials state—already demonstrated as a source of such minerals as graphite, feldspar, mica, corundum, iron ores—both magnetites and hematites—silver, cobalt, copper, nickel and gold—will undoubtedly be greatly extended in the future.

The second regional unit is the Hudson Bay basin, occupying a central depression in the Laurentian Plateau, of which the coastal plain is largely unexplored but is known to contain deposits of rock salt and gypsum. Southeast of the Laurentian Plateau, including that part of Quebec south of the St. Lawrence and east of Sherbrooke, and the whole of the Maritime Provinces is the Acadian region. In its eastern section—Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are found very important coal fields and other mineral products are copper, gold, sulphur, gypsum, oil, gas, sandstones, limestones, clays and building and ornamental stones of various kinds. Next of the regional units is the St. Lawrence plain, extending from Quebec to Lake Huron and including the low land areas of Ontario. Although essentially an agricultural area it contains salt, gypsum, natural gas, petroleum, building stones, brick clays and the raw material of various cements, limes and mortars. Westward from Winnipeg is the Great Plains Area, extending to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, a distance of 600 miles, and northward from the boundary to the Arctic Ocean. The southern parts produce natural gas, building stones and raw material for cements and mortars—the northern part is only partially explored but is known to contain deposits of rock salt, gypsum coal and tar sands. More important are the deposits of lignum coal. Next to this area is the mountain ranges with immense reserve of bituminous coal, while the Cordilleran belt has valuable deposits of economic minerals, and especially silver, gold and copper. This region when fully explored "is destined to become one of the most important mining sections of the world."

OLD KITCHENS ENORMOUS

One Was Twenty-eight Feet High With Oven to Correspond

The kitchens of olden times seem to have been of extraordinary size, judging from investigations made by an English historical society. At Hurstmonceux there was a kitchen twenty-eight feet high, with three huge fireplaces, and a bakehouse with an oven fourteen feet in diameter.

There is an old Welsh kitchen near Llandudno, dating from the fifteenth century, which has many primitive culinary contrivances, now obsolete or superseded by modern devices. Among these curious old devices may be mentioned a meatjack with a fly-wheel, a steel toasting stand and a fan bellows.

At Battle Abbey there is a curious old kitchen containing much of interest to the antiquary, and a kitchen at St. Mary's Hall, Coventry, is remarkable for the famous "knaves' post," to which, it appears, refractory scullions were temporarily attached by way of punishment.

There is a mediæval kitchen at Westminster Abbae although little remains by which to identify it aside from the rubble flooring, the buttery hatch and an adjoining cellar. Hampton Court Palace shows its "great kitchen," with vaulted roof and sets of antlers on its walls.

Englishmen of other days fully recognized the advantages of a large kitchen. There is extant an order, dated April 19, 1206, wherein Hugh de Nevill is commanded to have the king's kitchen at Clarendon roofed with shingles and to cause two new kitchens to be erected, one at Marlborough and the other at Ludgershall, in which "to dress" the royal dinners. In this order it is stated that "It is particularly directed that each kitchen shall be provided with a furnace sufficiently large to roast two or three oxen."

Appendicitis in Ancient Egypt

Presiding at a lecture given on some researches among the ancient Egyptian tombs, Captain H. G. Lyons, F.R.S., late Director-General of the Egyptian Survey, said that some of the bodies in the tombs were wonderfully preserved. In a tomb at Assouan, the body of a girl was discovered, and anatomists who examined it were able to make out beyond all questions, so excellently had the soft tissues remained, that she had suffered from appendicitis.

HOSPITAL NURSES OF BRITISH ARMY

They Find Soldiers Very Cheerful Patients, Unselfish and for the Most Part Unafraid of Death

A nurse in a British Army hospital soon finds there is not a more cheery philosopher anywhere than Tommy Atkins, whether he is sick or well.

Even in peace time, says a nurse writing in London Answers, you may acquire all the optimism you need by serving in a hospital in India when the cholera is raging, or at Malta when the "Mediterranean fever" is more than usually remorseless; but my experience of war hospitals has left me nothing to learn about the heroic side of human nature.

What a lot I could tell you, her story ran, of soldiers' conduct under cruel suffering—of how I have seen the wounded helping one another—or how I have seen men offer a part of the luxuries ordered for them to men they considered worse off, whenever supplies ran short.

Indifferent to Death

The heroic indifference of soldiers to death in the war hospitals I have often thought surprising.

"I 'spect I don't go out of 'ere except feet first on a corfin, sister," one man quietly remarked. Another said to me one day: "I see poor Barney's a 'goner.' They've been givin' him wine; and you don't get wine in this crib unless you're a 'goner.'"

Murphy had been ill with fever, and when his temperature was going down, and he thought he would have to go to make room for other cases, he would whisper: "Dip that temperature tube in the brandy flask, sister, 'fore I suck it, then me temperature's sure to fly up and fool the doctor."

"By Bearer"

On the whole, we have perhaps a better time than our sisters in civil hospitals. For one thing, we see more of the world, and our work, too, is more varied, for abroad one has to deal with diseases rarely met with at home. We do not in these days go right to the firing-line to pick up the wounded, for all that is left to the "bearer companies" of the Army Medical Deparment, who are supplemented by the bandsmen and drummers of the regiments engaged.

We cannot, however, quite treat our patients on the democratic system that obtains in civilian hospitals; for we must be careful to remember what is due to military ranks and appointments, and what would happen I don't know if we asked a sergeant-major to peel potatoes or put a private in an officer's ward!

Naming the Baby

A Hindoo baby is named when it is twelve days old, usually by the mother. Sometimes the father is not satisfied with the name selected by the mother, and suggests another name. In such a case two lighted candles of equal size are placed over the two names, and the name under the candle that burns the longer is given to the child.

EARLY ENGLISH HOMES

Houses Started With One Room and Were Gradually Enlarged

English common people for centuries made their homes in wooden huts of one room. When a family increased in number or wealth another hut was built to it, or rather a lean-to was added, and another and another as needs required. Sometimes they followed a straight line, other times they were built out from the central hut at various angles. The roofs of these huts were thatched. In the centre was left an opening for the fumes and smoke of the fire to escape. The fire was always built in a hollow in the centre of the room. Beds were straw, often a shakedown in a corner. Occasionally the straw was held in a frame like the ribs of a ship.

Houses built by Saxon knights were much more pretentious. They were big halls, like the Roman atrium, with a lofty roof thatched with slate or wood shingles. The floor was hard clay. In the middle was a great fire of dry wood. The thin, acrid smoke from the fire escaped through an opening in the roof directly above the hearth.

Around the fire were long benches on which hearthsmen and visitors sat when not fighting or at work and talked and drank the hours through. The tables were long boards on trestles. At night, like the less prosperous folks, the floor was strewn with straw and host and visitors slept together.

If Hair Is Turning Grey, Use Sage Tea

Here's Grandmother's Receipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair

The beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns grey, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth' Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural colour, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

SALT FOR COWS

Increases Flow of Milk and Acts Like Condition Powder

Dairy cows in milk require salt daily to do their best work. A lump of rock salt thrown somewhere in the yard may do for the young stock, but cows need a greater quantity than they can get by occasionally licking rock salt. Cows will take a tablespoonful of salt every day, and when they get this quantity they will drink more regularly and give more milk.

Salt is required in the system and animals that are deprived of salt entirely lose their vitality. In "Henry's Feeds and Feeding," an experiment on the use of salt for dairy cows is described, and the following facts are cited: "In every case the cows exhibited an abnormal appetite for salt after having been deprived of it for two or three weeks, but in no case did the health of the animal, as shown by the general appearance, the live weight, or the yield of milk, appear to be affected till a much longer time had elapsed. There was finally reached a condition of low vitality in which a sudden, complete breakdown occurred. This stage was marked by a loss of appetite, a general haggard appearance, lustreless eyes, a rough coat and a very rapid decline in both live weight and milk. If salt was supplied at this period recovery was rapid." The time from which the salt was withheld until had results showed varied with different animals, from a month to a year.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Ninga, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

INDIA'S COSTLY SPORT

Elephants Are Led by Thirst to Enter Trap

Every five years there is a great elephant hunt in Mysore, India. The operations connected with a single hunt cost the Government more than $5,000. For months beforehand native keepers and beaters are employed in gradually but persistently working jungles to an enclosure 40 miles away. According to a prearranged scheme the elephants are driven into such a position that they cannot get water except at a great tank enclosed in timber palisades. The elephants may hesitate for a long time to enter this pool, but finally, driven by thirst, they enter, and the gates of which there are five in number, are dropped in place by men concealed in the trees, who release the ropes as soon as they see the elephants within the enclosure. Then men on elephants and beaters drive the animals into a smaller enclosure, where they can be caught roped.

All Home Comforts

The central prison at Cettinje, the capital of Montenegro, is probably the most easy-going in the world. No walls surround it, and the inmates furnish their own cells just as they please, and seem to stay there only because they find their quarters comfortable.

The diet is liberal, with wine on occasions, and always cigarettes. There is no work to do, and no distinctive garb is worn, and comparatively free intercourse is allowed with the outside world. On certain feast days, indeed, the prisoners are even allowed to entertain friends.

MODERN TRAVEL

Wonders Wrought in Century by the Steam Locomotive

The railway locomotive is just over one hundred years old, and at first it exercised but a small part of its present tremendous influence on the business of the world. We get some idea of the comparatively recent advent of the railway when we remember that Queen Victoria was the first British monarch to use the railway as a means of travel. This was in 1842. "We arrived here yesterday morning," she wrote from Buckingham Palace to the King of the Belgians, "having come from Windsor in half an hour, free from dust and crowd and heat, and I am quite charmed with it." It was the Prince Consort who had persuaded the Queen to make the adventure by rail, to which she was adverse. He had already made frequent trips by rail, but, as a writer in the London Chronicle says, he was not quite hardened to it, as he had been heard to say, on alighting from the train, "Not quite so fast, next time, Mr. Conductor, if you please."

That was not very long ago, and already railways girdle the world and trains travel at three or four times the speed that alarmed the Prince Consort. Everything has been revolutionized by the railways. In an Ontario town there is a business man who, although he has lived beside a railway all his life, never boarded a train. It appears that he dreads the velocity of so much weight. So far as he is concerned, he feels that to travel in a train would be unsafe. Occasionally similar cases of people entirely unused to railway travel are found in progressive Canadian communities.

Terribly Afflicted With Lame Back.

Could Not Sweep The Floor.

When the back aches and pains it is almost impossible for women to do their housework, for every move and every turn means an ache or a pain.

Women are beginning to understand that weak, lame, and aching backs from which they suffer so much are due to wrong action of the kidneys, and should be attended to at once so as to avoid years of suffering from kidney trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong with the back Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken.

They go right to the seat of the trouble.

Mrs. Wilfrid Jolicoeur, Nouvelle, Que., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About three years ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad I could not sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I only used three boxes, and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

The BUBBLE IN THE BLOOD

BY WILLIAM CHESTER ESTABROOK.

(Copyright, 1911, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

A SENTIMENT has long been abroad that Opportunity knocks at least once on every man's door. Indeed, it has been claimed that it knocks not only once on some men's doors but breaks the door down with an axe and, entering, wakes the sleeper and serves him ever after in the capacity of night watchman. To these two classes of fortunates—the ones who receive the single knock and the ones who are favored with the axe—I hereby humbly append a third—those on whose door Opportunity knocks time and again, but who, though plainly hearing the fickle rascal, wait yawningly till he offers his best on his easiest terms. I have reasons for this classification; I want Jimmy Martindale to have his proper place.

My acquaintance with Jimmy came by way of his cousin, E. Montgomery Martindale. Ah, there was a man after my own heart; I mean my heart as it used to be.

E. Montgomery was a big, a handsome man, with winning ways. He liked to be called "hypnotic." He was also a promoter. I blush to say it in these degenerate days, when one has to be constantly kicking promoters out of one's way. But eight years ago I said it with an enthusiasm that turned every syllable into a titillation as it rolled from my admiring tongue—E. Montgomery Martindale, Promoter.

I can't for the life of me remember when I first met E. Montgomery. I have the feeling that I must have known him always. Other people who knew him for but a few hours confess to the same feeling. He was the sort of man who comes to you, if he wants to, in spite of every difficulty, sounding himself, as it were, through the pores of the densest obstacle.

My first and only visit to Jimmy's place was the result of an accident. E. Montgomery, who was desirous of presenting some huge business proposition for my consideration, had taken me out in his automobile for a long, uninterrupted talk. Automobiles were even less reliable in those days, and three miles out of town ours broke down. "We'll leave the machine here and walk across the fields to Jimmy's," E. Montgomery said. "We'll telephone in for a team and while it's coming we'll talk. Jimmy's is just as safe a place as we could find."

Jimmy's place gave me a pretty fair notion of what Jimmy must be by the time we had opened his front gate and started up his walk. It was a nice gravel walk, immaculately kept and bordered by lines of small whitewashed bowlders, each one so exactly like its mates that I immediately concluded their owner must have spent years matching them up. Beds of pale petunias, innocent daisies, cosmos flowers of neutral shades and occasional clumps of gentle lavender and soothing asparagus modestly accompanied the funereal lines to the door. There was no riot of color in Jimmy's garden; it was more like a prayer meeting than a riot.

The house, a queer little drab affair, peeked shyly down the walk, as if half minded to cut and run.

"What sort of woman is your cousin's wife?" I asked E. Montgomery, without knowing why.

He laughed. "Good Lord, Jimmy's not married!" he said, as if the mere idea were ridiculous enough. "He never will marry."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because it takes initiative to marry," he replied, "and initiative isn't Jimmy's long suit. He hasn't got the nerve. No, Jimmy lives out here all alone. Keeps chickens and sells eggs. As a Martindale he's a joke."

A lilac bush at the corner hid a little porch which snuggled against the walls of the house like a bashful child trying to hide in it's bashful mother's skirt.

What astonished me was the unceremoniousness of entrance. E. Montgomery boldly opened the screen porch door, motioned me to one of the porch chairs and pushing his way to the front room soon returned with a huge scratch tablet, which he balanced tentatively upon one knee.

I lifted my eyebrows interrogatively.

"He's out feeding his chickens," said E. Montgomery, "but don't let that keep you from feeling perfectly at home."

He draped one long leg over the porch couch and stirred the other rocker gently with his foot. While he talked, as only E. Montgomery could talk, he made casual thrusts with a long, fat pencil at the pages of the scratch book.

It was then and there that I first heard of Mountain Gap City, a little town some two hundred miles distant. E. Montgomery was going to do things at—or to—Mountain Gap City, and do them, if I didn't mind, with the trivial and really unnecessary assistance of my money. Every time the long, fat pencil made a thrust it left behind a row of figures, always a little row for the money that was to be spent and always a big row for the money that was to be made.

We had been talking about a quarter of an hour when Jimmy came.

"Just got here a minute ago, Jimmy. Mr. Gilmore, this is my cousin, Mr. Martindale," said E. Montgomery, with exactly the voice and manner that my father used to use in introducing me as a boy to strangers. It was just like his "This, Mr. Blank, is my little son Wordsworth. Shake hands with the gentleman, Wordsworth."

Jimmy gave me a noncommittal hand. He sank back softly on the portion of the couch not already occupied by his cousin, and I saw that he wore gray hose and gray carpet slippers. I don't know why I should have noticed such trivial things unless it was that they seemed as assertive as anything else about him. He sat there shyly without speaking.

Insignificant Little Jimmy.

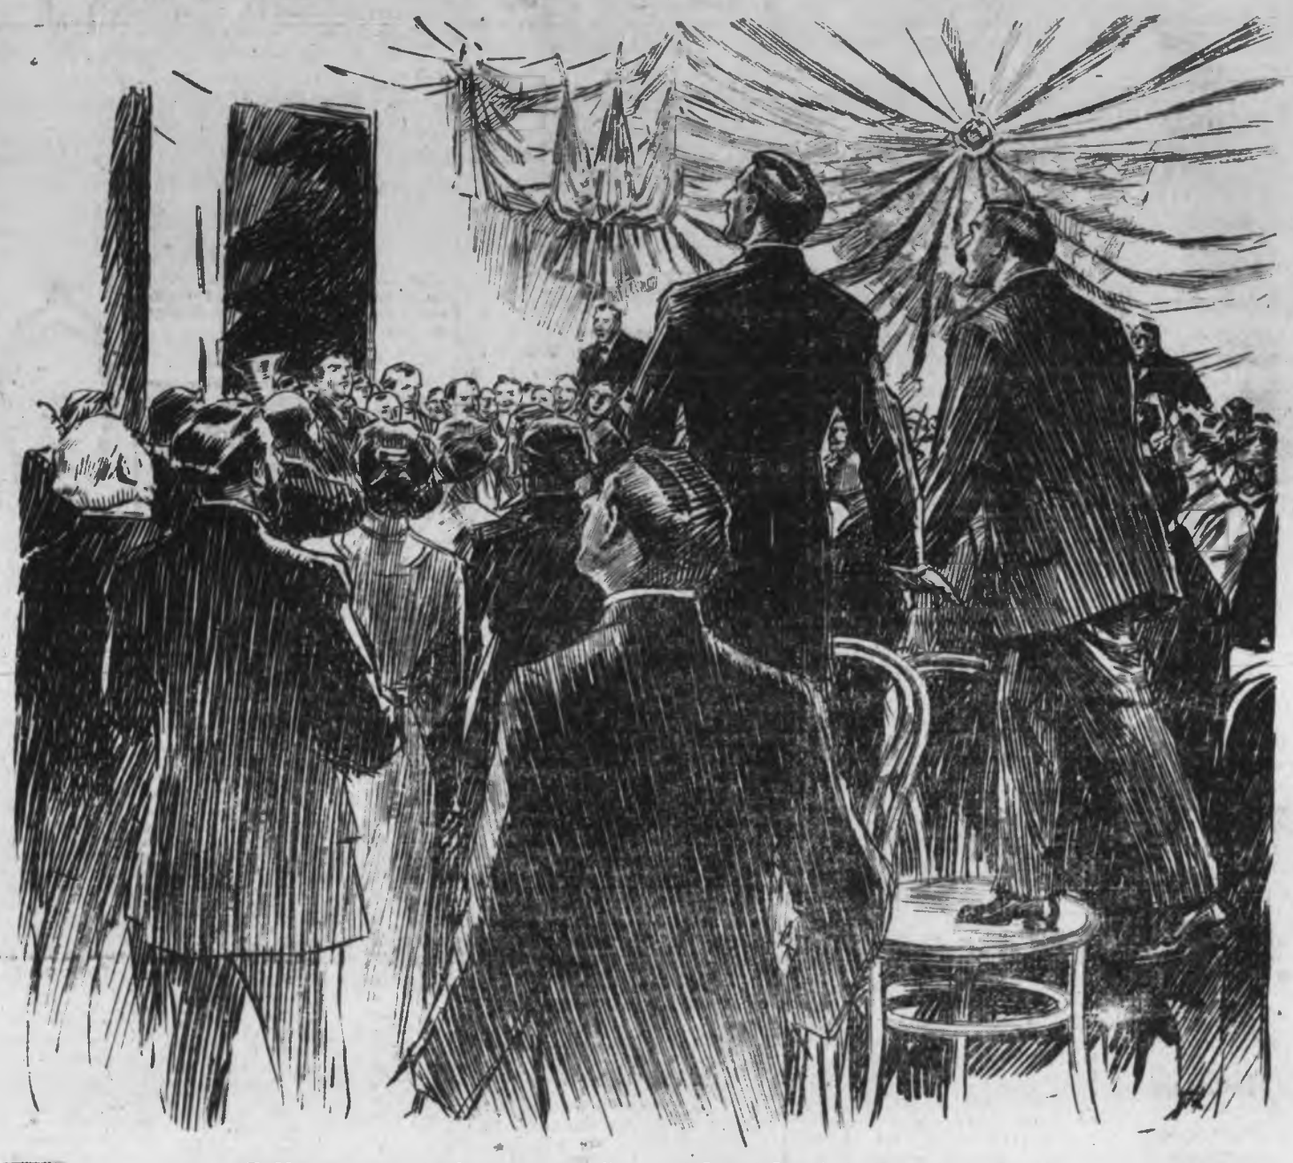
Indeed, there was little chance for him to talk. E. Montgomery, after the introduction, reverted to Mountain Gap City without the loss of a single breath. That was something of a surprise for me. I didn't relish having our most intimate business relations shared by Jimmy.

The little man compelled my occasional notice even while E. Montgomery was talking to me. His very insignificance was so pronounced, paradoxical as that may seem, that it excited my curiosity.

He was as innocent of expression as a white saucer, so completely his features seemed to have withdrawn into the general contour of his face. This withdrawal had been accomplished apparently by a process of gradual elimination. It was as if the faint fuss that must have once composed his eyebrows had departed, leaving the burden of proof to be borne by a half dozen pale blood hairs. Of the wrinkles which one expects about a mouth like his but two remained—sad lines starting from the corners and fading away somewhere on the chin. His eyes were merely two little faded points of blue. Never in my life, I thought at the time, had I seen a man who possessed so many of the earmarks of rank incompetency.

He took no part in our conversation, but sat idly and without apparent attention, except once when E. Montgomery's plans threatened some one's financial composure, when he made that pitying, sympathetic noise with the tongue against the palate—a trick not yet forgotten by very old people. I recalled then that E. Montgomery had told me that Jimmy was simply too honest for his own good.

Gradually, as E. Montgomery talked on, my resentment at Jimmy's presence weakened. He was such a negligible little man, was probably just what E. Montgomery in his profound knowledge of human nature had long ago learned—merely a part of the general landscape, as much to be noticed as the cows in the distant pasture, as the chickens in the back yard, as the funereal lines of bowlders that led up to the shrinking abode.



"E. Montgomery and I Sprang to Our Chairs and Craned Our Necks Towards the Door."

E. Montgomery, who had come through a seemingly interminable amount of stuff about water power rights and railroad franchises, had now reached the crux of his plan.

"The C. & N. has been promising for twenty years to put Mountain Gap on a branch road," said he impressively. "But it hasn't done it yet and it won't till it has to. It has the idea that Mountain Gap will stage and freight to its main line through thirty miles of alkali and keep it up till the crack of doom. Mountain Gap thinks it ought to have a railroad and it thinks the C. & N. ought to build it. I'll go further—it would rather the C. & N. build it than any one else. It's a big system and it does things right when it does them at all. They're a bit leary of the little jerkwater companies. As I have said, three attempts have been made already by local companies to build the road, but just as soon as the C. & N. was informed of the scheme it got busy with its promises and threats to build a parallel line and has scared the little fellows out. Summing it all up, the town wants the road, it would like the C. & N. to build it and it isn't bursting with faith that it will be built at all.

"That was the status of affairs when I went there a month ago. I found out, before I committed myself to any policy, that it was easier to work up sentiment for the C. & N. than for myself, who was a stranger to the town. The failure of former local companies would have made it pretty hard going for me, so I gave it out judiciously, and to the right parties, that the C. & N. was tentatively backing me, that I was their stalking horse. That set things to going nicely but quietly. It enabled me to get an immediate hold on the proper people. I let it be known that certain concessions of power rights from Mountain Gap Falls and certain very liberal railroad franchises must be clinched before the actual building of the road would begin. We resurrected the defunct Mountain Gap Commercial Club and we are going to have a boosting banquet and mass meeting two weeks from to-night. I am the committee that looks after 'guests from a distance.' There will be but two of any importance—you, who are only a 'personal friend' of mine, and a special representative of old Wakefield, president of the C. & N., who comes as a 'higher up' man to consummate my own humble efforts and plans and preliminary work. Only he doesn't come."

He stopped there a moment to let me catch the full force of that last statement. To give out that a great corporation was backing you when it didn't know you from Adam, actually to pretend that it was to send a man of authority to put the finishing touches to a scheme of which it was ignorant and which had hitherto been in direct opposition to its plans, seemed to me the veriest flapdoodle, and I wasn't long in saying so.

Jimmy was apparently deep in his own little thoughts. E. Montgomery smiled at me indulgently.

"There's where I direct an easily won enthusiasm to us," he said, his black eyes snapping with the zest of the plan. "Picture it all out to yourself! Here's Mountain Gap, that has been waiting twenty years to dismiss her stage. She is about to realize her dream; she is about to get her railroad. She prepares a feast for the special representative of the man who has at last condescended to build the road—with proper concessions. She puts on her best bib and tucker and awaits her guest. They want to see the man of final authority. The evening stage comes in—the one which is to bring that distinguished gentleman—but, to paraphrase the small boy, 'They ain't goin' to be no special representative.' Sadly the crowd takes its seat at the banquet. It's the play without Hamlet.

"The man who was to begin 'We have with us to-night' says instead, 'Fortunately there happens to be present—ah—er—a Mr. Gilmore, of Omaha, who will favor us with a line of talk on "What a Railroad Means." You arise and give the aforesaid line; you praise the C. & N. from its president down to its section bosses; you know that only the most unforeseen and serious complications could have detained the great president's special representative; you are sure we shall hear from him before the evening is over, and so forth and so forth.

"But we don't hear, that evening or any other time. I play the disappointment for all it's worth, and in a few days everybody in town is on the squeal. It was a dirty throwdown! They hadn't the decency to apologize for their representative's absence; it was their same old trick. The feeling against them gets hotter hotter. Just at the right moment you and I cut loose from such unprincipled masters and modestly put ourselves forward on our own responsibility. We organize a home company and, with your financial support, we'll push the game along until we can unload our concessions on somebody—preferably the C. & N.—clean up our pile and leave Mountain Gap to its fate.

Stirring His Resentment.

"Remember that Mountain Gap is thirty miles from the nearest C. & N. office and two thousand miles from the C. & N. headquarters. The very fact that we are working ostensibly for the C. & N. would disarm suspicion if there were any suspicion to disarm. Of course, I am supposed to have received assurance that the representative would be there; that is a matter which is wholly within my own hands. By this plan, simple as it is, we gain three things—a confidence which is loaned us by the use of the C. & N.'s name, an enthusiasm which it would be difficult otherwise to raise, and the killing of the last vestige of sentiment for the C. & N. With those things accomplished we are two chumps if we can't clinch a goodly interest in the water power rights and railroad franchises."

We finally finished the elaboration of our scheme and made ready to go. "Now, Jimmy, if you want to take advantage of what you've heard and beat us to it, you've got my permission." E. Montgomery grinned facetiously. Jimmy flushed ever so faintly under the taunt and I imagined I saw something like resentment way back in his faded eyes.

"He's a queer piece, that cousin of yours," I ventured when we were driving back home.

"Oh, he's hopeless—absolutely hopeless," E. Montgomery declared. "Strange, too. He ought to have the very choicest of the Martindale blood in his veins. My father was one of the slickest promoters—although we didn't call 'em that then—that this neck of the woods ever knew. His sister, Jimmy's mother, was just as shrewd as he and had tremendous energy. Nor was Jimmy's father a slouch by any means. But it hasn't done Jimmy any good; running a little chicken farm seems to be about his size. We once hoped he might have what Grandfather Martindale called 'the bubble in the blood.' The old man devoutly believed that blood would tell. Even when heredity had slipped a cog, as in Jimmy's case, he contended that the predominant family trait—the bubble in the blood, he called it—was lurking back somewhere waiting for its chance. In the Martindale family the 'bubble' has always been the ability to see things before other people saw them and to get hold of them without silly scruples. But Jimmy's 'bubble' evidently isn't there. I wonder sometimes if his blood isn't all soup?"

E. Montgomery went immediately to Mountain Gap City. I didn't go till a fortnight later, arriving by the forenoon stage on the day of the banquet.

E. Montgomery had arranged a welcome for me at Mountain Gap which left nothing to be desired. I was really overwhelmed. By nightfall I had been slapped on the shoulders and shaken by the fingers till I ached in every joint.

About seven o'clock E. Montgomery and I sauntered over to the banquet hall, which was the old skating ring disguised for the evening. The feminine portion of Mountain Gap had certainly done its share in converting a big, homely room into a place of real beauty. I'm not much on description, but there were yards and yards of bunting, flags galore, long rows of linen covered tables and piles of good things to eat. White gowned women were everywhere. The Mountain Gap Band, its faces shaved till they shone like its horns, were already at nervous tension on the stand erected for them in one corner. As I passed I noticed "See, the Conquering Hero Comes" on the leader's desk.

I had a sudden twinge of conscience. What had struck me as an exceedingly smart financial twist now seemed but little above downright rascality. I have always been glad to know that if I could have backed out of the proposition right then and there I would have done so. I was younger then and money and its making were both new to me. My wealth had come to me suddenly, and before its arrival I had been thoroughly acquainted with all sorts of hard labor. I now saw over every iced and decorated cake a hot, tired face. Mountain Gap had not arrived at the caterer's state; it prepared its own banquets. I knew that there had been a certain amount of personal sacrifice for everything the tables held and for every flag and length of bunting. It was then that I got my first disgust at E. Montgomery Martindale.

"They've done every turn of this themselves," he boasted, as we walked inspecting the feast. "Some of them have been pottering around here these four days—and it's all for glory and the road. It's a great scheme that—introduces the personal element, and the personal element, I find, has been neglected heretofore. When the 'president's representative' fails to show up and also fails to explain his absence every man and woman and child who has had a finger in this preparation will be hot as a hornet."

At half-past seven the crowd in the hall had become a crush. Every one was on tip-toe. Twelve hundred persons were about to be delivered from the torment of lumbering stages, the commodities of everyday life were to be cheapened, civilization was to be brought a little nearer.

The committee of welcome and their guest were expected every minute. E. Montgomery was keyed to the top notch. "Think of all this enthusiasm being turned to our account!" he whispered to me. "And it's been so dead easy that I'm half ashamed of it. We've literally ridden into the main tent on the C. & N.'s shoulders! Imagine the howl that will go up when the committee comes to the hall—empty handed!"

Just then there was a mighty noise on the outside, but it wasn't exactly a howl. It approached the entrance to the hall and there was a swaying back of the crowd to permit some one's coming. The band smashed excitedly into its welcoming air.

E. Montgomery and I sprang to our chairs and craned our necks toward the door. Three fat and triumphant committeemen started down the middle aisle. For just an instant they concealed the man whom they were escorting, then the middle committeeman moved pompously aside and between the other two Jimmy Martindale came forward to his chair.

I turned my horrified gaze on E. Montgomery. It's strange what tricks one's mind plays in such crises. When I glimpsed his face I harked back instantly to the color of the catfish we kids used to snake out of the old Luray dam—the color of them an inch or two below the gills.

There was just the trace of something like recognition in Jimmy's faded eyes, not too much, not too little, but the proper amount for a man who fatuously realizing, amid the crush of especially representing a vast amount of capital, that he has probably talked to some one about the building of thirty miles of not very important railroad.

Jimmy's Trump Card.

We were b's and he knew it. He knew that we knew it, which was even more to the point. He could have ruined us with a half dozen words. Once during the prandial preliminaries I caught E. Montgomery's eye fixed with pathetic perplexity on my own. To see pathetic perplexity in an eye of E. Montgomery Martindale's was enough to bring misgiving to the stoutest heart.

Everything was as plain to me now as it must have been to him. Jimmy had accepted the dare and gone East, had seen Wakefield, had opened the great man's eyes to all that was at stake in Mountain Gap City and had come back—his personal representative.

Somehow or other the evening dragged along. I prayed that there might be no disastrous development before all those people, no hitch in whatever Jimmy had planned. To play the farce out after the new and astonishing lines he had interpolated seemed to me almost necessary to our personal safety.

It was when he rose for the speech that was to be the principal feature of the evening that our hearts smote our ribs. It was a strange little speech, punctuated by embarrassing pauses and a cough as deprecating as Rockefeller's own. After two minutes and a half of his allotted thirty, in which he assured them that the road would be built, he sat down. Did a disappointed silence greet his plaintive effort? Not on your life!

Here was a modest, painfully shy little man, as unpretentious as their humble selves, a man with millions behind him, and he had come among them like this and been so overwrought by their presence that he could do little more than render incoherent thanks. They nearly tore the old rink down in their unrestrained glee.

E. Montgomery looked across at me, and this time there was a month's likness in his gaze. The little speech I had prepared on "What a Railroad Means" was overlooked. After the banquet we buzzed around on the outside of Jimmy's admiring groups, always maintaining the proper inferiority for satellites to their planet. It must have been gall and wormwood to E. Montgomery.

Late that night the franchise committee met and we got down to business, or rather Jimmy did. I believe that E. Montgomery had a meagre hope up to the very last of our having a hand in the deal. He could not believe, he told me afterward, that Jimmy would hog the whole thing.

Jimmy, however, was true to the Martindale instinct. We didn't get a look-in. He came credentialled up to his neck and he had the details down to a razor's edge. Not a thing of the many big deals disclosed in our conversation on the porch had escaped him. When the conference was at an end he had in his vest pocket, as it were, the beautiful special privileges which E. Montgomery had so easily "clinched."

We manoeuvred desperately for a private interview with him both before and after the conference, but he shrewdly put us off. The three of us returned by the same stage. When at last we were alone E. Montgomery turned to his cousin.

"Jimmy," he demanded hoarsely, "what do you mean?"

The only answer he would give us was that pitying sound in the throat.

He went East again a few weeks later. When he came back it was with a bulging wad of Mountain Gap stock in his jeans.

I happened upon E. Montgomery some years ago down in Terkio, Missouri, where he was "promoting" a shooting gallery and rag baby ranges. There was little of the old E. Montgomery about him.

"Yes, he did have the Martindale blood," he admitted reminiscently of Jimmy, "and it bubbled—once."

But then, once was enough.

OLD ROLLER SKATING DAYS.

EMPLOYED by a firm of Wall street experts, H. A. Simmons, a market runner, who is still young in years, may look back upon a career of early success which took him twice around the world, associated him independently with the crowned heads of several countries and earned fortunes for himself and for persons with whom he dealt.

"I was one of the first men to introduce the difficult art of dancing on roller skates," said he. "More than anything spectacular stunts of the kind made roller skating a popular rage the world over.

"I did everything on roller skates that the most accomplished Russian dancer can do, not excepting the Tsar's imperial favorites, including toe dancing, waltzing, flights resembling the swoop of a bird and spinning which outdid the toplike performances of the whirling dervishes.

"These performances were given in every city of importance, even in towns and hamlets. The people were fascinated. It was easy to catch the interest of local capitalists everywhere, bankers, professional men, merchants. In every case a hundred dollars more or less opened a rink, and it never failed to realize double the outlay within a week. I built that business! I left rinks in my wake from one end of this country to the other, then made good rapidly in Honolulu, Australia, Great Britain, France, Germany, India, Asia, South Africa and South America. Not only that, but there was vitality enough in the craze to take me round the globe a second time.

"In South Africa I had the special patronage of Cecil Rhodes. In India several Maharajah princes presented to me money and jewelry. There I met also Lord and Lady Lansdowne, and they became enthusiastic rollists under my tuteiage. Lady Roy, at Bombay, and Lord Miller were also my pupils. Sir William Jarvis, K. C. M. G., Governor of New Zealand, enabled me to start twelve rinks. All paid enormous dividends. In France and Germany the principal people of the day flocked after me and swelled my purse no less than they swelled my head. In London the Prince of Wales, afterward crowned Edward VII., visited me behind the stage at the Olympic, where I appeared by royal command. I voted him the finest of all the great people I had met. He was a man among men, one of the boys like myself, and at the same time he was the august, unapproachable prince who would one day be the King and did not underestimate the place."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

UNCLE SAM'S FAULT

Centropolis, the queen city of the Platt Valley, had 3,000 souls all told and a Tom the Peeper. Every few days some maiden lady living alone would tell the police department that she had seen a strange man peeping through her window just as she was tying on her nightcap.

The police department took it each time without much concern and went on playing checkers. His term expired in a few weeks and he didn't want the office again, anyway.

When Mrs. Geneve Joyce, whose husband was a travelling man, called up Marshal Wheatstone at the Owl drug store and said that she had just seen a man with a beard looking through her window, the limb of the law asked her to describe the beard and said he would look into the case right away, and went on playing checkers.

Two days later, when Mrs. Joyce stopped him on the street and asked him about it, Officer Wheatstone said he had made a note of it and was on the watchout for strange beards in Centropolis.

When Miss Eva Tuggle reported that she had found the imprint of a man's muddy overshoe on her back porch, Marshal Wheatstone said he would come down and look at it. After the second day had gone by without an official investigation, Miss Eva came down to the Owl drug store and led the officer back with her.

Marshal Wheatstone walked around the footprint twice, said it did look suspicious and hurried back to finish the game.

Discontent was growing in Centropolis. Miss Eva Tuggle read a paper before the Ladies' Civic Improvement Society on "The Increase of Crime and How It Can Be Checked," and offered to give it to the Headlight for publication in the interest of humanity.

The editor of the Headlight said he had so many legal notices and sheriff's sales that he could not do anything for humanity that week, but if the Ladies' Civic Improvement Society wanted the Headlight for their files he could make them a little better rate than the straight $1.50 a year.

The next week Miss Tuggle sent him a clipping telling about a daring robber who had put on a fireman's uniform and stolen a suit of clothes and an accordion, in a city only 200 miles away. At the bottom she had written in a prim, stately hand: "The crime wave is getting closer and closer."

Marshal Wheatstone carelessly tore up the clipping with the comment: "The fellow probably was musically inclined," and filled out a double four.

Then all of a sudden Marshal Wheatstone decided that he wanted the office for another term at $900 a year. He gave up checkers and became an alert and tireless sleuth on the trail of criminals.

Inside of a week he caught two small boys stealing dried peaches through the rear door of the Greensfelder grocery, and the next week he ordered a stray tramp to get out of town.

Still he did not feel that he had done enough to insure his re-election. Competition was getting so sharp these days that one had to be ever on the alert.

Miss Eva Tuggle was short-sighted and headed public opinion in Centropolis, the queen city of the Platt valley. If he could win her over he could count on the emolutions of office for another year.

When, one day, his telephone rang, and Miss Tuggle's excited voice was at the other end, Marshal Wheatstone was keyed up in a moment.

"Come quick," commanded Miss Tuggle. "I saw a man go in the house across the street and come out carrying a lady in his arms. He's beat her senseless and is kidnapping her."

Officer Wheatstone took to the middle of the street and in a moment was at Miss Tuggle's door.

"There he goes now!" exclaimed the militant leader of public opinion in Centropolis, pointing to a man hurrying down the street with the form of a woman over his shoulders.

"He's got a mail carrier's uniform on," protested the officer. "Maybe—"

"That's only a ruse. Didn't you read that clipping? Do your sworn duty, officer."

Marshall Wheatstone started down the street.

"Run!" shouted Miss Tuggle.

Mr. Wheatstone broke into a trot and shouted at the abductor, "Stop, stop, or I fire!"

The man paid no attention.

Mr. Wheatstone looked back over his shoulder. Miss Tuggle was leaning over the fence waving him on. Now was his chance to prove his worthiness as a guardian of Centropolis' 3,000 souls for another year at $4 a week.

Raising his pistol he fired over the tops of the trees. The man with the senseless woman on his shoulder glanced around, then broke into a run. Mr. Wheatstone fired into the air again and started in pursuit.

The abductor in the postman's uniform dodged around a house, and Mr. Wheatstone came panting after. The shots had attracted attention, and in a minute Officer Wheatstone was backed up by a mob.

The kidnapper had turned into a barn. The crowd surrounded it. Miss Tuggle came panting up and fastened her hand on her hips, ready to command the situation.

"It's mighty risky going in there," said Mr. Wheatstone. "He won't stop at anything—and my wife ain't very strong."

Miss Tuggle cast her short-sighted glance over the crowd, as if to ask for volunteers. "So this is the kind of officers we have, is it?" the question stinging.

"I'm going; I'm going. Everybody stand back; we mustn't spill any needless blood."

His revolver grasped in his hand, Officer Wheatstone pulled open the barn door and stepped inside. In a moment he was back with the postman.

Under the mail carrier's arm was the wire form of a woman addressed to Miss Stroud, the dressmaker. The postman looked around in astonishment.

"I thought somebody had gone mad and was shouting at me," he said, "so I ducked in here. I tell you, it wasn't very much fun running like mad down the middle of the street with the load that this new parcel post makes us carry."

Miss Tuggle came up and examined the kidnapped wire lady.

"Well," she said, "it's best to be on the safe side. Once a crime wave gets started in a town there's no stopping it. It's down at Shelbyville now—just a hundred miles from here. . . . So Miss Stroud's getting a new dress form, is she? . . . Well, I guess I'll drop in and see if she can rush a dress through for me before the next meeting of the club."

SOME ANCIENT RHYMES

Very ancient in many cases is the origin of the nursery rhymes which have delighted the children of every land. "Jack and Jill" is supposed to refer to the complete amalgamation between Saxons and Normans, while "Humpty-Dumpty" is said to have been a bold, bad baron in the time of King John. The "Babes in the Wood" had their origin in an actual crime committed in the fifteenth century, and the story may be seen carved on a mantelpiece of an ancient house in Norfolk.

"Little Bo-Peep" was not a maiden, but a holy friar who in Anglo-Saxon days went round collecting for the monasteries. The "sheep" referred to the congregation, and their "tails" to the contributions they would bring in with them.

"The House That Jack Built" was an adaptation of a Chaldee hymn, symbolizing events in history of the Hebrew nation; while, according to the "Observer," a romantic history attaches to "Little Jack Horner," who was steward to the Abbot of Glastonbury. The latter wished to appease King Henry VIII., who was indignant because the monks had built a kitchen which he could not burn down. The abbot accordingly dispatched Jack Horner with a specially tempting-looking pie, which was filled inside with the title-deeds of twelve monasteries, as a present to the King. "Jack Horner" slyly abstracted one deed, which was that referring to the Manor of Wells, and on his return to Glastonbury he informed the abbot that the deed had been given to him by the King. The rhyme was founded on this incident, the "plum" which he abstracted being the title-deed of Wells.

Big Trees on Coast

In the forests of British Columbia, trees have been cut so huge that the smooth flat tops of the trunk furnish a platform large enough to dance a set of lancers upon. Indeed the lumberjacks put them to this use. There are a number of trees in Stanley Park, Vancouver, which are between fifty and sixty feet in circumference.

STABLE FLOORS

Cement Is Best But Should Have Plank Covering For Cows

The stable floor is a prolific source of trouble unless it is properly made. One may go into many a barn and find the floors reeking with filth although they look clean to the casual observer. The old-fashioned plank floor that was laid on top of the ground allowed the moisture and the filth to work through the cracks, making mudholes that were just about as pure as a cesspool from which the odors and gases arise in the stable, especially during hot weather. This same floor may be swept and spotless as stable floors are considered, but it can never be cleaned until conditions beneath are remedied.

All plank floors are not like this, but many of them are and that in itself is sufficient to condemn the general use of this material for such purposes. Furthermore, with the prices that now prevail one can hardly afford to put such a valuable commodity as a good plank under the cows.

The cement floor is as nearly ideal as anything known to dairymen at this time. It is practically germ proof, it can be washed, it does not allow for any seepage of moisture, there are no unsightly cracks, all of the manure can be saved and the barn can be kept cleaner and more free from stable odors.

Naturally the cement floor is not most ideal for the cow's feet; it is not the best place for her to stand unless it is covered with plank or cork brick or blocks, but the cement offers the right foundation for this covering and it is necessary if one would have the best stable floor.

History of False Teeth

Until little more than a century ago humanity had to rub along without false teeth, of which nowadays one firm alone claims to sell more than 12,000,000 a year. The first successful maker was Giuseppangelo Fonzi, an Italian dentist, who started practice in Paris in 1798, and, thanks to his skilful treatment of Lucien Bonaparte, soon made his way. After years of experiment he discovered the substance from which artificial teeth are made, and received the gold medal of the French Academy of Science. One of the earliest persons fitted with false teeth was the Empress of Russia. After Waterloo Fonzi migrated to London, and then to Madrid, where Ferdinand VII. rewarded him with a yearly pension of a thousand ducats for a set of false teeth.

CLIMATE AND TOBACCO

The Atmosphere Has Marked Effect Upon the Weed

If your tobacco begins to mildew, don't throw it away. It can easily be restored. But the whole of it must be treated, as one spot of mildew is sufficient to taint a whole tin or jarful.

Lay the tobacco on some muslin, and hold the muslin over the spout of a kettle for a minute. The steam will kill the fungus, and when the tobacco dries it will be as good as ever.

If your tobacco, instead of mildewing, has turned dry and brittle, use a spray. A perfume spray costs only a few pence at a chemist's. Load it with cold water, and spray the tobacco gently, having first strewn it out evenly on a flat surface.

If, when you are at the seaside, you find that your favorite cigars or cigarettes have "gone off," do not blame the local tobacconist. The salt in it makes cigars and cigarettes "sick," to use the technical phrase. Many naval men stationed in the tropics pack their cigarettes and cigars in tea, which absorbs the salt moisture of the air.

LESSONS FROM FIRES

The National Fire Prevention Association in a report on fire losses, drew attention to the following points:—

Shingled roofs are a constant menace and should be abolished.

Unprotected steel construction has proved itself many times to be far inferior to average timber construction. Unless well protected in suitable manner to withstand the attack of fire, this type of construction invites disaster.

In every building two or more stairways, remotely located with respect to each other and enclosed in fireproof shafts, are essential for the escape of the occupants, as well as for the work of the fire department.

Elevators should be enclosed in brick or reinforced concrete shaft, walls to pierce all floors and extend at least three feet above roof. Approved automatic fire doors to be installed on one side of wall at all doorways to building.

Properly installed hand-hose connections on sprinkler equipments in specially hazardous locations have proved very desirable, and frequently prevent an undue water loss by extinguishing the fire before the automatic sprinklers operate.

Ventilating fans should be stopped at once upon an alarm of fire.

Fish in the Nile

It is probable that the Nile contains a greater variety of fish than any other river in the world. An expedition sent by the British Museum brought back 3,000 specimens.

Every year $4,000,000 is spent on the food and clothing of indoor paupers in the Metropolis.

PILES Do not suffer another day from Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. Sicilian Carts.

Of all the vehicles in the world there is none to equal the Sicilian cart, carved, yellow, paneled with lurid paintings that run the gamut of myth and history. One we saw had upon its panels scenes that represented Columbus sailing from Palos and discovering America, a bloody fight round the citadel of Acre, the hermitage of Santa Rosalia, and on its tailboard a vivid picture of the massacre of the Vespers. The carts are never very large, as carts go, but they are so marvelously wrought that they ought surely to come under the provisions of the law that forbids the exportation of any works of art. Wheels, shafts, axles, the edges of sides and posts and tailboards are all worked into neat geometrical designs, and on the axle is a carving built up clear to the bottom of the cart, a mass of intricate scrollwork and gingerbread, in the middle of which sits the patron saint of the fortunate owner.—"Vistas in Sicily."

The Price of Peace.

She appeared to be somewhat excited when he came home that night, and he naturally asked the cause.

"The man in the top flat has fallen in love with our cook," she said.

"What of it?" he asked.

"He's been trying to get her to run away and marry him."

"Do you mean the man who practices on the cornet every night?"

She said she did, and he made a dive for his pocket.

"Tell the cook," he exclaimed excitedly, "that I'm a poor man, but I'll give $50 if she'll do it."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't Hesitate! If Cross, Feverish, Constipated Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

MONUMENT FOR OTTAWA.

Parkman and Champlain Memorial to Be Given by Americans.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—At a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Peace Centenary Association yesterday afternoon it was announced that part of the celebration will be the erection of a Parkman and Champlain memorial in Ottawa. This memorial will be the gift of the general committee of the American Peace Centenary Association and will be quite apart from any memorial to be erected by the various Governments.

This announcement was made in a telegram from John A. Stewart, chairman of the executive sub-committee of the American committee.

"Our committee," telegraphed Mr. Stewart, "have acted favorably on a motion to present the people of Canada with a Parkman and Champlain memorial, to be erected in Ottawa. An eminent sculptor will undertake to have the memorial completed by next spring."

Action was taken in regard to a number of suggestions in regard to the celebration. A resolution was passed suggesting that the final gathering of the celebration should take place at Niagara Falls.

The question of the erection of bridges and other joint memorials was referred to the Canadian members of the joint international committee for report.

Alpinists Almost Frozen.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 9.—Five English Alpinists, including a girl and a boy, were found yesterday almost frozen in a snow but near the summit of the Dale, one of the highest peaks of the Swiss Jura. They had attempted to climb the mountain on skis, and were over taken by a blizzard. The condition of the tourists was serious, but they were transported on sledges to a hotel, and will probably recover.

Last of McNab Colony Dead.

PERTH, Jan. 9.—The death is reported here of John McIntyre of Calabogie, at the age of ninety-seven years. With his passing away the last link is severed between the present and the Scottish colony, numbering eighty-two souls, who emigrated to Canada in 1825 under the rule of Chief McNab, and settled in Renfrew county. John G. Campbell of this town was associated with deceased in the lumbering days at Calabogie, and places Mr. McIntyre's age at 100.

Dancer's Appeal Saves Chauffeur.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Morverand, the driver of the automobile which last April plunged from the roadway into the Seine, carrying with it the two children of Isadore Duncan, an American dancer, and their governess, all of whom were drowned, was yesterday sentenced to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $40.

Miss Duncan interceded in behalf of Morverand, not wishing the prosecution to continue. The sentence was suspended.

Matoa Safe In Drydock.

SARNIA, Jan. 9. — The steamer Matoa, one of the victims of the great lakes' storm, arrived here yesterday in tow of the tugs Fletcher and James Reid of the Reid Wrecking Co. The Matoa is now at the Reid drydock, where she will be repaired. The boat has a cargo of soft coal, much of which is still on board.

INDIGESTION, GAS OR SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Time It! — "Pape's Diapepsin" makes your upset, bloated stomach feel fine in five minutes

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

EATEN BY WOLVES.

Indian Trapper Put Up Valiant Fight For Life.

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 9. — Word has just reached here of a fierce battle with a pack of wolves in which Peter Nigosh, an Indian trapper, was killed in the Lake of the Woods country on Sunday.

The encounter occurred near the Canadian boundary, a few miles from War Road on the C.N.R. Nigosh was returning from his traps, a few miles up the lake, when he was suddenly attacked by the wolves. He had not time to scale the nearest tree, and had only a long hunting knife to protect him. The pack closed in on him, and one after another he slew them with his weapon until nine were dead at his feet. Then, exhausted from his efforts, he fell an easy prey to the survivors of the pack.

On Monday relatives began a search, and early Tuesday morning they discovered the spot where the battle took place, but the only trace of the Indian was his bones stripped clean of flesh.

The nine dead wolves were partly devoured. Wolves are exceptionally numerous in that neighborhood this winter. Because of the absence of snow they are unable to track and kill the deer, and are made fierce and bold by hunger.

Many Called, Few Chosen.

LISBON, Jan. 9.—The Government is having great difficulty in filling its principal diplomatic posts. It is announced that the Portuguese Ministers at London and Washington will retire at an early date, and all efforts to find successors have been fruitless. The ambassador at Rio Janeiro and the Ministers at Madrid and Rome have resigned.

They are Senators and are desirous of participating actively in the political campaign during the coming session.

SEVERE BRONCHIAL COUGH

Doctors Feared Lung Trouble, Restored to Health by Vinol.

The medical profession does not believe that lung troubles are inherited, but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to them.

Mrs. Kate Heckman, Springfield, Ohio, says: "A few years ago I was in a very run-down condition, and the physician told me I had consumption. I tried another physician, and he told me I had ulcers on my right lung. I quit the physicians and started on 'Vinol.' To-day I am perfectly healthy, and that is why I recommend 'Vinol.'

Vinol soothes and heals the inflamed surfaces and allays the cough, Vinol creates an appetite, strengthens the digestive organs and gives the patient strength to throw off incipient pulmonary diseases.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte Streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe Streets.

AGAINST ABOLITION.

Premier Roblin Gives Negative Answer to Manitoba Deputation.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9.—A deputation from the Social Service Council of Canada waited upon Premier Roblin and colleagues at the Parliament Buildings yesterday morning and urged upon the Government the advisability of making some amendments to the local option laws, asking at the same time that a provincial plebiscite on the question of abolition of the bars be taken.

In reply, Premier Roblin said: "Abolition of the bar would be in the worse possible interests of sobriety and good living. If you will come out frankly and say it is a prohibition law you want, I am with you, for I am as anxious as any man living to promote the cause of temperance.

"But I have not yet surrendered my judgment of how best to promote temperance and sobriety to anyone else. To close the bars, opening up instead numerous wholesale places, would, in my opinion, be a retrograde step. Close the bars and wholesale houses, too; that is the thing."

Murderers Arrested?

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9.—In the arrest of Alex. Ostrowski and Joe Zaboski the police feel certain that they have the murderers of Axel Heibo, who was shot and killed when two burglars entered his room Tuesday. In the police station after arrest, it is claimed, they got into a hot discussion over the shooting of Heibo, each accusing the other.

In addition to these two, four men and two women are being detained at Central Police Station without having been charged with an offence, but are held in connection with the burglary in the Hingston-Smith Arms Company last Friday night.

Hydro In Paris.

PARIS, Ont., Jan. 9.—Hydro-Electric was turned on in Paris for the first time yesterday afternoon at one o'clock. Paris is now one of the best lighted towns of its size in Ontario.

Official Bread.

This is the way to make official bread, given out by the chief cook of the department of agriculture:

"For three pound loaves—make ferment of one ounce cake compressed yeast, one ounce granulated sugar, half ounce salt and twenty ounces water Place in even temperature for an hour Weigh four and one-half pounds flour and let it warm Mix flour and ferment together. Cover mixture and warm for twenty minutes. If dough is too stiff add lukewarm water. After twenty minutes more take up dough with hands slightly greased and fold over and over fourteen times. Cover and saddle for twenty minutes; then fold nine times. After twenty minutes more mold into loaves and take forty minutes in a steady room 70 to 71 degrees F. A cup of water in the oven will make a tenderer crust."

BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD—END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head are Clogged from a Cold. Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith — just once — in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

TO TEACH RELIGION.

Dr. Seath Would Provide Exam. Based on Sunday School Work.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—A new idea in education, embracing an examination after two years' study along the lines of religious knowledge, is being laid before the Government and the public by Dr. John Seath, superintendent of education in Ontario. The novelty lies in the absence of school instruction. All is to be done at home or in the Sunday school.

The idea is to train the youthful mind in Bible knowledge and in morality, and the attitude of the different churches must be gained before the matter is laid seriously before the Government. At the present no system of religious instruction in schools is prescribed.

The examination he counts upon as an incentive and suggests a two-year course to begin in 1915. It would merely be a study without prejudice of the Bible in its different phases. A select committee should pass on the examination. Morality follows the same method also.

Are Still Negotiating.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — "There is no truth in the suggestion of The Morning Post that the negotiations between Premier Asquith and the Opposition leader, Bonar Law, in regard to the situation of the Irish province of Ulster under home rule have broken down," says The Westminster Gazette yesterday afternoon. The newspaper, which is in the closest touch with the Government, adds:

"There is indeed every reason for believing that the negotiations or conversations are being continued without any untoward incidents, and that no adverse factor has arisen to interrupt them."

Small Change for Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—The Mexican Government yesterday announced its intention to coin and distribute half pesos, equivalent to twenty-five cents in Canadian money, to the number of 200,000 weekly, a measure which it calculates will relieve the difficulties resulting from the scarcity of small change. The mines in Mexico now sell their silver output through a Government commission at a rate fixed by the Government. A portion of this is to be turned into coinage, which will revert partly to the miners in the form of payment in coins.

Go Armed Against Stomach Trouble

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Carried in Your Purse or Vest Pocket Will Enable You to Always Keep Your Stomach in Line.

Don't let all sorts of stomach troubles, dyspepsia, gastritis, mal-nutrition, dysentery and vertigo make life a constant torture and an ultimate failure. The man who is going to succeed to-day must have his body, as well as his mind, in perfect working order. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a necessity to the man who would always have his body in subjection to his will.

"I Eat When I Will, What I Want, Because After Each Meal I take a Little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish just those elements—pepsin and other ingredients—that the normal stomach secretes for the digestion of food. One or two of these tablets will completely digest the heartiest meal without any aid from the stomach. At the same time they tone up and invigorate the enfeebled stomach so that it is soon in a healthy condition again.

Prudent men always have a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia ablets on hand. They make digestion certain no matter what or how much is eaten. Do not think because your stomach is usually all right that you don't need them. The policeman carries a revolver not because he needs it all the time, but because when he does need it, he needs it right then. When you want relief from indigestion, you want relief at once. Be armed against stomach troubles with a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, 50 cents at any drug store. Successful men everywhere endorse them, and rely upon them.

Hands and Feet Frozen.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 9.—J. Smith, a patriarchal resident of Prescott, was brought to the Brockville General Hospital suffering from frozen hands and feet, due to exposure. His hands suffered the worst, but it is not thought that amputation will be necessary.

Minister Presents Medals.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 9.—Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, presented at Cardinal the medals of the Royal Humane Society won by Percy Walker and Arthur McLatchie, two boys who saved Rae Relance from drowning last summer.

Asquith to Visit Paris.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Chronicle understands that Premier Asquith will visit Paris next week, and suggests that this visit is in connection with the international situation, probably the problem arising out of the Balkan war.

Left to Itself Eczema Spreads

When left to itself, eczema, as a rule, runs on indefinitely. Even with careful treatment it is often obstinate in resisting curative measures.

The cause is often difficult to find, but you can readily obtain relief from the dreadful itching by the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This treatment cleanses the sores and soon sets up a process of healing which leads to complete cure.

Patient and persistent treatment is necessary in severe cases, but as you can readily see the improvement from day to day as Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied you will be encouraged to keep on until you have driven out the disease and restored natural, healthy skin.

Attention to the genral health is advisable in order that the cure may be lasting, but you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to stop the itching and heal the skin. So well does it accomplish this that many cures it brings about are almost like miracles. Put it to the test and you will be surprised and delighted with the results.

OFFICERS SUMMONED.

Sixteen British Army Men Must Answer Corruption Charges.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — Summonses against 16 British army officers and civilians were granted yesterday by the police magistrate at the Bow street court. The men are called on to appear on Jan. 17 to answer charges in connection with the management of the canteens in army barracks. No names or particulars of the charges were given out for publication, but it 's known generally that the army officers concerned belong to the quartermaster's department and that all of them have risen from the ranks, while the civilians summoned to appear are clerks employed by contractors.

Systematic bribery and corruption are reported to have been in progress for some time and are said to have reached such proportions that the War Office decided that the court-martial which it had proposed to call would not have jurisdiction sufficiently wide to deal properly with the scandal.

Motor Skidded; Man Killed.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—While stooping to light the rear lamp on his motor-car, which was standing on the south side of Queen street, just west of Dowling avenue, at nine o'clock last night, James Addison was struck by a motor car driven by Fred. Harding of 171 Grenadier road, and his back was broken. He died a few minutes later and his body was removed to the morgue. Harding was taken into custody on a charge of manslaughter.

Old Viking Funerals.

A Viking ship was often of large proportions, and it was seldom or never allowed to rot or to be broken up. Having been useful in the arts of war, it served quite another purpose in the arts of peace. When a chief died his body was reverently placed in the stern of the vessel and a torch applied to the hold. The man's kinsfolk and friends watched the flames grow bigger and brighter as the huge ship, with set sail, plowed its way through the water for the last time until corpse and ship disappeared under the waves.

What's the Answer?

What gives us our sense of loathing for the garden toad, demurely useful little neighbor that he has proved himself, while his second cousin, the frog, who seems to do nothing but play the dandy and the braggart, is uniformly treated as a good fellow? If the toad gulped and croaked all night long and made his home in slimy pools instead of in the melon patch, would they reverse their present order in our esteem?—Atlantic.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—One break followed another today in corn. Expanding competition from Argentina was chiefly responsible. Prices closed heavy 1¼c to 1⅝c under last night. Wheat suffered a net loss of ¼c to ⅝c, and oats a decline of ⅛c to ⅜c. In provisions the outcome was a rise of 12½c to 20c.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅝ higher; corn, 1¼ to 1⅝ lower.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

HOW THE GREAT FRATERNAL ORDER THE I. O. F. HAS BEEN REBUILT AND PUT ON A MOST SUBSTANTIAL WORKING BASIS

Remarkable Story of Progress is Told at Big Complimentary Banquet by the Supreme Chief Ranger of the Order--Hon. E. G. Stevenson is Given a Flattering Reception by Gathering of Members From All Over the Continent--Prominent Men in Different Professions Honour the Leader.

As a token of sincere regard for his work in the fraternal world, for his guidance of an immense organization, the Independent Order of Foresters, through the slough of despair, placing it on a satisfactory basis of solvency, and making that order one of the biggest of its kind in the world, the leaders of Ontario's business, commercial, political, social and religious life met at the Temple building last night to do honour and tender a complimentary banquet to the Hon. Elliott G. Stevenson, Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Four hundred and fifty men in all were assembled in the large banqueting hall, the decorations of which were superb. Over the head table, at the back of his successor, was hung a life-size painting of the late Venerable Dr. Arnohytekha, who passed to his reward just seven years ago, which was adorned with Union Jacks and the Stars and Stripes.

The tables were tastefully decorated with clusters of red carnations and pink roses. An orchestra, which rendered musical selections during the banquet, was hidden by a huge bank of exotic plants.

Those present at the head tables were:

Rescuing the Order.

Seldom is the subject of a demonstration given such an ovation as Mr. Stevenson received as he rose to respond. Vociferous cheering lasted several minutes and ended with musical honours.

Mr. Stevenson said in part:—

It is nearly seven years since the late lamented Oronhyekha was called to his reward, and almost at the moment that he answered the summons of the grim reaper came the report of the Royal Commission making radical recommendations with reference to action to be taken by our society to safeguard the interests of our membership and the public by placing our society in a position where it could be hoped to carry out its promises to its membership and their beneficiaries.

Accompanying the report of the Royal Commission was a proposed bill which it was recommended should be enacted as law. The provisions of this bill, so far as it affected our society, were withdrawn upon a pledge made by the executive officers of the society and a deputation that waited upon the Minister of Finance, composed of leading members of the Order gathered from every Province within the Dominion, that we would at the earliest date possible do whatever might be found on a sound basis.

"Responsibilities that were not then realised devolved upon those of us who had to take up the burden of meeting the requirements of the Government and discharging our duty to our membership and the public.

"I say to the public, as well as the membership, for the reason that the solicitation of the public to continue their confidence in our society and manifest it by aiding it in increasing its memebrship involved an obligation upon our part to see that those who should thus be influenced to entrust the protection of their families to our society should not be disappointed in finding in the end that their contributions for the protection of their families had been absorbed in meeting obligations to those who had long before become members, but who had from the beginning paid inadequately for the benefits promised them.

Contributions Were Inadequate.

It has been a source not only of regret but of sincere sorrow that in working out the result that has been accomplished, bitter disappointment had been brought to many of our members, who were unaware that their contributions had been inadequate.

Many have been found who appear to have been unable or unwilling to recognise that what had been done in the way of imposing additional burdens up them was necessary.

Apparently, they have only been able to see that we had a large and increasing accumulation of assets, and they closed their minds to the consideration of the other side of the question — the extent of the society's obligations and how they were to be provided for.

When carefully considered the situation was a simple one.

As at December 31, 1912, we held in hand twenty million dollars of accumulated funds and two hundred and forty million dollars of obligations that all had to be provided for within the lives of our 240,000 members. To meet these obligations we had this $20,000,000 in hand. We could count on the interest to be earned on this accumulation and upon the premiums that would be paid by our members.

These items constituted everything that would be available to meet our $240,000,000 of obligations, and when we took stock in an intelligent and scientific manner, we found that instead of having $20,000,000 in hand, we should have had $45,000,000, and that with this sum and the interest to be earned upon it and the premiums to be paid by our members, we could just meet our obligations as they matured, according to our society's mortality and disability experience.

It was further ascertained that all of the deficiency existing in our assets, as compared with our liabilities, was created by the inadequate contributions of members that joined our society before 1899, and that those who joined after 1899 were paying in full for the benefits promised them and their beneficiaries.

The difference in the situation of members who joined before and after January 1, 1899, resulted from the fact that, as the result of legislation by our Supreme Court in 1898, a new table of rates, largely increasing those in force prior to that time, came into force, but this table of rates was, unfortunately, only made to apply to those who joined after 1899.

Having made a pledge to the Government to take steps to make provision that would enable the society to meet its obligations to its members we set about to do this by employing competent actuarial assistance and establishing a statistical department that would enable us to ascertain the exact mortality and disability experience of our society.

A Deficiency of $25,000,000.

When this work was completed it was, as indicated, found that there existed a deficiency in our assets as compared with our liabilities of $25,000,000—a deficiency that had to be provided for unless the society was to be permitted to drift into slow liquidation and in the end disappoint thousands of our members and their beneficiaries.

After the actuarial results referred to had been ascertained we spent long and anxious days and weeks and months in endeavouring to work out a plan that would make the burden that had to be imposed upon those whose inadequate payments had created this condition as light as possible, with the result that all who had part in deciding in the plan that was best to be adopted agreed that the plan we have adopted was best in

COMPANY WILL APPLY FOR A PRIVATE ACT

To Increase Bonding Powers of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company From $20,000 to $35,000

AT THE NEXT SESSION

The Peterborough Radial Railway will apply at the next session of the Legislature for a Private Act to amend Section 16 of Chapter 91, 2 Edward 7, 1902, by striking out the figures, "$20,000.00," in the eighth line of the section, and substituting the figures "$31,000.00." Notice to this effect has been given by Mr. A. B. Colville, solicitor for the railway company.

Section 16 of the Act incorporating the Peterborough Radial Railway Company refers to the bonding powers of the company, as follows:

"The directors of the Company, under the authority of the shareholders, to them given at any special general meeting called for the purpose, at which meeting shareholders representing at least two-thirds in value of the subscribed stock of the company, and who have paid all calls due thereon, are present in person or represented by proxy, may, subject to the provisions in this Act contained, issue bonds, debentures or other securities to the extent of $20,000 per mile for each and every mile of single track of the said railway and extensions and branches; such bonds, debentures or other securities shall be signed by the president or other presiding officer, and countersigned by the secretary, which counter signature and the signature of the coupons attached to the same may be made payable at such time and in such manner and at such place and in such manner and at such place or places in Canada or elsewhere, and may bear such rate of interest, not exceeding six per cent. per annum as the directors may thing proper."

Mr. W. H. Munro, local manger of the Peterborough Radial Railway, when interviewed in regard to the above matter, said that he had no notification of the proposed move, and therefore was not in a position to discuss the matter.

8c. a Pound Live Weight For Cattle

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, ONT., Jan. 9.—In their anxiety to secure beef for their respective packing houses, American and Canadian buyers made a new record to-day, when eight cents per pound was offered on the hoof waste not to be deducted. Only a short time ago farmers thought six cents was a top notch price, and the oldest stock raisers cannot remember anything like the prices at which contracts for spring delivery are now being signed.

HAD HIS EYES BURNED OUT

Special Wire to The Examiner.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 9.—While repairing an electric switch at the Canada Cement Works late yesterday afternoon, William Paster, an electrician had his eyes burned out. Paster was working in close to the switch board which carries very high voltage, and got too close to some of the wires while standing on the cement floors.

A Million Dollar Fire

Examiner Special:

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—The large distilling plant of the United States Industrial Alcohol Co. is now burning here. The loss will reach $1,000,000. Thousands of gallons of burning alcohol are running down the streets. The firemen are working hard, but are in high spirits.

THE CLOSE OF THE PETERBORO' POULTRY SHOW

Was Featured by a Record Attendance—Distribution of Prizes

LIST OF SPECIALS

The Peterbrough Poultry Show came to a close last night. There was a large attendance and the directors have every reason to feel gratified at the successful issue of the sixth annual show. The third and last night was marked by the distribution of prizes to the owners of the blue-blooded aristocrats of the poultry ring. The function of presenting the elaborate array of prizes devolved upon Mayor-elect Buller, aided by ex-Mayor Morrow.

The latter, upon introducing Peterborough's new Chief Magistrate, said that his duty as chairman constituted a double pleasure, first the opportunity which it afforded him to congratulate the directorate upon the successful outcome of their enterprise and secondly to introduce to the citizens who were present, the Mayor-elect, William Buller. This last remark drew a round of applause from the assembled populace, a smile from the Mayor-elect, and an affirmative vocal effort on the part of the roosters. The latter were partly, if not wholly responsible for the brevity of the speeches. The uproar which they created precluded the possibility of any undu expenditure of eternity.

Mayor-elect Buller endorsed the remarks of the previous speaker in regard to the magnitudinous proportions attained by the Peterborough Poultry Show since its inception six years ago. He then proceeded with the task of distributing the prizes. The latter were many and beautiful and as a window display would do credit to any downtown jewellery store.

List of Special Prizes.

The following list of prizes were distributed by Mayor-elect Buller:

Two Association Cups—1st best male in the show, won by Mr. George Somers, of Napanee; 2nd for best female, won by Mr. James Baptie, of Springville

Silver cup donated by Mrs. H. W. Clarke, for the best shaped male bird, won by Mr. George Somers.

Silver cup by F. S. Schneider for the most points in White Wyandottes, won by Mr. Archie Brault, of Peterborough.

Silver cup by R. R. Hall for the most points in Black Orpingtons, won by John Heffernan, of Peterborough.

Silver cup by F. Clarke and son for the most points in Light Brahmas, won by Charles Tucker.

Silver cup by Fire Chief Howard for the best White Wyandotte cockerel, won by Archie Brault.

Silver cup by the Police Department for the most points in Buff Orpingtons, won by George McClellan, of Peterborough.

Silver cup by the Review Printing Company for the most points in White Rocks, won by Joe Kelly.

Silver cup by the Examiner Printing Company for the most points in Single Comb White Leghorns, won by T. R. Trotter, Lindsay.

Silver cup by F. S. Schneider for the best Black Red Game Bantam hen, won by George Buller.

Silver cup by Wm. Scott and Company for the most points in Barred Rocks, won by A. D. Kidd, Peterborough.

Silver plate by E. V. Warne for the most points in Single Comb Black Minorcas, won by R. D. Robson, Peterborough.

Silver cup by Alex. Gibson for the most points in Black Wyandottes, won by William Grose, Peterborough.

Silver cup by F. C. Schneider for the most points in Golden Laced Wyandottes, won by J. R Hope, Villiers.

Silver cup by H. W. Clarke for the most points in White Orpingtons, won by R. J. Munro, Grafton.

Silver cup by Hon. J. R. Stratton for the most points in Black Hamburgs, won by James Baptie, of Springville.

Silver cup by J. H. Burnham, M.P., for the most points in Buff Rocks, won by John Meharry.

Cut glass by Warne Bros. for the most points in Single Comb Brown Leghorns, won by John Pilling.

Poultry Review, Bronze medal for the best breeding pen, light, won by R. D. Robson.

One gold piece by the Toronto Brewers' Association for the most points in Silver Hamburgs, won by James Baptie.

$2.50 gold piece for the most points in Buff Leghorns, won by R. J. Munro, Grafton.

Gentleman's military set by William Croft and Son, Toronto, for the most points in Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds, won by Henry N. Abbott, Peterborough.

Five dollars by A. Comstock for the most points in Single Comb Brown Leghorns, won by R. Crosby, Markham.

Table by D. Belleghem for the most points in Rose Comb Black Minorcas, won by J. Cunningham, Peterborough.

The directors of the Peterborough Poultry Association are deeply indebted to the express companies for the expeditious manner in which they handled the stock committed to their care. Their vehicles were on the ground at six o'clock this morning in readiness to remove the poultry for shipment.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY'S STRUGGLE FOR LIFE IS STILL DRAWN BATTLE

Premier's Condition This Morning Does Not Show an Improvement But at the same Time He Has Not Weakened.

STIMULANTS USED

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—With rugged doggedness to use the words of his physician, Sir James Whitney is still battling for his life and the struggle is still a drawn battle. After a night with six hours' uninterrupted sleep and a much appreciated breakfast, he is lying quietly on his back. The doctors are still administering strychnine and digitalis, but Sir James shows no improvement. Neither does he show any marked signs of weakening. "Sir James, except for his heart," said Dr. Pyne, "is organically sound. He has lived a careful life, indulging in no bad habits or excesses.

POSSIBLE LIST FOR COMMITTEES

Aldermen Who May Get Chairmanships of Council Departments

DUNCAN FOR BOARD

The appointment of chairmen for the committees of the City Council is receiving some attention these days. It is premature to even hint at probable selections, but the tendency is to try to pick winners.

Ald. Duncan looks like the choice for the Board of Works, and will probably be the heir to the regular meetings inaugurated by Mayor Buller. Ald. Anderson, Gordon and Johnston will likely be returned to the committees they held last year. The other three departments are doubtful, but the following may be the final slate:

Board of Works—Ald. Duncan.
Finance—Ald. Anderson.
Legal—Ald. Gordon.
Power—Ald. Johnston.
Manufacturers—Ald. Stratton.
Property—Ald. Green.
Fire, Water and Light—Ald. Duffus.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME AT "THE GRAND"

Clear, Steady Pictures by the "New Simplex" Machine

The motion pictures being shown at "The Grand" are gaining popular favour nightly. The large audiences at both the 7:30 and 9:00 o'clock performances last night thoroughly enjoyed the programme offered, and the splendidly clear, steady pictures which are made possible by the use of the "New Simplex" machine are being most favourably commented upon.

For to-night's programme the offering will be:

"Nihilist Vengeance" (special feature) in two reels.
"Friendly Neighbours." Comic Film.
"The Light Woman." Drama.
"The Younger Sister." Drama.
"A News Item." Comic Film.
"A Bachelor's Finish." Comic Film.

On account of "The Girl of Eagle Ranch" being booked to play at "The Grand" to-morrow (Saturday) matinee and evening, to-night will be the last time this week that motion pictures will be shown. However, on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday of next week, pictures will again be shown, the other three nights being booked for travelling companies.

Death Of The Late Geo. Rawling

Man Who Was Resident of This City for 25 Years Dead in Calgary

At the age of 79 years, there passed away in Calgary on Wednesday last, a former resident of this city who was greatly admired by all who knew him, in the person of Mr. George Rawling.

The late George Rawling lived for twenty-five years or thirty years on the Hilliard homestead in this city. While here he was a prominent member of the Salvation Army, and was recognized by all to be a man of sterling character. His son, who formerly lived here, is Brigadier John Rawling, and in charge of the work of the Army from Montreal west to Peterborough.

The Salvation Army Band will meet the C.P.R. train which will bring the remains here on Monday night. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Salvation Army Temple to the Little Lake cemetery.

CHARGE WAS NOT SUSTAINED

Magistrate Holds That Manager Clayton Did Not Commit Breach of Law

JOHN BURNS REMANDED

In this morning's police court Mr. Herbert Clayton, proprietor of the Royal Theatre, was charged with having committed a breach of the Provincial law by allowing pepole to stand in the aisle. Mr. D. O'Connell defended Mr. Clayton, and Chief Thompson conducted the prosecution.

It took over two hours for the examination of five witnesses, but after a hearing of the evidence, the Magistrate dismissed the charge.

The first witness for the Crown was P. C. Hayward. On Wednesday night he visited the Royal Theatre at about 8.30 o'clock. Several people were standing in the south aisle. He wanted Mr. Clayton to seat them. When he returned 20 minutes later he found 27 standing in the south aisle. He said to Mr. Clayton that the house was overcrowded, whereupon Mr. Clayton "rushed" to the front of the theatre and "shouted out' that a policeman said the theatre was overcrowded. He called upon the audience to notice that there were more than enough seats empty for all in the theatre. Then he said to the officer:

"Will you have a seat." Witness refused and answered, "I'll report you!" Mr. Clayton said, "Well, if you come again I'll report you, and the next time you come in here you'll have to buy your ticket." Whereupon the audience cheered and clapped their hands.

When he went in there were 27 in the south aisle. While he was in there were 10 people left the theatre, and when he went out there were still 7 people in the aisle.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Connell, Hayward denied that he spent half an hour in the Royal every night.

"How many times were you there Wednesday night?"

"Three."

"Were you there Wednesday afternoon?"

"Yes."

"With your family?"

"Part of them."

"Did you pay to get in?"

"No."

"Were you there Monday night?"

"Yes."

"And Tuesday night?"

"Yes."

"On Wednesday night did Mr. Clayton's action hold you up to ridicule."

"Yes."

"Did that annoy you?"

"No. But Mr. Clayton seemed to be in a rage."

"But you were calm and imperturbed?"

"Yes."

Chief Thompson— "That's a good point, isn't it, Mr. O'Connell?"

Mr. O'Connell—"Yes. I think the officer is a proper man to take charge of a difficult situation like this one."

Mr. Grey, a local man, who was in the theatre at the time the officer visited it, was the next witness, and said that when the officer came in Mr Clayton went to the front and said there 160 empty seats. Mr. Gray was sitting at the back and could not see any vacant seats. There were some people standing in the south aisle These were seated in a very few minutes after the officer entered.

To Mr. O'Connell he said he went to the Royal about five minutes after eight. He said that when several came in together it took a little time to seat them. He thought that the people standing were just waiting to be seated. He couldn't say whether or no there were vasent seats for them.

Mr. C. W. Simmons, who was also in the theatre, said that the first intimation he had of the trouble was when Mr. Clayton announced that the constable said the theatre was crowded.

"Did you see any vacant seats for the people standing?"

"No, sir, because there were three ladies sitting in front of me with hats a yard high."

"Who gave you your seat?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"An usher."

"Were there any vasent seats near you?"

"Yes, sir."

Frederick Pearce said that the men who were standing in the the theatre had not been standing five minutes before they were seated. The ushers were going around all the time seating people. At no time during the two hours he was in the theatre were there more people in the theatre than could be seated. At no time was it overcrowded.

"The fact, your Worship," said Mr O'Connell, when the last witness had concluded, "that the Chief and his men are over sensitive and when their dignity is offended they act like a lot of babies to get even."

The Magistrate dismissed the charge because while he felt that there might be enough evidence to convict, if a certain construction were put on it, yet he felt it was better to take the most liberal construction. For Mr. Clayton had not shown an indifference to the law, but rather that he tried to keep within its bonds.

This judgment was delivered after Mr. Clayton had explained in the witness box that he went to a lot of expense to keep the provisions of the law, and that the people in the aisles were not really "standing"-there, but were on their way to seats, to which they were being shown as rapidly as possible by the ushers.

John Burns, charged with assaulting an East City girl, was remanded for another week, as the girl is not in a fit condition to give evidence. Mr. J. Wearing, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Gordon the defence.

ADDRESS WILL BE IN THE T.A.S. HALL

St. Alphonsus Lyceum and Not Grand Opera House as Stated

The anniversary entertainment under the auspices of St. Peter's T. A. S. will be held to-night in St. Alphonsus Lyceum and not in the Grand Opera House, as stated in last night's issue. An address will be given by Mr. C. J. Foy, of Perth, and a good musical programme has been prepared. Rev. Dean McColl will preside.

TAFT MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

Special to The Examiner:

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Jan. 9.—That President Wilson contemplates the appointment of former President Wm. H. Taft as Chief Justice of the United States in case of retirement of Chief Justice Edward D. White, was reported here to-day. Asked if he had any information of such a plan, Taft refused to discuss it. Nor would he say whether he would accept the appointment if it were offered.

BASEBALL IN AUSTRALIA

Examiner Special:

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, Jan. 9.—With the object of making baseball popular in this Commonwealth, three instructors hired by Charles Comisky, of the Chicago White Sox, started to-day a series of games between boy teams in the city league here. The teams are all equipped at Comisky's expense. Baseball has been seen here before, but never became popular.

REDUCTIONS IN EXPRESS CHARGES

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—The Railway Commission to-day issued an order which will be effective on February 1 by its reductions in express charges from one to seven pounds are provided for. These reductions will also apply in case of some through rates per hundred pounds.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

Votes for women in Ontario seem to be coming without the brigand methods of the suffragette. Mr. J. E. Elliot, Liberal member for West Middlesex, says he will at the beginning of the next session of the Legislature reintroduce his bill to grant the municipal franchise to women. He is encouraged by the result of the vote in Toronto in favour of this privilege. He thinks it is indication of the general feeling throughout the province; and feels hopeful that when his bill is again introduced it will carry almost unanimously. Last session two bills dealing with the matter were introduced, one by Mr. Elliott, and one by Mr. McDiarmid of West Elgin. The latter, however, was withdrawn, and Mr. Elliotts bill was voted down by 70 to 18. The coming session will perhaps show a change of heart in the members of the Legislature.

THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF FORESTERS.

In another part of this issue is given a report of a remarkable address delivered by Supreme Chief Ranger Stevenson, I.O.F., at a remarkable gathering held in Toronto on Thursday. The speech was remarkable for the information contained regarding the reorganization and establishment on a sound basis of the I.O.F., making it in this regard, as it is numerically one of the biggest fraternal organizations in the world. The occasion was remarkable in that it was a banquet to Chief Ranger Stevenson of the Independent Order of Foresters, and in recognition of his work in reorganization. Among the four hundred and fifty guests present were the leaders of Ontario's political, commercial, social and religious life, including N. W. Rowell, Liberal leader, Sir John William, Hon. Thos. Crawford and Dr. J. A. Macdonald, whose speechese were in testimony to the great work accomplished by Mr. Stevenson in putting the great order upon a sound financial basis. The address of Mr. Stevenson contains some most interesting details of the reorganization and pregress of a fraternal order, which counts in the United States and Canada a total membership of 10,722,000, and combined assets of $198,644,000.

SELF SACHIFICE.

The despatches tell us of a Philadelphia parson who has refused a salary offer of $15,000 a year from a New York church. He now receives a salary of $10,000. He is apparently content with that. The natural inference is that he is an example of heroic self sacrifice in refusing an extra $5,000 a year. He seems to be unselfish, but it is possible that he is selfish in his refusal. He no doubt feels it hard enugh to satisfy his conscience in accepting ten thousand a year. He might well feel so, when there are thousands of ministers as good as he, and doing as much good as he does, who have to be content with $300 to $500 a year. There are ministers all over the country in poor "charges," in mission parishes who have to be content with less than a twentieth part of the salary the self-sacrificing minister receives. In ordinary matters, salaries are graded largely by efficiency of service. In secular matters it is possible to appraise the value of services, but in the Christian ministry it is the divine Auditor alone that can properly gauge the value of a minister's service by results. There's a great inequality in the salaries of ministers—some ministers are surfeited and many more starved. Whether this is right or not it seems to be a fulfilment of the Scripture—"To him that hath shall be given."

HOW LONG?

The alliance beween the Government that tacked the three-fifths clause to the local option law and the liquor men who benefit by it becomes more apparent daily. How long will temperance Conservatives stand for it?—Globe.

CABINET DISCORD.

The circumstances under which Mr. Borden's Cabinet was formed, rather precluded the idea that it would be a dove-cote for harmony. An attempt was made to mix oil and water. As a matter of carrying out a bargain the Nationalists had to be placed in the cabinet, and the problem of reconciling their presence with the super-loyal and imperialist element was rather too much for Mr. Borden. It was not to be expected that there would be either harmony or efficiency in a cabinet "slung together" under such conditions. The spirit of discord was introduced in one form and it could not be confined to the two naturally contrary elements. A cabinet that took for its watchword "to the victors belong the spoils" could be counted to have members who would not have much trouble in quarrelling over the spoils—office or preferment. Hon. Robert Rogers is credited with ambitions that fall little short of the leadership Morally he has effaced the titular leader Mr. Borden. By making Mr. Rogers minister of elections, Mr. Borden surrendered a chief distinction claimed for him, sincerity of belief in purity of elections and consequent purity of political life. Mr. Rogers is a canny worker, as well as bold. He is now trying to sh .e up the cabinet, perhaps with a view of showing the necessity of a strong hand at the helm, in order to prevent dissension. Through his personal organ, the Winnipeg Telegram, Mr. Rogers is removing the scalp of Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals. This is how Mr. Rogers' personal organ flogs Mr. Cochrane, his fellow cabinet minister, over the shoulders of the Chairman of the Transcontinental Commission. The Tribune says:

"The old Commission, responsible for much of this trouble, was dismissed and new men appointed but there was no improvement in action and efficiency. This is too clear. Mr. Borden's Government deserves the support of the people, and tey have confidenc in him, but there can be no question that a mistake was made in the selection of Major Leonard as Chairman of the Transcontinental Commission. This Mr. Borden's warmest supporters to-day freely admit. The only virtue the Commission can claim is honesty. This is an excellent quality, but it does not tunnel mountains, bridge rivers, and construct railways. In the interest of the people, especially the people of Western Canada, and with no desire to damage Major Leonard's reputation. The Telegram desires to affirm that his work as head of the commission has been a distinct failure. The Telegram believes a mistake was made in choosing Major Leonard for this position. He is not a railway builder, however good he may be in locating mining propositions. It is a pity, therefore, to spoil an excellent 'prospector' of the expense of the National Transcontinental project.

"It is not necessary to go into details to indicate Major Leonard's unfitness for the position he occupies. The impression is growing that more progress would be made on the work if the youngest engineer in the employ of the Commission were in charge.

"Hon. Frank Cochrane, the Minister of Railways, is a busy man. He is an overworked Minister, and he will continue to be overworked as long as he is burdened with incompetents like Major Leonard in control of great undertakings like the Transcontinental. The suggestion is freely made that either Mr. Cochrane should take over this important work or a Commissioner be appointed with the ability and skill to expedite the work. The East as well as the West is vitally interested in an immediate improvement and will be satisfied with nothing less."

If such matter had been printed in a "Grit" journal it would be charged as rank partizanship twaddle. But, appearing in a Conservative journal, and the personal organ of a cabinet minister, it is extremely significant.

It shows that there is division in the cabinet — personal antagonism and conflict of policy. This is not surprising. It was to be expected, when Mr. Borden took the disturbing element into his cabinet. Mr. Borden surrendered so much by recognizing, in cabinet formation, the claims of the Nationalists, that perhaps he became reckless and willing to satisfy the most clamorous and unworthy elements by selecting ministers irrespective of political virtue or administrative ability.

PROGRAMME FOR MEETING OF DEANERY

Following is the programme of the meeting of the Rural Deanery of Peterborough and Northumberland to be held in Lakefield on Jan. 19th and 20th:

Monday.

An Interesting Family Reunion

Long Parted Brothers and Sisters of Mr. R. J. Waller, of North Monaghan, Make Merry

A most delightfully enjoyable time was spent last Monday evening at "Hillcrest," the beautiful home of Mr. R. J. Waller, at North Monaghan.

The occasion was brought about by a visit made by Mr. Waller's two brothers, Messrs. W. H. Waller and Munloy Waller, of Flint, Mich. These gentlemen paid a visit to their brothers and sisters after an absence of thirty-eight years.

It was a happy re-union, as they parted when children, hardly recognising each other now. Mrs. Anna Harris, Wescott Street, City, is a sister, also Mrs. Bella Rogers, Burnley, and Mrs. James Stinson, Hastings, nieces and nephews of the different families, made quite a gathering. Twenty two sat down to dinner. The afternoon was spent in various ways, music and singing being the features of the occasion. Several pictures of those assembled were taken and many were the reminiscences told of childhood days. Mrs. Bella Rogers will accompany her brothers home.

NOTED MAGICIAN TELLS SOME SECRETS OF HIS TRADE

Howard Thurston Explains How.

Since the dawn of the human race the marvels of the magician have fascinated mankind. Old and young, great and lowly, barbarous tribe and enlightened nation—all, alike, have fallen under the spell.

"The vast distinction between the old and the new school of magic can be put in a single verbal nutshell," said Howard Thurston, one of the modern magicians, "old magic, obvious complexity, new magic, apparent simplicity.

"Modern science has been of inestimable benefit to the magician in two ways. One, it has enabled him to create tricks otherwise impossible; the other, it has helped him in the improving of methods of performing old tricks. I do not know how I can make this any plainer to you except by giving you concrete examples of tricks in which these results are achieved.

"Of course, you understand that in explaining these points by illustrative examples I am betraying the secrets of my craft. I will, however, detail some of the simpler tricks, beginning with the means whereby science has improved upon old tricks.

"First, a trick performed a generation ago consisted of pouring from a single bottle which appeared to be of the opaque glass type of quart bottle, several different liquids into glasses set upon a table in full view of the audience. In the first glass water, in the next wine, into the next milk. The trick owed its success to a certain weak point in human nature—that is, where one is accustomed, from long experience, to see a certain effect follow a certain cause, any other effect is surprising.

"Thus, when the audience saw the magician pour water into a glass from a bottle in his hand they were surprised when immediately afterward he poured a different liquid from that same bottle. Experience had taught them: Same bottle, same liquid. Now the bottle was, in fact, a many chambered affair, specially constructed for the tricks.

"In each chamber was placed a certain liquid, its flow controlled by valves in the bottle's neck immediately under the finger of the magician. At his will he poured whatever liquid he pressed the valve of. The audience, however, could see nothing of the manipulation he was always pouring from an ordinary bottle.

"Now, the great weakness of the trick lay in this, that the magician did not permit the bottle to go out of his hand to be examined by the audience, but the recent discoveries of some of those superwise German chemists now enable the magician not only to pass the bottle—which is now, in fact, an ordinary bottle of transparent glass filled with water—for examination by the audience, and to pour out his various lisuids, as in the old trick, but he introduces a startling variation after he has poured the water from that glass into the second—which immediately becomes wine.

"He then pours the glass of wine into the next glass, and behold, it becomes milk! And then he pours the glass of milk into the next glass. Here instantly it changes back to the original water! The superiority of this form of the trick over the old, which is clear, is due entirely to chemical discoveries.

"Into the bottom of each glass the magician introduces a tiny pinch of variously prepared powders which, when the liquid is poured upon each, turns the desired colour. A magician of twenty years ago would be as much mystified by this trick as one of the audience.

"This," contifiued Mr. Thurston, "will suffice to demonstrate how modern science has improved upon old tricks in such a manner as to make them unrecognizable by the very inventors.

"As for original tricks, based solely on modern discoveries, their name is legion. I might mention, as prominent among them, those in which compressed air forms the essential features, such as in changing liquids from one vessel to another. True, this trick was formerly performed by magicians, but it was done only by means of covering the two vessels with a cloth, and though the covering remained even but an instant, that was sufficient to stamp the trick as so far inferior to that in which the transfer of liquid is made before the eyes of the audience without the interposition of anything, that the latter method may rightly be termed an entirely new trick.

"With the aid of compressed air this trick is performed in a dozen different forms, differing mainly in the manner in which the compressed air tank is secreted. Thus, a common method is to place a small air tank in concealment within the upper swell of the table leg. From this tank there leads a glass tube up through the stem of the vessel containing the coloured liquid and ending near the top, always above the surface of the liquid. This vessel has an airtight top, which is invisible to the audience.

"From the bottom of this liquid-filled vessel there runs another glass tube, artfully concealed by the table, that ends in the bottom of the empty vessel. Upon the table is a small, invisible button which, when slightly pressed, releases the air pressure from the tank into the tube leading into the vessel containing the liquid.

"A slight and apparently careless touch of the magician's wand upon the table presses the button and releases the air pressure. The compressed air rising in the tube into the space above the liquid, forces it down through the tube connecting with the second vessel and speedily transfers it. While this is being done in the sight of the audience the trained magician by some of his countless by-plays, detract the attention of the audience during the few seconds the transfer takes up, and, Presto! when he again calls their attention to the vessels, the liquid has changed its receptacle.

Good Physical Course At Y.W.C.A.

Physical training plays a very important part in woman's education. Physical training for girls is now considered by schools and colleges as being fully equal in importance to any studies the curriculum includes. This is as it should be. In truth, woman has even greater need of physical training than has man, as she is constructed more delicately, and to keep in proper adjustment she must keep the tissues of the body in tone.

There are others outside of the schools and collges who need this training and we must not stop at providing means for developing health and beauty only to those who are so fortunate as to attend our higher educational institutions.

It will be many days before the rank and file of women will be so situated that they can attend such schols and until that time it is the duty of every community to provide gymnasia and athletic fields for women and children. This will afford a more certain means of maintaining health and a more effective method of insuring rese improvement than can any other means.

Mothers, girl, children, of Peterborough, the Y. W. C. A. is offering this to you.

We have a good physical director, a large and well equipped gymnasia, shower baths, etc. Each member has a thorough physical examination by the examining physician and her especial needs pointed out to the director and specific work is given.

Everything is done to make the work interesting and at the same time most helpful. The department has never been self supporing and yet we are willing to assume this responsibility because we recognize the importance of the work, and we are only hoping it will prove a great benefit to all. Our second term began Monday, January 5th.

A Wednesday morning class for women, at 10.30.

School girls, Monday and Thursday, 4.15.

For young women and mothers who are employed during the day, Monday and Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

A Saturday morning and afternoon class for children. Basket-ball for all classes.

Iva M. Carruthers,
Chairman of Committee of Physical Work, Y. W. C. A.

Borrowing Trouble.

Mary Alice had been punished and shut up in the bedroom. She had been quiet for some time and papa was just about to open the door and tell her she might come out, when her sobs burst forth afresh.

"Don't cry any more," he said soothingly. "Papa has forgiven you."

"Oh, I know, papa," she answered between the sobs. "But just think what an awful thing it would be if I should grow up and have a little girl as naughty as I am!"

UNEMPLOYMENT, ITS CAUSE AND CURE

The Responsibility of Governments in Relation to the Cause and Relief of Conditions They Have Created

Letters have been reaching us of late from men out of work and the reading of them is a painful duty.

This city is not badly off. It is well off. There is here more wealth than want. The average person is well-to-do, well fed, clothed and housed.

Yet there are many people in dire want in this city—men as willing as any other men to work at anything their hands can find to do.

In this country the opinion appears to be accepted by everybody that the prosperity of the Dominion requires that people shall be imported from the old world by ship-load after ship-load and dumped into the country to scramble for themselves. If anybody objects to the process he is denounced as one who does not believe in the glorious future of the country.

The Dominion immigration officer at the Union Station gives out the statement that he can furnish employment on farms to all who are willing to accept the work, but each applicant must be prepared to pay his own fare to his place of employment, unless his prospective employer will advance the money. Place alongside that state of affairs the fact that on Sunday morning at a free breakfast down town some hundreds of men lined up waiting for the doors to open, some of them haying walked in from the Junction and some from East Toronto. Of what use is it o talk about buying railway tickets to me who will start at daylight and walk for miles to get a free breakfast?

Toronto is not doing much for these men, and for women and children dependent on them, and the city will not do much for them until some sensational occurrence appeals to the popular imagination. Then it will all be moved and will pile plenty on the hungry for a few days—until the generous impulse spends itself.

But we must eventually face the fact that there is something wrong with the whole system of things which gives great wealth to a few in good times and leaves hunger and despair to the many when business activities suspend.

The railways, which are organized immigration agencies, dump people by the car-load into Toronto — even this week another car-load arrived and yet these great corporations are not moving a finger to begin work on the new Union Station or the viaduct, works which they ought to have had under way long ago.

The municipality appears to be the only body with soul, and conscience, and a sense of responsibility towards the human beings who make up the population of a city. It is through observations of this kind that socialism spreads, and men, more and more, advocate the application of public ownership to everything it can be made to cover.

The Dominion and Ontario Governments have done their utmost to bring the population in. Are they, or is either of them, doing anything that really amounts to an intelligent handling of the situation they have done so much to create in over-supplying the actual demand for population? The Ontario Government, we would suggest, ought to be bringing men and work together, ought to be advancing fares to men who cannot pay their own way, and ought to be treating fairly men who in a few years will be prosperous citizens.—Toronto Star.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG. CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has ben so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 9.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.30 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

Change In The Butcher Business

Messrs. Langley and Perrin Acquire the Meat Business and Premises of Mr. Robert Cox.

Messrs. Langley and Perrin, the energetic firm of meat vendors on Simcoe street, who started business only a few months ago, have bought out the old established meat business of Mr. Robert Cox, 461 George street, near the Y. M. C. A. buildings. A close attention to business, with excellent facilities for first-class supplies of prime meats from their own ranch in Haliburton, and clean, up-to-date and commodious premises, have brought to them a good trade in a comparatively short time. Encouraged by their success on Simcoe street, they were made a good offer to buy out the old established meat business at 461 George, started originally by Mr. J. J. Howden, and known by many of our citizens as a good-going meat markt. By the resident of the vicinity this change in business will be much appreciated.

Daring Robbery In Hamilton

In Which Former Peterboro' Pastor Was Involved

HAMILTON, Jan. 9. — One of the most brazen burglaries ever committed in this city was reported to the police yesterday morning by the Rev. W. B. Tighe, pastor of the Wentworth Street Church. Early yesterday afternoon a rough looking individual called at the parsonage and asked for the keys of the church, stating that he was a repair man and had been sent up to do some work in the church. The pastor gave him the keys, and about an hour later the man came to the door again, handed him back the keys, thanked him, and went away. In the evening the pastor, having occasion to go into the church, found that it had been stripped of its electric fixtures, amounting in value to nearly fifty dollars. He immediately scented robbery, and on making inquiries found that no man had been sent up to do any repair work.

A similar theft, thought to have been perpetrated b ythe same man, was reported from the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church this morning. Here an entrance had been forced and the electric fixtures, amounting in value to about thirty dollars, were hauled away.

The police have little doubt but that both thefts are the work of the same man. They have his description and are on this outlook for him.

Rev. W. B. Tighe referred to in the above is well known in Peterborough, having resided here for many years. He gave an address at the Baptist convention which was held in this City some time ago.

Mrs. A (meeting friend) — Why, Alice, how you are rushing! What's up? Mr. B—I promised to meet my husband at one o'clock. Mrs. A—Well, it's only half-past. What's the need of hurrying so?

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBORO' MAN IN FLEETWOOD

FLEETWOOD, Jan. 7.—The death of one of our oldest and most respected citizens, in the person of Mr. John Brown, occurred at his home in Fleetwood on Tuesday night, December 30th, in his 88th year. Deceased was born in New York City on January 1st, 1826, and some few weeks after his parents removed to Port Hope, where they lived for three years, then moved to Manvers, where few inhabitants were residing at that time. He well remembered playing

L. M. HAYES, K. C.

Re-elected Representative of Separate School supporters on Board of Education.

with a bear with a stick, thinking it was a dog. Mr. Brown had three brothers, Robert, Mathew and James, and three sisters, Mrs. Lundy, of Peterborough; Mrs. Stewart, Otonabee, and Eliza, all deceased. Deceased kept livery in Millbrook and then moved to Peterborough, where he resided for some years. The late Mr. Brown was married in Peterborough on May 15th, 1869, to Isabella Kells (who still survives her husband), by the Rev. J. H. Johnston. They resided in Peterborough for two years, when they moved to Fleetwood, where they lived until the spring of 1904, when they moved to Lindsay, removing fro mthere back to Manvers in September last. Deceased had always taken an active part in the Methodist Church, of which he was a devoted member. He leaves to mourn his loss his beloved wife, two sons and three daughters, namely: Mrs. O. R. Stacey, of Toronto; Mrs. John Hutchinson, of Lindsay; Mrs. Arthur Mayes, of Toronto; Norman, of British Columbia, and Herb, on the old homestead in Manvers. The funeral took place on Thursday, Jan. 1st, from his home in Fleetwood, and proceeded to the Riverside cemetery, Lindsay. Many friends and relatives attended. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Shea, William Couler, Henry Timms, Samuel Nugent, T. K. Brown and Dr. R. H. Morrow, of Peterborough. The Rev. Mr. Neville, Methodist minister, of Bethany, officiated at the residence, and the Rev. Thos. Brown, of Lindsay, officiated at the cemetery. We extend our heartiest sympathy to the bereaved members of the family.

INUAGURAL MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION

Dr. Morrison Re-elected as Chairman—He Takes up the Financial Record of the Board.

INTERESTING FIGURES

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education was held last night in the Board Room of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company. There were present Messrs. Morrison, Ackerman, Crane, Hill, J. J. Turner, Jr., Miller, Dr. Burnham, and the only new member of the Board, Mr. J. Smith, who was elected as candidate from East City, and who replaces Dr. J. E. Middleton on the Board.

Secretary Thompson took the chair, and called the meeting to order at two minutes after eight o'clock. He announced that Messrs. Burnham, J. Crane, W. H. Hill, J. W. Miller and J. H. Smith had been elected members of the Board for the term of two years. Then he called on the Board to elect a chairman by ballot. The next result was that Dr. Morrison was re-elected to that office for the ensuing year.

Dr. Morrison in a brief address thanked the Board for electing him for the second term, chairman of the Board. He then referred to the fact that different statements had been made to the effect that the School Board were responsible to a great extent for the increase in the tax rate of the city. In order o convince the City Council and the ratepayers that this was not true he had taken the trouble to refer back to the tax rate of the year 1908 and compare it with the rate in the year 1913.

In 1008 the Public School Tax rate was 4.62 mills, and in 1913 it was 5.68 mills on the dollar. In 1908 the rate for the Collegiate Institute was 1.54, and last year it was 2.06 mils. So in five years the rate of taxation for educational purposes had increased only 1.58 mills on the dollar.

The general tax rate in the year 1008 was 17 mills. Last year it was 25 mills—an increase of 8 mills on the dollar. Of this the Board of Education were responsible for only an increase of 1.58 mills. This, he said, should effectually explode any theory and stop any more statements that the Board of Education's demands on the people were in a great measure responsible for the increased tax rate of this city.

Furthermore in 1908 a rate of 1 mill on the dollar had been required to raise the interest and sinking fund for the Public Schools. In 1913 the amount was made up by a 1.75 mill rate—an increase of only 3-4 of a mill. The sinking fund and interest for the Collegiate Institute required .57 of a mill in 1008, and .50 of a mill in 1913, showing a reduction of .07 of a mill.

In the year 1908 the Public School attendance was 1,879, and last year it was 2,352, making an additional 473 pupils who had to be provided for last year. In 1908 there were 58 teachers and officers in connection with the public schools, whereas last year there were 72. The amount paid out in salaries had increased from $31,578 in 1908, to $50,008.

The value of the real estate in connection with the schools had increased $286,000 in the past seven years. Seven years ago less than 4 acres of playground was provided, as compared with 22 acres in 1913.

Thus it should be evident, said the chairman, that the Board had conducted its affairs with all possible economy, if any adequate education for the coming generation were to be provided. Not only was it incorrect that the Board was responsible largely for the increased tax rate, but the figures showed that they had no even demanded what might be considered their fair share.

The teaching staff was at present equal to any in the province. This had only been accomplished by engaging the best qualified of the applicants and paying good salaries.

It was moved by Dr. Burnham, and seconded by J. J. Turner, Jr., that Messrs. Hill, Crane, Ackerman, Miller and Burn, be a committee to strike the standing committees for the year. Carried.

The committee retired and as a result of their report the following committees will serve next year, the chairman having been elected by the members of each:

Finance Committee—Messrs. Eastwood (chairman), Turner, Burnham and Hayes.

Property Committee—Messrs. Ackerman (chairman), Miller, Smith and Turner.

Supervision Commitee — Messrs. Crane (chairman), Hill, Burnham and Hayes.

Building Committee—Messrs. Ackerman (chairman), Miller, Turner and Crane.

Committee on Appointments — Mr. W. H. Hill, chairman, members of the Board.

All voted in favour of their report except the new member, Mr. J. H. Smith.

Collegiate Ventilation.

The matter of the ventilation of the Collegiate Institute came in for considerable discussion. Mr. Morrison explained that since the installation of a new radiator which replaced a broken one that the system hadn't been working well.

Mr. Hill—There ought to be ventilation there if in any place, where there are in the neighbourhood of 300 pupils.

Mr. Crane—Wouldn't a fan like they have in the King Edward fix things?

Mr. Thompson—That is too small.

Mr. Ackerman explained that in the $100,000, eight-room school he inspected in Berlin, there were four motors.

Mr. Crane—They ought to have a motor in every room at a cost of $100,000.

Mr. Hill—Yes. They have got eight rooms for $100,000, and we 26 rooms for $90,000.

The matter was referred to the Building Committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Special Wire to The Examiner:

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 9.—"Professor" George LeMarr, who is alleged to be a member of the band of clairvoyants that has carried on extensive swindling operations in cities of the middle west, was arraigned in court here today for trial on an indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretences through the sale of worthless mining stock.

here is no reason why you shouldn't try again, even though at first you do succeed.

Rumoured Assassination Of Poincare

Special Cable to The Examiner.

PARIS, FRANCE, Jan. 9.—There was tremendous excitement around Paris, and the news was flashed to all parts of Europe early this morning that President Poincare had been assassinated in his official palace. On investigation it turned out that a man named Arronis, demented as a result of losing a position in the government service, had been caught by the police running up and down the entrance to the palace and brandishing a huge Japanese knife, demanding the life of Poincare.

Thaw To Be Freed On Bail

Special Wire to The Examiner.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 9.—It is thought that Harry K. Thaw will be freed on bail to-morrow by Judge Aldrich, after hearing the report of Dr. Prince, the insanity expert, which is decidedly favourable to the prisoner. William Travers Jerome, prosecutor, scoffs at the idea that this will prevent Thaw being returned to Mattewan.

Our January Offering Of Sample Dresses For Children

Infants to Misses Sizes at One-Third Less Than Usual Prices

It is our custom, at this time of the year, to secure the complete sample line of Children's White Dresses, which come in sizes from infants to misses of 14.

Like most samples, they are the best of their kind, and are examples of what will be in vogue next summer.

They are made of Mull, Marquisette, Lawn, Ninon, Hand Embroidery and and Eyelet work, in Empire, Pegtop and a host of other appropriate styles; some with short and some with long sleeves.

The trimmings are very pretty—in some instances quite elaborate, while the garments being altogether of a fine quality, the workmanship is a pleasure to examine.

So the provident mother, planning ahead for summer time, is thus afforded a means whereby she can secure many dainty dresses for children, which being priced at 99c to $9.50, are one third less than usual figures.

WEDNESDAY CHRISTMAS DAY WITH THE GREEKS AND RUSSIANS

Where the Greek Catholic Church is the State Religion Yesterday Was the Anniversary of the Nativity.

HOW THEY SPEND IT

In Russia, Greece and other countries where the Greek Catholic Church is the state religion, Christmas will be celebrated to-day. For the millions of Russian Christians the morning of the Day of Nativity ends a 24-hour fast. On the morning of the day before the great festival of Christendom, the subjects of the Czar begin a strict fast. No food passes their lips, and even water is denied to all but the sick and infirm. This day of abstinence follows a partial fast of three weeks, during which period flesh food and all rich victuals are under the ban, and only the plainest fare may be partaken of. Christmas Day for the Russians begins with an early morning mass and the ringing of the bells of all the churches. In the land of the Great White Czar the Day of Nativity is a sacred occasion, and a solemn hush broods over the and, broken only by the pealing of the bells. There are no noisy "Merry Christmas" greetings, no hilarity of any kind. The morning services last about two hours, after which the worshippers quietly return to their homes to break the fast. It is a happy family that can have a priest to partake of the meal, which consists solely of grits prepared with honey and raisins. The day is spent quietly, and in the evening the church bells again call the faithful to mass. The service continues throughout the night, and in the more important churches the programme is very impressive. The story of the birth of Jesus is enacted in a form most dramatic. The long bearded priest, clad in rich velvet, with a high head-dress, and a large golden cross in his hands, is an imposing figure. The chorus is composed of lads clad in white robes, and looking very angelic. Hundreds of candles, and the red glow of incense, dimly illuminate the walls, decorated in silver and gold, the jewelled figures of the Christ, Mary and St. Nicholas and other saints, and the towering and magnificent altar.

Such is Christmas in Russia. But the festival does not end with the Christmas Day. To-morrow, after mass, the Russians will be free to indulge their festive desires. Sleighing parties are most popular among the young people, while the elder Russians pay and receive Christmas calls. Banquets innumerable, breakfasts, suppers and tea parties are held during the day. There are balls in the evening, and masquerade parties. The peasants are especially fond of masquerading, and, dressing themselves in grotesque costumes, go from house to house, singing, dancing, telling fortunes, and performing amusing antics. The wealthier people always bestow alms on the peasant bands, and provide for them a repast of vodka, tea, cakes and more vodka. By evening the peasant entertainers are comfortably drunk.

Christmas in Russia, continues for a week, and during that period business people give themselves over to religious rites and later to merry-making.

Christmas will also be observed to-day in Greece and the Balkan States. In Greece Christmas will be celebrated by thousands of newlyweds, for the Sunday preceding Christmas is the day of days for "committing matrimony." Most matches are arranged by the parents of the contracting pair, and love marriages are the exception rather than the rule. Girls must marry in the order of seniority, and it is considered a scandal when a Greek girl marries while she has an elder sister still unwed.

ENTERTAINMENT TO BE REPEATED

LOCAL EXHIBITOR CAPTURES PRIZE AT CONVENTION

Howard Holmes, of This City, Gets Award for October Cheese

CORNWALL, Jan. 7.—For the first time a competitive dairy exhibition is being held in connection with the Dairymen's Convention in progress here. More than two hundred exhibits of cheese and butter are shown from all parts of eastern Ontario.

Mr. George H. Barr, Chief of the Dairy Division of Ottawa, who completed the judging this afternoon, said he had never experienced such difficulty in selecting the best of the cheese exhibits. The quality was very uniform and of a very high standard.

Some idea of how close the competition was will be seen by the large number of ties in the prize awards. It will also be noticed that no one section of eastern Ontario stands out above the rest among the prize-winners, the prize exhibits being from widely separated parts of the district. Following are the principal awards:

October coloured cheese—1st, Howard Holmes, Peterborough; 2nd, Chas. G. Wilkins, Mille Roches.

Two Canadian flat cheese—1st, Gordon Hough, Perth; 2nd, 3rd and 4th, tied.

Three Canadian Stilton cheese—1st, Wm. Eager, Morrisburg; 2nd, 3rd and 4th tied.

September white cheese—E. E. Diamond, Cooper, Ont.; Norman H. Purdy, Belleville; James W. Johnston, Campbellford, tied for first three prizes.

September coloured cheese—1st, J. W. Fretwell, Oxford Mills; 2nd, Peter Guindon, Vankleek Hill; 3rd, 4th and 5th tied.

October white cheese—1st, Benson Avery, Kinburn; 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th tied.

Fifty-six-pound box October cheese—1st, D. A. Roe, Maxville.

Twenty-four one-pound prints, October butter—1st, F. D. Booth, Fenelon Falls.

AN APPRECIATION OF THE LOCAL PICTURE SHOWS

Sir,—Just a line hoping you will allow me a little space in your paper with regard to overcrowding at the Royal Theatre on Wednesday night, January 7th, 1910. Well I had the opportunity of being in this same night when a local policeman walked in and charged Mr. Clayton, the manager, with having the Theatre overcrowded. Now this was not true, because Mr. Clayton and his staff found seats for everyone there, and there were seats empty then in front of me and my friend, so I know it was not true. I have visited quite a number of picture shows in Canada and also in the Old Country, but I have never visited one yet that is conducted in as good a manner as the picture shows of this City, which is a credit to the manager, Mr. Clayton, and his staff. I think the people of Peterborough ought to be highly satisfied with the way Mr. Clayton is trying to make these shows go, and it is for the benefit of giving the people of Peterborough a good show for their money. Wishing Mr. Clayton every success.—I am, etc.,

A RESIDENT OF THIS CITY.

Peterborough, Jan. 8, 1914.

CRAMER CASE MAY GO OVER

Examiner Special:

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 9.—The case of Dr. W. T. Elam, the St. Joseph, Mo., physician who shot and killed W. Putnam Cramer of Chicago in the Hotel Baltimore here last November because of the alleged attentions paid by Cramer to the physician's wife, is on the docket for trial next Monday. Owing to the crowded condition of the docket it is probable the trial will be deferred until a later date. Dr. Elam is at liberty under bond.

How The Great Fraternal, Etc.

the interests of all concerned, having in mind the necessity of once and for all time placing our society upon a sound basis.

Mr. Stevenson rejoiced in the presence at the banquet of so many prominent citizens, whom he gladly adressed on the merits of the Order. He continued:

Powerful Agency for Doing Good.

Our society is considered, and is, a great society and a powerful agency for doing good to mankind, but in membership and the extent of its obligations it is insignificant as compared with the aggregate membership and obligations of fraternal insurance societies generally.

Statistics show that at December 31, 1912, there were twenty fraternal insurance societies conducting business within the Dominion of Canada, and 397 within the United States. The former had a membership of 800,000, the latter a membership of 9,963,000, a combined membership of 10,772,000, that the former, the Canadian societies, had insurance in force of $596,604,000, and the American societies $9,472,232,000, a total of insurance in force of $10,068,868000, and that the combined assets of the Canadian societies amounted to $35,011,000, and the combined assets of the societies within the United States to $163,633,000.

It will thus be seen that as against obligations that will have to be provided for during the lives of the present membership aggregating $10,068,868,000, there was accumulated assets amounting to $198,000,000, or less than two per cent. of the aggregate of the obligations outstanding, and while the membership of the Independent Order of Foresters represented only two and a half per cent. of the entire membership its accumulated funds amounted to ten per cent. of the entire accumulated funds and then was $25,000,00 short of what was necessary to provide for its obligations.

When it is considered that this membership of 10,000,000 has undertaken to provide protection through this $10,068,000,000 of insurance in force for practically fifty million women and children, and that this fifty million women and children will sooner or later be largely dependent up this protection for their future necessities or comforts, and that inadquate provision exists for maturing this protection, the situaiton really becomes appalling.

Put Them on Sound Basis.

I must not be understood as attempting to minimize the importance of fraternal insurance societies, for I recognize that they are among the greatest agencies available for improving conditions and protecting the families of wage-earners throughout this and other countries. I do, however, desire to impress upon everyone possible the importance of having these societies that are doing so much good placed upon a sound basis so that they may continue the splendid work they have been doing, for notwithstanding the imperfections that have existed in their plans from the outset they have up to date distributed to the widows and orphans—beneficiaries of members of these societies—a total exceeding $2,156,000.00, a sum largely in excess of the combined public debt of the Dominion of Canada and the United States, and the Independent Order of Foresters has done its share in this beneficent work—it has to December 31, 1913, disbursed in benefits $41,900,320.49.

It will have served my purpose if what I have said shall enlist the interest of some of those who may be influential in bringing about the needed reforms in connection with the financial status of these societies.

Now a Sound Basis.

So far as the fixing of the financial status of our society is concerned, our work is finished. We have a society one hundred per cent. sound, able to meet all legitimate calls upon it with respect to its obligations, present and future.

Other Speakers.

High praise for the I.O.F. and for Mr. Stevenson's work was the keynote of the addresses of the other speakers.

Sir John Willison in proposing the toast to the Parliament of Canada, said Mr. Stevenson's achievements were beyond compare, and Mr. F. F. Pardee said that the work of the I.O.F. is a work that is human; good in the very best sense.

Mr. Claude Macdonald also paid a tribute to the Order.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., in reply to the toast to the Legislature, said that Mr. Stevenson was a strong and courageous leader. He had grappled with a serious condition of affairs and the result reflected credit on himself and the Order.

Hon. Thos. Crawford declared that Mr. Stevenson deserved the greatest credit for his accomplishments.

Dr. J. A. McDonald, in proposing the health of the "American Brethren," complimented the Order on having Mr. Stevenson as the head of affairs.

Hon. W. E. Brown, of Michigan, Dr. T. A. M. Hughes, Dr. W. A. Thompson, Dr. G. M. Schaubel, and Messrs. Hugh Thompson, E. Talbot and R. J. Macdonald were among the other speakers.

INSURANCE MEN PROCLAIN THEIR BUSINESS A PROFESSION

At Annual Meeting of the Central Ontario Life Underwriters' Association—Mr. T. W. Robinson Elected President.

REACH A HIGHER PLANE

The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Life Underwriters' Association took the form of a banquet in the Oriental Hotel last night at the conclusion of which Mr. A. J. Meiklejohn, of Ottawa, vice-president of the Dominion Association of Life Underwriters, gave an address, and members of the local association spoke briefly upon topics of interest to the assembly.

The election of officers held prior to the meeting resulted as follows:

President—T. W. Robinson.

1st Vice-President—R. F. Sedgwick.

2nd Vice-President—P. A. Ferguson, Lindsay.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. B. Boswell.

Executive—the officers and Messrs. Walton, Mark, Patterson, Oke, Widdis.

Mr. Gordon Hall, president during the past year, was chairman. The new officers excepting Mr. Robinson, who was unable to be present, spoke briefly, promising their co-operation to continue the work achieved during the past year. Mr. Sedgwick, the retoring secretary-treasurer, said the present membership was 47, the largest in this district. The increase gained during the past year won $30 in gold for the local association, and with unity and co-operation during the coming year, another good record should be get up.

Mr. Haslam looked forward to a good year and promised his entire assistance.

Mr. Ferguson, of Lindsay said he believed life insurance to be the greatest missionary movement in Canada to-day. He regarded the business as a real profession, and the service rendered to families and individuals was a grand one.

A Boost for hte City.

Mr. Meiklejohn said he had not been in Peterborough since 1896, and marked improvements were noticeable. He complimented the city on the main street, lighting aysem, and other touches of civic progress.

His address was of an advisory nature and for the most part is of interest only to those who are selling insurance.

"Ninety-nine out of one hundred laymen know next to nothing about insurance. If they would come to us as professional men without prejudice against us it would be decidedly to their advantage."

In talking premiums Mr. Meiklejohn advised that they be mentioned as so much per day or week, instead of speaking only of the bulk yearly sum. He advised the members to observe the methods of others but not to imitate them blindly. The successful insurance man should be sufficiently versatile to apply to his own personality any idea picked up from the methods of others.

Underwriting a Profession.

Medicine is termed a profession because the doctor renders expert service to humanity. Under this idea the successful underwriter of life insurance was surely a professional man. No business offers more opportunities for public service than that of life insurance.

The association movement and its influence in creating harmony, co-operation and a better esprit de corps among the men was supported by Mr. Meiklejohn, who narrated methods by which the Ottawa Association made their meetings interesting.

Mr. J. I. Allin.

Mr. John I. Allin gave a brief but interesting speech lucidly putting forth the advantages of industrial insurance. It is taken not only by the poor but also by the rich. It educates people toward the ordinary plans of insurance, and by its easy payments it has prevented distress in simply a countless number of cases.

From 20 to 55 is the productive period of a man's life. There are more people over 55 in the United States and Canada dependent upon their children or the state than who are supported through means of their own.

Mr. Allin urged the members never to forget that theirs is an honourable business, that a splendid service is rendered by the successful insurance man, and that the Harvard, Yale, Cornell and other college courses in insurance emphasize he claim that it is a profession and one to be proud of.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Meiklejohn on motion of Messrs. Ferguson and Moore. Other speakers were Mr. Moore, Mr. Mark and Mr. Hall.

To impress the house with the fact that the banquet was thoroughly enjoyed a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. T. W. McDonough, who briefly acknowledged the compliment.

Those present were: F. T. Baylis, T. A. Dainton, A. W. Wray, H. W. Wray, F. Driscoll, Thos. Mark, C. H. Patterson, W. A. Haslam, D. H. Moore, E. B. Boswell, W. Gordon Hall, A. J. Meiklejorn, R. F. Sedgwick, F. H. Cornelius, J. I. Allin, R. Brown, E. Moyns, Cuthbert J. Alcock, P. A. Ferguson, J. Cameron, W. H. Taylor.

SATURDAY RECITAL

A pleasing programme has been arranged for the Recital to-morrow at 3.30, in the J. M. Greene Music Co's. Hall, Charlotte Street. A special feature will be a Violin Solo. 'Chopin's Nocturne in E flat,' by Elman. You are invited. It is free. Come and spend a pleasant hour.

UNDECIDED AS TO NAVAL PROGRAMME

Special Wire to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—The government is still in a state of indecision over its naval policy. There is much speculation as to whether the subject will be mentioned in the speech from the throne, which will be placed in the hands of the Governor-General when the House opens on Thursday next. If the ministers do not soon make up their minds, the subject will not be mentioned, and the final decision will be left to a party caucus to be held soon after parliament opens. Strong pressure is being brought upon the government by the most imperialistic wing of the party to introduce the bill of last session calling for a gift of thirty-five millions. Another wing of the party thinks it would be advisable to leave the naval legislation over until the next session of parliament. So great is the diversity of opinion that the final decision may not be reached for some time. Hon. Geo. Perley, who lately returned from London, is said to have brought assurance to the government that the home government will be satisfied with what ever programme Canada decides to adopt.

REAL WINTER IS COMING COLD IN WEST

Rain, followed by snow, is promised by the Weather Man to-day. Then it may turn cold to-night, the official said. "The mild weather will be over after Friday," he remarked, adding that it was considerably colder in the west, where the people were going about without overcoats during the last few days.

WILL HANNA SUCCEED SIR JAMES?

Special to the Examiner.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—An interesting article on the possible successor of Sir James Whitney, if unfortunately he is unable to retain the Premiership, appears in the Toronto Telegram, (Conservative).

The Telegram, in addition to being a great admirer of Sir James Whitney, is an ardent supporter of Hon. Mr. Bec.. The article confirms what has already been frequently said that Mr. Beck would not serve under Mr. Hanna. The item is as follows:

"There is as much debate as to who will succeed Sir James Whitney as Premier, as there is concern over his illness. Who will it be, is something everybody is asking and only a few dare any answer.

"Among the rank and file of the party following the name of Hon. W. J. Hanna is favoured, but others favour Hon. Adam Beck, and still others, Hon. W. H. Hearst. Many of the best friends of the party shake their heads knowingly when Hon. W. J. Hanna is suggested. That would mean more than one Cabinet break. Others shake their head when the name of Adam Bek is suggested, because that, too, would mean a break.

"For a long time there has been friction in the Cabinet, and Hon. Adam Beck has given it a wide berth for this reason. This, at least, is charged against the Cabinet by Hon. Mr. Beck's friends, who would like to see him succeed to the leadership of the party, because he has had sufficient strength to force the Ontario Cabinet into action when it was most unwilling to go. The strife of the last session of the Legislature cannot be forgotten by even those charitably disposed towards Hon. W. J. Hanna, and rubbing it in during the coming session will not increase the glory of Hon. Mr. Hanna, while it will not help the party. The leadership is a matter for the party caucus, and while there is opposition there is a strong feeling among the members that Hon. W. J. Hanna will be called into the leader's shoes as soon as they are vacant."

Poultry Show Was Huge Success

Association is Backed Up by the Merchants of the City

In the point of attendance and in the number of entries, the directors and members of the Peterborough Poultry Association have a right to feel proud. Commencing six years ago, with an entry of 400, and advancing to 1,300, is a record to be proud of. Nothing would have ever developed this record but for the hard work of the Executive of the association, who deserve every congratulation on this occasion.

The association is backed up most admirably by the merchants, who give both money and cups as special premiums to encourage competition. The association this year have adopted a ribbon for 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and special prizes, which will be a good ad. for Peterborough all over the eastern part of Canada where they are distributed, having been won by the exhibitors in all classes. A pleasing feature of the closing evening's proceedings was the presentation of the special prizes by Mayor Buller to the successful exhibitors. Ex-Mayor Morrow introduced His Worship, who expressed his pleasure at the success of the association, and declared that the show was fast outgrowing its quarters, and that he always had and always would be right behind the association.

The prize list will be published in a few days.

The truth is mighty, but it must be handled with care.

Winnipeg is now the third city in Canada.

A DRESDEN LETTER FROM A PETERBOROUGH LADY

The following letter, sent to friends in Peterborough, by Mrs. Seward, has its intrinsic descriptive interest, as well as information, regarding the progress of her talented daughter, Miss Gladys Seward, with whom Miss Seward is spending a year in Germany.

Reich Strasse 28 Pt.,
Dresden A. Saxony,
December 27, 1913.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. —

It was my intention to write you a long letter about our trip through pars of Holland, but I found it impossible to do more than make a few notes on the places we visited, which may or may not interest you. I shall however send them and hope you will find them interesting.

I know you, as well as others, are anvious to hear how Gladys is getting on in her profession. I am glad to say that she is doing her best to make her father's and her teachers' names illustrious. I cannot speak too highly of Mr. Field, in his care for her talent. He has an all-absorbing thought of putting her on the top rung of the ladder of fame, which he considers her rightful place in the realm of music, for he says she is richly endowed. I think it is Carlyle who says "Genius is the capacity for taking great pains," and so you will understand that no matter how richly one is endowed one has to work hard to get there, and then it is "practice, eternal practice" alone can keep one there.

She is a good girl and kind to me, doing all in her power to make my visit here pleasant. She practices five hours daily and, in addition, has a lesson, and plays first piano with a pupil in preparation for Mr. Field's weekly "Vorspeil," or recital. Sometimes Miss Starr, (violinist), —of whom I shall speak later—comes over to practice with her. She has, of course, intervals of rest when she usually goes for a walk; for here, at certain times during the day no one may practice or make undue noise. In our Etage the hours for work are from 9 till 1.30, and from 3.30 till 9 These hours are general and so it behooves the student to make good in the time limit, for he cannot make it up later..

Germany is essentially a land of order. Everywhere one goes it is evident and though at times, to our undisciplined natures it is rather irksome, the unprejudiced mind cannot but admire their methodical ways.

Their street-car system is one of the best. I will go further and repeat what a person told me: "It is the best in the world," for I believe it is. I should like to see th same system in Canada. The conductors are kind and courteous, and always get off the car at the stopping places to assist the lady passengers on and off.

Dresden is a beautiful city and exceptionally clean. The population is 546,800. The river Elbe divides the city into two parts, Dresden Altstadt and Dresden Neustadt. Four bridges span the river, namely, the Albert Brucke, Konigin Carola-Brucke, Marien-Brucke and the Freiderick-August Brucke. The last named has been built lately to replace the old historical bridge. It was here the Flagellants rushed up, singing the "Miserere," naked to the waist, and with spiked straps, cruelly whipped themselves. The iron squadrons galloped over this bridge to the battle of Muhlberg; here, too, the Saxon-Cavaliers passed across to the gorgeous feasts of Augustus II. Napoleon stood on this spot as he impatiently dispatched the regiments returning from the Lausitz to the battle in 1814. The old bridge is rich in memories, but it is a thing of the past, and in its place is a beautiful structure, 328 metres long and 18 broad. The work cost 4,650,000 marks or $1,160,000, and was completed in 1910.

There are seventeen churches, some of which are also rich, historically. The Kreuz Kirche dates from the 12th century. It was destroyed by Prussian bombardment in 1760, but rebuilt; the Frayen Kirche is the oldest in Dresden. It was febuilt in Renaissance style, in 1743. In 1760 the Prussian cannonballs rebounded from the lofty dome without injuring it. The steeple is 100 metres high.

The Catholic Court Church, opposite the Royal Castle, was built in 1739-1756. On the balustrade of the roof are 64 statues of saints, each one costing 1500 marks. It is rich in paintings and the organ is one of the best, by Silberman.

The American Church called St. John, is quite pretty outside, as well as in, but not like our dear old St. John's of Peterborough. The English Church (All Saints'), is also beautiful. the Chancel and Choir are particularly beautiful. I have been to both of these for a service or two, but as Gladys plays for the Scotch Church I go there to assist with the music, which is of a very simple character. Last Tuesday "Kratina," (Royal Opera House singer), sang four of Beethoven's sacred songs. He has a fine voice, which is under cultivation, for he is only twenty-two, or thereabouts. He speaks English very well. Last Sunday, Gladys, Miss Starr and Kratina had a trio practice before the morning service. Miss Starr is a wonderfully good violinist. She has just made her bow to a Dresden audience most successfully. She is a Canadian (Halifax), and is a very sweet, unassuming girl; she has just returned from Russia, where she studied with Auer, (solo violinist to the Empress of Russia).

The concert season is in full swing. We go to a great number of recitals. Last Thursday I went to the Proba of the First Symphony Concert. It began at eleven and was over in good time for our dinner, at 1.30. I enjoyed every moment of it and though it was but a rehearsal the house was packed with the elite of Dresden, as well as the students of music. I do not find the concerts here at all cheap, for we had to pay for that Proba seventy-five cents for a cheap seat and fifty pfennigs for a programme. Street car fare and the cloak room brought up my expenses to about one dollar. We went to the first concert of the Philharmonic, and had to pay four marks (one dollar) for a standing place and could not see one of the performers. In addition there was car fare and garderobe to pay. The singing of Elgana Gerhardt was a veritable treat as well as the playing of Hubermann.

Two weeks go the Jahr Markt was held in Dresden. This is a sort of fair, held four times a year. It commences on Sunday and lasts till Tuesday and consists of a grand display of cheap finery and footwear, with abundance of edibles being sold in the principal streets, from booths put up for the occasion. One street I saw had nothing but footwear spread out on the stone sidewalks and road, row upon row of boots and slippers of all sizes and shapes. It was truly a curious sight.

I hope I have not wearied you too much with my letter. I write so seldom that when I begin I never know when to stop. Please give my kind regards to all the old friends; their names are too numerous to enumerate, and with all good wishes for yourself, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Hattie Seward.

ACCOMMODATION FOR 10 RINKS AT ONCE

LINDSAY, Jan. 9.—The work of preparing the skating rink for the big bonspiel next week will be commenced at once or rather the moment the weather turns cold enough to make good ice. Mr. A. Mills, manager of the curling rink, will have a big proposition before them to get the Lindsay Street rink ready in time.

The skating rink is sixty feet wide and there will be room for four curling rinks side by side. A length of about one hundred and forty feet over all is what is required for the curlers so there will be about twenty feet of blank ice at one end of the rink as the skating rink is one hundred and sixty feet long.

With both the Peel Street and Lindsay Street rinks in use, ten games can be run off at once.

BIG CHANGES AT THE NATIONAL

Charlotte Street House Will be Completely Transformed

The Hotel National is to be subjected to a period of overhauling in the near future, and when the plans for alterations and additions have been executed the new hostelry will be a magnificent one.

The architects in charge of the work are G. W. Miller and Co., of Toronto, and, according to the plans that have been approved of by the prietor, Mr. George Graham, the whole ground will be changed so as to make it up to the minute in every respect.

The bar will be moved from the east to the west side, the dining room will occupy the eastern portion, and the rotunda the centre of the front of the building. A luxuriously fitted ladies' reception room and reading room will adjoin the rotunda, and in each of these and in the rotunda will be large fireplaces. A modernly equipped kitchen will be built in the south of the hotel.

The hotel parlour will be in the front of the second floor, and open on to a balcony, which will be directly over the main entrance. Over the entrance, too, will be built an elaborate porte cochere.

The floors of the rotunda and dining rooms will be tiled, the walls and ceilings will be decorated and the latter supported by large marble pillars. A marble and iron stair case will lead to the second floor.

In the new hotel there will be a compliment of seventy rooms all with baths and hot and cold water taps connecting.

By the changes, which will be commenced as soon as possible, the National will be modernized in every particular, and will be a great boon to the travelling public who pass through this city.

Miller & Co. also have charge of he alterations to the Royal Theatre, and the new Vaudeville House on Charlotte Street.

DEAF MUTE WHISPERING.

There is a deaf mute in Cleveland who is not only expert at lip reading, but who can also discern the letters in the deaf mute alphabet with his eyes shut. If he were to be stricken blind, his sense of touch is already so well developed that he would have no trouble in reading another's fingers. Some time ago, he explained to a friend how he came to acquire this faculty.

"At the institution where I received my education," he said, "I met the lady who afterwards became my wife. I fell in love with her and had reason to think that my feeling was reciprocated. The only thing that marred our courting was that it had to be conducted in a full blaze of gaslight —we could not turn it down, as other lovers do, because then we could not see each other's fingers, and hence could not converse. Finally, we discovered that we could utilize the sense of touch in deciphering the sign language. By holding hands we found that we could converse with tolerable facility. In about a week we were adepts at it — we called it 'whispering.' After that darkness was an aid rather than a handicap. No eavesdropper could possibly learn what we were talking about."

The courtship of blind deaf-mutes must be perfectly charming! Kissing games, as some joker says, are the kind that never have to be called on account of darkness.

UNIVERSITIES LOSE PRIVILEGE.

English universities stand to lose their old-time privilege of selling wines without payment of excise taxes. The government officially announces that it will introduce a bill in the next session to revoke the special rights and privileges of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge and the corporation of St. Albans relating to the sale of wine. The bill provides that persons now exercising this privilege under ancient charters may obtain, upon a proportionate payment of duty, an excise license to enable them to continue to sell wine. Applications will then have to be made annually to the justices for renewal of the license.

ANNUAL MEETING OF KNOX CHURCH S.S.

The annual meeting of all the teachers and officers of the Sabbath School and Bible Class of Knox Church will be held this evening at 7:30 at 278 Reid street. All the members are requested to be present.

TO-NIGHT

An afternoon Tea, in Friendly Village, 1862 will be repeated for the Ladies Auxiliary Benefit of the Y. M. C. A. to-night at 8 o'clock in the Gymnasium. Admission 25c.

Big Crowd For To-night's Game With Oshawa Team Denison On The Line-up

The game to-night between the Oshawa and Peterborough Intermediates has attracted a lot of attention and a big crowd of fans will see the battle which will be one of the most important staged her this month. The Petes must win to keep in the running, and they will go after the visitors from the drop of the hat. Captain Giroux will likely be out of the game as a result of the injury sustained in Bowmanville, but Denison will be on in good shape after his tour with Ottawa College. The ice will be in fairly good shape.

The Petes will use James, the ex-Regina goal-keeper in the nets to-night, and the line-up will be as follows:

Goal—James.
Right defence—Bradshaw.
Left defence—Bond.
Rover—Denison.
Centre—Park.
Right wing—Kenenally.
Left wing—Kelly.

BUCHAN IS THE BEST INSIDE RIGHT IN THE BRITISH LEAGUE

In Praise of Buchan.

An English critic opines as follows: "There is no getting away from the fact that Buchan is the best inside right in England. Indeed, one can class him as the best inside right in the kingdom, with the certain knowledge that even the most perfervid Scot in the land situated north of the Tweed would hesitate to call in question the assertion. His play against Everton a short time ago, when Sunderland beat he former at Goodison by no less than five goals to one, was superb, and a side representing England from which Charles Buchan is absent is certainly not the best that can be chosen."

The same critic is of opinion that if the English association prefers Fleming of Swindon to Buchan when they choose their team to play Scotland, it will be all up with the Rose.

Miscellaneous.

Partick Thistle, it is said, is angling for Devine of Woolwich, and Brown of Chelsea. These players once formed the Falkirk left wing.

It was most unfortunate for Pearce of Fulham that injuries kept him out of the International Trial game. Some good judges of a player regard him as the best centre forward in England.

Clapton Orient have had less goals scored against them this season than any other first-class club in the county. In thirteen they have given away only seven goals.

Newcastle United are playing four players in the front rank who cost over $30,000. In three recent games the club was defeated, and the "golden" forwards had not a goal among them.

Transfers of Note.

Robert Parker, the brilliant Ranger reserve centre, has been transfered to Everton. Newcastle tried to secure this player, but were unsuccessful. Two leading Scottish clubs were also disappointed. Sheldon, Manchester United's clever understudy to Meredith, has been transferred to Liverpool, at a substantial fee. Manchester City have secured the transfer of Edward Hanney, the capable centre-half of Reading, the fee reaching well into four figures.

Inverness Caley's Fine Record.

Inverness Caledonia are proud of their career this season. They have not lost a match since August despite that they have been up against quite a number of prominent clubs in the Qualifying cup competition, particularly Forres Mechanics at Forres and Kirkcaldy Unitedn at Kirkcaldy. This fact, together with the feeling of confidence prevalent upon their success against Dundee Hibs at Tennadice in the Qualifying cup last season-off, is causing them to be quite hopeful of qualifying to meet Albian Rovers in the final of Q. C. at the expense of ther victims of a year ago.

BRITISH GAMES FOR SATURDAY.

English Cup Ties Will Be Main Feature.

The clubs paired up in the first round of the English cup competition proper, in divisional order, will be found below. Quite a coincidence in connection with the draw is the fact that the First, Second and Southern Leagues only provide just two games in each instance where clashes will be made against clubs of their own order. MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE.

The Review, as usual, last night, bungled the hours fixed for the three games next-Monday. As a matter of fact the Test Room plays the "Examiner" team at from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. as stated in the "Examiner," and not from 10 p.m. 'till 11 p.m., as stated by the "Review."

But then who reads the Review? Yet it would seem a pity that, as one of the reporters on that newspaper is also assistant secretary of the League, it should not be better posted on the League's fixtures. Verb. Sap.

MAY BE ICE FOR BONSPIEL

The local curlers who intend playing at the Lindsay Bonspiel, next week, will be glad to learn that there seems to be a good chance of having ice for the games. he Lindsay Warder says:

On account of the mild weather there will be no curling in the Peel Street Rink to-day. An effort is being mad to save the ice for the big bonspiel.

This morning Mr. J. D. Flavelle received a telegram to the effect that a cold snap was being experienced in the Northwest and around Lake Superior. Expressing the wish of every curler in Lindsay, here's hoping that the cold weather reaches Lindsay this evening and remains here for the week of Lindsay's big bonspiel.

HOCKEY

The Junior Alerts wish to challenge any team in the City under seventeen years of age to a game to be played as soon as possible.—G. Phillips, Captain.

"EXAMINER" HOCKEY TEAM.

The above team play their first game of the Mercantile Hockey League season on Monday night next at 9 o'clock at the Brock Street rink. All players are requested to be well on time, so as not to incur the two dollar penalty. There will be a good line-up and some real good sport may be expected, as at the recent work-out the men all appeared to be in good shape.

Intercollegiate Hockey Season.

New York, Jan. 9.— Intercollegiate hockey for the season of 1914 will make its appearance on the athletic stage to-morrow night, when the teams of Princeton and Cornell will clash at the St. Nicholas rink in this City. Besides Princeton and Cornell the league comrises Harvard, Yale, Columbia and Dartmouth. Although there is no regularly organized schedule of games for the series this year, the championship title will probably hang on seven games which have been announced with Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Cornell as the contenders. So far neither Columbia nor Dartmouth has made any arrangements to take an active part in the intercollegiate series this year. The season will continue until February.

Light-fingered Redcoats.

It was before the time of the "Terrier" and the "Light-fingered Militia" were in camp at Montrose. So it was that an overdressed youth suddenly found himself minus his watch one day.

"Stop, thief! Stop, thief!" he called after the retreating figure of a redcoat shrilly.

But help was at hand, for the Colonel, hearing the cry, galloped up on his charger.

"For goodness' sake," said he, "dos't call 'Stop, thief,' or I shan't have a man left in the encampment. Take this; it will get you another watch."

BOXING GLOVE LORE

The pleasure of boxing is often spoiled by using gloves that are too stiffly padded. If a glove is so stiff that the fist cannot be clenched inside it, then the boxer is a danger to himself and to his opponent.

The hand being open, the thumb projects, instead of being doubled across the fingers, and may easily be broken or dislocated in delivering a blow. The projecting thumb is a danger to the opponent, for it may give him a painful and possibly serious jab in the eye.

Apart from this, you cannot box fairly unless the fist is doubled inside the glove, for the rules state distinctly that every blow must be delivered with the fist clenched, and with the knuckle part of the hand. It is a mistake to use "pillow-case"—that is, very large and heavy—gloves, for they have a stunning effect, which may be serious, while again, it is difficult properly to close the hand inside them. For ordinary sparring, six-ounce gloves are quite heavy enough.

"RUBE" SCHAUER

In baseball two months and sold to the New York Nationals for $10,000. This was the baseball romance of Alexander J. Schauer, the one-hit pitcher of the Superior Northern league club. The price paid for Schauer is the highest ever paid for a Class C player.

Just why Schauer is nicknamed "Rube" is unknown, unless it is because of the price. McGraw bought Schauer upon the recommendation of a trusty scout. The young fellow is to be taught high school baseball manners by Wilbert Robinson, developer of bushers. He is just 21 and a big raw-boned right-hander, just the sort McGraw delights in getting hold of before they have been spoiled, to develop according to his ideas.

TIRED OF OLYMPICS

British Sportsmen Think They Verge on Professionalism

If the wishes of a majority of the British sportsmen are followed Britain's last appearance in the Olympic games will be at Berlin in 1916. This sentiment is steadily growing, and public opinion would favor withdrawing from the Olympic organization immediately except for two reasons: first, the Germans might construe the withdrawal as due to the anti-German prejudices, and, second, other nations might think that after the poor showing the team made at Stockholm Great Britain was unable to hold its own against teams of other countries.

The policy advocated by the most influential men in the English world of sport is to send a representative well-trained delegation to Berlin and then withdraw gracefully. The reasons behind this policy lie in the belief that the Olympic games are becoming semi-professional contests, and that, instead of fulfilling the purposes of their founders, which was to create international friendships, they have had the opposite effect.

JOHNSON'S SPEED

Walter Perry Johnson, one of the best twirlers who ever threw a baseball, pitched his first game of ball in 1905 for the Fullerton high school nine in California. The contest went fifteen innings and neither side scored a run. Thus early in his career he showed his ability to pitch shut-out ball.

He was born in Humboldt, Kan., on November 6, 1887, and was still a youngster when his parents moved to California, near Los Angeles. He stands just one inch over six feet and weighs close to 190 pounds. He is of Scottish-Irish descent.

This speed marvel depends almost entirely on his fast ball for his success. He uses a curve, but only occasionally. One of the leading hitters of the American League describes his delivery and speed by saying that the ball comes up so fast that there is no opportunity to judge either the height of it or whether it is a curve. "You see his arm move and the only thing to do is just to take a swing at that time and your bat will cross the plate about the same time the ball reaches you. If you are lucky you may hit it."

BASEBALL

Ottawa Free Press—Ottawa has been offered a Southern League infielder who can play either short or second for the modest sum of $750. While a good Class A man cannot be expected to be corralled for much less than that, unless he is going back, it is a big price for a Class A club to pay. However, Shag declares his infield will have to be good at the start this season as he doesn' want to sweat and worry like he did in the first lap of the race last year.

Artie Lage was purchased from the Birmingham Club of the Southern League last year, so that if the new infield is willing to step down to Class C company, he will be no isolated case. He is a .275 hitter, a youngster and fast with a good throwing arm. Further dope is being sought on him and his record may justify the outlay or his purchase.

Hamilton Times—The news about Marty Killilea going with the Baltimore Federals was received with the greatest of pleasure by the Hamilton baseball fans, and now they are assured of having a good second baseman with the league next season. Marty, as everyone knows, was playing with the Hamilon ball club last year on his nerve and never for a minute appealed to the fans as a good second baseman. Next season the fans will see a new man holding down the keystone position, and it is to be hoped that he will show a little more baseball brains than the dauntless Marty.

Hamilton Times—The time for selecting the teams in the Canadian League is drawing nigh, and every team in the league with the exception of Hamilton is busy signing up new men. The report about Shaughnessy being willing to let every man on his team of last year go with the exception of Dolan, Rogers and Bullock, should be welcome news to Knotty Lee. The fans are wondering if Knotty will sign up the castaways and it is more than likely that if he is with the team next year he will pick up the Ottawa players. Even at that they would be a good deal stronger than the team he had last year. "Red" Fisher will likely be back next year to hold down the catcher's position, but it is to be hoped that he is not: "Red" is a good hitter, but if he was without this factor he would not be fast enough for the senior city league here.

Berlin Telegraph—If the Berlin franchise is sold the purchasers will receive little outside of the franchise. The players on reserve to the Berlin club are not of the calibre which would make them contenders this year, unless much new blood is introduced, since the three best players have been secured by clubs higher up in other circuits.

Pitcher Bradshaw will report to the Toronto International League this spring. Pitcher Fred Gramblo was drafted by the Fort Wayne, Indiana Central League team, but will probably end with the Canadian League in an Ottawa uniform, while Jimmy McAvoy was drafted by the Philadelphia Athletics.

PORTLAND, Ore, Jan. 9.—Matt Hynes, a pitcher, drafted by the Portland Coast League from the Canadian League, has been turned over to the Cleveland American League team. Hynes pitched a no-hit, no-run game early last season, against Vancouver, the team which later won the championship of the Northwestern League.

HYNES' RECORD.

Matty Hynes is well known in this city. He was with the London club in 1911 and 1912, and it was on the local team that Hynes got his early training. Much of Matt's knowledge of pitching was gleaned from Jo-Jo Keenan and Frank Bowerman, under whom Hynes played. The big twirler once said that if he ever found his way into the big leagues it would be the result of Bowerman's coaching. Bowerman himself predicted that Hynes would eventually get into the big show. Hynes' record on the coast last year was a good one. He had a pitching average of .611, winnig 11 games and losing 7, figuring in 28 games. One of these games was a no-hit, no-run affair against the Vancouver club, Portland winning by the score of 1 to 0.

It has been said that Owner McCreadie, of the Portland team, believed he had a real find in Hynes and he did not let him work much in midseason, owing to the fact that some of the bigger clubs would draft him. McCreadie believed he could get a big price for the former London twirler by holding on to him. Accordingly, to avert the draft, he was transferred to the Portland Coast League team from the Northwestern League team. Hynes only pitched 160 innings altogether, barely 18 games. During this time 63 runs and 143 hits were made off him. He struck out 61 men and walked 51. His fielding average was .964, a big improvement over his fielding in his two seasons in the Canadian League. Hynes lives in Cargill, Ont., near Palmerston.

IN A PINCH.

A cadet officer in the Pennsylvania Military College was reported by a faculty officer for "language," rather a severe mark in that austere institution. At the time appointed for the hearing of "exlanations" of marks, the offending cadet presented himself before the commandant.

"Well, sir, how did it happen that you were guilty of using improper language while on duty?" the colonel inquired.

"Why, sir, as officer of the day I was inspecting the guard. In handling one of the rifles the lock snapped shut on my finger and it just naturally pinched 'hell' out of me."

Not only was the mark "taken off," but the colonel gleefully reported to the entire corps the cadet officer's witty explanation of his offence.

WOMEN ARE TERRIFIED

130 Police Are on Duty in Regina

Examiner Special:

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 9.—Chief of Police Zeats and Superintendent Constantine, Mounted Police, have made all preparations to protect the citizens to-night from shoot-up gang as threatened in Jerry Miner's letters. Over 130 police are on duty. Women are terrorized at the publication of Miner's letters in the press, and the 'phones in the police station have been constantly ringing, women asking in frightened tones what they should do. The police are taking no chances.

"What I am afraid of, however," declared Chief Zeats to-day, "is that these fool letters may give the idea to some fanatic to start trouble to-night."

RAILWAY STRIKE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Special Wire to The Examiner.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 9.—The railroad strike, which was inaugurated yesterday with scant response, developed, unexpectedly, to-day, and it is stated that at least half of the employees refused to work to-day. No trains left Johannesburg or Pretoria, and troops are held in readiness here for trouble.

Don't be disappointed in your fellowman. Even nuts are not all they are cracked up to be.

Many a white lie has left a black mark behind it.

TENDERS WANTED

Tenders will be received from all trades up to the Evening of January 16th, for the Alterations and Additions to the Hotel National. Tenders can be addressed to the Office of the Hotel or to the Architects, G. W. Miller and Co., 93 Yonge Street, Toronto. 3d-7

Seats For The New Members

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—There will be several changes in the seating arrangements in the House of Commons this session .Jas. Morris, the new member for Chateauguay, being without parliamentary experience, will get one of the back government benches. Reuben Truax, the man who carried South Bruce for the Liberals, will be given a seat under the press.

The press gallery was occupied by Brown, the late member for Chateauguay.

TRAIN DELAYED

Passengers on the regular morning G. T. R. flyer to Toronto, Wednesday, were delayed about three-quarters of an hour at Mariposa Station. It appears that a mile or two from Mariposa one of the locomotive equalizers gave out, disabling the engine. The engineer, with his crippled steed succeeded in crawling the iron monster into Mariposa and aid was secured from Lindsay, another engine being sent out.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Union Stock Yards—Receipts were again moderate. 77 cars, 545 cattle, 3,079 hogs, 258 sheep and lambs and 58 calves.

Cattle—Good to choice cattle sold readily at firm prices, but the common and medium were inclined towards lower quotations. Good butchers' steers, $8.25 to $8.50; medium butchers' steers, $7.00 o $7.50; common butchers' steers, $5.75 to $6.50; choice butchers' heifers, $8.00 to $8.10; common butchers' heifers, $7.00 to $7.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $7.00; choice cows, $6.50 to $7.00; good cows, $5.50 to $6.00; canners, $3.75 to $4.50.

Feeders and Stockers—Only a limited number of stockers and feeders were on sale, and prices for them remained about steady. Choice steers, $6.50 to $7.00, and $7.25 was paid; medium steers, $6.00 to $6.50; stockers, $5.00 to $5.75.

Milkers and Springers—Supply was limited, selling at $55 to $95 each, bulk sold at $65 to $80 each.

Calves—Only 58 cars were offered, not enough to go around. Choice veals, $10 o $11.50; common to good, $6 to $9.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs were meagre, which caused prices to be firm. Sheep, $5.50 to $6.50; culls and rams, $4.00 to $4.75; lambs, choice ewes and wethers, $8.75 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs being fairly liberal which caused prices to be easier. Selected, fed and watered, $8.90 and $8.65 f.o.b cars, and $9.15 weighed off cars.

Annual Meeting Of Coldsprings' Sunday School

Writing Desk Presented to Mr Pammett—Review of Past Year's Work

Cold Springs' annual Sunday School meeting was held last evening. Members to the number of about 80 were present.

The reports from the various departments were called for and read, all of which were adopted. The reports show a very favourable year. The school has ninety-five members and ten teachers, with an average attendance of seventy-seven.

During the past year the Sunday School has made several donations to such as the Bible Society of Ontario, the Children's Aid, and others.

The secretary of the Home Class Department reported a membership of ten which is very gratifying owing to the fact that from time to time the members leave the home class and join the school.

The Cradle Roll has a membership of thirteen. This is a very useful department of a Sunday School, as it brings the children into the school as soon as they are able to attend.

After the reports were all read the election of officers took place. Mr. Alex. Long was chosen secretary for the meeting, and Mr. Herbert Peters chairman. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Supt.—Miss Laura Bennett.
Ass.-Supt.—Mr. Frank Kitney.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. I. Pammett.
Rec.-Sec.—Mr. Ernest Kitney.
Organist—Miss Alice Stenton.
Ass.-Organist—Miss F. Kitney.
Librarian—Mr. Herbert Peters.
Home Class Sec.—Miss Emma Welch.
Cradle Roll Sec.—Mrs. T. Rose.
Hall Committee—Mr. Frank Kitney and Mr. I. Pammett.

After the election of officers the chairman turned the meeting over to the superintendent who in a brief speech thanked the officers and putter her vacation spent with her mothhas been given her for the past year. Miss Bennett is now on her fourteenth year as superintendent.

The meeting now was thrown open for suggestions for the coming year, and there were quite a number presented which were discussed to some length.

At the close the superintendent, Miss Bennett, called Mr. Alex. Long and Mr. Herbert Peters to the front to draw aside the curtains behind which was a writing desk. On behalf of the people in the vicinity of Cold Springs, Miss Bennett presented it to Mr. Pammett as a slight token of the services rendered by him in the past. Mr. Pammett, who was taken completely by surprise, in a few well chosen words, thanked them for the gift and appreciation. Mr. Pammett has been secretary-treasurer for a number of years, and his task is no light one. He has performed it satisfactorily in every respect. The school joined in singing "Bles't Be the Tie That Binds." The meeting was now turned into a social event and every one did ample justice to the good things provided by the ladies.

EPIDEMIC OF SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Someone has rather pointedly remarked that surgeons nowadays esteem their diplomas as licenses for the dissection of the living body. Another accuses the surgeons of highway robbery of the abdomen. On every hand there is noticeable a growing public appreciation of the huge responsibility borne by surgeons in these days of never bare operating tables. Sir Frederick Treves, one of the greatest living surgeons, and attached to the Royal Household, utters a warning against the so-called brilliant surgeons. "There is no person," says he, "of whom I would have greater fear than the brilliant surgeons, and if it fell to my lot to undergo an operation I should carefully select one who was not brilliant. Hard work produces greater results than brilliancy." But while Sir Frederick fears the surgon whose brilliancy leads him into dare-devil rashness, the common people have to fear, not the over-smart specialist, but the ignorant or careless surgeon. Comparatively few among the host of medical practioners are, by training and skill, justified in doing delicate surgical work.

"In an American medical journal recently a medical writer discussed this question of unwarranted operations by unqualified diploma-holders. He told a story about an operation on a society lady for appendicitis by a young doctor, who thought his diploma warranted his confidence in himself. For a year after the lady felt well, but then took sick, and in the absence of Dr. A. went to Dr. B.

"Why, madam," said Dr. B., "you have appendicitis."

"Appndicitis? Impossible. The appendix was taken out by Dr. A. a year ago. You must be mistaken."

"No, I am sorry, but you have appendicitis."

Another operation was necessary, and Dr. A. having reurned, asked for the privilege of being present. Dr. B. presently removed and held up a much-inflamed vermiform appendix. Dr. A. stood aghast.

"Good gracious!" he cried, "is that her appendix? Then what did I take out?"

When the power of life and death is so entirely vested in a surgeon's hands, surely unwarranted operations and malpractice in operating ought to be severely punished. Here there is the old trouble of proceeding against members of a closed corporation in affairs where so much is a matter of opinion. There ought, however, to be such arrangements made for operating in hospitals as would take the money inducement out of consideration. If a scale of charges were formulated, and only specially trained surgeons allowed to operate, there would be a marked falling off in the number of operations advised. —Mail and Empire.

SAY MAIL ORDER HOUSES WILL PROFIT

Examiner Special:

LONDON, ONT., Jan. 9.—In answer to a protest of the London Board of Trade against creating but a one rate zone for Ontario for the new parcel post system, R. M. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General, has wired the Board that one zone for the province has been decided on and will remain unchanged. The local Board protested that the creation of a province wide zone would give Toronto mail order houses unfair advantage in Western Ontario.

OUTLAY INCREASES

Growth of Federal Expenditures Six Times That of Revenue

NATIONAL DEBT GOES UP

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—The national debt of Canada now stands at $303,562,104, an increase of about half a million during December, according to the financial statement issued yesterday. The funded debt payable in Canada is $803,460, and, in London, $267,541,621.

There have been considerable increases in both ordinary and capital expenditure, the latter due to large outlays on public works throughout the Dominion.

The revenue during December amounted to $12,931,466, of which seven and one-half millions was derived from customs The expenditure was a little over nine and one-quarter millions. December's net revenue shows a decrease of a million and a quarter, compared with December, 1912. For the nine months of the present fiscal year the revenue was $127,571,762. This is an increase of three millions over the same period last year, despite the falling off in customs receipts during the past two months.

Capital expenditure on public works, including railways and canals, amounted to $3,407,611 during December. Railway subsidies were half a million. This expenditure is about the same as December, 1912. For the nine months of the present year the amount was $40,823,951, an increase of $18,000,000 over the same period last year. The $15,000,000 subsidy to the Canadian Northern accounts for most of this.

In customs revenue there was a net decrease of $391,315, the figures being $83,738,394, as against $84,747,008, but from the latter must be deducted $1,817,499 of Chinese revenue, which is this year included in "miscellaneous" revenue, so that the actual customs receipts for the nine months of 1913 was $82,939,503.

In excise revenue there was an increase of half a million, in postoffice receipts, an increase of $775,000, and in receipts from public works, railways and canals an increase of one and three-quarter millions.

Expenditure on ordinary account for the nine months totalled $75,987,925, an increase of $8,986,350. Capital expenditure shows an increase of $18,158,848 due, as stated, to large outlay on public works and payments of railway subsidies. The total capital expenditure for the nine months was $40,828,951, as against $22,670,103.

IRON WORKERS IDLE.

At Least One Million In U. S. Thrown Out of Work.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 10. — One million workingmen of the iron, steel and metal trades are idle in the United States to-day. The wage loss due to unemployment and short time is $50,000,000 a month. Two hundred and seventy thousand miners are also idle. The wage loss to those is computed at $12,000,000 a month.

On the combined figures, compiled by The Daily Iron Trade, in its issue of yesterday, there are 1,270,000 men on the idle list with a wage loss the equivalent of $50,000,000 a month. These are the first authoritative figures compiled by a responsible trade publication as to the extent of the ravages of industrial depression that swept the country in the last half of last year. The toll of the unemployed was taken by correspondents at various industrial centres during the past ten days.

NO CHANGE SHOWN

Premier Whitney Spent Another Restless Day, Says Bulletin

STATEMENTS WERE GUARDED

NEW YORK Jan. 10.—No material change took place yesterday in the condition of Sir James Whitney, the Premier of Ontario, who is lying ill with heart trouble at the Manhattan hotel. The bulletin issued last last night read as follows:

"Sir James Whitney has had a rather restless day. Condition this evening is favorable as could be expected."

After issuing this announcement, Dr. R. A. Pyne, the Ontario Premier's political colleague and physician, left the sickroom. A short time later, accompanied by Horace Wallis, secretary to the Premier, he went for a long walk. This circumstance was taken as a good omen in itself.

Neither Dr. Pyne nor Mr. Wallis cared to amplify the bulletin. While they appear hopeful, they guardedly expressed themselves neither one way or the other.

Among those who called at the Hotel Manhattan yesterday was Hon. Dr. J. O. Reaume, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, who reached port yesterday on his way back from Europe. He was in consultation with Dr. Pyne and Mr. Wallis, but it was not stated whether he saw his leader.

In reply to questions regarding the evening bulletin, Dr. Pyne explained that the restlessness which the patient exhibits had been more marked yesterday than on Thursday. It was also considerably more marked as the afternoon wore on.

By evening, however, Sir James quieted down, and when Dr. Pyne left him, shortly before 10 o'clock, he was resting comfortably and it seemed assured that he would have another good night's rest. The manner in which he has obtained his night's rest, and the facility with which he has taken his nourishment have been among the most encouraging factors in his condition.

SCHOOL TEACHER SHOT.

Madison Woman Called Into Corridor and Killed.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10. — John Spooner, a nephew of former United States Senator John C. Spooner, late yesterday afternoon, shot and killed Miss Emily McConnell, 25 years old, a Madison school teacher, and then turned the revolver on himself, inflicting what is believed to be a fatal wound. Spooner is a son of Roger Spooner, a brother of John C. Spooner. No reason is known for the tragedy.

Spooner is 40 years old, married and has two children. He fired two shots at Miss McConnell, the girl dying instantly. Spooner was taken to a hospital where he is said to be dying.

He called Miss McConnell into the hallway at the school where she was teaching, and, without engaging in conversation, killed her. Nothing is known as to the cause of the shooting.

Bandit Lopez Seen on Street.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10. — Ralph Lopez, the Mexican outlaw, who killed men and escaped from several sheriffs' posses in the Utah-Apex mine at Bingham, Utah, was in Los Angeles Thursday, according to information received at the sheriff's office. He is said to have been recognized on the streets by a fellow countryman, who once worked in a mine with the desperado.

Meteor Startles France.

PARIS, Jan. 10. — The people of western France was startled Thursday night by the passage of an enormous meteor, which was first seen at Tours.

The phenomenon took the form of an immense train of intense white flames, rushing across the sky at terrific speed. It was accompanied by frequent and deafening explosions, which broke windows.

It was also observed at Montlucon, Cholet and other places and appears to have fallen into the sea beyond Paimpol, on the English Channel, causing disturbances in that district, which were mistaken for an earthquake.

Ulster Fund Is Raised.

BELFAST, Ireland, Jan. 10. — A fund amounting to $5,000,000 to indemnify the relatives of the killed and wounded among the Ulster Unionist volunteers has been raised, according to an announcement made yesterday by Capt. James Craig, Unionist member for East Down, Ulster, at a gathering of Unionists here.

He said the sum required had been exceeded.

Taft as Chief Justice?

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 10.—It was stated here yesterday by a man who has just returned from Pass Christian, where President Wilson spent the Christmas holidays, that the President had said that he is going to appoint Prof. William H. ANARCHY IMMINENT

The South African Strike Suddenly Changes Its Appearance

DYNAMITARDS ARE AT WORK

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 10.—There has been an astonishing change in the situation since Thursday night, when the railway strike seemed to be a fiasco. The strike leaders, seeing that the movement had hung fire, appealed to the Johannesburg Trades Federation yesterday, and the federation applied pressure in such a manner as to bring things to an immediate head. As a result the situation to-day is one of utmost gravity.

Dynamite is being used by the strikers in the territory adjacent to Johannesburg. An effort was made yesterday to blow up the Cape mail between Denver and Jeorge Goch. Nobody on board the train was injured, but the front wheels of the pilot engine were blown off and the track seriously damaged. Another explosion occurred on the railway last night between Johannesburg and Cleveland.

An unsuccessful attempt to blow up a train was made yesterday between Witpoorte and Liupaardsvlei, three sticks of dynamite with a detonator attached having been discovered by a foreman track-layer just before the arrival of a crowded passenger train from Zeerust. The dynamite had been fixed in such a way that its explosion was inevitable from the impact of a train.

The Government is credited with an intention to fight the trades federation to a finish. It is reported that martial law will be proclaimed at Pretoria.

The principal strike leaders, including Tautsma, secretary, and Nield, assistant secretary of the Railwaymen's Society; Waterson, secretary of the South Africa Labor Party, and Colin Wade, a Labor member of Germiston Town Council, who was prominent in the last Rand strike, were arrested on charges of sedition yesterday. All were held without bail. Last night other leaders were taken into custody.

Three proclamations were gazetted in Pretoria yesterday, calling out the citizen forces throughout the Transvaal and the citizen reserves in many districts, and prohibiting the sale or transportation of arms in districts of Pretoria, Middleburg and Witwatersrand.

There is much apprehension here over the proposed mass meeting which has been called for to-morrow in Johannesburg, the people recalling the fatal consequences of a similar gathering in the square during July's strike.

Mr. Mason, leader of the Trades Federation, addressing a gathering of strikers here yesterday, declared that the entire railway service would be stopped to-day, but that it was not intended to call out the miners. The miners, he said, were burning for revenge for the bloodshed of last July, but that the revenge would come later.

Grain Growers Will Take Up Banking Facilities With Government.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 10. — The Manitoba grain growers' convention came to a close here at a late hour last night, after a keen day's session.

During the afternoon a vigorous arraignment of the banking institutions was made and the executive was instructed to take up with the Government the matter of financial facilities for the farmers. Another important matter was a demand that bribery and corruption be made punishable by terms in prison, it being felt that fines were useless.

A motion supporting direct legislation and another in favor of woman suffrage as well as one to prevent indiscriminate selling of farm machinery was passed with little or no comment.

Pleasure was expressed at the efficient manner in which the C. P. R. handled the 1913 grain crop.

Italy Still Firm.

ROME, Jan. 10.—While Premier Venizelos has been the recipient of great consideration in Rome, the attitude of the Italian Government concerning the fundamental lines of the agreement between the powers as to the South Albanian frontier and the Aegean Islands has been firm. The belief is expressed that M. Venizelos will find the same feeling in the other capitals he will visit.

It is felt here that his tour will strengthen relations between Greece and certain of the European powers, but that he will not obtain practical results so far as further territorial expansion by Greece is considered.

Schmidt Trial Postponed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The retrial of Hans Schmidt, for the murder of Anna Aumuller, was yesterday postponed a week and set for Monday, Jan. 19. The postponement was granted at the request of Schmidt's counsel to enable the prisoner's father and sister, who went back to Germany, to return and act as witness. It is said that Schmidt's mother would accompany them.

Railways Are Justified.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—Railway companies are justified in refusing to accept shipments of freight whether in carlots or less than carlots at flag stations, according to a judgment just issued by the Railway Commission.

Building Inspectors Also Drafted Plans In Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—To some of the civic employes in the City Architect's department their official salaries appear to have been only "incidental," as it was possible to make a real "fat" income "on the side." Some were able to "rake in" more than others by virtue of keeping their own counsel and quietly "playing the game," so to speak.

Building Inspector J. B. Snook thought he had done pretty well when he made a trifle over $300 a year outside of the salary he drew from the city for preparing plans for his private clientele, but when Neil J. Begg, a former examiner of plans in the City Architect's department, announced that he had made as high as $350 a month, it proved an eye-opener.

George Redmond, a former inspector, also topped Snook with $1,200 a year in outside work.

The testimony also disclosed that Inspector Snook specialized in plans for small houses and stock structures, while the other inspectors did not draw the line at buildings large or small.

British Theatrical Companies to Get 40 Weeks In Canada.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Canada will no longer have to depend for its theatrical fare upon managers of theatres and circuits in the United States if the British Canadian theatre organization proves successful. Carl F. Leyel, who is at the head of the new company and who has already sent out Martin Harvey to tour the Dominion. He proposes to send out to Canada several companies of English actors, who by the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be able to travel from Halifax to Vancouver and back for forty weeks without a break, playing on the return visits in the larger cities only. Mr. Leyel has already secured dates of several weeks' duration throughout Canada for the later months of this year, and is now in negotiation with several English managers for necessary attractions.

Said To Have Wife And Family In Old Country, Also One Here

SUDBURY, Jan. 9.—On a charge of appropriating more wives than the statutes deem conventional, Thomas Ridyard, of Chapleau and formerly of Norwood, was before Magistrate Depaw to explain his conduct Monday night.

The charge was laid when information came to hand that Ridyard, although he has already a spouse in the old country, took unto himself another at Norwood.

G. M. Miller, of McKessock & Miller, represented the Crown. As the case was not ready to be proceeded with it was remanded until Tuesday, January 13. The accused did not plead.

It is alleged that the accused left his first wife in England when he came to Canada, and after settling in Normood, married Miss Etta Rogers. He courted Miss Rogers in the regular way and then married her.

M. Rogers, a brother of the second wife, will be the principal witness for the Crown when the case is called on Tuesday.

Ridyard who had been engaged in the baking business at Norwood, had been keeping company for several months with a most respected young lady of the village, the daughter of Mr. Wm. Rogers, sexton of the Methodist church. A few weeks ago Ridyard left Norwood for Chapleau, where he had secured a position as baker. He sent a ticket to Miss Rogers, requesting her to come to him at once, as he was too busy to come to her, so that they might be married.

On Tuesday of last week she left for Chapleau and on Wednesday morning at seven o'clock they were married in the above named place.

Previous to this no inkling of Ridyard already being a married man was known to Norwood people, but on Wednesday night Rev. Mr. Copeland was 'phoned from Peterborough that Ridyard had a wife and three small children in England. Mr. Copeland at once made Mr. Rogers cognizant of the situation. On Thursday morning Mr. Rogers went to Peterborough, and being assured by relatives of Ridyard there that the information received the previous night was all too true, had the Chief of Police at Peterborough wire the Chief at Chapleau. Mr. Rogers then proceeded to that place himself by the first train, and finding his daughter had been married at Chapleau, he charged Ridyard with his deception.

Mr. Rogers met Ridyard and his daughter at the Y. M. C. A. dining room at Chapleau. At first the man denied having a wife and family, but finally admitted that he was a married man. He endeavoured to make his escape and took a train for Sudbury, hoping to cross the line into the States. The Chief of Police, it seems, did not receive the message from Peterborough without some delay. However, word was sent to Sudbury and the police there efficted Ridyard's arrest and took him back to Chapleau. Mr. Rogers and his daughter then returned to Norwood, leaving Ridyard in the hands of the law.

Sit down to-day—this evening when you have half an hour to spare—and figure out how much you'd have if you began to save $5 a month.

How much in five years if you put your $5 a month where it earned 3 per cent. for you? If it earned 3½ per cent.? If it earned 4 per cent.? If it earned 5 per cent.?

How much in ten years—at these varying rates of interest compounded annually and semi-annually? How much in fifteen years? In twenty years?

Do you expect to live five years longer? Or ten years longer? Or fifteen years longer? Or twenty years longer? Of course, if you don't you will not be vitally interested in the pencil exercises I suggest.

I had occasion the other day to verify a statement I had made concerning the amount of a fund made up of monthly additions of $5 for fifteen years which earned 3 per cent. compounded annually. So I took a pencil and began:

At the end of the first year, I would have $60; at the end of the second, I would have twice $60 ($5 a month for twenty-four months) plus interest at 3 per cent. on the $60 saved the first year—a total of $121.80; at the end of my third year, I would have my $121.80 plus another saved $60 plus a year's interest at 3 per cent. on the $121.80—$185.50. And so I carried the calculation down to the end of the fifteenth year, with this result:

I would have saved an actual $900—180 months at $5 a month. Those additions of $5 each would have been earning interest for me for periods varying from fourteen years to one year—and I would have to my credit the sum of $1,128.79.

Three per cent. is a low rate of interest—yet, working steadily for me in this way it had its effect: It contributed to my total wealth 25½ cents for every dollar I put into the savings fund. To my $900 of actual savings, interest at 3 per cent. added $228.79.

Say, that looked rather good to me. I certainly know how I could use $1,128.79 to fine advantage if I had it now; and I know that I could have begun saving $5 a month fifteen years ago without ever feeling that I was depriving myself of anything I ought to have.

But away with regrets for the past! There are more than fifteen years ahead of us; so, let's sit down with a pencil and figure on what we're going to do in the way of regular saving from to-day on.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at the old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bed-time, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial cannot do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Co., Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but 75c.

LIFE THREATENED BY KIDNEY DISEASE

His Health in A Terrible State Until He Took "Fruit-a-tives."

B. A. KELLY, Esq.

HAGERSVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26th, 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys were not doing their work, and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

"My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am as well as ever, the best health I have ever had".

B. A. KELLY

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest Kidney remedy in the world. It acts on the bowels and the skin as well as the Kidneys and thereby soothes and cures any Kidney soreness.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c, or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Child Almost Strangled

You never know what minute a child will develop a bad cold or be seized by croup. For this reason it takes a great burden off every mother's mind to have at hand Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Mrs. E. W. Silver, South Milford, Annapolis County, N.S., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for my little boy with most satisfactory results. His throat would fill up with phlegm so bad that he could scarcely make a sound, and I thought he would surely strangle. He grew worse, and had frequent bad attacks, so I began using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Scarcely half a bottle was used when the strangling ceased. This medicine had a wonderfully soothing effect, and when he had taken two bottles I could not tell that he had any throat trouble. We have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with equally good results. It is a grand medicine for salt rheum."

There are imitations, but the genuine Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

ABOUT WOMEN

It may be that women are more selfish than they used to be, that they are harder to live with (where the unprogressive male is concerned), that they are too apt to be dissatisfied with conditions and too insistent in their demands; but it is a noticeable fact that he average woman of to-day is a great deal better looking than the average woman of 50 years ago, and a supreme fact is that she not only attains a greater age than her grandmother, but gets better looking as she grows older.

It certainly would seem that, in spite of all the criticism of the modern woman's forwardness and restlessness, she is getting more of what she needs to make life more worth living. She is getting more the rights of a human being rather than the privileges of an angel; and, though less flattering poetry is written about her and she is standing on a platform rather than trying to keep her balance upon an unsteady pedestal, she is more respected and better treated than her foremothers, who swallowed the flattery and stuck to what was considered "woman's sphere"—said sphere consisting of most of the unpaid drudgery in the world's work.

Fine Women.

Recently I was one of a company of women who had gathered for an evening at a friend's house. I call them young, though in grandmother's young days they would have been considered old—and they would have looked old and considered themselves old. Not one of the company was under thirty. Some of them were married and some not. Except that the married women were possibly a bit more sedate, you couldn't have told the spinsters from the matrons.

None of them were wealthy, but they were all becomingly dressed. They all had their "figures" Each was in splendid trim, physically, wide awake and up to date mentally. The married women had been school teachers or business women before marriage. Each of the spinsters present had an occupation. Every one has a busy life. But not one of the lot is a drudge, not one is submerged in another personality, and not one passes hours of her days dwelling upon vain longings, wasting strength in petty worries, or worrying about the ravages of multiplying years.

No Limit.

I can remember some of them when they schoolgirls. I cannot remember that any of the lot could be considered more than passably pretty or remarkable in any particular. Yet all of these women have blossomed into interesting personalities. They are good to look at. They have charm and though some of them are over forty and unmarried, there is no limit to their matrimonial possibilities, instead of being hopeless old maids living on the charity of relatives. And the wives, instead of being wornout dowds at forty, are better looking and better gowned and better comrades than when they married.

"The world do move," praise be, and it's moving for women. If you don't believe it, compare the woman of to-day who dares to express herself and to develop her personality, with the subdued feminine creature of two generations ago, whose only mission in life was to get a man to provide her living, and, no matter how inferior he might be, to conduct herself as his humble and thankful shadow.

FASHIONS AND FADS.

The maker of the proper waistcoat must not overlook the important item of buttons.

Fur coats grow more voluminous at the back, and the fronts are as scant as possible.

The most softening, beautifying and becoming touch on the tailored suit this year is fur.

One of the season's favoured modes is the closely fitted turban or cap for theatre wear.

In evening coiffures, the high coil, almost a Psyche knot, is appearing at the back of the head.

One of the winter's novelties is the fur suit; moleskin, broadtail, and tailless ermine are used.

The feather, which often forms the only trimming of the small hat, is now placed directly in front.

Corduroy velvet, in white or vivid tones, is a fabric much used for fashioning hats to wear with tailored costumes.

We hear that the corset is now slipped on or drawn up over the feet, confining the hips only, and is unboned in front.

Headdresses for theatre wear consist of close-fitting little caps of metallic lace or net, adorned with aigrettes.

The use of chiffon taffeta is becoming more general; it forms the basis of stunning afternoon and evening frocks.

The plainer skirts are very short, cut to the boot tops, exposing contrasting uppers; but they are used only for walking.

There is no good reason for discarding your last season's evening gowns and wraps. They can be remodelled with small expenditure of time and money.

The young girls are wearing with simple frocks of velvet or serge girdles of white silk braid in striped design. Long tassels of silk are attached to the end.

Fashionable women are wearing chic little turbans of satin, trimmed with fur. The material is swathed about the head in Persian fashion. A high bow usually trims the side or front.

Wraps are often worn throughout the evening at the play. The wonderful fur-trimmed brocades hanging off the shoulders are a charming background for the delicately charming gowns.

Seal of Approval.

Zutoo has made good.

Zutoo has made itself indispensable to thousands who never before used a headache remedy.

By sheer force of its merit, it has overcome the prejudice which these persons had against it because they thought all headache cures were alike.

They now know that Zutoo is different.

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A roof garden that goes with the average country house, with trees, flower beds, and vine-embowered nooks, is one of the features of New York's newest hotel, the Biltmore.

The new Biltmore practically represents the last word in hotel construction in New York, and the roof garden, on the sixth floor, is but one of its novel features. Virtually, the hotel will have two roof gardens, for the ballroom, on the twenty-second floor, has been so constructed that in summer it can be opened on three sides, thus furnishing an open-air restaurant.

The hotel is 26 storeys high, with two wings forming a large open court 70 feet wide on one side. It occupies a whole block. Every room, including the kitchen, is open to light and air. The hotel has 1,000 guest rooms, with private baths. It has cost about $10,000,000.

Many Stolen Autos.

George S. Dougherty, deputy police commissioner, issued a circular at police headquarters which revealed the enormous number of automobiles which were stolen in New York last year. The circular is meant for the police of other cities, who are requested to watch for the stolen machines.

Since 1st January, 1913, 206 automobiles have been stolen in Manhattan and the Bronx alone. Of this number 154 machines have been recovered by the police or by private detectives.

Most of the stolen machines were lost when left unattended in the street, while the owner or chauffeur was making a call or stopping at a restaurant. The thief would simply jump in and go off with the car.

The Longest Tunnel.

Only a few fet of rock intervene between the bands of workers whose meeting will complete the longest tunnel in the world, which extends from Yonkers to Brooklyn, a distance of seventeen and one-half miles.

It is for the Catskill water system, which is nearing completion, and through it will course the supply gathered in the great reservoir of Ashokan, 150 miles from the busy metropolis.

The maximum depth of the tunnel—its distance below the seurface—is 740 feet, and for the entire distance below the Yonkers line it is in the living rock. No steel beams support its walls, and the rough surface is smoothed by a lining of concrete. For the great part of its course it is three or four hundred feet beneath the streets of New —ork—so far down that when a blast is discharged scarcely a tremour reaches the land of trolleys and automobiles.

It is customary to speak of the tunnel which passes under the St. Gothard, in the Alps, as a stupendous feat of engineering, yet it is scarcely more than half the length of the Catskill water tunnel in the city of New York. The St. Gothard tunnel was dug from both ends, while in the case of the Catskill tunnel there were 46 points of attack from 25 different shafts.

Managers Hiring Critics.

Dramatic critics had better look to their laurels.

Theatrical producers in New York have made a new departure—they are hiring their own critics. No ordinary critics either, but society girls.

These young women are anxious to do something more than adorn social functions, attend performances on the opening night They then roll home in their limousines and retire to their boudoirs, where they record their impressions of the play and the players. These are incorporated in a letter which is mailed by a butler or a maid so that it reaches the producer of the criticised play on the following morning.

The value of such criticism is not at once apparent. But the value must be there, otherwise the producers would not be paying these young women good salaries for their rather inconsiderable labours. It is understood that they are recompensed at the rate of $1,500 a year for the work which takes but a few hours each week.

It is evident that the managers have been roused by the large percentage of failures which they have experienced recently, and that some of them have arrived at the conclusion that a remedy may be found in an unbiassed criticism of their offerings from one of their clients. The newspaper critics may or may not tell them what is wrong with their plays technically. But the professional critics often fail to predict what the verdict of the general public will be. And again, they are prone to destructive rather than constructive criticism.

The managers have, therefore, sought a new viewpoint. In deciding upon amateur critics it was only logical that they should have chosen women, for upon the opinion of women largely depends the success or failure of a play. That they should have sought so-called society girls was also logical, because society people in a large measure support the theatres.

Heart and Nerves Were Bad.

Could Not Sleep.

To the thousands of people who toss on a sleepless pillow night after night, or who pace the bedroom floor with nerves on the jump, the heart action all wrong, and to whose eyes sleep will not come, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound refreshing slumber, as they restore the equilibrium of the deranged nerve centres and correct the wrong action of the heart.

Mrs. Charles Teel, Horncastle, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart and nerves were so bad I could not sleep, and the least noise or excitement would make me feel so that I used to think I was going to die, and I would tremble until I could hardly stand. I took doctor's medicine, but it did not do me much good. At last I tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and can certainly say they did me a great amount of good. I can recommend them to anyone who is suffering as I was."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been on the market for the past twenty years, and have done more to steady shaky nerves and strengthen weak hearts, than any other known preparation.

Price, 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WHEN THE COOKY JAR IS FULL.

There's a time of great rejoicing and a season of delight,
When the household wheels run smoothly and the household sky is bright.
When domestic troubles scatter as are feathers blown afar—
And it comes when overflowing is the household cooky jar.

Jollity, content and pleasure by the hearthstone fold their wings,
And the children's happy voices join the kettle as it sings.
Like a summer sky, good-nature by no murky cloud is dimmed,
When with seedy circles, crisp and sweet, the cooky jar is brimmed

Oh, that glowing satisfaction! You might widely, vainly seek,
O'er the country for its equal. Though it comes but once a week.
While its sweet enchantment lingers, hearts are light as zephir wool;
And 'tis Saturday that brings it—when the cooky jar is full.

Tools for the Farm

The following tools should be found in every farmer's workshop:
1 10-tooth crosscut handsaw.
1 4½ tooth rip-saw.
1 set firmer chisels, ¼-inch to 1¼-inch by eighths.
1 set bits, ¼-inch to 1-inch by sixteenths.
1 Jack plane.
1 Fore plane.
1 Smooth plane.
1 Draw knife.
1 Hammer.
1 Nail set.
1 Carpenter's square.
1 Try square.
1 Two-foot folding rule.
1 Tool grinder.

There are many other tools, not included in this list, that are very handy and useful, but with those given all ordinary repairs to buildings may be made.

The cost of these tools is not great, and will soon be saved over the cost of repairing by a carpenter.

Repairs to buildings should be made just as soon as the necessity for them is discovered. If a repair is postponed for a more convenient time, in a great many cases that time never comes, and in other cases the cost will be greatly increased. Repairing increases both the appearance of buildings and their life.

Keeping everything in good repair, such as buildings, fences, machinery, ditches, etc., is the work of a prosperous farmer. With the tools listed here, at hand, a farmer can make repairs quickly at a very little cost.

ENTHUSIASM

Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition, spurns inaction, storms the citadel of its object, and like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles. It is nothing more nor less than faith in action. Faith and initiative rightly combined remove mountainous barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous. Set the germ of enthusiasm afloat in your plant, in your office, or on your farm; carry it in your attitude and manner; it spreads like contagion and influences every fiber of your industry before you realise it; it begets and inspires effects you did not dream of; it means increase in production and decrease in costs; it means joy and pleasure and satisfaction to your workers; it means life, real and virile; it means spontaneous bed-rock results—the vital things that pay dividends.—Henry Chester.

Unappreciated Inventors

A meeting took place at Bucharest of a Congress of Unappreciated Inventors. A certain number of mechanical geniuses, lacking the funds to carry out their ideas, met to discuss the means of remedying this want. The members of the congress included a chemist who knew how to produce diamonds, a shoemaker who could manufacture boots in which to walk comfortably on the surface of the deepest waters, and a sign-painter who had discovered a color which renders aeroplanes invisible at a distance of eighty metres from the ground.

The last three funerals conducted by the Rector of Newton (Lincs) were of men whose combined ages amounted to 280 years. One was a hundred, another ninety-three, and the third eighty-seven.

SIGNALLING FEATS IN WAR

Basutos Have a System of Wireless Telegraphy

It is said that during a Balkan battle a Bulgarian cowherd signalled news to his military countrymen relative to the position of the Servian battalions by moving five cows about in various ways on the tops of a hill.

The Basutos practically anticipated "wireless telegraphy" in a crude fashion. That is, by striking heavily on a huge drum of goat-skin which is placed on a special spot, another Basuto at a distance can gather the purport of the message by placing his ear close to the ground to catch the vibrations—and then he, in turn, passes the message on. So quickly can this be done, owing to the peculiar configuration of Basutoland, that during the South African War the Basutos were said to know all about big battles long before the people in Cape Town.

Of course, given suitable climatic conditions, the military heliograph can transmit messages over enormous tracts of country, and the record is probably held by Captain Sadler, of the 6th Dragoon Guards, who, by this means, succeeded in South Africa in sending a message direct a distance of 130 miles.

ELECTRIC COOKING BLOCK

A Piece of Metal Which is Storing up Heat at all Times

The electric cooking block is a substitute for the stove is that it performs a great many of the offices of the stove in a very satisfactory manner, but from the standpoint of the electrical manager it has the additional advantage that it does not make its demand for current during the hours of the greatest load. On the contrary the general adoption of the block would make a constant call for current which is what the electrical companies are desirous of cultivating.

ELECTRICAL COOKING BLOCK WHICH STORES UP HEAT

The stove consists of a block of iron imbedded in heat insulating material. Within this block is an electrical heating unit. The surface of the iron block forms a smooth plate on which a cooking utensil may be placed. But normally, when the stove is not in use it is covered by a lid, also filled with heat insulating material. As there is practically no outlet for the heat generated by the heating unit, the iron block is steadily heated and rises in temperature until the cover is removed for a cooking utensil to be substituted. After one dish has been cooked the cover is applied to the stove again and it is permitted to store heat until the next dish is to be cooked. As compared with the ordinary disk stove the heat-storage stove uses very little current.

LIVESTOCK NOTES

The well trained work horse always has another pull coming and doesn't mind it at all if the pulling doesn't hurt his shoulders.

A stiff scrubbing brush is a very good thing to clean dirt from the horses' legs.

If you are buying a horse, get him on a slow trot. Then, if ever, he will show any lameness he may have.

Did you ever think that grabbing sheep by the wool makes a sore place on their bodies? It surely does; don't do it.

If our cattle could do to us as we do to them, what a lot of sore shins and broken ribs there would be on the farms of this country!

Full blood or grade swine will pay a handsome dividend. They cost more at the start, but are very satisfactory in the long run.

There is in some parts of New Ontario a reversion to the use of oxen. Well-mated and properly broken they make a reliable farm team, and can be turned off at a good profit when the outdoor work is over.

Canada Attracts Investors

A leading Canadian financial publication estimates that there is now at least $599,000,000 of United States capital invested in Canada. Over $150,000,000 is in the shape of branch factories and warehouses of United States manufacturers, while nearly $104,000,000 is invested by residents of the United States in Canadian government, municipal and industrial bonds. United States life and fire insurance companies have $87,000,000 invested in the Dominion, while over $150,000,000 is invested in British Columbia mills, timber and mines.

Investments in the prairie provinces are in lands, mines, packing plants, factories and warehouses.

SOME NEW SANDWICH AND SALAD RECIPES.

PINEAPPLE SALAD.

Fresh or canned pineapple, mayonnaise dressing, diced apple, candied cherries, lettuce.

The fresh or canned pineapple should be shredded or diced.

Use as much apple by measure as you have pineapple and mix them well together. Moisten with part of the mayonnaise, and use the remainder for decorating the salad. Garnish with the cherries and serve piled high on the lettuce. If preferred, a cream dressing may be substituted for the mayonnaise.

* * * *

COCOANUT SANDWICHES.

One cup of grated cocoanut, one teaspoonful of lemon or orange juice, one cup of English walnuts, a little powdered sugar, one-quarter cup of heavy cream.

Add to the cocoanut the finely-chopped nuts, also the lemon or orange juice and the cream and sugar. The quantity of sugar will depend to some extent on whether orange or lemon juice is used. Mix to a paste with the cream and spread on bread well buttered. These should be made as shortly before eating as possible.

* * * *

PECAN AND CREAM CHEESE SALAD.

Pecan nuts, sweet cream, lettuce, apples, cream cheese, mayonnaise dressing.

Have the nuts shelled and carefully picked over, so that there may be no particles of the bitter connecting tissue with them. Chop them fine and mix with twice their bulk of cream cheese, adding as much liquid cream as may be needed to enable them to be formed into a paste. Season lightly with pepper and salt and make into small, round balls. The butter paddles used in forming butter balls will be very excellent for this purpose.

Core and pare medium sized apples; cut them into slices and lay a slice on each plate on a lettuce leaf. Place a cheese and nut ball in the centre of each slice of apple and pour thick mayonnaise dressing over. Serve with bread and butter sandwiches or unsweetened graham wafers.

* * * *

PIMENTO AND CHEESE SALAD.

Lettuce, cheese, yolks of two eggs, two cups of celery, cracker crumbs, French dressing, one can of sweet Spanish peppers.

Chop the peppers fine, grate the cheese and chop the celery. Have the yolks of the eggs hard cooked. Add them to the cheese, and form these two ingredients into small, round balls, moistening them with the liquid from the peppers.

Mix peppers and celery and marinate with a little French dressing. Lay crisp lettuce leaves on individual serving plates. Make a little nest or bed of the peppers and celery, roll the cheese balls in finely crushed cracker crumbs, which have been crisped in the oven, and serve at once.

Mayonnaise dressing can be used for this salad in place of the French dressing if preferred, but the French dressing makes a daintier looking salad.

* * * *

NUT AND RAISIN SANDWICHES.

Nuts, raisins, orange juice, marmalade if desired.

Nut and raisin sandwiches are delicious and can be made from almost any kind of nuts. Half as many nuts as raisins are used and both are passed through a local chopper, then moistened with orange juice before being spread on the buttered bread. Rich marmalades, such as peach or apricot, can also be mixed with nuts and used as a sandwich filling. For these plain thin slices of sponge cake are sometimes used in place of bread. Such a sandwich should be cut very small. The fragments need by no means be wasted, but will form an excellent base for future puddings.

* * * *

SAVOURY BUTTER SANDWICH.

One cup of butter, one teaspoonful of made mustard, yolks of two eggs, ose teaspoon of anchovy paste.

Beat the butter until creamy, and add to it the yolks of the eggs, which have been previously hard cooked and passed through a sieve. Mix well with the mustard and the anchovy paste. Salt is not likely to be needed for these sandwiches, as, naturally, the anchovy will supply this condiment; but a generous allowance of paprika or freshly ground pepper should be added. Use fresh bread and have it cut a little thicker than is common.

In making these, or indeed any sandwiches, it should be remembered that oblongs or triangles are the best shapes, as the bread cuts to better advantage.

A novel umbrella is equipped with a storage battery electric light in its handle.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

By MRS. HENRY SYMES

Relief for that Indigestion

A GREATER enemy to beauty and happiness never was than indigestion. From its ravages upon the helpless system come the yellowed, splotchy complexion, depressed spirits, the habitual grouch!

There are many causes of indigestion, but the chief ones are, first—imperfect mastication. I think that many persons are under the impression that the process of digestion is not begun until the food reaches the stomach. Digestion begins in the mouth, where the food is, or should be, ground to a pulp and thoroughly mixed with the first of the digestive juices, saliva. Nature furnishes us with about three pints of saliva a day, and we are expected to utilize that quantity. Therefore, we should let nothing enter the stomach without first mixing it well with this particular digestive juice. Fletcherize conscientiously, that is, chew the food until it dances [illegible] to a state of liquefaction. Doctor Fletcher claims that if the food be so masticated, we can well do with a smaller quantity than is usually consumed.

The second cause of indigestion is the teeth. If there are cavities in the teeth or they are rather separated, particles of food will lodge in them, and the decomposition of such particles interferes greatly with the digestion and gives a horribly offensive odor to the breath. The teeth should be scrubbed after each meal and a toothpick and dental floss used—in strict privacy. Nothing is more disgusting than a person cleansing his teeth with a pick before other people. Any cavities in the teeth should, of course, be promptly filled.

Third in the "causes" is overeating—giving the stomach too much work to do. Eating between meals is largely responsible for the stomach's overwork. It takes from four to five hours to digest food, and that is why our three meals a day are set at 8, 1 and 6 o'clock or thereabouts. So many of our social customs and rules of etiquette are based upon just such sensible theories. That is why it is generally wise to observe most social customs, even though one is inclined to scoff at their social aspect. Enough is enough, and when one begins to feel uncomfortable while eating he or she has taken more than enough. One should satisfy the cravings of the inner man, but not oversatisfy him. It were best to let him remain a tiny bit hungry. If you were employed at a sweatshop, where you were given thirty garments a day to sew upon, and it was possible to do only twenty well, you would be compelled to slight some of the garments, the work would suffer. And so, when your stomach is given more work than is reasonable, it is obliged to look to quantity rather than quality, and you suffer.

Fourth, alcohol, tea and coffee retard digestion seriously. They dilute the food if taken with it and wash it down before it is thoroughly masticated. Alcohol irritates the lining of the stomach and tea and coffee counteract the beneficial effects of the gastric juice.

The fifth cause—not the last, by any means, but the last I shall have space to give to you in my talk—is that of violent emotions and melancholy. Melancholy will give us indigestion, indigestion will give us melancholy. They are apparently in league with each other. There are two quotations that I would like to see conspicuously placed in every dining room in the land:

"Eat, drink, and be merry," and at the other end of the room:

"Better is the dinner of herbs, where love is, than the stalled ox and hatred therewith."

Happiness is a beautifier, because it encourages bodily functions; it sends the blood racing merrily through the veins; it makes the eyes brighten, the cheeks glow, the heart sing! And so, at mealtime be merry. Let there be laughter, chaff, funny anecdotes. They will stimulate digestion. I yet have visions, heart-rending visions, of the little children who were obliged to sit at the table and pursue the "business" of eating without a murmur from soup to cambric tea. If you are worried or anxious, put those two harmful emotions aside for the brief meal hour—yes, and for an hour or so afterward. Worry but retards the digestion, and a retarded digestion makes you incompetent to cope with the problem which probably caused the anxiety.

A very simple remedy for indigestion, and one that is quite effective, is the glass of hot water sipped a half hour before each meal. It is not well to take it any nearer the time of eating, as the water is taken for the purpose of washing out the stomach, and it is a half hour, and sometimes more, before the last of the water leaves the stomach and enters the intestines.

While visiting, a young woman of my acquaintance was taken with acute indigestion. She immediately went upstairs, where she would be alone, and began crawling about the floor on her hands and knees, as a baby creeps. She did this with no particular haste, but kept steadily at it for fully ten minutes. At the end of ten minutes she was greatly relieved. She told me that the remedy was one she had learned from her grandmother. It is probably successful because the position of the body and the accompanying gentle exercise are instrumental in bringing an extra supply of blood to the stomach, and thereby digesting the food which is giving trouble.

A hot-water bag placed high up on the stomach will also bring the blood to the desired spot and digest troublesome foods. Gentle massage will frequently do the same.

For intestinal indigestion olive oil is excellent. Too much must not be taken at once or the oil itself will prove indigestible. I should say that a teaspoonful of olive oil three times a day would be the correct amount. As it is difficult to take, mix the oil with grape juice by placing in a glass two teaspoonfuls of the grape juice, then one of oil, and finally two more of grape juice. Castor oil will also relieve intestinal indigestion. Take an ordinary bottle that will hold about five ounces and fill it half full of hot milk; add to this a tablespoonful of castor oil. Cork the bottle and shake thoroughly for a few minutes. This forms an emulsion, and one barely knows that the liquid contains oil.

For all very acute attacks of indigestion a physician should certainly be consulted at once. The suggested remedies are only for mild cases or the relief of severe attacks until the doctor arrives—a sort of "first aid to the injured."

Of course, one must not be "queer" about diet. There is a happy medium which falls far short of the crank. But one must exercise reasonable care in treating of subject to indigestion.

Guard against, as far as possible, the rich midnight spreads, late coffee and other stimulant drinking, etc. The rich, greasy foods, lobster salads, etc., are harmful, whereas light sponge cake, fruit, hot chocolate and the like are harmless and nourishing. If you are in the habit of giving spreads, why not set the example of giving healthful and reasonable ones? Make a slight study of the value and effects of the different foods and get back your good complexion and healthy, happy spirits.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUERIES

REPLIES to letters to the writer of this department will be printed in regular order; but no replies in print may be expected in less than three or four weeks.

Correspondents desiring immediate replies to queries may get them by inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Personal inquiries will receive prompt attention if accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

A Cleansing Cream

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly tell me of a good cream I can use instead of soap? HELEN.

Following is the recipe for a good cleansing cream:

White wax	2 ounces
Spermaceti	2 ounces
Sweet almond oil	12 ounces
Distilled water	2 ounces
Glycerin	2 ounces
Salicylic acid	90 grains

Chapped Hands

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly tell me what lotion I can use on my hands, which chap easily? FRIEDA.

A very splendid lotion is made of:

Tincture benzoin	30 drops
Glycerin	2 ounces
Rosewater	3 ounces

Rub this on the hands night and morning.

A Headache Sufferer

Dear Mrs. Symes.
I suffer a great deal with headaches and take medicine in tablet form. My friends tell me this is not a good thing to do. Do you think I will suffer any harm in the future? M. C.

It is a bad thing to form the habit of taking headache tablets, especially when they only relieve the pain for a time. What you must do is to ascertain the cause of the aches and then proceed to remove the cause. It may be that your eyes need attention or that your stomach is not in good condition. Consult a reliable physician and receive a permanent remedy.

For Whitening the Skin

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly give me the recipe for a liquid or powder which I may use to whiten my skin? ESTHER.

I feel sure that the following recipe is the very one you desire:

Pure oxide of zinc	1 ounce
Glycerin	1 dram
Rosewater	4 ounces
Essence of rose	15 drops

Sift the zinc, dissolving it in just enough of the rosewater to cover it, then add the glycerin; next, the remainder of the rosewater. Add the essence of rose last.

Shake well, and apply with a soft sponge or an antiseptic gauze. The face must be well wiped off before the liquid dries, or it will be streaked.

For the Bust

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you please tell me what I can take to develop my bust? SARAH I.

Massage with cocoa butter, deep breathing and the Vaucaire tonic will do much to develop your bust.

Dr. Vaucaire's Remedy for the Bust

Liquid extract of gelsem (gentsem)	3 fl. dr.
Lacto-phosphate of lime	150 grains
Tincture of fennel	10 minims
Simple syrup (sugar and water 2 to 1)	1½ ounces

The dose is 2 teaspoonfuls with water before each meal.

Doctor Vaucaire also advises the drinking of malt extract during meals.

Dandruff

Dear Mrs. Symes.
I have a great deal of dandruff on my scalp and should like to know whether I should put anything in the water when washing the head. ALROE.

Before shampooing the head, saturate the scalp with vaseline, olive oil or lanolin. Allow the oil to remain on for twenty-four hours. It will soften the dandruff and make it possible to wash it out the next day.

For Pimples

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly tell me what is the best thing to do to get rid of pimples? S. F. G.

First of all, bathe the pimples with very hot water, and then, after drying them, apply the cream for which I am giving the recipe:

Rosatti Cream for Pimples

Extract of violet	30 drops
Sweet almond oil	1½ drams
Sulphur precipitate	75 grains
Lanolin	75 grains
Oxide of zinc	2 scruples

To get rid of the pimples entirely you should locate and remove the cause. If you have been indulging in too many sweets, refrain from eating them for a while. If you have indigestion or suffer from constipation, get a remedy, for such a condition of the system is sure to disturb the skin.

A Mole on the Face

Dear Mrs. Symes.
I have a mole on my face and should like you to tell me what will remove it. LOUISE S.

The electric treatment is the only thing that I advise you to use to get rid of the mole. To have the work done successfully, you should make sure to go to a reliable operator.

Hands and Nails

Dear Mrs. Symes.
My nails are brittle and I have great difficulty pushing back the cuticle from them. My hands are also very rough, and I should like to know what to do for them. ANNA.

Cold cream will do much to improve the condition of your nails and hands. Rub it into the hands and over the nails every night before retiring, and then wear loose, clean gloves to bed. This will make the nails less brittle. Holding them in warm olive oil will also prove beneficial. This will make it easier to push back the cuticle surrounding the nail. For this purpose use an orange-wood stick and do the work gently so that it will not injure the nail.

Brown Hair Stain

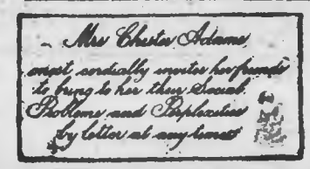
Dear Mrs. Symes.
Some time ago you published the recipe for a brown hair stain. Will you kindly print it again? F. K.

The brown hair stain is made of the following ingredients:

Green walnut shells	1 ounces
Alum	½ ounce
Pure oil	4 ounces

Heat together in a water bath until the water has been completely evaporated. Then express, filter and perfume.

Sage tea may be used to darken the hair. Make a strong brew of dried leaves, strain the liquid carefully through muslin, and to each pint add two teaspoonfuls of alcohol. This should be rubbed on the hair every night before retiring.



[If a personal reply is desired, a self-addressed stamped envelope should be inclosed.]

ADVICE ON SOCIAL CUSTOMS

WHEN PAYING A CALL

WINTER is the time of social formality, and as an expression of courtesy the call stands supreme. A formal call should be paid between the hours of 3 and 5.30 in the afternoon. You can readily see the reason for this, as a hostess must not be "caught napping," and the caller should give her time to finish any luncheon, nap or duties around the home, and at the same time a departure should be made that will enable the hostess to prepare for dinner.

It is permissible to make a morning call that is not entirely a social one. A call that has for its object a charitable task, the inquiry after the health of one in the household or the investigation of a servant's standing can be made at a convenient hour in the morning. Do not make a call of this character on the at home day, for this entertainment demands extra duties from the hostess, and she ought to be undisturbed. This type of call is not counted a social call and cannot be made to pay off any social debts.

If a friend has a special day on which she receives callers, choose this, by all means. The issuing of cards stating the day and the hour will make your calling list a very simple thing. Keep cards of this type and enter the facts in a little book.

If a bride is in her new home and has stated on her cards a social date, it is discourteous to call before that time. She may not be prepared to receive visitors. Allow a reasonable length of time to elapse and make the first call. In a neighborhood where it is the custom to call on newly arrived residents, there should be a comfortable time given to allow of a settling in the new home and an adjustment to one's surroundings.

An unmarried woman should call on a matron first, and a younger woman pays the first call on the older one, without regard to the fact of the former's being married or single. The best thing to do is to acquaint yourself with the social customs of the city or country in which you reside and abide by them.

Now there are some calls that are obligatory. If you have been bridesmaid or an attendant at a wedding, you should call on the true hostess of the wedding reception, the mother of the bride. This should be done shortly after the wedding. All guests of a home wedding, since they are socially indebted to the mother of the bride, should pay a call. The dinner call is also of great importance. This should be made within two weeks after the invitation, whether you have been a guest or not. To neglect to call on a hostess, if you have been unable to accept her invitation to a dance or dinner, is a discourtesy which she should have every right to resent.

It is proper to call on a friend without knowing the hostess who is entertaining her in her home. There must be left, however, a card for the hostess as well as for the friend, and when entering the house you should ask for the hostess.

I shall touch lightly on the subject of cards, for I wish to treat the subject at greater extent later. Just remember that a woman never calls on a man, and, therefore, does not leave her card for a host or any man in the house. A man calls on both men and women, and, therefore, his cards are left by him or by his wife, one for the host and one for the hostess.

The time of a formal call should be about twenty minutes to a half hour. No gossiping should ever enter into the conversation. Try to be bright, entertaining, kind in all remarks, and make your hostess sorry that you are leaving. Do not tell her how much you have enjoyed the afternoon; make her understand it by your manner, that should be the essence of good breeding, poise and sympathy.

Solutions to Social Problems

Arm in Arm

DEAR Mrs. Adams.
Is it proper for a woman to take her escort's arm while out walking with him? JIM.

It is no longer customary to see couples walking along arm in arm. Of course, where there is any great need of assistance, it is quite right that a woman should take hold of her escort's arm.

A Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Adams.
I have been a reader of your page for many months, and I should like to know if it is necessary to answer an invitation to a church wedding, and if so, how should it be worded? GRATEFUL.

An invitation to a church wedding needs no reply. It is only when the invitation includes cards for a reception that the same should be answered, and then only if the invited one cannot attend. In such an event, two visiting cards should be sent to the bride's parents, so that they reach them the day of the wedding.

The Bride's Receiving Line

Dear Mrs. Adams.
1. Will you kindly tell me if it is correct, when the parents of the bridegroom are dead, for his older sister or brother to be in the receiving line with the bridal party?
2. When giving a party for a bride-elect what place of honor should she occupy both at the tea and card tables?
3. What sort of guest prize should she receive? F. H.

1. None of the bridegroom's family is in the receiving line. This line is made up of the bride and bridegroom and the bridesmaids.
2. At the tea the bride should be near the hostess, so that she can be presented to the guests as they arrive. I presume you will have a progressive card game. In this case the bride will be moving from one table to another, so that no seat in particular can be reserved for her.
3. If you intend to give a special prize to the bride-elect, select something she will be able to use in her new home. Something in the line of china, glass or linen will be acceptable.

Letter of Introduction

Dear Mrs. Adams.
Please tell me how to present a card of introduction to a rather famous artist. Neither of us is very young, but both unmarried, and the friend who sent the card said I should call at his studio. Would that be correct? A. C.

If for business purposes you have received a card of introduction to the artist, you should call at his studio and present the card along with your own.

If your friend is anxious that you and the artist should become friends for social reasons, it would be better for him to send a letter of introduction to the artist and have him call on you.

The Thing to Do

Dear Mrs. Adams.
I have just received an announcement of a wedding. I do not know the bride. Is it proper for me to call on her? There were no cards included. THE DALLES.

It is customary for one to call upon the bride after the receipt of an announcement card.

Employer is to Be Married

Dear Mrs. Adams.
Will you be kind enough to advise me? I am a stenographer and my employer is to be married soon. Would it be good form for me to send a wedding present, and if so, what shall it be? I have only met the bride-elect. E. S.

If you have received an invitation to the wedding and the reception, you may send a gift to the bride. A piece of china, silver or something in linen would be appropriate. If you merely received an invitation to the church or an announcement card, it would be better to refrain from sending a gift.

Offering Thanks

Dear Mrs. Adams.
1. If a person does a favor for another, such as helping one to and from a car, assists in finding a seat or picks up a dropped article, should one thank the person for his assistance?
2. If my boy friend and I are stopping at a hotel for a dinner, would it be proper for either him or me to pay the whole cost?
3. Several weeks ago a girl friend and I went to call on a male friend of mine. We had several meals at the hotel where he was boarding and went on little pleasure trips. On all occasions except one or two my friend paid all our expenses. Just before leaving him I offered to reimburse him for all our expenses, but he refused to accept. Will you please tell me what would have been the proper thing for me to do in a case of this kind?
4. When buying anything at a store and the salesperson thanks me for the purchase, should I say, "You're welcome"?
5. In case a person in company makes a mistake or leaves the room and fails to be pardoned or excused, is it necessary for any one to respond? MIRIAM.

1. Yes.
2. The person who extended the invitation should pay the expense. If, however, you have both agreed to step in a restaurant for a meal, each one may pay his own expense.
3. I do not see that you could have done any differently. If the man would not accept your offer, there was nothing more to do than to express your appreciation of his kindness.
4. You may either say "You are welcome," or "I thank you for your service."
5. It would appear ridiculous for every one in a large company to reply to the young man. The most sensible solution is for the one or two persons nearest him to make some remark.

Furnishing the House

Dear Mrs. Adams.
What part of the house should the bride furnish?
What flowers and what carriages should be provided? BRIDE-ELECT.

As a rule, the bride provides nothing but the linen for the new home. However, in this day, a bride and bridegroom do as they please about contributing to the house furnishings.

The bridegroom provides the flowers for the bride and the bridesmaids and maid of honor.

The bridegroom sends carriages to convey the ushers to and from church, and he provides not only the carriage in which he and his best man go to the church, but also the one in which he and his bride drive away from the ceremony.

Using Cards

Dear Mrs. Adams.
My husband and I were entertained at dinner by a newly married couple. When I pay the "party call" how many cards should I leave? IN DOUBT.

One of your own and two of your husband's.

The Guest of Honor

Dear Mrs. Adams.
I am going to give a luncheon for a girl friend who is to be married soon. As there will be no host, where should the guest of honor be seated? HELEN.

To the right of the hostess.

Gift for a Baby

Dear Mrs. Adams.
What is a suitable gift for a man to send a new-born baby and to whom should it be addressed? GEORGE T.

Little pins, a silver cup, a carriage robe and a silver rattle are among the appropriate gifts for a baby. Address the package to the baby, and inclose your card.

To Whom to Write

Dear Mrs. Adams.
Last year a friend of mine went to a distant city. I have just received a card announcing his marriage to a girl whom I have never met. Will you kindly tell me to whom I should write a note of congratulation? MARIE.

The note should be sent to the husband in this case.

Entering the Theater

Dear Mrs. Adams.
Who should lead the way down the aisle when a man and woman enter the theater? Which one should accept the programme? THEODORE.

The woman should precede the man; the usher will lead the way.
The man.

The Proper Position

Dear Mrs. Adams.
What is the proper place for the bread and butter plate and the tumbler when setting a table? VIOLET.

The plate is put to the upper left of the larger plate and the tumbler should be to the upper right of same.

Entering and Leaving a Car

Dear Mrs. Adams.
When a boy and girl are entering and leaving a car who should precede? BROTHERS.

The girl should precede when entering the car and the man should precede when the couple are leaving the car.

On the Table

Dear Mrs. Adams.
1. When doilies only are used on the table should oblong or round ones be put beneath the meat platter and vegetable dish?
2. What size mats should be used under the salad plates?
3. Should the knife and spoon be placed at the right of the plate and the fork at the left?
4. Should dessertspoons be placed on the table at the beginning of the meal?
5. What kind of a dish should pickles be served in?
6. Is it proper to serve cold meat and stuffed peppers on glass platters?
7. Should the spoon used to stir iced tea be left in the glass while drinking or does it be left on the counter? A CONSTANT READER.

1. One usually tries to have the doily the shape of the dish above it.
2. The circumference of the doilies should be about the same or possibly larger than the circumference of the plates.
3. Yes.
4. Yes.
5. Pickles may be served in paper receptacles, which in turn are placed on small plates, or they may be served in the little china canoes which are sold for the purpose.
6. It is necessary to serve these foods on china platters, but there is no reason why you should not use glass, if you prefer it to china.
7. Serve the glasses of tea on small plates, and then when the beverage has been stirred sufficiently the spoons can be placed on the plate.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" IS YOUR LAXATIVE

Best Liver and Bowel Cleanser and Stomach Regulator in the World —Work While You Sleep

Get a 10-cent box.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause greatest distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

Latest Facts Re Radium As Cancer Cure

Dr. Kelly Claims it is the Cure Only When the Case is Not Widely Disseminated

FACTS CONCERNING IT

Radium is obtained by the reduction of pitchblende and other radium bearing ores.

It requires 150 reductions to produce the minutest particle.

One milligram may be extracted from a ton of ore, at a cost of about $50.

The retail price is $125 a milligram. A gram at this rate is worth $125,000.

There are only six or seven grams in the world, and of these, Mme. Curie, its discoverer, owns 2.3.

A pennyweight of radium at the market price is worth $194,400. An ounce of it at this rate would be worth $3,888,000.

Robert G. Bremner, member of Congress from New Jersey, has become the centre of interest of the medical world. Physicians and surgeons are waiting to see if the greatest trial ever made to cure cancer b ymeans of radium, the most powerful and scarcest known element, is successful.

Representative Bremner, in whose case President Wilson and many close associates in Washington official life are interested, has suffered for everal years from a malignant cancer in the left shoulder. Operations have failed to check the insidious disease, and recently Mr. Bremner was forced forced to carry his affected arm in a sling. The cancer had made its way over the shoulder until it almost met under the arm.

How Radium Was Administered.

In a last desperate attempt to save his life and establish the exact status of radium in the treatment of such a serious case the congressman submitted to treatment by Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Baltimore. One hundred thousand dollars' worth of radium was placed in the growth in Mr. Bremner's shoulder by Dr. Kelly and was left there long enough to send its radio-active properties in a cross fire through the cancerous growth. The operation was repeated the following day. Dr. Kelly put the radium in eleven tubes, coated with rubber, and these tubes, each about two and one-half inches long and about one-third of an inch in diameter, were planted in as many incisions made in the cancer on Mr. Bremner's shoulder. It will be five or six weks before the resuk is known.

In order that cancer victims' hopes may not be raised higher than actual results warrant, Dr. Kelly has announced that radium is not a specific cure for cancer and that it is effective only when there is no wide dissemination of the disease.

Verdict Remains in Abeyance

While about a dozen reports of remarkable "cures" of cancer by the use of the metal have been made by physicians and surgeons of repute in the last six years or so, medical men still hesitate to assert without reserve that an infallible means of combating the disease has been found, except perhaps in the superficial type of cancer.

Nevertheless some remarkable cases have been reported.

The New York American quotes Dr. Abraham Jacobi, eighty-three years old and a renowned specialist, as follows:

"About seven years ago epithelioma or cancer of the skin, appeared on the left side of my nose. It pained me greatly. I was on the point of having it removed by surgeons when I decided to try radium, then in its first blush of heralded success.

"Three applications were made, one of three minutes, one of four minutes and one of seven. A short time after the final treatment I was cured."

The Government Interested

Should the treatment cure Mr. Bremner, action may be taken by congress looking to the preservation of pitchblende beds of Colorado, from which the radium producing ore is obtained.

At present the ore is found in Colorado. Dr. Kelly with others has obtained much of the land, and there are experiments going on in which the bureau of mines is lending its aid. The bureau will take charge of the extraction of radium from the ore and wil begin work in a few months in Denver in a new laboratory which is being built with money furnished by the National Radium institute.

All the expenses of running the plant are to be paid by the Radium institute. Under the agreement with the bureau of mines, the institute is to send all the extracted radium to the Memorial hospital in Baltimore, to be used in the treatment of cancer cases. The Radium institute philanthropists have agreed on their part to give free applications of the radium to all cancer applicants. None of the radium is to be sold.

Maritime Demand For Fixed Representation Presented.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10—Premier Flemming of New Brunswick and Premier Mathieson of Prince Edward Island yesterday presented to the Government the claims of those two provinces and Nova Scotia for an irreducible minimum of representation in the Dominion Parliament, to which the Maritime Provinces were unable to secure the assent of the recent interprovincial conference. They ask that the representation at Confederation be restored, or, failing this, that the present representation, viz., Nova Scotia 18, New Brunswick 13, and Prince Edward Island 4 members, be maintained. Under the proposed redistribution bill the representation will be cut to 16, 11 and 3, respectively, which, the delegates urged, would be a violation of the Confederation agreement.

Premier Borden promised consideration of the claims in connection with the redistribution bill. He recognized the importance of the matter, but gave no hint of what action would be taken.

Rabbi Is Charged.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—Rabbi Simon Glaser of this city appeared in the police court yesterday afternoon before Judge Lost in answer to a warrant charging him with the converting to his own use the funds of the estate left in his hands as executor two years ago by a Mrs. Lisa Miller, who has since died. The case was adjourned.

Rabbi Glaser gives an emphatic denial to the charge.

Many Unemployed at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jan. 10.—As a result of a large number of men being out of employment, the Associated Charities has made a request of the City Council that work be provided the men to help their families during the winter months. The city stone quarry will likely be reopened and men put to work.

CALLS FOR INCREASE.

Dairymen Must Exert Themselves Says Secretary Thompson.

CORNWALL, Jan. 10.—An appeal to the Eastern Dairymen's Association to put forth its best efforts to increase the quantity as well as the quality of dairy products was made by Secretary T. A. Thompson, of Almonte, at the concluding day of that organization's convention here yesterday.

The past year had been a most successful one, he said, but much work still remained to be done to meet the growing demand in Canada, and the increasing dependence which the Mother Country put upon Canadian foodstuffs.

The high cost of living was discussed at some length. One delegate blamed the cold storage people for holding produce, whereupon Senator Derbyshire remarked that, as regards eggs, there were not enough in storage in the whole of Canada to last a month. The general opinion among the speakers was that the establishment of cold storage plants was one of the best things the Government ever did for the farmers.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Hon. president, Hon. Senator Derbyshire, Brockville; president, James A. Sanderson, Oxford Station; first vice-president, J. Nelson Stone, Norham; second vice-president, R. G. Leggatt, Newboro; third vice-president, Joseph McGrath, Mount Cheaney; secretary, T. A. Thompson, Almonte; treasurer, Jas. R. Anderson, Mountain View; executive committee, Henry Glendinning, Manilla; G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro; J. A. Anderson, Oxford Station; Jos. McGrath, Mount Cheaney; Nelson Stone, Norham; W. H. Olmstead, Bearbrook; R. G. Leggatt, Newboro; Neil Fraser, Vankleek Hill; directors, H. Glendinning, Manilla, G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro; T. H. Thompson, Madoc; W. Farley, Cannifton; J. Nelson Stone, Norham; T. J. Wright, Picton; Fred Alexander, Napanee; Jos. McGrath, Mount Cheaney; Geo. Leggatt, Newboro; J. A. Campbell, Ormond; Capt. John Gillies, Glen Norman; Neil Fraser, Vankleek Hill; Wm. Brown, Dickinson's Landing; W. H. Olmstead, Bearbrook; J. B. Ferguson, Renfrew; Hugh Clark, Roseville; Fred. Delworth, North Gower; Jas. A. Sanderson, Oxford Station; auditors, M. Bird, Stirling; John Hyatt, Picton; Mr. Sandersen.

This closed the business of the convention.

Burglaries at Welland.

WELLAND, Jan. 10—D. J. Smith's shoe store was broken into Thursday night and over $100 worth of shoes stolen. The burglars broke the glass in the front door, and reaching in turned the Yale lock. The theft was not discovered until the next morning.

The same night the plate glass window in Frank Ahman's store on Muir street was broken and the thieves helped themselves to about $10 worth of tobacco and other small articles. Both burglaries were committed by the same men, the police say.

To Ward Off Winter Complexion Ills

(From the Queen)

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary marcolised wax. Rough, chapped or discoloured skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alternating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. I advise you to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolised wax at any druggstore and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a harmless face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hasel.

CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS?

Experimenters Are Hopeful of New "Air Splint" Treatment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A new method of treating tuberculosis is being investigated by the public health service through experiments at Fort Stanton, N.M., and officials of the service last night said they were inclined to be hopeful of important results.

The methods is known as artificial or induced pneumo-thorax. Air is pumped into the patient's pleural cavity every day or two to maintain pressure, and the results watched by means of X-rays to ascertain the extent to which the diseased lung is compressed. The lung, figuratively, is put into an "air splint," and nature given a chance to cure.

The reports so far tell only of the progress of the experiments, and the officials, while optimistic, said it was too early to prophesy. They are inclined to believe, however, that it may prove effective in any stage of the disease.

WOULD SELL HUSBAND.

One Thousand Is This Woman's Price —She Prefers a Cat.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—"I'm willing to sell my husband for $1,000 cash," wrote Mrs. Agnes Bedell, of Quincy, to Miss Mary E. Chandler, in a letter which Miss Chandler made public last night. William Bedell, the husband, when interviewed later, is alleged to have expressed his willingness to be "sold."

The letter, after explaining that Mrs. Bedell had seen Miss Chandler's name in the newspaper, continued:

"I see where you need a husband to take care of your property and to be a father to your baby. My husband is a working man, tired of supporting a family on small pay. I want money to open a boarding-house. He will be content to sit with you and to tend the baby. As for me, I'd rather have my cat."

RHEUMATISM AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Prof. Badlong Was Quickly Relieved of Both Afflictions by Using Rheuma

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress. Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver, and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Badlong, Sound View, Conn.

RHEUMA is guaranteed by Warne Drug Co., who sell it for 50 cents a bottle.

NAPANEE HAS BAD FIRE.

Destruction of Entire Business District Narrowly Averted.

NAPANEE, Jan. 10.—Fire, which broke out in the Mack House last night about 11 o'clock, destroyed the hotel, a three-storey brick structure and the opera house, a two-storey brick structure adjoining. For a time it was feared that a large section of the business quarter might be destroyed, but the efforts of the firemen succeeded in confining the flames to the two buildings, and at an early hour the flames were extinguished. The loss will not exceed $15,000. The origin of the fire is not known.

New Dishes.

"What new dishes have you had since you have had your new French cook?" asked Mrs. Squire of a friend whom she met one morning.

"Oh, a whole new dinner set," replied the other, "and several pieces of cut glass, and she's only been with us about a week."—Harper's Magazine.

Not Impressed.

"I know no north, no south, no east, no west," declared the impassioned orator.

"You are also just as badly mixed in several other respects," commented an old farmer in the audience.—Pittsburgh Post.

SEVEN ARE KILLED.

Two Families Wiped Out by Crimes of Violence In Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Two crimes of violence involving the death of seven people, were committed yesterday in Soldau province of East Prussia and Hamburg.

At Soldau an entire family, consisting of a man and his wife, with their five children, were found in their house yesterday morning with their throats cut and the gas turned on. A dog with its head almost severed was lying beside them. Pecuniary difficulties are supposed to have driven the parents to kill the children and then commit suicide.

At Hamburg yesterday, a city policeman cut the throats of his three daughters and then his own after a family quarrel.

Terrorists Kept Quiet.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 10.—The entire police force of this city patrolled the downtown district last evening, keeping loitering men on the move and invested with instructions to arrest anyone who attempted to create a disturbance or in any way display their sympathy for the threatened demonstration of unemployed, scheduled for last night. The doings did not materialize, partly because of the vigilance of the authorities and partly because the auditorium in the City Hall, which was to have been used for a mass meeting, had been previously engaged for another purpose.

Big Liner Ran Ashore.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The American line steamer Philadelphia, while nearing Plymouth last night ran ashore during a thick fog at a point between Ram Head and Ponlee Point, about four miles outside Plymouth harbor.

The vessel, however, was floated without assistance.

Low Spirits From Weak Nerves

Low spirits, depression, discouragement are a form of nervous disease. You worry over little things, and at the slightest ailment apprehend the gravest dangers and diseases. You form the habit of looking at the dark side of things.

Indigestion is a frequent accompaniment, and you probably do not sleep or rest well. The cause of the trouble is to be found in the exhausted condition of the nerves. To get well you must build up the feeble, wasted nerve cells by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure forms new, rich blood, and thereby nourishes the nervous system back to health and vigour. There is nothing like new nerve force to bring back hope and confidence to the weak and discouraged. This treatment works in natural ways to restore health, and, therefore, cannot fail to prove of benefit to you. Put it to the test and you will be surprised with the building-up influence that will result.

Sleep and Laughter.

People who sleep well quickly recover from an ailment, and for this reason, years ago, sleep was pronounced as one of nature's cures for all diseases. Experiments go to prove that a person who accustoms himself or herself to a full and regular sleep is not so liable to an attack of disease as the person who forgoes his proper rest. Moreover, when attacked by any ailment, a good sleeper recovers the quicker.

"Laugh and live" is a time honored saying, and a famous doctor once recommended one of his patients to try a course of funny stories. The patient who was suffering from a nervous breakdown through overwork, obeyed the doctor's instructions, and the effect of hearty laughter soon brought him round. The menu recommended was one funny story at each meal with two extra at dinner.

She Knew All Right.

"Madam," half a dozen men hastened to assure her, "this is the smoking car."

"I know it," she said, calmly seating herself, "but I am sure the men in here are more polite than they are in the car ahead. I couldn't get a seat at all in there. I don't mind the cigars either. They're better than my husband smokes."

No further objection was offered, and she kept her seat.—Chicago Tribune.

DELIGHTS LADIES

Parisian Sage, the Great Hair Beautifier is Guaranteed

Hair that is irresistibly attractive will make any woman look more youthful.

In Paris the clever French women fully realise this and retain their youthful appearance even in the fifties.

It will put life and lustre into dull, faded hair in one week.

Parisian Sage makes the head feel good the minute it is applied. The first application creates confidence, for the user cannot help but feel that such delightfully cooling and exhilarating tonics have failed to do.

Parisian Sage is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., and by leading druggists everywhere.

Guaranteed to kill dandruff microbes, cure dandruff, falling hair and and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Comes in large 50-cent bottles and "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat also take glass of Salts Before eating breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to moral activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Mammoth Woman Dies.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Jan. 10.—Mrs. William Settlemeir, 58 years old, who weighed 600 pounds, died at her home near here of pneumonia.

A special coffin, 44 inches wide and 28 inches deep, was required for the body, and it was necessary to enlarge a doorway before the coffin could be taken into the house A dray wagon will be used for a hearse at the funeral.

Boy Murdered In Train.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—A startling tragedy was discovered at the Shoreditch station of the North London Railway Thursday, the body of a seven-year-old boy being found by two boys in an empty compartment.

There were marks on the neck indicating strangulation by a thin cord and the body had been carefully placed underneath the seat.

Local Option Recount.

AYLMER, Jan. 10.—A recount into Monday's local option vote, the majority against being now 1 2-5 votes, will be conducted before the county judge next week. Meanwhile, some of the more rabid "pros" threaten to divert their trade from local merchants, who opposed the by-law, to other towns.

A SPIRITED YOUNG LADY WRITES OF HER HAIR AND HERPICIDE

Few ladies realize how much an untidy head of hair detracts from their personal appearance. It also indicates an undesirable trait. Unkempt, hair simply shows that while they may be scrupulously neat in every other way, they are careless about their hair.

Thin, scraggy, wispy hair generally indicates dandruff and dandruff is caused by a germ. Newbro's Herpicide will eradicate the scale-like accumulation and keep the scalp as clean and healthy as can be. This permits the hair to grow naturally and luxuriantly. That terrible itching which goes with the dandruff stops with almost the first application.

Substitutes or remedies said to be "just as good" are sometimes offered, but it is better to buy "the genuine original germ killer, Newbro's Herpicide" There is no guesswork about that preparation. A trial isn't necessary, just buy a bottle and use it. The results are sure to be better than you expect.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. Applications obtained at the better barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JANUARY 10, 1914

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LOCAL HEALTH ASSSCIATION

The Ladies' Aid Offer to Resign Their Commission—An Attempt to Elect an Executive Committee of Twenty Members.

REPORTS RECEIVED

The second annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association was held in the Council Chamber on Friday afternoon. Besides receiving the usual crop of annual reports from the various committees and the district nurses, the members discussed ways and means of extending the scope of the Association during the current year. It was even suggested that shacks be erected and equipped with conveniences for the care and treatment of tubercular patients.

The president of the Association, Mr. J. W. Bennet, occupied the chair. Among those who were present at the meeting which was favoured with a fairly large attendance were Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P.; Rev. James Rollins, Sanitary Inspector Spence and others who from time to time have manifested in a practical way, their interest in the work of the Association.

Abreviated Discussion.

The reception of reports embracing the work of the individual committees throughout he past year occupied considerable time with the result that little space was left for discussion. A hurried but unsuccessful attempt, in which Sanitary Inspector Spence and the reporters participated, was made at the conclusion of the meeting, to elect the executive committee comprising twenty members. The Inspector who spends his waking hours chasing microbes armed with a dark lantern, a pair of gum-shoes and a metalic badge, together with the press, were nominated a committee, to scrutinize and compute the improvised ballots. When the work was accomplished in a manner that was more expeditious than accurate the three or four members who remained, decided to postpone this all important matter until a later date.

A Contentious Question.

A report that occasioned no little concern was received from the Ladies' Aid of the Peterborough Health Association. The document embodied a contentious question in the form of a resolution that if adopted would have the effect of plunging the Ladies' Aid into the shades of obscurity. In other words the Ladies' Aid asked permission to retire from the Association.

Following is the report as presented by Mrs. Eastwood:

Wanted to Retire.

The Ladies' Aid of the Peterborough Health Association have held meetings each month except through the summer months, with an average attendance of ten members.

The organization has assisted a number of needy cases since its inception In one particular case the sum of fifty dollars was raised for the purpose of defraying the transportation expenses of a woman who deemed it advisable to return to the Old Country. Through the kindness of different members of the Ladies' Aid in permitted the use of their homes for holding teas, money was raised to help liquidate the debt.

New sheets, pillow cases and towels, also bundles of old linen have been donated by different members and placed in the rooms.

Material for six comforters was donated by some of the members. Sewing meetings were held, the comforters made up and handed over for the use of needy patients.

The Resolution .

At the December meeting the following resolution was read by Mrs. Grant, seconded by Mrs. Vincent Eastwood and unanimously carried:

That, Whereas, The three committees of the Peterborough Health Association which were arranged at the annual meeting in January, 1913, are doing all the work of the Association as at present constituted,

And, Whereas, The Ladies' Aid of the Association, although called into existence at the same meeting and made thereby an auxiliary of the Association, has had no definite instruction for work during the year.

Whereas, The said Ladies' Aid are not empowered to collect or spend any funds of the Association. nor have they been called upon to do any definite work. Therefore,

Be it Resolved, That we ask permission to retire from the Health Association as part of its organization.

"A Thunderclap."

"This is a thunderclap," ejaculated the president, when the report was read by Mrs. Eastwood, Secretary of the Ladies' Aid. "You had better not move its adoption," he added, "until we have had time to discuss the matter."

Whereupon Mrs. James Kendry arose and moved the adoption of the report.

"The resolution speaks for itself," said Mrs. Kendry. "As members of the Ladies' Aid of the Health Association we have had no definite in-

SIR JAMES IS WEAKENING IN NERVOUS FORCE

Dr. McPhedran of Toronto Joins the Medical Staff in Attendance on the Premier To-day

CHANGE IN TREATMENT

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—New measures to turn the scale in the hitherto drawn fight that Sir James Whiney has been waging for life during the past week are anticipated by the watchers round his bedside to-day. This morning a new factor was introduced into the situation by the arrival of Dr. F. M. McPhedran of Toronto for a consultation with Doctors Pyne and Biggs, who have hitherto been the patient's sole medical attendants. Dr. McPhedran treated Sir James in Toronto for several months prior to his departure for the south in search of health. It is probable that a change in the treatment or at any rate some additional measures have been in contemplation by Dr. Biggs and Dr. Pyne and they wished to have Dr. McPhedran to consult with. All three physicians were very uncommunicative to-day. Sir James is beginning to feel the irritation of his confinement. Last evening he was decidedly weakening in nervous force. His was not the restlessness of returning strength.

FOUR BIG ACTS AT THE ROYAL

Bellechard's Aerial Dogs and Other Pictures for First Three Days.

Manager Clayton is announcing a grand bill for the first part of the week at the Royal. Four big acts will be presented, still a little better than ever, and there will be a complete change of pictures as well. The vaudeville acts include De Richard's Aerial Dogs, a head line feature, Josephine Jacobs and Company in a musical novelty, another top notcher, Don Count and Clay, comedy singers, and Morgan, singing and dancing. Manager Clayton deserves credit for the great show he is giving, undoubtedly the best in Canada at the price.

HICKS REDUCES THE PRICE OF COAL

His Improved Methods of Handling Coal Does the Trick

Has the United States Coal Trust made concessions to Hicks, or has Hicks taken the bit in his mouth himself? Whatever way it is, Peterborough consumers of coal are to enjoy a substantial reduction in the price of coal in future, as conveyed by Mr. Robert Hicks' announcement in another part of to-day's Examiner. Coming in the middle of winter, and at a time when the coldest months have yet to be encountered, this concession in the price of coal will be all the more fully appreciated by our citizens. It has been known for some time that Mr. Hicks has been aiming by the introduction of improved methods in handling coal, to lower the prices to the consumer, and his announcement of to-day is a demonstration of his successful efforts.

GOOD ICE AT BROCK ST. RINK

The sudden change to colder weather has enabled the ice making brigade at Brock St. Rink to get busy and Manager Jack Thirnbeck has a good sheet ready for the patrons to-night. Brock St. Rink is the popular amusement place on Saturday nights and with the band providing continuous music, there will undoubtedly be a big crowd on hand to-night.

FOR DR. GRENFELL'S WORK

"The heroes are not all dead." Thus wrote a certain editor lately with reference to the work of Dan Crawford in Central Africa. There is, however, a danger that the more heroic the man is and the more devoted to his work in the lonely parts of the earth the more likely he is to be forgotten at home.

Some years ago Mr. Wilfred Grenfell visited our city and addressed an audience that filled the Opera House speaking of his work on the bleak and barren coasts of Labrador. In every breast was the conviction that this was indeed A MAN, A CHRISTIAN and A HERO.

We cannot hear often, but we do know that never was his work more needed—more blest, and more deserving than at the present hour.

The Deep Sea Mission has made an appeal to the people of Peterborough each year through the Ministerial Association, and by courtesy of the daily newspapers, and the response has been prompt and generous.

This year it was decided to approach the public in the month of January rather than in December as that month is one of extra work and great expense.

The annual appeal is now made. The Examiner, The Review, and Times will receive subscriptions for six days and acknowledge the same in their columns. The treasurer, Mrs. James Wood, will send a receipt to each contributor. This appeal has the most hearty approval of the Ministerial Association, and each day its members will contribute items of interest in connection with the subject of The Deep Sea Mission.

Do not delay. To give promptly is to encourage others to follow.

It is earnestly hoped that the name of every friend of former years will appear on this list with many new ones.

No amount is too large to be used to advantage, or too small to be appreciated.

WAS BAGGED AND CANED

Recognition of Mr. G. A. Gillespie's Two Years Presidency of Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association

CONVENTION A SUCCESS

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie returned last night from Cornwall bringing with him a beautiful gold-headed ebony cane and travelling-bag, presented by the directors of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association in recognition of his two years' services as President of the Association.

The Convention just closed has been one of the most successful in the history of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen. In his presidential address Mr. Gillespie manifested his prescience of the dairy industry by touching upon topics that received the bulk of attention in the discussions. One of the keynotes of the convention was a warning to cheese factory patrons against the tendency to send all their milk to butter factories, diverting it from the established cheese industry in which many farmers have money invested.

The officers elected for 1914 were:

President—J. A. Sanderson, Oxford Mills.

1st Vice-President—J. N. Stone, Norham.

2nd Vice-President—R. L. Leggatt, Newboro.

3rd Vice-President—Jos. McGrath, Kingston.

Executive Committee — Henry Glendenning, Geo. A. Gillespie, R. L. Leggatt, J. N. Stone, W. H. Olmstead, of Bearbrook; Jos. McGrath, N. Fraser, Vanleek Hill.

Towards the close of the convention Mr. Henry Glendenning secured the attention of Mr. Gillespie who presided and on behalf of the directors made the presentation referred to. He spoke of the careful attention given to the Association by the president of the years 1912 nd 1913, and congratulated him upon the successful work accomplished during the past two years. Mr. Gillespie made an appropriate reply.

The gold head of the cane presented to Mr. Gillespie is beautifully engraved and is inscribed as follows: "Presented to Geo. A. Gillespie, president of the E.O.D.A. by the directors, Jan. 9, 1914."

The club-bag is a beauty, and the combined souvenirs will serve as a pleasant reminder to Mr. Gillespie of the two years spent as president of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association.

KLEPTOMANIA RESPONSIBLE

Weakness of Mind Secured the Discharge of Local Woman Charged With Shoplifting

TOOK WOOLWORTH ARTICLES

A case of what might be classified as kleptomania came before Magistrate Dumble this morning. A local woman of middle age appeared, charged with shop lifting. She was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon. According to the evidence previously submitted, this woman was detected taking goods off the counters of Woolworth's store. She was taken to the basement, where a quantity of stolen goods was found in her leather handbag. Her room was searched and a great lot of trinkets, coloured handkerchiefs, collars, toys and other things, many of them useless, were found concealed in her room. Most of these were identified by the manager of Woolworth's and an order was made this morning, restoring them to that store.

It came out in court this morning that the woman accused was at one time "the soul of honesty." Former employers testified to the Magistrate that they had left hundreds of dollars in her care, and that she never appropriated any of it. She had been honest and trustworthy in every respect. But some years ago she suffered from an attack of typhoid fever, which left her mind weak. It was this weakness that was credited with being responsible for stealing the goods. She was allowed to go, and will be taken care of by two of her former employers who are anxious to have her as housekeeper.

BRITISH FEATURE FILM AT THE RED MILL THEATRE

The first British feature film will be shown at the Red Mill Theatre on Monday, when the spectacular picture play, "A Daughter's Sacrifice," will be presented. This is a thrilling picture story of circus life, composed of 60 enthralling scenes, and one of the best pictures of the circus realm ever shown. These British films will be shown exclusively at the Red Mill.

AN INAUGURAL MEETING

Of the City Council on Monday at Eleven O'clock

STANDING COMMITTEES

The inaugural meeting of the 1914 City Council will take place on Monday morning, commencing at 11 o'clock. At the appointed hour Mayor-elect Buller will assume the responsibilities of office and will call for the selection of the standing committees. The meting, which is a statutory one, will in all probability be followed in the evening by a regular session of the City Council.

One of the matters that may be introduced at the regular meeting is the question of providing work for the unemployed of the City. Work that is usually undertaken by the Board of Works Department in the Spring might be entered upon now, and completed, in so far as weather conditions would permit. It has been suggested that the stone required for the City's streets be procured now, and if necessary a large quantity of the material could be broken and prepared for use in the early spring. Similar methods are being employed in many cities of Canada to-day. As a means of providing relief for the unemployed it is said to be the best system yet adopted. In municipalities where this class of work tends to be scarce, the daily working period is cut in half.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Annual Meeting of Bethany Tabernacle

The annual meeting of Bethany Tabernacle was held on Thursday night when encouraging reports were received.

The officers for the year were elected as follows:

Elders—Messrs. Gillespie, Johnston, Hanna and Stenton.

Deacons — Messrs. Sutherland, Rummings, S. Revoy and Griffins.

Deaconesses — Mesdames. E. E. Johnston, A. J. Johnston, Redner and Miss S. J. Johnston.

Secretary—A. J. Johnston.

Treasurer—R. J. G. Sutherland.

Representative on Protestant Home Board—H. W. Stock.

Representative on Charity Board—A. J. Johnston.

TROUBLE IN THE TRANSVAAL THE NATIVES HAVE RISEN

A Number of Whites Have Been Killed in the Uprising and Militia is Rushed in by Special Trains

SITUATION SERIOUS

PRETORIA, Transvaal, Jan. 10.—All available militia and armed police at Bloomfontein to-day were rushed by special trains to Jagersfontein, where nine thousand natives emboldened by the chaotic conditions resulting from the railway strike, were making a general attack in the whites, Boer and British. It is reported that several whites were killed and many houses looted and burned. The Transvaal and Natal are an armed camp. Every available militiman is under arms. The Government is reported here to be ready and determined to use drastic measures to put down the uprising of the natives and will deal promptly with the rioting of railway employees.

This afternoon's official statement indicates that, three white men and seven natives were killed, and about 50 wounded in the uprising of natives. It is said Premier Botha will take charge of the troops personally.

MURDERER OF BANK MESSENGER HAS ESCAPED

Kraischenco, Regarded as One of the Most Desperate Criminals in West Makes Clean Getaway

HELD UP GUARDS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—With a revolver secured from persons unknown, Joseph Kraiscencho, held for the murder of Manager Arnold, of the Bank at Plum Coulee, this morning at 2 o'clock in the city police cells, held up his two guards, backed up to the window, dropped into a lane where an auto was awaiting and made a clean get away before the City police were on the job. Up till 10.30 he hd not been recaptured. The police say they have a line on those who assisted in his escape and will make an arrest shortly. He was committed for trial yesterday. He is regarded as one of the most desperate criminals in the Canadian West.

THE PRINCESS THEATRE

Tabloid Vaudeville Inaugurated Here

A special attraction is offered at this popular theatre for the first half of next week. Mr. and Mrs. Horne, supported by a remarkably clever supporting company, will appear in the two-act comedy drama, "The Great Matchmaker." The company includes little Gladys Terry, "the child with the golden voice," and Walter Jacobs, the celebrated Irish comedian. No greater attraction has ever played this city, and the large audiences that will attend are sure of an entertainment far in advance of their anticipation, as the drama teaches a great moral lesson, is full of sparkling comedy, genuine pathos and interspersed with a high grade of clever specialties. The same prices will prevail.

"FASHION CRAFT" CLOTHING AT UNUSUAL PRICES

Chances for Dressy Men that Only Occur Once a Year.

Mr. Andy Laidlaw, of the "Fashion Craft" Men's Furnishing Store, has a sure and rapid way of disposing of the balance of his winter stock every January. He has just announced a five-days' sale of all high-class suits, ulsters and overcoats in stock at the reduced price, $18. The confidence whch men have in "Fashion Craft" apparel is born of a sense of security in the quality and make up of these garments. A visit to the store will reveal many snaps worth knowing about. Join the money-savers.

FOUR VAGS MUST LEAVE THE CITY

A quartette was given at the Police Court this morning. A quartette of Scotchmen given an hour to get out of town, by Magistrate Dumble.

William Owen, Alex. Barclay, and Neill McLaughlin, were the three of the quartette from the bonny braes, whose names alone signified the land of their birth. But Oscar Kelly, with a standard Irish surname, one would hardly suspect. His dialect betrayed him, however, and when accused by the Magistrate of being a Scotchman he admitted the coin.

The quartette drifted in to the city from Toronto with the snow last night. How they got here is a mystery that was not unravelled in Police Court this morning. Their chief occupation last night and this morning was walking the streets, and in the course of their vocation they crossed the path of a policeman who gathered the four of them into the shelter of the police cells.

This morning they were charged with vagrancy, but were not called upon to plead by the Magistrate. They said they came from Toronto, and were on the way to Montreal to get work.

As they left the court room the Magistrate made a humourous remark as follows:

"You may go to Montreal as quick as you like, but it is only one step from there to perdition."

Mrs. Reuter Now Faces A Second Trial

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Jan. 10.—A great legal battle to save Mrs. Laura H. Reuter from imprisonment in the Penitentiary for life is scheduled to begin here Monday, which is the day set for the opening of the second trial of the Tulsa woman on the charge of having murdered her husband. The first trial was held last October and resulted in a verdict of guilty and a sentence of life imprisonment. Since her conviction Mrs. Reuter has been at liberty on $5,000 bail. Judge R. C. Allen of Muskogee County has been named to preside at the second trial.

Few cases in the court records of Oklahoma have attracted so much attention as the Reuter case. Charles T. Reuter, the murdered man, was one of the leading attorneys of Tulsa. Prior to coming to Oklahoma he had resided in Peoria, Ill. On the morning of May 5, 1913, he was found dead in the bed room of his home, in the fashionable residential section of Tulsa. He was shot twice through the head. Neighbours found Mrs. Reuter, who slept across the hall, locked in her room. They had been attracted by the shots and the screams of the woman. One hundred and fifty dollars in cash and some valuable jewellery which Mr. Reuter was known to wear, were missing, and the natural inference was that the lawyer had been killed by burglars.

But the burglary theory did not altogether satisfy the police and hey started an investigation along different lines. The result was the arrest of Guy D. Mackenzie, Grover Bellew, his chauffeur, and Joe Baker. The three were taken in custody on the theory that Reuter's murder was the result of a conspiracy, with robbery as a blind to conceal the real motive. The police learned that Mackenzie often visited the Reuter home, that he had taken Mrs. Ruter on automobile rides frequently; that he had received presents from her; that he had helped Mrs. Reuter put her children to bed when Mr. Reuter was absent; that he stole Mr. Reuter's revolver from his office desk, and that Reuter had threatened to kill him if h did not stay away from his home.

Bellew, the chauffeur, made a confession on the part he had taken in the conspiracy. Immediately after, Mrs. Reuter was arrested on a charge of first-degree murder. The charge against Bellew was dropped in consideration of his turning State evidence. Mackenzie and Baker were tried, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

The convicted woman comes of a good family and prior to the tragedy occupied a high social position in Tulsa, where she was prominently identified with Church work and Women's Club life. She is the daughter of Benjamin McKean, at one time Postmaster at Indianapolis, is 26 years old and has two small children.

PRESENTED WITH AN ADDRESS

On the eve of Mrs J. E. Middleton's departure from East City, the congregation of Mark Street Methodist Church, presented her with an address and a beautiful case of pearl-handled knives and forks.

Mrs. Middleton has been of great service to the church in many ways, particularly along musical lines. Mark Street Choir and people are very sorry to lose her.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

Within the past few years the relations of women to political, commercial, social, industrial and professional economics have changed. They have emerged from the narrow, long-trodden, domestic circle in increasing numbers. They have become bread winners, instead of mere bread makers, and winners also in competition with men in educational and professional arenas. We have women doctors and women lawyers. Women have shown themselves the equal of men in professional and commercial pursuits, and why should not the law give them an equality in regard to the franchise? Why should not women have votes? As a matter of right they should have them; as a matter of fitness to exercise the voting power the ballot should be placed in their hands. In the matter of intelligence who would compare the average woman with many of the benighted, besotted and corruptible men who exercise the franchise. Ontario is behind many other countries in recognising the right of women to vote. We have not advanced in this matter, beyond Turkey, where the doctrine of the soulless woman prevails. When our Canadian women, in a lady-like, rational, sober way, are asking for their rights when they are steering clear of the mad methods of the British clamourists for votes, why shouldn't we men heed them? The ballot is women's right and the boast of British liberty is equal rights to all, and all includes the best—the women.

THE UNFAIR THREE-FIFTHS.

The Toronto News comes to the defence of the three-fifths clause, as readily as it would come to the defence of forgery if that were necessary in party interests. It points out that only true temperance progress has been made under the Whitney Government, and cites in proof the fact that since the Whitney Government came into office, the number of "dry" municipalities has increased from 242 in 1906—to 520—in May 1914. This proof of the keen interest of the Whitney Government in temperance is contestable and incomplete. To indicate the true condition, figures should be given to show how the three-fifths clause has operated to defeat the will of the majority and keep municipalities "wet." On the basis of the last vote, when the three-fifths clause kept 16 municipalities "wet" that voted by majorities more or less substantial, to close the bars, and in only one solitary case out of 15, the three-fifths clause prevented repeal, a different showing can be made. Assuming that in each of the seven preceding years, the three-fifths clause has operated similarly, and that an average of, say, ten majority votes in favour of local option were nullified by the three-fifths clause we have a total of 10 municipalities in which local option was carried and killed by the three-fifths clause, and of 7 in which it prevented repeal. Thus 70 "dry" places would have been added to the 520 with which the News credits the clause, and giving credit for the 7 places in which repeal was saved, we should have had the total of "dry" municipalities of 583 instead of 520. And the number would have been much larger, for many municipalities, deterred by the three-fifths clause, would in its absence have submitted and carried local option. Another proof of the anti-temperance character of the three-fifths clause is the general recognition of its efficacy in defeating local option. Nearly all temperance men, not wearing partizan blinkers, see in the three-fifths clause an obstacle to the progress of temperance reform; and all friends of the liquor traffic defend the clause as designed, existing and operating in the interest of the traffic. While the benefits of local option are debatable, British citizens in a British province, should have the benefit of the British principle of majority rule,

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The value of any institution or enterprise, apart from its effective organization, depends upon the quality of management, and in this regard the value of our Public Library can be well rated high. No matter how efficient may be our excellent Library Board, the detailed, the intimate management on the part of the librarian is the really controlling factor. Mr. Dela Fosse, the Librarian, seems to be the man for the place. His qualifications, as proven, consist in the first place in the fact that he is a book worm in the good sense, a bibliophile, a lover of books; and he adds to this a wide knowledge of books possessed by only the well read man and has the literary facility to enable him to profitably and instructively write on books, as his excellent contributions to the press bear witness. Knowledge of things is the mother of interest in things, and the more we know of things the greater and more intelligent will be our interest. This is why the Examiner advocates the dissemination of the widest knowledge of municipal, educational and other affairs, in order to arouse in the citizens an interest in the important matter of self government. The report of the Librarian at the annual meeting of the board, gives evidence of an increasing interest in the Library, and of its growing educational value, an increase of books taken and an increase in the number of solid books taken out. This is not to disparage the reading of lighter literature. Somebody has said that reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body. A man heaving about 100-pound sacks of coal by way of physical exercise would soon tire of it and exhaust, instead of improve his muscular energies. Continuous and intense reading of heavy books might easily have a sedative and deadening, rather than a stimulating and developing effect, upon the mind. In reading, as in everything else, the happy medium, the happy variation of reading quality, is the desirable thing, and in this regard the selection of new books seems to have been happily made.

APPLICATION TO THE ASSEMBLY

TAKE NOTICE that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company intends to apply to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, at the next Session, for an Act to amnd Section 16 of Chapter 91, 2 Edward VII., by striking out the figures "$20,000," in the eighth line, and inserting instead thereof, the figure, "$35,000," —thus increasing the power of the Company to issue bonds, debentures or other securities to $35,000 per mile of single track.

Don't Be Without It—10c Large Can

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—"It's a great stuff to be a pioneer," says Sweeney. "The best you get is to be shot full of arrows."

Meaning that Sweeney brought the turkey trot to New York seven or eight years ago. At that time the town was hardly ripe for it. So that Sweeney's dance hall had about all the defence of a battleship. One got in by presenting a card which certified that the bearer was a regular member of a club with a nice Indian name. Two or three times the police tried to raid it. Then there were battles all over the street, while the patrons were slipped to safety by subterranean routes. It was his boast then that he did not pay license to the city or graft to the police. The upper circles used to visit Sweeney's when out slumming. It was a poor night when some one failed to bounce a bottle off some other one's resilient head. Sweeney himself had a pretty trick of knife throwing.

"They closed me like a book," said Sweeney. "Said that the dancing in my place was a little too gritty. Moralists said that the contiguous wiggle as practised at Sweeney's would jar the susceptibilities of a Piute. But I give you m'word that if any one had pulled any of the physical fox passes in my place that you can see in the middle aisle of any restaurant nowadays you could heard me holler on Ellis Island."

Edward Martin—that isn't quite his name—lives in Chicago and has money. Ervin Martin also lives in Chicago. He has money sometimes. The other day both registered at a Broadway hotel. That evening a handsome stranger tripped over Ervin's cane, apologised, chatted, and finally led Ervin upstairs and vouched for him as a member of the Twilight club.

"It's a fine little gambling club," said Ervin Martin. "My! but they were good to me. The man at my left elbow opened wine, while the man at my right kept handing me these extra-illuminated cigars. Just to show I'm the right sort, I took a whirl at the wheel."

Luck was with him. He scattered his money over the layout as though Sweney's dance hall had about all he were throwing corn to hens. When he quit he was $450 to the good. The proprietors almost kissed him when he said good-bye.

"Next day," said Ervin Martin, "I saw the handsome steerer talking to the other Martin. He was real cool to me when I nodded. That night I found a note in my mail:

"'Your card in the Twilight club is cancelled,' it read. 'Business men only are eligible to membership.'"

Ervin Martin thinks he is being unjustly treated. He feels that he has demonstrated that he is a regular business man.

"Uncle Harry Horton has just retired from the Stock Exchange. 80 odd years old, very rich, with an unimpaired digestion, clear eyes, and sound legs. He was perhaps the most widely popular broker on the Street.

"I lasted in the game," said "Uncle Harry" the other day, "because I'm a coward. I never skated on thin ice. I never waded in so far that I could not wade out again."

One of the "boy wonders" of the panic year of 1907 bought and sold stocks in 10,000 share lots. The thin ice broke under him. The other day a friend found him in charge of a small uptown garage.

"I haven't been south of Fourteenth Street since the day I went broke," said he. "I don't even read the stock list. I'm through."

There are more good looking, well-dressed, intelligent, active women pickpockets in town than ever before. One detective declares that the top-liners of the profession average $1000 a week. Chief Magistrate McAdoo has joined Judge Swann in declaring that there is a "pickpockets' trust."

"At least," says he, "the same thieves work in the same places, the same men give bond for them, and the same lawyers appear for them. The trust may or may not be closely organized, but there's a ighty thick community of interest."

Police Inspector Faurot thinks the remarkable thing about the up-to-date pickpocket is the regularity of his habits.

"He goes to work every morning at a given hour and quits in the evening at a regular time," says Faurot, "just as though he were a cigar store clerk. Many of these men save their money and invest it wisely."

PELL IN A FAINT.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff, Que., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor. I could not sweep without fainting. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has so built up my system that I can wash and do my housework. Your medicine cured me when doctors had failed."

Radway's Ready Relief

Mrs. J. Westervelt of Paterson, N. J., writes: "I have a large family of small children, and it has saved me many a doctor's bill. For quinsy sore throat it is a king over that. My little girl has sprained her ankle and is going around fine without any other doctor than Radway's Ready Relief."

CURES SORE THROAT

Apply this Relief to the throat and chest until the surface smarts and reddens. Give Radway's Pills in such doses as will freely move the bowels. For a sudden cold, take a large dose of Radway's Pills, and a teaspoonful of Relief with a teaspoonful of molasses, in a tumbler of hot water. Retire at once to bed. A profuse perspiration will break out, and in the morning the cold will be gone.

ANNUAL MEETING

structions from the Association that is responsible for our existence. We are not empowered in any way to collect or spend any funds of the Association, nor have we been called upon to do any definite work. This is a busy age and we are busy women. There are so many organizations now full of plans for social reform, and ladies who join them are usually ladies who want to help. The working members of the Ladies' Aid have had to subscribe from ten to fifteen dollars each and we are not so sure whether the work we have accomplished is necessary." Other members of the Ladies' Aid corroborated Mrs. Kendry's statement.

A Sensitive Question.

Rev. James Rollins pointed out that the money side of the question was a sensitive one, and in so far as the Association was concerned had always been made more or less conspicuous. He believed that the Ladies' Aid should have been given permission to raise funds and that the matter ought to be given careful consideration before disbandment was decided upon.

On motion of Messrs. G. Dunford and E. A. Peck, the original resolution of $100. The gift, entitles the the report was amended so as to facilitate the reception of the report and its subsequent submission to the executive committee. The amendment carried by a large majority.

The report of the finance committee as adopted on motion of Messrs. Dunford and Wainwright is as follows.

Finance Committee.

The members of this committee are as follow:

Mrs. W. H. Bradburn, Mrs. W. H. Denham, Mrs. A. J. Grant, Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mrs. F. Neil, Mrs. J. V. Gallivan, Miss Denison, Miss L. Davidson, Mr. D. Walker, Mr. G. C. Wainwright, Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., Mr. W. J. Stubbs, Mr. D. E. Eason, Mr. A. J. Raddon, Mr. R. F. Downie, and W. H. Dunsford, Chairman.

The Association has funds on hand made up of

Balance per treasurer's statement		$2647 57
Balance in hands Chairman Finance Committee—Membership tickets sold $110.00, Contribution by Mrs Geo. Burnham $100.00		210 00
Balance in hands Nurses' Supervision Committee		166 77
Total funds available at this date		$3024 34

The treasurer's statement of receipts and expenditure is hereto attached.

Have Ample Funds.

The Finance Committee was called together four times during the year. At the first meeting held on the 14th of February last, owing to the association having ample funds on hand for present needs, it was decided that the efforts of the committee should be confined to increasing the membership. At the beginning of the year there were som twenty-five members, since which have been added one hundred and three, the total membership at the moment being one hundred and twenty-eight. I have to thank the following members of the committee for their assistance in securing members: Mrs. Denham, Mrs. Grant, Miss Denison, Mr. Downie, Mr. Wainwright, and Mr. Walker.

The Committee made a grant of $50 a month to the Nurses' Supervision Committee. This committee at the close of the year had a balance of $166.77 on hand after expending $433.23 for supplies, etc. A statement of this expenditure is hereto attached.

I have to advise you that since the beginning of the year Mrs. George Burnham, wife of Dr. Burnham, has made a contribution of $100 to the funds of the association. I would suggest that a resolution be passed at this meeting thanking Mrs. Burnham for the gift. Under the by-laws of the association she is entitled to a life membership.

A resolution was passed thanking Mrs. George Burnham for the donation as o favouring the adoption of donor to life membership in the Peterborough Health Association.

The Education Committee.

Rev. James Rollins as convener of the Education Committee reported that several meetings were held during the year and considerable work accomplished.

Addresses were given in most of the churches either by medical men or by the ministers on the subject of "Tuberculosis." These addresses were of an educative character and were conducted without any cost to the Health Association.

Literature was also distributed to the school children at a cost of fifty cents for cartage and fifty cents for typing notices to the schools in regard to this matter.

The Committee has also approached the School Board with the suggestion that the Board might test the value of a school nurse by accepting the loan of one of the Association's nurses to carry on the work in one school for a limited period free of charge. The Board approved of the suggestion and the Education Committee of the Health Association passed a motion requesting the Association to loan a nurse for the work.

Since that time the Women's Council have taken up the matter with the School Board with the result that a nurse has been appointed to this work which precludes the necessity of the Association loaning one of the nurses to the School Board.

2,000 Quarts of Milk.

Mrs. W. R. Travers, Secretary of the Association in her report stated that during the past year the Association has continued the work begun in the summer of 1912. Until July, 1913, one district nurse only was employed. Tubercular patients being almost exclusively treated and looked after by the Society. Miss Sparkhall's resignation was handed in last April, and regretfully accepted. It took effect in June. It was then decided by the Executive to employ two nurses as it seemed necessary to extend the work in the direction of general nursing in order to get better results and arouse more interest among the medical men and the public generally. Miss Mercier and Miss Edith Hamilton, of Peterborough, were engaged with the result that a great number of patients have been looked after in every way, and necessary supplies of milk, eggs, drugs, furniture and other comforts have been provided. Three hundred and forty-eight dozens of eggs and something over two thousand quarts of milk have been given away. The financial condition of the Association is sound for the present, the expenditure keeping well within bounds. It is the desire of the Executive to take some steps in the direction of providing accommodation for advanced cases, and it has been suggested that the Association arrange for the renting and furnishing of a building suitable for a sanitarium for all cases, but more particularly for the advanced cases which are considered to be a menace to the citizens as a whole.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-day's market was, as expected, much the same as yesterday. The buying on soft spots is good and is expected to continue so. The trend continues to be upward, with conservative operations on the long side; on moderate recessions the standard railroads may be bought.

Rdg. heads the list of the favourite purchases, so far as conservative sources are concerned. U.P. and S.P. rank next. U.S. is reported to be raised against the shorts on new orders and a better tone. The market held strong during the short session to-day, and we expect to see a stronger market next week.

We are told by outsiders to buy Erie. It is due for an upward move, probably commencing next week.

"VERSATILES" RETURN

F. Stuart-Whyte's all star English musical comedy company the "Versatiles," will play a return engagement at the Grand on the Saturday afternoon and evening, January the 17th.

This is the same clever company that appeared at that theatre on New Year's Day with such success, and it was upon the strength of many requests from the patrons who saw the company on tha occasion that Manager Turner asked to have the company booked for a return engagement here on their way from Hamilton and th Western Ontario towns to Montreal and Halifax.

They will offer "The Canadian Express" for the matinee and a new nautical operetta night entitled "Up the River," opening as usual with a Pierrot show of twelve new songs.

PRESENTED WITH AN ADDRESS

On Tuesday night the members of Mrs. George Worboy's Sunday school class of All Saints' Church called at her home, 294 Sherbrooke Street, and presented her with a handsome piece of china. Miss Velma Murduff read the address and Miss Helen Head presented the gift. Mrs. Worboy was taken by surprise but managed to thank her girls for their kindness, and wished all a happy new year. The address read as follows:

Dear Teacher,—The members of your class approach the Christmas with thankfulness for the many blessings of the year, and not the least of these were the glad and profitable hours spent under your instructions.

We feel that we cannot let this occasion pass by without showing in some way the high esteem and love in which we hold you. And we ask you to accept this small present as a token, which we hope will ever remind you of the pleasant times spent together. Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are,

Yours faithfully,
The Sunday School Class.

"THE LITTLE DAMOZEL"

At "The Grand" Next Wednesday, Jan. 14

"The Little Damozel" opens as a somewhat sordid farce, breaks into real drama in the second act and ends with a real throb of human happiness. It is rather a play to be proud of. Its treatment is so genuine a surprise to the audience, its epigrams are so sparkling; and the story of the home life in the Cafe Angelique reaches at times almost classic fineness. It reminds one of no other play, and in spite of rather cleverer bon-mots than one hears in actual life, there is a note of realism that occasionally suggests Ibsen and Hauptmann. When Mamma Bartholdy talks half cynically, half fondly of love in her quaint German way; when the genial ex-rip, Recklaw Poole, says: "I never see three men drinking champagne without wondering who has been done," it certainly is put right up to the stall seat holder that he isn't listening to an ordinary play at all.

Lawrence Brough and his English company have to receive many cordial congratulations for their work. As it is an Olga Esme play first and foremost, she should primarily be mentioned. And let it be said that this "Little Damozel" of hers is exceedingly taking and altogether charming. She can rise to passion, too; and she can melt to woman's prerogative in forgiveness. It is rather an exacting role. Because she is the "Little Damozel" it goes without saying that she can be virtually bought. And when the transaction is signed, sealed and happily delivered, a few kisses should well enough compensate a woman who has plenty of dresses to wear and a nice flat to live in. But the "Little Damozel" is made of sterner stuff. To see Miss Esme is to know how well the part can be played.

Lawrence Brough, as maker of epigrams, calmly suave as ex-turf, ex-club man, plays wonderfully easily. He has a part after his own heart, and with his gifted wife carries through some really difficult scenes with just that veiled touch of emotion that marks the Englishman who can still play the game. It is an excellent psychological study, excellently rendered.

Rule Pyott, as the Hon. Fitzroy Locke, pertinacious insurance agent, is splendid. He breaks into serious work from sheer farce with such a sudden force that arrests admiration. And to Miss Singleton go many felicitations for a very pleasing character study of the Mamma Bartholdy. Every other part was most adequately filled.

DIAMONDS WILL BE WORTH MORE NOW THAT OUR JEWELLERS ARE ADOPTING METRIC SYSTEM

Peterborough Dealers Have Supplied Themselves With the New Outfit of Weights--Diamonds Enter Duty Free --Exemptions From Act.

It will be a lovely thought to know that this time next year every carat you own, including Maria's engagement ring and the old glass cutter left in grandpa's tool chest, will weigh exactly 1.03 carats. Or taking it in milligrams, instead of weighing 200, it will weigh 205.3 milligrams. To bring this really home to you, put it in tangible cash as thus. If your diamonds are valued at $250 per carat, shortly after the new year they will be worth from $252.50 to $253. When each Canadian family has sorted out all the odd diamonds in the house and calculated on this basis, their terrors of the hard times bogey will vanish in thin air, unless the joyful news should reach the ears of the assessment man.

All of which means that Canadian jewellers are about to fall in line with the recently adopted international metric system of weighing diamonds. This system was adopted in New York on June 1st of last year, but will not be put in effect in Canada until some time in January next. Before its adoption each country had an idea all its own as to the weight of a diamond, and a stone got dreadfully mixed up about its weight in crossing the ocean, and was still further confused by the questions of the custom offices. If it was an Arabian diamond, at home it weighed 254.6 milligrams, and losing 49 milligrams on the trip was apt to change its appearance so that its owner often had great difficulty in recognizing it when unexectedly produced by the interfering gentleman at the customs.

New Carats Issued.

But now diamonds the world over will weigh 200 milligrams per carat. A chart which the diamond experts assure us is very simple, though it looks like the tables at the back of the arithmetic, which nobody but the proofreaders read, as they were paid to, has been issued by the committee on the international metric system, and in the spare moments between the Christmas rush in diamonds, the local dealers are comparing it with their old tables and re-weighing their stones by the new scale. For all the Peterborough dealers have supplied themselves with the new outfit of weights.

"The old weights were very complicated," said the buyer for one of our big stores. "They worked on a scale of 64th, and the fractions were bewildering to the public. We are glad that the international metric system has been adopted."

Most of Canada's diamonds come from Amsterdam, free of duty, and while the stones in the United States have risen in price as a result of the recent 10 per cent. tariff, diamonds with rice and wire nails, are the only thing in Canada that have refused to advance in price this year. And now they are going to declare a dividend on themselves by "visibly swelling" to the extent of 5.3 milligrams while lying idle on the bureau upstairs. An intensely interesting note to the timid who couldn't make up their minds as to whether or not it was safe to buy Christmas presents, is that the head of one of our largest jewelry stores has stated the sales of the first days in December showed an increase of 25 per cent. over those for the same period the previous year.

Exemptions From Act.

An order-in-Council has been pased exempting from the operation of the new Gold and Silver Marking Act passed at the last sessionof Parliament and which came into force on January 1, a considerable number of articles. The reason for this action on the part of the Government is that the Act provided for exception in the case of articles which are too small or of such a character as cannot be marked. It was left to the Government to name these exemptions. They include such articles as precious stones, or imitations, springs, scarf pins, platinum settings, and many other small articles of manufacture.

MARMORA MUST HAVE CELEBRATED

Herald Intimates That Defeat of Local Option Was Followed by a Pow-wow.

During the recent local option campaign the argument was continually advanced that the "license law" was all right if it was enforced. Local option was defeated on Monday and now both sides should unite to enforce the Liquor License Act and also the by-laws of the village in regard to drunkenness on the streets, etc.

The debauch which took place in the village on Tuesday was an insult to every decent citizen, no matter whether they voted for or against local option. That the guilty parties have not been summoned to answer for their misdeeds in the police court is also a reproach to the village and can only be wiped out by immediate action.

On Tuesday one man was arrested and locked up for drunkenness and using profane language on the streets. It took two constables to look him up and he resisted all the way to the cells, and even after he was locked up continued to use the most profane and obscene language imaginable, yet he was let out during the evening and allowed to go home, without a charge being laid.

Another man went home intoxicated and abused his family, throwing or kicking one little child out of the house and creating a disturbance by his conduct and oaths. He also was left at liberty nor has any charge been laid.

Drunkenness, fighting and profanity also prevail to a disagreeable extent at the St. James hotel, and it also reported that the proprietor was again one of those intoxicated and unable to properly conduct the hotel. —Marmora Herald.

District Nurses Make 2,745 Visits During The Year 1913

One Case of Tuberculosis for Every Week of the Year--The City of Peterborough is Charted to Show the Location of Tubercular Patients--The Education of the Parent --Report of the Supervision Committee.

During the past year fifty-two cases of tuberculosis were treated by the district nurses employed by the Peterborough Health Association. The total number of visits made by the two nurses were 2,745; of this number 370 were paid visits and 2,375 free. The report, as submitted to the annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association, by Dr. F. O. Neal, Secretary of the Nurses' Supervision Committee, contains the following:

During the first six months of the year, Miss Sparkhall carried on the work alone as district nurse. However, in June the committee considered it advisable to appoint two nurses, one of whom would be engaged for general work, that is for cases apart from tuberculosis.

By this plan it was hoped to get in touch with more cases, and also secure more co-operation from the medical men.

As a result Miss Mercier and Miss Hamilton were engaged to take up their duties beginning on 1st July, 1913.

Since then both nurses have been kept busy, and by their co-operation have succeeded in carrying on a work that could not be accomplished by one nurse alone, and have been employed by practically all the doctors of the city.

From 1st January until 31st December, 1913, the total number of visits made by Miss Sparkhall, Miss Mercier, and Miss Hamilton were 2,745. Of these visits 370 were paid visits and 2,375 free.

Number of Cases.

During the year the number of tuberculous cases attended was 52, made up as follow:

Tuberculous joints	4
Tuberculous spines	3
Tuberculous glands	2
Tuberculous meningitis	1
Tuberculous peritonitis	1
Tuberculous pleurisy	5
Pulmonary tuberculosis	36
	52

Of these cases

12 were under the age of....15 years
37 between the age of 15 and 50 years
3 over the age of .....50 years

During the year, there has been 13 deaths among the cases attended, while two have ben removed from the city—1 was sent to Muskoka Sanatorium and 1 to Weston.

In the city during the year, there has been at least 30 deaths from tuberculosis, showing that while much work has been done much remains to be done.

Of the 2,745 calls, 1,178 were made on the tuberculosis cases and 1,567 for medical, surgical, and obstetrical cases.

Of these, there were about 77 medical cases, 30 surgical, and 15 obstetrical.

Among the medical there were
8 cases of pneumonia.
4 cases of bronchitis.
7 cases of rheumatism.
2 cases of cardiac trouble.
12 cases of indigestion and improper feeding of infants.

Minor Operations.

The surgical cases were in the majority minor operations, such as the removal of tonsils, and adenoids, and dressing of wounds and bruises. The other calls were for miscellaneous diseases.

Thus the total number of patients attended during the year were as follow:

Tuberculous cases	52
General medical cases	77
Surgical cases	30
Obstetrical cases	15
Total	174

Below will be found a list showing the diseases attended and the number of patients suffering from each:

8 pneumonia, 4 bronchitis, 1 empyemia, 8 asthma, 7 rheumatism, 3 influenza, 1 erysipelas, 2 cardiac, 2 alcoholism, 5 diarrhœa (sick babies), 6 indigestion (sick babies), 1 pernicious anæmia, 5 uterine hemorrhages, 1 dysentery, 1 colitis, 2 eczema, 1 pelvic abscess, 1 sciatica, 1 ringworm, 1 inflammation in knee, 2 appendicitis, 5 tonsils and adenoids, 2 ulcerated legs, 1 abscess of shoulder, 1 infected kne, 1 abscess of neck, 1 fractured rib, 1 fractured wrist, 6 extraction of teeth, 1 bruised hand, Itenotomy, 1 contusion of scalp, 3 post operative cases, 1 acute indigestion, 1 neuritis, 1 tinea sycosis (barber's itch), 8 mammitis, 1 neurasthenia; total, 84.

In addition to these, Miss Sparkhall attended 13 medical and 8 surgical cases, making a total of 77 medical and 30 surgical cases.

In addition to this the nurses have also ristributed literature, besides giving dinly instructions on all sanitary points.

Medicines and requisites for the sick room have also been given. A supply room, on Water Street, at the south end of Mason's Conservatory, has been fitted up by the ladies, and a sign put above the door.

Maps and charts have been prepared, showing the location where tuberculosis is most prevalent, and the number of cases, compared with other infectious diseases. These may be seen and studied by anyone interested.

During the year donations of literature, absorbent cotton, clothing, bed linen, etc., have been received from the following: The Young Women's Christian Association, Miss Morrow, Miss Myers, The Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Coughlin, Mr. Gorman, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Fortye, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, Mrs. Travers, and others, for which the committee express their appreciation.

Lately our Board of Education have appointed a school nurse, who will shortly take up her work, and judging from the results in other places, this will mean more work during the coming year, for both our nurses and for the Health Association.

There will be increased opportunity for educating the parents and gaining entrance into many new homes.

At the last monthly meeting of the committee, they recommended to the Executive that steps be taken to provide accommodation for indigent cases of tuberculosis in our city, and as a result a committee was appointed to consider the question.

PUBLICATION OF THE ROLL ADVOCATED

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I was glad to notice by your issue of the 8th inst., that you were trying to keep alive the question of equal assessment, and were with us in our effort to get the roll published. You mention that the publication would cost money, but I am convinced that the City would profit by hundreds of dollars if some of the properties which have been scandalously under assessed were made to bear their fair share of taxation. Nor do I see that any odium would be attached to the person who brought to light such a condition of affairs; the shame, if any, would be on the wealthy ratepayer, who kept silent, and allowed his poorer neighbour to bear part of his burden, as well as his own. There is too much of this false idea of honour, and abuses are allowed to remain, and increase, because one does not like to be the one to bring it to light. However, in this case, our only desire is for every one to bear his fair share of the civic burden, and surely no one has reason to cavil at that. I understand that some of the aldermen have intimated their willingness to publish the roll and, I trust, to see it brought forward at an early meeting. I remain.

Yours faithfully,
George Leader.

WOMEN OF MERIT, NOT WOMEN OF "MARK"

A lady visitor to Peterborough sends in the following conversation heard by her in a street car in Peterborough on election day:

First Man: "There'll be lots o' spoiled ballots to-day."

Second Man: "O, pshaw! Why? It's an easy thing, votin'."

First Man: "Yes, for some it is, but just think of all the men that'll vote that can't read, and ye know there's seven things to vote for. O, yes, ye may be sure there'll be lots o' spoiled ballots."

But few of the women who can both read and write, and who can and do take an interest in their city and country, can vote! O, Lord, how long! ALICIA.

SERGEANT'S HELD ENJOYABLE AT HOME AT THE ARMOURIES

Large Number of Guests Were Delightfully Entertained by Them Last Evening

The Sergeants of the 57th Regiment gave an At Home at the Armouries last night. It was largely attended, and arrangements had been made in a manner that assured every guest a splendid evening.

The dancing was held in the recreation room, which was very prettily decorated. The Grand March opened proceedings at 9:30 o'clock, and the stroke of half-past-three found the dancers engaged in the last "extra."

The music provided was good, and included a large number of catchy airs Mr. A. Moore was floor-master, and discharged his duties to the satisfaction of all.

About midnight Messrs. Hooper served dainty refreshments. Col. Sergt. Dodds was chairman of the committee in charge, and who were responsible for making the dance such a success. The dance programme included a number of military steps which were participated in by most of the guests.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE FROM THE STANDPOINT OF A LAYMAN

Mr. Charles J. Foy Lectured at Anniversary Concert of St. Peter's T.A.S. Good Musical Programme.

Bishop O'Brien's Remarks

The 14th anniversary of St. Peter's T.A.S. was celebrated last night by an enjoyable entertainment in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. Mr. Chas. J. Foy, of Perth, delivered an eloquent address against intemperance, and a fine musical programme was presented.

The stage was prettily arranged for the occasion by the committee in charge. The Past Presidents of the Society were represented on the platfor by Messrs. O'Heron, E. Begley, Sharpe, Ahearn and Riley. Rev. Dean McColl, spiritual adviser of the Society, presided. The first part of the programme was as follows:

Quartette — Philharmonic Club, (Messrs. New, Henshaw, Lee and Cairns), (encored.)
Song—Mr. A. New.
Duet—Messrs. Lee and Bartley.
Song—Miss F. O'Donnell (encored.)
Drummond reading—Mr. Ed. Desautel (encored.)
Song—Mr. Bartley.

Dean McColl introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Foy of Perth, who announced his subject as 'Total Abstinence From a Layman's Point of View.' He referred to his experience in public speaking in Canada, which had reached from Sydney to Victoria, B.C., in which wide range he had given addresses in nearly every city and town of importance, usually on an Irish platform, in connection with the A.O.H. He himself, an advocate of temperance, was not a local optionist nor prohibitionist, but purely and simply an educationalist. He had heard St. Peter's T.A.S. extolled in Vancouver, in New York city and in the south, and he knew that the Total Abstinence Society stood pre-eminent amongst the societies of North America, sanctioned by the Church. The two things which he had always tried to emphasize in his lectures was the need of sobriety and 'back to the soil,' the two movements, which, if followed, will make any people the people of the country in which they live. The people who are sober, will be industrious, frugal and sociable. Combine these in a race, and you have men who will dominate and rule the country in which they live.

A Social Evil.

Regarding a man as a citizen, drunkeness in him became a social evil; as a father of a family, a domestic calamity; and as a religious man, a curse. He divided his discourse under those three heads, the first in regard to citizenship.

Sobriety Essential to the State.

Man is endowed by God with will and reason, and was created to be free, but not free in the sense that he shall do exactly as he likes. If this were so, Mexico might be regarded as the freest country in the world to-day, where every amn does exactly as he wishes, and a fresh revolution springs up every month. But free in the Gospel sense, "know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." A state or country is exactly what its citizens make it, and of what avail are fruitful soil a nd beautiful climate if stable, sober citizens do not form a ground work for prosperity. The great nations of olden times slipped down the plane and the sober nations took their places because the big men and leaders of the former fell into the sin of intemperance, which brought other vices in its wake. To have a progressive state, its citizens must be sober, to make laws suitable for that state. There is a reciprocity between the man and the state. He is entitled to a measure of government and protection, and in turn owes that state the very best that is in him, which he cannot give unless mentally, physically and morally fit. Mr. Foy referred to Canada as the freest and grandest country that God's sun shines on; no other offers the same civil and religious rights as Canada does at the present time. We live in peace and harmony, irrespective of creed, race or nationality. Our citizens must be sober, industrious and frugal. How can they lay by that desirable nest egg for a rainy day if their pittance is squandered for liquor. Furthermore, no employer will be leniens with a drinker. He knows that steady application and a clear head are not to be expected from such, and refuses to tolerate him. Most of the major crimes are traceable to the excessive use of liquor, and it helps to decorate the police courts and inhabit the jails and poor houses of every land.

Destroys the Home.

In regard to domestic ties, one of the greatest honours that has been bestowed on man by the Creator is that of being the father of a family, but the salvation of his soul depends upon the manenr in which he discharges this responsibility. How many there are who will have to answer before the throne of Heaven for the terrible example they have set in their own homes. No one is quicker to learn than a little child, and how long is he going to keep his respect for a parent when he sees day after day, and night after night, under the influence of liquor, "Honour thy father and thy mother," but how can he honour a father who is like a beast, for when the reason is gone, man is no higher than the brute. How many young lives have been blighted and snuffed out by hard labour in their immature years, working for a mere pittance to earn a living for self and others because the father had spent his money in drink? The education they long for is denied them through lack of means.

It is truism that the men who have made history in this, or any other country, have come, not from the gilded palaces of the rich, but from the humble lodgings of the poor, from homes where the parents had to work hard for a living. Their early days, spent in such surroundings, made him alert, adaptable and resourceful. The mother, who always sticks by the family, seems to have a protecting and guiding hand to help bring up the little brood, but her task is doubly hard if she has to support as well a drunken, useless husband.

MR. JAS. DRAIN,
Financial-Secretary of St. Peter's T. A. S.

Breeds Many Sins.

In regard to the salvation of the soul, intemperance robs a man of his reason, and reduces him to the level of the brute. Of all sins, intemperance must be the one that stays the hand of Almighty God, because divine mercy and grace can operate only when reason is there. A man may commit any other sin in the category, and still repent, because reason remains. How can a drunkard reason, or does a man reason at all, who goes on, day after day, night after night, and still thinks that a miracle is going to save him at the last minute. "There are numbers of sober men in the Kingston penitentiary now— because they can't get it." It is the man who knows he can get it, and who never touches it, to whom honour is due. This is not the man who repeats, "I can take a drink, and leave it alone," because sooner or later that man will be caught.

Emphasis was laid on the good to be done by all in this way, the speaker warning young women of the fallacy of marrying a drinker to improve him, fathers of families of the dangers surrounding their sons in many sports—'Lead us not into temptation'—being a very good motto, and mothers of the danger of allowing the freedom of their homes to those who were not sober, industrious and temperate.

The speaker closed with a few remarks on the necessity of everyone lending a hand in the upbuilding of the state, and the uplifting of self and neighbour, and congratulation for the work undertaken, which would bear future fruit over the whole continent of North America, when a future generation "will see this country a sober country—not because you can't get it, but because you know it is right, by education—a credit to yourselves, to pastor and church, and an honour and a credit to the mothers and fathers before you."

A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Chas. Murty and seconded by Mr. Jos. Begley, and Mr. Foy thanked the audience, remarking that "a temperance address was necessarily a 'dry' one, anyway."

The Bishop's Address.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, spoke briefly, expressing his pleasure at hearing the subject of temperance from a layman's point of view. He remarked that the day of argument on this subject was gone by, for we had the best of it every time, and he hoped to live to see the day when liquor would not be sold in Petterborough except for medicinal purposes. He wished that all, irrespective of race or creed, would lend a hand to extirpate this crying evil, for the day had gone by when it could assume an air of respectability and claim a certain amount of public rights and patronage. A man could no longer say that in joining such a temperance organization he would lose business through the liquor interests, for they no longer exercised a controllying power. He referred to the work done in Peterborough in the past 14 years in connection with this society by every priest in Peterborough, and particularly to the encouragement received from Bishop O'Connor in this regard. He spoke of the Christmas season, during which, wherever one found misery, poverty or unhappiness, it was in connection with a man addicted to the excessive use of liquor, and quoted Father Murphy in a recent sermon, "You talk about reforming the hotel, making liquor and its surroundings respectable, but the worst thing about the saloon is the salon itself, and the worst thing about drink is the drink itself."

Rev. Dean McColl gave a few well-chosen remarks, complimenting the speaker on the excellence of his address, and the evening closed with a song by Miss Marguerite Clancy, and one by Mr. Lee.

The accompanists were, Mr. John Armstrong, Miss L. Hurley and Miss L. Clancy.

CHAMPION MEAN MAN.

My husband is a very mean man about some things, complained the wife so the woman around the corner. He has a deaf ear and every time I try to call him down he acts as if he didn't hear me."

"That's certainly provoking," said the neighbour. "But one of his ears is good. Why don't you talk into that?"

"He won't tell me which it is," wailed the wife.

THE HORNET'S NEST

Dear Editor, I feel ditres't
At kicking up a hornet's nest,
While I have tried to do my best,
For the good of Canada.

The three Dreadnoughts would be our pride,
Upon all oceans, far and wide,
With Britain's navy side by side,
One great, big British Navy.

If Canada has got a Boss,
As well as a great, 'Knighted' Boss,
Why should we, in peace, get cross,
About our British Navy?

In times of peace prepare for war;
It is the cheapest way by far;
Hand in hand with the British Tar,
One great, big Bitish Navy.

In Canada we have a man,
Who has a noble, loyal plan,
To make Canada, if he can,
And one great British Navy.

He is a man, like golden coin,
Why should we not with him all join
Good, Irish men might call him "foine,"
Upon our British Navy.

AN ENCOURAGING BANK STATEMENT

Issued from New York. Stock Market Shows but Slight Improvement.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Very little improvement marked the close of the New York stock market to-day. A few of the leaders opened at yesterday's low and closed firm with gains ranging from one quarter to half a point.

The weekly bank statement as issued from New York shows substantial gains on the long side. The statement is as follows:

Reserve increase	$11,929,500
Loans increase	4,818,000
Specie increase	15,377,000
Legals increase	3,392,000
Deposits increase	26,830,000

Sales on to-day's stock market up until 11 o'clock amounted to 22,800.

TWO KILLED IN BAD FIRE IN BINGHAMPTON

Special Wire to The Examiner.

BINGHAMPTON, Jan. 10. — There were several serious explosions, with two unidentified men burned to death, during the progress of a fire which threatened to destroy the whole town to-day. The damage will amount to two hundred thousand dollars. The fire started in a chemical works.

A BIG MARKET THIS MORNING

Wood, Meat and Poultry was Plentiful Prices were Unchanged.

Buyers on the 'farmers' market may be divided into three classes, those who pay the price asked, those who haggle, and the rest who toast their toes, meet friends, gossip, and generally obstruct the passage ways.

After spending many a Saturday on the market, it is apparent that the man or woman who haggles usually gets away with a reduced price.

Here is an instance, noted this morning. A man was about to buy a barrel of spies; $4.50 was the price quoted by the farmer, and $4 was all the citizen was willing to pay.

"That's a mighty good barrel," the farmer said, "and they are all as fine as the top ones."

"Some of them look small," was the reply, "and spies are bringing no more than $4,' said the customer.

"They're worth more than that, but I'll split the difference. Make it $4.25."

"Four dollars is the best I can do and you might as well take that as carry them home again. Money is tight and there are not many buyers of spies even at $4."

And so it went. A regular little debate with every prospect of the citizen getting the apples at his figure.

It is evident that the body of citizens who pay the price maintain the quotations placed by farmers, and make it more difficult for those who prefer to haggle for their own price; not that the latter should be upheld, but there is the situation. There will always be those who try to knock down prices and the others who simply open their purses without question.

Wood on the Market.

Good sleighing was responsible for a large market this morning, with quite a few loads of wood being offered. Maple sold at $6.50, and beech at $6 a load. Some prospective buyers claimed that you could do as well at the local wood yards with the wood cut and chopped.

Beef and Pork.

Meat was plentiful with beef at 12 and cents, pork at 12 and 14 cents, lamb at 14 and 17 cents.

Butter and eggs sold at 30 and 45 cents, respectively. Turkeys brought 18 and 22 cents and were fairly numerous. Chickens, at $1.10 to $1.25 a pair.; geese at $1.65 to $1.90 each, and ducks at 60 and 70 cents each.

Apples.

Spies sold at $2 a bag or from $4 to $4.50 a barrel, talmans were offered at $1.50 a bag.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL HAS ITS TREAT AT ALL SAINTS HALL

Youngsters Had an Enjoyable Time Last Night in the Parish Hall.

The All Saints' Parish Hall was crowded to the doors last night; the "house full" boards were metaphorically up, for every coign of vantage, including the aisles, was crowded with a more or less seething mass of humanity. Every available inch of space had been filled in with temporary benches. The place was a furnace of excitement, a Babel of voices. "Que fait—il donc cette galere?" might well be asked. Well it was the occasion looked forward to by youngsters from the previous one, of the annual treat to the scholars of the All Saints' Sunday School, held in the spacious and commodious Parish Hall.

And happy enough did these same scholars appear to be as the "Examiner" representative entered the Hall. If happiness was in direct proportion to noise, then the kiddies must have been in the seventh—nay, the seventieth, if there be as many—heaven of delight.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock Rev. R. Grobb, who officiated as Chairman, announced that there would be a fairly long programme, consisting of instrumental and vocal selections and recitations; a cantata, a Christmas Tree (for the primary scholars only); followed later on by a distribution of edible gifts to all the remainder of the scholars.

The following programme then had its commencement:

Pianoforte solo—Mr. C. Devey.
Recitation—Miss Edith Price.
Cantata—"Christmas Land".
Distribution from the Christmas Tree.
Song—Mr. H. Murduff.
Mandolin selection — Mr. Lionel Barraclough.
Recitation—Miss Lily Roots.
Drill.

Mr. C. Devey presided at the pianoforte during the evening. The musical programme was in the able hands of Miss Dyer and Mrs. Matty, and gave considerable satisfaction. Miss Ivy Bowes was the spirit of Christmas and Mr. A. Catchpole impersonated Santa Claus.

At the close of the programme, distribution of edible gifts, oranges, candies and all those sorts of things so dearly loved by the younger generation—had its place. Needless to say the good things were highly appreciated. The distribution from the Christmas tree was effected by Santa Claus and the Spirit of Christmas, who took a leading part in the cantata, assisted by other willing hands, and when it may be mentioned that there are over three hundred scholars on the roll, it was no particularly light task.

At the time the "Examiner" representative left the festive scene there were still some belated ones vainly endeavouring to gain admittance.

TRADES AND LABOUR NOTES

Notes by the Official Scribe

There was a large number of representatives on hand this week when President Moore called the meeting to order.

The Property Qualification

A letter form the Brantford Trades and Labour Council was read, the purpose of which to to agitate so as to secure the abolition of the property qualification necessary for the mayoralty and aldermanic officers. A committee will be appointed to wait on E. A. Peck, M.P.P., in this regard.

"Jimmie" Simpson's Visit

Rev. Mr. Keith wrote asking the council to join in welcoming Controller Simpson of Toronto, when this leading light in labor's legions visits this City in February. The visit had been arranged for long before mention had been made of bestowing the honour on this cardholder with the International Typographical Union.

Election of Officers

The nomination and election of officers for 1914 then took place with the following results:

Pres., Representative J. J. Hartley.
Vice-Pres., Rep. T. Palmer.
Rec.-Sec., Rep. W. Stevens.
Fin.-Sec., Rep. F. Kite.
Treas., Rep. C. Hammacott.
Sergt. at Arms, Rep. Dan Wires.
Trustees, Rep. D. Wires, C. Hammacott, H. Robertson.
Auditors, Jas. Dillon, A. Woodhead and W. Flannery.
Scribe, Rep. Hamon.
The retiring president David Moore was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for his past two years of unremitting toil whilst occupying the presidential chair.

Representative Moore briefly replied mentioning his pride at being chosen as the chief officer of organized labour in Peterborough, also regretting that the state of his health rendered imperative an extended holiday, thereby rendering ineffective further occupancy of the chief representative's chair.

The new President, Mr. J. J. Hartley, of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, then called on the new officers in turn (after he had made a most inspiring speech) to address the meeting. All the speeches that followed were animated with the one idea to make 1914 a banner year, and asking for the support of all delegates absent as well as present.

Bereaved Members

Since the council last met two of the delegates have experienced sorrow by the loss of their wives. The secretary was instructed to forward letters of condolence to Representatives Hugh Robertson of the Moulders and James Dillon of The Typographical Union.

Important Business

As there will be much business of importance to be brought up at the next meeting the delegates are asked to hereby take notice and make no dates for Wednesday, 21st inst., otherwise than the one that their locals expect them to make.

EXPRESS THANKS

The Sisters of St. Vincent's Orphanage, London street, wish to express their sincere thanks to their many friends who so generously contributed towards the Christmas tree for the children.

About forty-five children were made happy and if the donators could have seen how much their gifts were enjoyed they would have been amply rewarded.

SPLENDID ADDRESS AT NORMAL SCHOOL BY DR. HILL OF LONDON

Interested Large Audience With His Address Germs and Diseases

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

That clean hands are essential to prevent the spread of disease, was a point clearly illustrated last evening by Dr. W. H. Hill, Director of the Institute of Public Health, London, Ont., which institution is maintained by the Ontario Provincial Government, at a meeting in the Assembly Hall of the Normal School. A large number of students and others were present. Dr. Hill's wide experience in matters pertaining to public health was a factor, which enabled him to deliver his address on "Germs and Diseases," to the utmost advantage, entailing at the same time, a deep interest on the part of those present. The spread of disease, he said, was increasing to an alarming extent, in this, as in other provinces, and we have to prepare, and advocate some means which will meet these conditions, which were becoming more and more noticeable every day. A thorough and consistent battle is what is required, and until such times as this is recognized, no beneficial advantages will be obtained from the zealous energies of certain individuals or small parties, which might be directed in that direction.

Dr. Hill referred more particularly to syphoid and tuberculosis germs. He illustrated how disease was carried through discharges, such as sewage, discharged into a current of water which is used for consumption. The sewage, said the speaker, from healthy people would not hurt, but when you get into the larger cities, where such a large basin of water is required, it is almost impossible to keep water, which is a direct transmitter to typhoid, free from contamination.

A doctor who is attending a patient with typhoid, continued Dr. Hill, used almost invariably to use rubber coverings to the clothing he wore, but now that practice is being discontinued as it has been seen that the only part of the attending physician which come in contact with the patient is the hands, and if they are thoroughly cleansed then the danger is dispensed with.

Milk.

Milk is one of foods that carries a great number of diseases. For instance a farmer rises at 5 o'clock in the morning, and his first consideration is to get the milking done.

Asked whether he washed his hands first, he replies no, but makes the statement that he washes them afterwards to remove any grease that he might have come in contact with.

Now, the hands must be covered with a certain discharge from the pores and in some cases, organic discharges, which a can be readily observed, are not by any means sanitary. Again, in most cases the wide mouth can is used as a receptacle for the milk, giving an opening for dust and germs. The public health men use the narrow mouthed cans, which are recognized to be sanitary. By the above illustrated means, scarlet fever, tuberculosis are often conveyed to the consuming public, not by the milk, but from the milkman.

Food.

Food carries diseases. Bu very little from the outside. Theoretically it is admitted the germs may be transmitted this way. Oysters are one of the chief means of conveying these infectious diseases, on account of the manner in which they are treated before coming before the public.

Regarding the fly nuisance, Dr. Hill advocated the screening of outside toilets, as a practical means of lessening the possibility of spreading disease.

A number of questions regarding the subject of the address were asked, and explained by Dr. Hill.

The rendition of the National Anthem terminated the meeting.

On Friday next, Prof. Pope, of Toronto University, will lecture to the students.

CHINAMEN ENTERTAINED TEACHERS

St. Paul's Sunday School Teachers Tendered Splendid Banquet

Last night the Chinamen of St. Paul's Sunday School entertained their lady teachers, and the Chinamen of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School. There were eighty in all, present at the function, and the spread had been prepared with all the Chinese for which the Chinese chefs are famous. Fifteen of the Orientals arranged the banquet, and the entertainment.

Mr. H. B. Cowan was chairman and made a short speech during the evening. Short addresses were also given by Messrs. L. J. Petit, Rev. J. R. Webb, and Mr. W. A. Logan.

Hum Jack made a neat address of welcome, in which he thanked the ladies for the dinner they had given his fellow countrymen. Two Chinese boys, Jack Kew and Tom Ina, gave a splendid vocal duet. Tom Game rendered a solo with such good effect that he was encored, and Lou Chung and Hum Jack also gave a duet.

Mrs. Perrin rendered a solo in splendid voice, and Stewart Quick gave a pleasing recitation.

The banquet was a really enjoyable affair, and the Chinese students of Christianity are to be congratulated on the success they made of it.

MR. HEAD WINS MORE PRIZES

Attended the Belleville Poultry Show

Mr. Frank Head, of Wallace Point, Otonabee, has returned from the Belleville Poultry Show, which was held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Mr. Head entered seven birds in the Barred Rock class, and entered all but one in the open class. He won first prize for the best cock and cockerel, second nd heird hen, second and third pullet, and also second for the exhibition pen. There were fifty Barred Rocks in the open class, and the prize list was limited to first, second and third prizes.

Mr. Head won a cash prize of five dollars for the best trio of Barred Rocks comprising a cockerel and two pullets.

There was over six hundred birds on exhibition Every class was well represented. The judging which was in charge of Mr. McNeil, of London, was satisfactory to all.

MAN SUPERIOR TO TROUBLE

A general impression with regard to trouble is that it is a condition external to a man's consciousness which he may have to meet, or which will meet him, and that the outcome of the necessary conflict is to say the least, most uncertain. On deeper thought, however, it is very evident that nothing could possibly be regarded as trouble unless the man's own thought were distrubed by it. It is then the metnal discord that constitutes the trouble, and not an outward condition or event. This is made clear by the fact that the same circumstance or condition may bring pleasure to one person while to another it brings annoyance and disappointment. For instance, a market gardener has a field of potatoes which belief tells him needs rain, while his neighbor has a field of wheat just harvested. The same condition may bring gratification to one and anxiety to the other.

Now, if a man were absolutely certain that every difficulty he could ever meet would be successfully overcome and that every event in his experience would result in harmony, how much trouble would he have? Trouble is not an entity or power of which man is the helpless victim but a false belief of mortals, something over which man has a perfect right to have control. Since trouble exists only in consciousness it can be readily seen how it may be magnified, for the more anything is dwelt upon in thought the more dominant it will seem. If one keeps on rehearsing his troubles they soon monopolize his thought and may exclude every ray of hope. Does such an one wonder why his troubles increase? What else could be expected since they receive such careful cultivation?

When Jesus said: "Let not your heart be troubled," did He not mean that man has the power to prevent trouble? Do not His words mean just what they say, i.e., "Do not allow your heart to be troubled?" Yet how readily does the excuse spring to the lips, "But I can't help it." If this is true, what was the use of Jesus saying what He did He apparently did mean that men can and should be free from all trouble. But He did not make the requirement without giving mankind some ground on which to rest their assurance of safely. "Ye believe in God," he continues, "believe also in Me." In other words He pointed out to His disciples that if they believed in a perfect God, as they surely did, then they should also believe in the perfect expression of God. * * * *

What is trouble? Whence comes this agitated, disturbed, confused state of consciousness? Trouble is fear of the future, disappointment with the present or regret for the past, and these all result from belief in and love for that which is material, personal, mortal. Job says, speaking of mortal man, "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward." If we seem to have trouble it indicates that our thought is not resting wholly on God. Hence Jesus' demand, "Let not your heart be troubled," would virtually mean to correct your wrong state of thought; lift up your eyes and look out upon the universe in its true nature. "Ye believe in God," believe then in God's perfect child, and the universe as God's abundant provision for His child. The Psalmist sings, "Whom have I in heaven but Thee? and there is none upon earth that I desire beside Thee."

God is good; He is the source of all that really exists, and therefore all must be good, since the effect must be like the cause. When it dawns upon a man's consciousness that God is not the source of trouble, he sees that there is at least some prospect of overcoming it. When he learns that the sense of trouble of any nature is but an erroneous concept of what is real and that he has the power and the privilege to give up his wrong concept and accept the right one, this gives him courage to undertake the correction of false beliefs. He begins to see that he is not subject to circumstances or a victim of adversity, but that his environment is subject to him and that he has a right to assert his supremacy and his divine authority to control circumstances and conditions. Conditions exist because of the man, and not the man because of the conditions. It is because the man is what his environment and conditions are, and without him they could not be; therefore as he improves mentally they must improve. The higher his ideal and the nearer he approaches it the greater will be the improvement.—Christian Science Monitor.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

PETERBORO' STOPPED WINNING STREAK OF THE OSHAWA INTERMEDIATE TEAM

Locals Beat Seven From the Front 6 to 2 Last Night in a Hard Game on Miserable Ice.

NEW GOAL STARRED

The Peterborough intermediates stopped the winning streak of the Oshawa team last night at the Brock Street rink, when they handed the ground leaders a 6 to 2 wallop after a stubbornly fought game on poor ice. At the breathing spell it was even, with one goal each, but the Petes opened the scond half with a burst of speed that netted them three goals in short order and took all the gimp out of the visitors. From that stage on the homesters had the game in hand, and although Oshawa managed to score another goal, the Petes came back with two and easily held the team from the front safe.

It was hard, strenuous hockey, with he pace remarkaby fast, considering the condition of the ice, which was down to the boards in spots. Combination was a difficult matter under the circumstances and individual rushes were the order of the evening.

Peterborough had their best team of the season in line. Bert Janes, the little goalkeeper from Regina, was given a chance to show his wares in the nets and absorb it from us, Maurus, the Weserner was there all the way. Oshawa beat him twice, both times from the mouth of the net, but nothing else filtered through. He handled long shots accurately, came out and upset the attack when his defence was beaten and cleared like a flash. The crowd liked his work and appreciated the pepper he showed in coaching the defence.

In front of Janes, Bond and Bradshaw played a fine defence game, while the latter tore off some dazzling rushes.

Fred Denison was at rover and while the soft ice bothered him after two weeks playing on the artificial stuff, he showed his old speed. Park was the same reliable busy bee, doing his usual deadly sharp shooting. He bagged three goals and lined in many other shots dead on. Kelly was at his old position on the wing and did some fine rushing. Capt. Giroux was playing under a double handicap with a sore leg and being moved over to right wing, but he stayed on the job, and his checking was of great help to the defence.

Oshawa produced a speedy team who looked dangerous in the first half when the Petes' forward line seemed disorganised. Freeman and Quinn on th defence had a world of speed and tore off some pretty rushes. Quinn is the same spectacular performer as he was when he wore the Lakefield uniform in the City League. On the forward line, Red Weiler of the juniors, and Fair, captain of last year's juniors, were the pick.

Jack Moxon of Toronto, was a satisfatcory referee.

The teams were:

Oshawa —Goal, R. Fair; right defence, Freeman; left defence, Quinn; rover, W. Fair; centre, Smith; right wing, Murphy; left wing, Weiler.

Both goals were threatened in turn within a few seconds of the face off, and it was lively going. Shortly after the opening, Park had his face cut with the puck in going in on the Oshawa nets and had to retire to be patched up, Murphy dropping off with him. The Petes line was bunching and not checking back and Oshawa tore off some dangerous rushes. In stopping one of these, Bond tripped a man and was penalized. Shortly afterward, Weiler got close in and got a chance to beat James when the puck struck the end of the rink and bounded out in front of the nets. Oshawa 1, Peterbrough 0.

Park and Murphy came back, but the Petes centre was soon chased to th eside for slashing. While he was off Janes made a spectacular save by sailing out at Weiler when the latter had got inside. Parks returned, and shortly afterward took the puck from a face-off and drove home a beautiful shot, tying the score. Peterborough 1, Oshawa 1.

Bradshaw and Bond served penalties in turn but no damage was done while they were off. The pace continued fast and hard, with the honours about even, utnil the end of the half. Shortly before the rest period W. Fair took the count as the result of a heavy body check and retired. Giroux accompanying him. Quinn had his knee hurt shortly afterward, but was able to resume.

The Petes buzzed around the Oshawa nets the last five minutes but could not score, Fair making some fine stops.

Opening the second half, however, the homesters uncorked some more speed and were all over the visitors. Bradshaw drilled one past Fair from a scrimmage, and a minute later Park slipped another one through on a pass from behind. Bond was chased for tripping, but playing a man short, the Petes made it 4 to 1, Park again doing the trick.

Denison was chased for loafing and while he was off Fair got an opening and went in on top of James to score Oshawa's second goal.

Kelly had his eye cut and had to retire, Oshawa dropping Murphy. The Petes were holding the visitors out, while James performed brilliantly in the nets. Kelly and Murphy returned after a few minutes. Denison made the score 4 to 2 by scooping one past Fair, and Kelly slipped in the last counter of the game when he and Park got in toegther. Fair spoiled Park's shot, but Kelly followed in and jammed the puck home.

Summary:—

1 Oshawa, Weiler 5 min.
2 Peterborough, Park 7 min.

Half Time.

3 Peterborough, Bradshaw 4 mins.
4 Peterborough, Park 1 min.
5 Peterborough, Park 2 mins.
6 Oshawa, Fair 6 mins.
7 Peterborough, Denison 9 mins.
8 Peterborough, Kelly 5 mins.

SKATING TO-NIGHT
Brock Street Rink. Ice fine. Band from 57th Regiment.

WORKOUTS FOR BOTH TEAMS ON MONDAY

Both Peterborough teams will practice on Monday night, the Juniors from 7 o'clock to 7.30, and the Intermediates from 7.30 to 8 o'clock. As both teams play next week, it is important that all the regulars should be on hand. The Juniors should be ready to go on the ice sharp at 7 o'clock.

CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE TO-NIGHT

The recently organized Church Hockey League will hold a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. parlours on Monday night at 7.15 p.m. sharp. It is absolutely essential for each church entering a team to have its representative present, as permanent officers will be elected, a constitution drafted, and the schedule of games for the season drawn up.

There is no better way of getting our young men of the various churches in touch with each other than in competition through good manly sport. Every effort will be made to keep the games absolutely clean, and members of such will be drawn only from those having an active connection with some branch of the severel churches. This league will provide an opportunity for exercise for those not entered in other leagues of the City. Full information to all prospective teams can be secured by 'phoning Secretary Thompson at the Y.M.C.A.

JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE ITEMS OF INTEREST

Several of the teams in the Junior City League are preparing to strengthen their lines for next Wednesday night's games. It is likely that the Alerts will make a change or two for their contest with the Boston Exploits, and they are determined to make an effort to remain in the running. It is understood that Joe Dwyer is handling the team now, and should inject sufficient pepper to make the Exploits step their fastest. In Legros they uncovered a promising goal guardian, and they have a defence that, with a little tightening up should give any of the forward lines a battle. Along the wings there will probably be a new face or two.

The Wanderers are mostly boys from East City. They have gone down into their dips for their exponses, and have practically no one but themselves to carry the team along. Not that they are short financially, but they could profit from the advice of an old player or two who knows the game. It might be suggested that any East City boys who are eligible and know the game should turn out with the Wanderers if requested. Art Primeau is mentioned as a candidate for a wing position, and Mike Coughlin, a brother of Jerry, is said to be a probable candidate. With a few changes, the team would be much faster, and would give a better account of itself in the future games.

The Y.M.C.A. and Exploits showed every sign of strength, and their contest wio weeks hence is looked upon as the big game of the season. However, the other teams have not appeared at their best, and there may be a surprise or two yet.

The four teams should get in as many practices as they can stand. More attention should be given to team play. This applies particularly to two of them, and the every man after the puck style should not be seen on fast ice. The opening night's conditions were not conducive to the best of hockey, but at that there were numerous bright spots.

The players might just as well get the right ideas into their heads now while the season is early, and every team has a chance. Everything points to a good season. There was an appreciative crowd on the opening night, and if the race becomes close, as it is expected to do, the popularity of the games will grow.

Peterborough Ball Club Is Negotiating With Ort

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 8.—A director of the Peterborough Canadian League Baseball Club was in the city yesterday and had a lengthy talk with George R. Ort, the ex-manager of the Saints. While nothing definite was arranged, it is thought Mr. Ort will be offered the management of the Petes after the club's directors meet in a few weeks.

The St. Thomas fans do not like the idea of their 1913 manager piloting any other club in the Canadian League and feel that he should be retained as the Saints' leader for the coming season. It is, however, stated that Ort and the St. Thomas directors are at variance over certain monies the ex-manager claims the club owes him. His 1913 contract called for a certain percentage of any amount realised by the Club from the sale of players.

Eddie Wright was drafted after the close of the Canadian League season and the directors are of the opinion that Ort is not entiled to any part of the $500 received from the Providence club of the International League for this player, while Ort claims his agreement with the Club allows him something. Chairman Garry Herrmann of the National Commission, will probably be asked to adjust the matter.

HOCKEY

The Peterborough Intermediates will play the return game with Oshawa on Tuesday night, and the game promises to be the crucial contest of the district. The Petes realize that they have to win and they will have a strong line-up in action.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 10—(Special.)—Whitby intermediates were defeated by Belleville here to-night in a very fast game. The final score was four to two. At half time it stood 2 to 0. The locals maintained a fast pace all through the game. The teams:

Belleville— Goal, Brotherhood; defence, Bradley and T. Grant; rover, Dunning; centre, Whelan; right, Symons; left Brant.

Whitby—Goal, Jobb; defence, Smith and McIntyre; rover, Lavery; centre, Rice; right, Watson; left, Blanchard.

Belleville trimmed Whitby last night by 4 goals to 2, and as this is the only game the Bay of Quinte team have played they are at the top of the heap for a moment. The group standing follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play.
Belleville	1	0	9
Peterborough	2	1	7
Oshawa	2	1	7
Whitby	2	1	7
Cobourg	0	1	9
Bowmanville	0	3	7

THE DREAM OF B. BALL BUG

While inhaling the heat from a hot stove the other evening Mr. B. Ball Bug, the popular follower of our national pastime, fell fast asleep. Mr. Bug is no ordinary fan, as is well known. He eats up baseball dope like a hungry cat devours fish heads. When it comes to knowing players and their records he can give Secretary Farrell of the National Association a swell run for the honours. But to resume the story.

While Mr. Bug was pounding his ear in an easy chair near the stove, he experienced the strangest baseball dram that any baseball fan ever dreamed. "Take it from me, hicks, this dream of mine was some dream," he told the crowd. "I could plainly see a ball team performing, composed of Meek 1.b. (Victoria N.W.L.), Coy l.f. (Oakland P.C.L.), Wilde s.s. (Hewanee C.A.), Sharp 2.b. (Wilmington Tri-State), Jolly c. (Clarksville K.I. T.L.), Savage c.f. (Utica N.Y. S.L.), Good r.f. (Cubs), Sweet 3b. (Clay Center K S. L.), Lively p. (Sacramento P.C.I.)

Mr. Bug paused to give his hearers an opportunity to dispute his narrative. But as none present expressed a doubt as to his veracity, he continued: "After seeing this team of tossers I forgot my Christian name. Try as I would I couldn't remember it I thought of Willie c.f. (Beaumont T. L.), Henry 1b. (Fremont, N.S.L.), Myron s.s. (Traverse City M.S.L.), Barney 2b. (Ludington M.S.L.), Frits 3b. (Wilmington Tri-State), Howard r.f. (Fort Worth T.L.) Thomas c. (Red Sox), James l.f. (Austin T.L.) and George p. (Toledo A.A.) But my moniker wasn't there. And to make matters worse the "Old Home" team came before my eyes and this gave me the weeps.

"There was House (Ottumwa C.A.), Potts (Cleveland F.F.) and Cook (Yankees) in the outfield, Neighbours (Tacoma N.W.L.), Keys (Danbury N.Y.-N. J.L.), Coffey (Denver W.L.) and Grubb (Omaha W.L.) in the infield, Kitchen (er) (Fort Worth T.L.) behind the bat and Hall (Red Sox) on the slab.

"Well, after this bunch blew by," continued Mr. Bug, "I figured it was up to me to beat it to a new village. But before starting on my journey I thought it best to supply myself with some new scenery, and quicker han I can tell it I was lamping at a "Ready-to-Wear" team with a line-up as follows: Isaacs 3b. (Scranton N. Y.S.L.), Weinberg 1b. (Louisville A. A.), Levy 2b. (Ogden U.A.), Brnstein s.s. (Amerious E.S.L.), Solomon c. (Brattleboro T.S.L.) Moses p. (Albany N.Y.S.L.) and Meyer (Superbas), Jacobs (Burlington C.A.), and Wolfe (Pittsfield E.A) in the outfield.

"Now that I had my new outfit I was trying to decide on my itinerary, when up bobbed the "Old Farmers' Almanac' team, with Northern (Toronto E.L.) West (Cedar Rapids (C.A.) and Weeks (Madison W.I.L.) in the outfield, Southern (Fall River N.E. L.), Knight (Yankees), Starr (Mobile S.L.), and Mundy (Red Sox) in the infield, Easterly c. (White Sox) and Day p. (Cordele E.S.L.).

"There was nothing that resembled a hunch in this crew so I grabbed a map and took a slant: Austin p. (New port News V.L.), Manchesuter c. (American E.S.L.), Lennox (Montreal I. L.), Atchison (Berlin C.L.), Covington (Browns) and Hartford (Bloomington T.I.L.), who composed the infield, and Sheffield (Green Bay W.I.L.), Durham (Oshkosh W.I.L.), and Newton (Richmond V.L.) in the outfield

Mr. Bug inhaled more heat, and then continued. "I'll never tell you where I landed. I was either in Africa or at a circus, for who should parade before me but Ostrich 3.b. (Meriden E. A.), Wolfe s.s. (Thomasville E.S.L.), Badger 1b. (Battle Creek N.M.S.L.), Fish 2b. (Albany S.A.L.), Eagle c.f.(Watsonville C.S.L.), Lyons l.f. (Adrian M. S.L.) Lamb r.f. (Victoria N.W.L.), Fox c. Thomasville E.S.L.) and Chicken p. Superior N.L.)

"The wild game put up by this outfit acused me to hunt up something to quiet my nerves. I found what I was looking for when I stumbled upon Gin(n) c.f. (Roanoke V.L.), Porter r.f. (Lynn N.E.L.), Wiens 3b. (Racino W.I.L.), Beers 1b. (Portsmouth O.S. L.), Lemon s.s. (San Antonio T.L.), Sours l.f. (Muscatine C.A.), Glass 2b.) (Talladega G.A.L.), Waters c. (New Haven E.A.), and Stein p. (Muskegon M.S.L.).

"Right here is where I began to see things in a hurry. With Dobbs (Montgomery S.L.) leading the procession, Gray, Meriden C.S.L.), White (Fall River E.E.I.), Brown (St. John N.B.-M.L.), Green (Battle Creek M.S.L.), Red (mond) (Edmonton W.C.L.) and Lavender (Cubs) marched out on the field. Being a futurist aggregation there were but eight men in the lineup.

"Gentlemen," continued Mr. Bug, "this dream was getting too heavy for my weight. I was compelled to take a vacation, I pictured (Camp Talladega C.A.L.), Hunter (Emira N.Y. S.L.) and Lake (Cleveland F.L.) in the outer garden and Woods (Troy N.Y. S.L.), Brooks (Columbia C.A.L.), Trout (Peterborough C.L.) and Cook (Guelph C. L), the infielders, and Bridges (Pittsfield E.A.) and Hill (Waco T.L.), the battery. And then I woke up'.

FRENCH CHAMPION STILL A YOUTH

Paris, Jan. 10.—George Carpentier, the heavyweight champion pugilist of Europe, and the idol of the French sporting public, is to be given a 'blowout' in Paris next Monday on the occasion of his twentieth birthday anniversary. In view of his remarkable achievements in the ring it is difficult to realise that Carpentier is still in his tens. It is not so difficult to understand, however, when it is remembered that he began his career as a fighter at the early age of twelve years. At that time he weighed but 75 pounds and was known as the "Little Demon." At the age of 13 he was proclaimed the amateur bantam champion of France. One year later he won the feather weight title and in the same year added the lightweight championship to his other honours. In 1912 he took the European middleweight championship from Jem Sullivan and then he began cleaning up the heavyweights. His latest victory was his decisive win over Bombardier Wells, the big Britisher. In this and other of his recent fights Carpentier showed a complete change of style from that which he displayed in the early part of his career. Formerly it was perfectly apparent to every spectator that he fought for the love of fighting. He sailed from gong to gong and never sought to avoid punishment if by taking his medicine he could give a larger dose of the same stuff to his opponent. But now it is evident that he regards the game as a business. The old smile is missing and he is cool and calculating in the ring. What he has lost in youthful enthusiasm he has gained in a better knowledge of the science of the game.

BASEBALL

Catcher Leslie Nunamaker of the Red Sox, is spending the winter in hunting and fishing on Cape Cod.

Manager Finn, of the Memphis Southern League team, is trying to put over a trade with Minneapolis for Frank Delehanty.

Joe Tinker is making arrangements to take his Chicago team of the Federal league to Beaumont, Texas, for spring training.

Pitcher "Slim" Harrah, the star slabber o fthe Kansas league, has been signed by the Victoria Northwestern league club. Hurrah! Hurrah!

Manager George Stallings of the Boston Braves, shipped twenty-five turkeys from his Georgia plantation to the Hub, for the annual dinner of the Boston Winter Leaguers.

After a season as manager of the Indianapolis team, Mike Kelley is willing to become a scout for the Cardinals. It's just one durn thing after another for Mike.

The world touring Giants and White Sox will arrive at Monte Carlo on February 12. But fence busting and bank busting, they should remember, are altogether different things.

In a recent newspaper article Eddie Collins of the Athletics paid tribute to Ty Cobb as follows: "Take it from one who knows, there is only one Cobb. All the rest are imitations."

From all accounts the new Federal league intends to raid the National league of players all along the line, while apparently no effort is being made to induce Americen league players to jump.

Ball players are an ambitious lot. Governor Tener of Pennsylvania was a ball player in his younger days and Dr. Bert Daly, formerly of the Phillies, has now been elected mayor of Bayonne, N.J.

BOXING

The inter-city bouts between New York and Boston amateur boxers will take place in Boston this month.

New Haven promoters have put up the bars against heavyweights. The Willard-Rodel muss is the answer.

Terry McGovern and his old rival Joe Bernstein are now doing a boxing act together in the variety theatres.

Leach Cross believes that his victory over Bud Anderson entitles him to meet Willie Richie for the lightweight crown.

Tommy Burns, former champion, and now manager of Arthur Pelkey, is trying to induce Gunboat Smith to give Pelkey a return match.

Ray Bronson must be ready for the scrap heap when Holberg, the Danish lightweight, can defeat him in a 20-round bout.

Carl Morris drew something over $5,000 for three months' engagements in the ring last year. Nice money for appearing in the ring.

K. O. Brown has been forced to pass up several bouts on account of stomach trouble. He has offers to meet Ad Wolgast, Joe Mandot and Joe Azedo.

Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea lightweight, will make his first appearance in the west on January 16, when he will mix with One-Round Hogan in Salt Lake City.

Luncheon Entree.

Sausage, considered by some as a plebian edible, may readily be made the basis of many delicious and even dainty luncheon dishes. Sausage sliced and delicately fried in its own grease, drained and then browned crisply and served with tiny little buckwheat cakes four inches across, will make a delightful luncheon on a cold winter day. Sausage smothered in potato is another luncheon dainty which even the most cultured need not disdain.

Parboil some very small link sausages five minutes. Bake a number of medium-sized potatoes, and when done cut in half and remove the mealy pulp, mashing it well and adding butter and a little cream or milk, as well as some salt and pepper. Fill the potato skins with this mixture, leaving a depression in the centre of each. Lay in the parboiled sausages and brown well in the oven for a few moments.

Taken Back

"I suppose the titled personage you say you are going to marry is mentioned in the 'Almanach de Gotha'?" said the inquisitive newspaper man.

"No," indeed, retorted the lovely actress. "Of course he ain't in no almanac. Do you think he's a joke?"

WINNIPEG RINKS MAY VISIT CITY

News From the Charlotte Street Rink—Frost Returns and is Welcomed

It is possible that the two big Winnipeg rinks wil visit the local curlers at the conclusion of the Lindsay bonspiel. There are no definite arrangements yet, but the matter has been mentioned at the rink. The personnel of the local teams going to Lindsay was unknown to-day. The stones will be sent up on Monday night, and most of the curlers will go up on Tuesday morning.

The Cold Spell.

Eight degrees of frost made Angus McIntosh happy this morning, and frappeed the ice to the desired hardness. A couple of scratch games were played last night, and the rinks are open for this evening. The "radiator" league has been hitting 1000 during the mild weather. Archie Moore is a Georgia peach in that aggregation, but he has numerous rivals.

BROTHER OF MRS W. HENDRY PASSED AWAY

Dropped Dead at His Home on the 2nd Concession of Mariposa

Mrs. W. Henry, of he Children's Shelter, received a message at five o'clock yesterday afternoon that her brother, William Downer, of Mariposa, had dropped dead at his home. No detils of his death were given. Mrs. Henry lef this morning for Mriposa.

MR. ARCHIE MOORE TABOOED TANGO

Two young men, non-military, who were guests at the Sergeants' ball, last night, at the Armouries essayed one of the 57th varieties of tango. But they overlooked the presence of Mr. Archie Moore, who showed his efficiency as a floor manager by catching the smart step on the first "go." "Fade away with that stuff; London is through with it and it can't go here." At leasy along those lines were Mr. Moore's remarks, gently whispered, and the other guests, unaware of the incident, continued their dance.

REWARD IS GIVEN TO THE SOCIETY

About a year ago Mr. David Jackson offered a reward of $25 for the information in regard to a fur coat that had been stolen from him or for the capture of those who had taken it. The reward has been handed to the police to be given to Dr. Amys, who was instrumental in the arrest of the thieves, and Dr. Amys will turn the money over to the Children's Aid Society.

Ralph Faries to be Hanged—He held up the Sunset Express, killed H. E. Montaque, and robbed the passengers, one of whom identified him on the streets of San Francisco. He confessed and will be hanged. The trial lasted 35 minutes. The boy is 23 years of age.

SHACK CONTAINING TWO ROOMS WAS CONDEMNED

It is the trained nurse in her visit to the home of the poor who can do more than anyone else to educate the housewife in domestic hygiene.

The baby's first year is a most important one in forming habits and building a firm foundation for health, not only in childhood but in adult life: food, regular habits, clothing, sleep, exercise, must receive careful attention from the first.

The general nurse has found in many cases that the people have not the knowledge of these things that they should have, but they were willing to learn.

An Italian baby ill with pneumonia was found in a room with all the windows nailed down for the winter. No ventilation whatever in the house, just because they did not know the importance of fresh air. These people were willing to be shown how to carry out the doctor's orders and kept the windows open day and night.

We had quite a number of babies ill with diarrohea, due mostly to improper feeding and over feeding and lack of fresh air. In many homes after the child was normal the mothers followed the advice.

Obstetric Cases. Patient was visited twice a day until the third day, and then once a day until the tenth day. In these cases we found that the mothers did not realise the baby's needs of regularity in feeding, sleeping and bathing, or of fresh air.

The house in which one patient lived recently was reported to the Health Department and had been condemned, the shack contained just two rooms, 7 x 9. The landlord has been getting six dollars a month for this shack, which is absolutely unfit for human beings to live in.

A woman aged 96 years lived all alone and was ill; nurse had her removed to Protestant Home. Subsequently she was taken to the hospital and died there.

There have been quite a number of cases which were operated upon in Hospital, and on returning home, had nurse given treatment daily—all have recovered nicely.

In the case of small operations done in the home, the same preparations are made as would be in the Hospital. Everything is in readiness for the doctor when he arrives. All the linen used is sterilised by the nurse and the surgical dressings are provided by the doctor. These cases require the nurses' attendance for only a short time each day.

CENTENARY TO NOTED IRISH POET

DUBLIN, Jan. 10.—In literary circles throughout Ireland tribute was paid to-day to the life and work of Sir Aubery De Vere, on the occasion of the centennial anniversary of the birth of the famous Irish poet. De Vere was born one hundred years ago to-day at Curragh Chase, near Limerick. His death occurred at the same place on January 21st, 1902.

In a period of unrest and endless activity, De Vere was content with a life of simple harmony and the joy that his poetic genius brought to him. For nearly the entire portion of his eighty-eight years he remained at the family home, occupying the same room, and reading and writing in his father's library.

He was a poet by nature and by temperament. His thoughts were poems and his dreams were poetic fancies. Southey, who knew him well, called him an "entire poet," and Cardinal Newman said that in every action of his mind he was a poet.

Through Tennyson De Vere met Mary Anderson, the famous American actress who became Mme. Navarro, and they exchanged letters for several years. They used to take long walks together on Hampstead Heath and talk about the people who had made it almost sacred ground.

The poet did not care much about outward form. In this connection it is that he once drove with Mme. Navarro in Rotten Row, and while she was beautifuly gowned and the carriage was perfectly appointed, he held over his head, to shade his eyes, an umbrella like Mrs. Gamp's, and it had a broken rib that added to its disreputable look.

It's a good plan to forgive your enemies before they have a chance to get back at you.

KNEW SHE LIVED BEFORE

Extraordinary Knowledge Possessed by Woman.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—An extraordinary knowledge of a former life is claimed to have been possessed by Mme. Laure Raynaud, whose death has just occurred in Paris.

Mme. Raynaud, who was 45 years old, was a nurse in a private hospital in Passy. A few years ago she told a doctor that she knew that she had died at the age of 19 many years before. She described the town and the house in which she had lived. It was a foreign town although Mme. Raynaud had never been out of France.

The doctor thought that the town might be Sienna in Italy, and from the mayor of that place procured a collection of photographs. In one of them he recognized a house and a church exactly like those that Mme. Raynaud described. She gave many details, among others that she died in 1840, and that her death was due to consumption.

Without telling her where she was going the doctor took her to Sienna. The first day she arrived she walked straight to the house she had described and from there to the church. Then she went to the tombstone of a girl who died of consumption in 1840, at the age of 19, and fell on it in a fainting fit.

Mme. Raynaud refused to make any money out of her peculiar gift, and though she had a strange magnetism which enabled her to effect cures of certain nervous maladies, she always refused payment. Her death was due to cancer.

Some people are so careless that even their promises get broken.

The fellow who is always bragging about what he is going to do tomorrow, generally keeps quiet about what he did yesterday.

ELLIOT'S

GERMAN OFFICERS ACQUITTED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Germany, Jan. 10.—Accepting in all cases the word of officers as against that of the civilians, the Court Martial ordered the acquittal of the officers concerned in the Alsace riots and also ordered the libration of one officer imprisoned by the civilian courts. There is much excitement here in regard to the case and the matter will be debated strongly in the Reichstag. This was the case where the Crown Prince was disciplined by his father for interfering.

Most of us know when to stop, but the trouble is we don't exercise our knowledge.

Hopeful Feeling Prevailed Concerning Sir James Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—While the official statements with regard to the condition of Sir James Whitney, the Ontario Premier, who is ill at the Hotel Manhattan, continued to be non-committal on Sunday, there was a distinctly hopeful feeling apparent among those who knew the real conditions at his bedside.

Last night's bulletin read: "Sir James Whitney had a rather restless day, but otherwise his condition is unchanged."

Both Dr. Pyne and Horace Wallis spent a considerable time away from their chief yesterday. More significant still, Lady Whitney, who kept constant watch while her husband appeared in a critical condition, went out for a walk during the day.

Dr. McPhedran went back to Toronto Saturday night. It had been intended that he should remain for a few days, but this was not found to be necessary.

Dr. McPhedran expressed the hope that it would be possible to remove th stricken Premier to his home in Toronto "within a few days." Dr. Pyne last night, while he expressed a similar hope, said it was impossible for him to fix a date for the removal.

The patient rested well at nights towards the latter end of the week, and the periods of delirium were not long nor serious.

TERRORIZED GUARDS

Krafchenko Drew Revolver on Winnipeg Constables

BIG REWARD IS OFFERED

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12. — While a close official silence is still being kept, details of John Krafchenko, committed for trial for the murder of Manager Arnold and the robbery of the Bank of Montreal at Plum Coulee, escaped from the Winnipeg police station at two o'clock Saturday morning have leaked out. The desperado had a key for the door of his cell. How he got it is still a mystery.

Two unarmed constables were locked in the room or cell with Krafchenko. They had no keys, the door having been locked from the outside by the sergeant in charge of the station. The room had a barred window.

Krafchenko did not sleep Friday night. A short time after midnight he rose and started to pace his cell. Suddenly he stopped in front of the guards, and when one of them looked up his eye ran along the barrel of a revolver.

Enjoining them to silence on penalty of their lives, he backed them into a clothes' closet in the corner of the room and locked the door. There was a glass in the door and the guards saw Krafchenko take a key from his pocket and open the door of the cell. Passing out into the hall he entered the photographing room next door.

He tied the clothes line he had had concealed about him, to the steampipe, raised the window, and departed. He slid down the rope three stories and since that moment has disappeared as completely as if the earth had swallowed him up. It took the guards several minutes to make their way out of the closet. The alarm was given and the police dragnet thrown out.

Percy Hagel, Krafchenko's counsel, had an interview with his client at 11 o'clock Friday night. While the interview was going on the guards were out of the room. They waited in the corridor. Hagel, having been appraised that he was under suspicion in police circles, yesterday issued a statement in which he defies the police to make a definite charge.

Judge Meyers, a member of the police commission, in a statement yesterday charged both the city and provincial police with carelessness. In view of rumors going around town for weeks that Krafchenko would never be sentenced, he says the police should have taken special precautions.

Six thousand dollars is now offered for Krafchenko dead or alive, the Attorney-General for Manitoba making the announcement. When the city council meets to-night another $1,000 will be offered.

One sensational statement made by a reliable authority, but which may be taken for what it is worth, is to the effect that Krafchenko was freed by former pals because they feared that before the murder case was concluded they would all be implicated one way or other.

The same authority declared that Krafchenko would never get away alive, as delivery was made for the purpose of removing him for all time.

Archbishop Secures Reform.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—Following the recent visit of Archbishop Bruchesi to Bordeaux jail, the matter of the solitary confinement of prisoners has been brought to the notice of the authorities, and it is reported to-day that new regulations altering the present system at the jail may come into force early next month.

The archbishop visited the jail on the feast of the Epiphany, following his usual custom.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A fine of $500 was imposed Saturday on the James Van Dyk Co., egg dealers, on their plea of guilty to selling cold storage eggs as fresh. It is the first conviction of its kind in this state.

The action was brought by the state department of health, which has been conducting a crusade against the practice of misrepresenting cold storage products.

MILITARY RULES!

Officers Are Acquitted and Excitement Reigns In Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The acquittal of Col. Von Reuter, Lieut. Schad and Lieut. Baron von Forstner at Strassburg of all charges in connection with the Zabern affair is apparently a victory for the army all along the line, but it is already evident that there will be a serious aftermath, and a crisis graver than that in December is predicted.

The court-martial in the case of Von Reuter upheld the validity of the almost forgotten decree of 1820, authorising the military commander to assume control whenever in his judgment it was necessary, and approved acts which the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, in December, declared to be unquestionably illegal.

The parties, whose vote of non-confidence in the Government was prompted by indignation over an isolated incident of military, are now lining up, it is said, to defend constitutional principles and demand the nullification of the decree which sets at naught subsequently enacted laws and which, if upheld, subordinates civil to military authority anywhere in Prussia.

The National Liberals, who were the most uncertain element in the December majority, will, according to an evening paper, participate in the new attack on the Government next week.

Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, speaking in the House of Lords Saturday, flung defiance at the Liberal critics and pledged himself to maintain inviolate the army's rights to prevent Parliamentary control. He also referred to the Ministry's regard for the resolution of non-confidence adopted by the Reichstag.

OJINAGA IS TAKEN

After Last Desperate Stand Huertists Leave Village

FOUGHT IN THE MOONLIGHT

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 12. — The Mexican Federal army, with its nine generals, evacuated Ojinaga at ten o'clock Saturday night. The triumphant rebel forces under Gen. Francisco Villa immediately occupied the village.

Gen. Salvador Mercado, who was Huerta's chief military commander, crossed the river and surrendered to Major McNamee of the U. S. army.

The defeat of the Federal army followed only a few hours' fighting, in which the rebels, beginning at sundown, started to close in on the besieged garrison with a cannon and rifle fire.

Gen. Castro and Gen. Mercado of the Federal regulars saw that the assault was to be nothing less than a massacre. The Federals had left only fifty rounds of ammunition for each man. Generals Castro and Mercado, therefore, gave the order to evacuate.

All the Federal soldiers and their officers who could scramble to the American side did so. The others ran ran in all directions.

About nine o'clock, when the fighting had been in progress about five hours, seven wagon loads of documents belonging to the Huerta Government came over and were captured by the United States border patrol. This was believed to be a preliminary to evacuation.

Major McNamee, commanding the United States patrol, immediately ordered out all cavalry men to meet an emergency. Women and children and wounded soldiers had been crossing in numbers, but the apparent advance of the rebels to the very heart of the Federal garrison gave reason to believe a greater rush across the border was imminent.

For five hours the sharp flashes of the rebel fire had been seen drawing closer to the Federal entrenchments. The whole scene was bathed in a moonlight, partly obscured by dust and powder smoke.

The country about Ojinaga is mostly desert, with little to sustain life. Without food, the impoverished Federals would be unable to proceed any great distance.

Among the Federals were nine generals — Castro, Mercado, Orozco, Manuel Landa, Ypex Salazar, Antonio Rojas, Blas Orpinal, Lozaro Alavis and Roque Gomes.

Some of them were men upon whom Huerta depended to maintain his military power in the north. Defeat of the Federal army at this point marks the most important rebel victory of the present revolution. It leaves the rebels in possession practically of all the north of Mexico.

Mercado, Castro and Landa were the only remaining commanders of the Federal regulars. The other generals commanded volunteers and had been threatened by Villa with death should they be captured.

After his picturesque flight from Juarez, Mercado elected to make a last desperate stand on this little hilltop of Ojinaga, in an obscure border village, 67 miles from any railroad, and that in the United States.

He said he would never give up unless his men ran short of ammunition. He kept his word. For six days, ending last Sunday, he had fought pluckily against odds. The rebels fired more than 1,000 rounds into the Federal trenches without avail. It was not until Villa, now the military head of the revolution, but once a bandit, appeared on the scene that the reverse came for the Federals.

None of the wierd scenes in the moonlight while the horde of rebels was pouring into Ojinaga and the Federals were rushing about in disorder was more intensely pathetic than that of Gen. Mercado, an old campaigner in various revolutions, who appeared at the river bank and informed an orderly of the United States army that he wished asylum in a foreign country.

Pancho Villa, hunted for nearly twenty years as a bandit, is now the undisputed military leader of northern Mexico. He joined Madero's revolution and was mustered out at the close of the campaign. Six months ago, he joined the constitutionalist movement, his only weapon being a borrowed revolver, and now he threatens to take Toreon and march on to Mexico City, to depose Huerta.

Rebels Buy Armored Cruiser.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—It is reported here that the rebels have acquired in Europe an armored cruiser which, though regarded as obsolete, would be more than a match for any war craft belonging to the Mexican Government.

It is said that this cruiser is about to put in at New Orleans to take aboard gunners and crew and that with it the rebels hope to capture the more important gulf ports.

Prof. Binion Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The death from heart disease of Prof. Samuel Augustus Binion, author, traveler and translator, is announced. He was born at Suwalki, Poland, in 1853.

Prof. Binion worked until late on Thursday afternoon to complete the manuscript of his last book, "A Dictionary of Personal Proper Names and Their Derication." He was stricken soon after he reached his home and died three hours later.

Prof. Binion was widely known to the reading public for his translation from the Polish of "Quo Vadis" and "Fire and Sword."

BIG ADVANCE MADE.

Canada's Trade for 1913 Shows Nearly Quarter Billion Increase.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—The trade of Canada during 1913 increased by $240,000,000 over 1912. This is the greatest increase in one year over a previous year ever recorded in the history of Canada. The total figures for 1913 are $1,085,264,449; of this $686,604,413 was imports and $337,-088,355 exports. The duty collected amounted to $114,501.67. This was nearly $30,000,000 more than before.

Canada's trade with France increased by $4,000,000. The increase was largely in imports, although half a million dollars' worth of goods more than in 1912 was shipped to France. The total trade was slightly over $17,000,000.

Canada's trade with Germany did not increase so much as did that with France. The increase was a little less than $3,000,000. The total trade done was $17,876,227, of which no less than $14,500,000 was imports and less than $3,500,000 exports.

Trade with Great Britain increased by over $48,500,000. The exports to Great Britain increased by more than the imports from that country. The imports were $189,646,356, a gain of nearly $22,500,000, while the exports amounted to $117,982,002, an increase of over $26,500,000.

But Canada does nearly double the trade with the United States that she does with Great Britain. The United States trade amounted to $622,432,-937 in 1913. This was the tremendous increase of nearly $137,000,000 over 1912.

HEADACHES ALMOST DROVE HER WILD.

Until A Friend Advised Her To Use "Fruit-a-tives"

NEWBURY, ONT., May 29th, 1913.

"About four years ago, I was in a dreadful run-down condition, weak and hardly able to walk up stairs. Weakness peculiar to women was the chief trouble. I had Headaches that almost drove me wild, and most distressing constipation. I took many dollars' worth of medicine from the doctors without any good results.

A neighbor advised me to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they proved to be the best medicine I ever got and the only medicine to do me any good. Today, I feel as a young girl, and am able to go about my household duties as usual. My health is splendid and "Fruit-a-tives" is the cause of it". MRS. WM. CRIM.

JUST HUMAN NATURE.

A boy is sometimes tempted to run away and be a pirate because a pirate never has his father's old clothes made over for him.

Miss Pansy Pyetin and Miss Pearl McGuffin do not speak. The only explanation given by either of them is a tearful protest that the other, for some mysterious reason, has quit speaking.

One argument against the use of tobacco is the fact that so many people insist on having it handled in a factory so that it will taste as much as possible like something else.

It is not true that a man becomes useless at 60 or 70. But it sometimes takes that long to discover that he wasn't any good in the first place.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

When the housekeeper attempts to reduce the high cost of living by reducing her meat by using the less expensive cuts, she commonly has two difficulties to contend with—toughness and lack of flavour. It has been shown how prolonged cooking softens the connective tissues of the meat. Pounding the meat and chopping it are also employed with tough cuts, as they help to break the muscle fibres. As for flavour, the natural flavour of meat even in the least desirable cuts may be developed by careful cooking, notably by browning the surface, and other flavours may be given by the addition of vegetables and seasoning with condiments of various kinds.

Meat may be cooked in water in a number of ways without being allowed to reach the boiling point. With the ordinary kitchen range this is accomplished by cooking on the cooler part of the stove rather than on the hottest part, directly over the fire. Experience with a gas stove, particularly if it has a small burner known as a "simmerer," usually enables the cook to maintain temperatures which are high enough to sterilize the meat if it has become accidentally contaminated in any way and to make it tender without hardening the fibres. The double boiler would seem to be a neglected utensil for this purpose. Its contents can easily be kept up to a temperature of 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and nothing will burn.

Another method is by means of the fireless cooker. In this a high temperature can be maintained for a long time without the application of fresh heat. Still another method is by means of a closely covered baking dish. Earthenware dishes of this kind suitable for serving foods as well as for cooking are known as casseroles. For cooking purposes a baking dish covered with a plate or a bean jar covered with a saucer may be substituted. The Aladdin oven has long been popular for the purpose of preserving temperatures which are near the boiling point and yet do not reach it. It is a thoroughly insulated oven which may be heated either by a krosene lamp or a gas jet.

In this connection directions are given for using some of the toughest and least promising pieces of meat.

STEWED SHIN OF BEEF.

Four pounds of shin of beef.
One medium-sized onion.
One whole clove and a small bay leaf.
One sprig of parsley.
One and one-half teaspoonfuls of flour.
One small slice of carrot.
One-half teaspoonful of salt.
One-half teaspoonful of pepper.
Two quarts of boiling water.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter or savoury drippings.

Have the butcher cut the bone in several pieces. Put all the ingredients but the flour and butter into a stewpan and bring to a boil. Set the pan where the liquid will just simmer for six hours, or after boiling for ten minutes, put all into the fireless cooker for eight or nine hours. With the butter, flour, and one-half cupful of the clear soup from which the fat has been removed, make a brown sauce; to this add the meat and the marrow removed from the bone. Heat and serve. The remainder of the liquid in which the meat has been cooked may be used for soup.

BOILED BEEF WITH HORSE-RADISH SAUCE.

Plain boiled beef may also be served with horse-radish sauce, and makes a palatable dish. A little chopped parsley sprinkled over the meat when served is considered an improvement by many persons. For the sake of variety the meat may be browned like pot roast before serving.

SCOTCH BROTH.

Three pounds mutton.
Two tablespoonfuls of pearl barley.
Two tablespoonfuls of minced onion.
Two tablespoonfuls of minced turnip.
Two tablespoonfuls of minced carrot.
Two tablespoonfuls of minced celery.
Two tablespoonfuls of salt.
One teaspoonful of pepper.
One tablespoonful of minced parsley.
Three quarts of cold water.

Remove the bones and all the fat from the mutton, cut the meat into small piecesc and put it into a stewpan, with the water, chopped vegetables, barley, and all the seasoning excepting the parsley. It will be found convenient to tie the bones in a piece of thin white cloth before adding them to the other ingredients. Bring the stew to a boil, quickly skim it and allow it to simmer for three hours, thicken with the flour, and add the chopped parsley.

STUFFED HEART.

Wash the heart thoroughly inside and out, stuff the following mixture, and sew up the opening: One cup of broken bread dipped in fat and browned in the oven, one chopped onion, and salt and pepper to taste.

Cover the heart with water and simmer until tender, or boil ten minutes and set in the fireless cooker for six or eight hours. Remove from the water about one-half hour before serving. Dredge with flour, pepper, and salt, or sprinkle with crumbs and bake until brown.

BRAISED BEEF, POT ROAST, AND BEEF A LA MODE.

The above names are given to dishes made from the less tender cuts of meat. They vary little either in composition or method of preparation. In all cases the meat is browned on the outside to increase the flavour and then cooked in a small amount of water in a closely covered kettle or other receptacle until tender. The flavour of the dish is secured by browning the meat and by the addition of the seasoning vegetables Many recipes suggest that the vegetables be removed before serving and the liquid be thickened. As the vegetables are usually extremely well seasoned by means of the browned fat and the extracts of the meat, it seems unfortunate not to serve them.

Of course, the kind, quality, and shape of the meat all play their part in the matter. Extra time is needed for meats with a good deal of sinew and tough fibres such as the tough steaks, shank cuts, etc., and naturally a fillet of beef, or a steak from a prime cut, will take less time than a thick piece from the shin. Such dishes require more time and perhaps more skill in their preparation, and may involve more expense for fuel than the more costly cuts, which, like chops or tender steaks, may be quickly cooked, but to the epicure, as well as to the average man, they are palatable when rightly prepared.

Backache Banished.

Thousands of men and women are suffering from weak, lame and aching backs, and many of them unable to do any work for the pain.

The stitches, twitches and twinges are bad enough and give enough misery, but, back of the backache, and the cause of it all are the disordered kidneys crying out in warning through the back.

Backache is kidney ache, and there's serious trouble ahead for you if you neglect it.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of backache by curing the sick kidneys that cause it.

Mrs. Jack Mason, Springhill, N.B., writes:—"I have been suffering from backache for a very long time. I tried everything and did everything, but still I would suffer. One day I was looking over your Almanac, and saw your advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got 5 boxes, and I am glad to say that they brought me back to life again, and from now on I will never be without them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

NEWSPAPER AS A PERSONALITY.

It might as well be admitted frankly that the newspaper is a personality rather than a common carrier of news; in fact, that it cannot be a common carrier of news because it would be swamped with its freight. All that can be expected of it is that it report the news honestly as a person of a certain attitude and viewpoint might—a pervasive and extended person, but still a person.

This conception of the newspaper may be verified in the experience of any reader.

One newspaper personally may be cynical, clever, frivolous; another coarse-grained, flashy, bluffing, with all the attributes of a confidence man; another sober, sedate, cultured, conservative; another breezy, entertaining, radical, delighting in new things. The news reports as well as the editorials of any newspaper will be determined in large measure by the sort of personality that it has developed.

INFORMATION LACKING.

Oh, why do women clothing wear
That makes them look like circus freaks?
Why pile their heads with foreign hair?
Why paint the lilies of their cheeks?
Why take the spoil of beast and bird
For vanity and outward show?
Why do they do these things absurd?
I do not know! I do not know!

Oh, why do cooks mess up good food
With sauces till the taste is lost?
Why are the haughty waiters rude
Until with coin their palms are crossed?
Why does each lovely woman smile
While bosses frown and cause us woe?
Why does luck miss me by a mile?
I do not know! I do not know!

Why do all men from sage to clown,
Find this old world is out of joint?
Why is all wisdom whittled down
An an interrogation point?
Why do some people glibly lie,
While others mourn that this is so?
Why should one seek to find out why?
I do not know! I do not know!

DRIVES STAPLES STRAIGHT

Tool of New Design for Wire Fence Erectors and Other Workmen

In the erection of wire fence it is generally necessary to drive a large number of staples and for the security of the fence it is desirable that the staples should be driven straight and accurately. Owing to the irregularities of the wooden posts and the strain of the fence wire, which is under a heavy tension when being erected, it is not always an easy matter to put the staples just where they are wanted to be of the most service.

TOOL FOR DRIVING STAPLES

The tool shown in the accompanying cut is designed to accomplish this. With its aid a great many more staples may be driven in a given time and they are driven in a much superior manner. Besides being a convenience to fence erectors there are other mechanics who will find use for this tool such as electficians, box makers, coopers and the like.

Strange Funerals Customs

Curious customs were observed at a funeral, at Ilford, of a Russian gipsy child, Mark Cedre. The boy was dressed in his best clothes, with a new red hat and shoes of the same color, to match, the shoes being beautifully embroidered and ornamented with brightly-colored beads. Each mourner placed silver and copper coins in the coffin, and the father put some bread and meat with the money. The father ceremoniously poured claret over the coffin before it was lowered into the grave. Afterwards more of the wine was sprinkled over the coffin. During the afternoon the ceremony of "trism" was observed, the mourners sitting round a fire and making incantations for the spirit of the departed. The first of a series of funeral feasts was held six days after the ceremony.

Luxurious Motor Cars

One of the most luxurious railway trains is that used by the Czar of Russia, which is a veritable palace on wheels, replete with every comfort and luxury. But, owing to the absence of railways, it cannot be used in certain parts of the Empire, and the Czar has some motor cars of exceptional dimensions for use in these districts. One car is for his personal use, and the second for his suite, while the third is completely equipped as a kitchen, with an alcohol stove, hot water reservoir, ice storage accommodation, a silver service for a dozen people, a folding table, and twelve chairs. The interior of the Czar's personal car can be converted into a comfortable bedroom.

Where Clocks Are Curiosities

Clocks are regarded as curiosities by many of the Hindus, and for this reason half-a-dozen or more timepieces are often found in the apartments of the wealthy Hindustanees. They are not used as timepieces, but simply for ornament, since the old-fashioned way of telling the hour in India, by calculating the number of bamboo lengths the sun has travelled above the horizon, is entirely satisfactory to the natives.

It is said that in the country police stations in India, where the European division of the hours is observed, time is measured by placing in a tub of water a copper pot in which a small hole has been bored. It is supposed that it will take one hour for the water to leak into the pot so as to fill it and sink it. When the policeman sees that the pot has disappeared he strikes the hour on a bell-like gong. If he is smoking or dozing the copper pot may have disappeared several minutes before he discovers the fact, but the hour is when he strikes the gong.

JAPANESE RECIPES

Japanese folklore contains some very strange recipes.

To make a husband and wife live in harmony, take the leg bones of a pigeon that was cooked on the fifth day of the fifth month, put them in red bags and hang them, one on the man's left arm and the other on the woman's right. Perfect love and harmonious living will be the result.

To cure a wife of envy and jealousy, feed her on boiled nightingales. Undutiful conduct in a child may be cured by plastering the kitchen furnace with a mixture of earth and liver.

To become beautiful in a week, crush a wild gourd and dissolve it in water in which red ochre has been mixed. Apply every night, and wash off in the morning.

To cure intemperance, mix with the food dew taken from the stump of a bamboo plant early in the morning. Do this for seven days, and the patient will suddenly take a dislike for strong drink.

AFRICA'S DIAMONDS

First Stone Was Used as a Plaything by Boer Children

The first diamond discovered in Griqualand, South Africa, was found by the children of a Dutch farmer, who for time used it as a plaything. The stone was sent to Capetown, where its true nature as a diamond was recognized, and it was subsequently forwarded to the Paris Exposition, where it was sold for $2,500. This valuable discovery soon led to other researches, and diamonds were unearthed in various places in Griqualand West, with the result that in October 27, 1871, the country of the Griquas, a mixed race sprung from Dutch settlers and native women, was formally annexed by Great Britain. Diamond hunting was at first confined to the banks of the Vaal River, but in the year of the British occupation mines were opened in the locality known as the dry diggings, which has since received the name of Kimberley. In 1872 the world was startled by the discovery of the Stewart diamond of 288¾ carats. The daily output of the consolidated mines at Kimberley is now valued at $1,100,000.

STAFF AND ALMANAC

Walking Stick Served Dual Purpose For Pilgrims

One does not look to one's walking stick to tell the date, but earlier sticks often combined the functions of almanacs and staffs. For our first almanacs were simply "the courses of the moones of the whole year engraved upon sticks," and those who went on distant pilgrimages soon saw the advantage of turning the heads of their staffs into almanacs. Their sticks were at once props and guides to assist them in arriving at the recognized assembling places of pilgrims at the correct time.

The walking stick, says a writer, is certainly not for the strenuous record-breaking walker but for the ordinary pedestrian, whose main object is seeing nature and breathing fresh air. Used in the proper way the stick is both a companion and a comforter. It is a real aid in hilly country, and on level ground is not a burden. It is also a panacea for tiredness, having a magic effect if carried for a time through the arms across the back. "Gird up thy loins and take thy staff in hand" is as good advice now as it was in Old Testament times.

Accidents to Miners

Although there is an increase in the number of deaths from accidents in coal mines now, as compared with a few years ago, the death rate per 1,000 persons employed, says the chief inspector of mines in Great Britain in his annual report is lower now than it ever was.

It All Depends on the Liver

So important is the liver and so great is its influence on the other vital organs of the body that it may be said you have little to fear from the ordinary ills of life so long as the liver is in healthful working order. The digestive processes are so dependent on free action of the liver that any derangement of this organ soon brings trouble.

Biliousness and constipation follow, with headache and depressed spirits. Additional work is thrown on the kidneys and soon the whole eliminating system is deranged and the blood carries poisons through the body. Careful eating is a great help towards keeping the liver right, but when it does get wrong there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to restore the liver to healthful action.

With the secretion of bile by the liver, constipation and biliousness are cured, and the digestive and excretary systems are set in order. It is wondrful the benefit obtained by a few doses of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills under these circumstances. A trial will convince you of their superior merit.

Woman's Danger Signals

SURE REMEDY.

A traveller called at a roadside inn in Cheshire for refreshment and rest.

"Bring me a quart of beer," he said, "and a bit of bread and cheese."

They were brought to him.

"What is the damage, landlord?"

"Eighteenpence," was the reply of the innkeeper, who was a greedy, grasping man.

While the traveller was enjoying his repast the landlord happened to complain about being pestered with rats, and the havoc they caused.

Said the traveller:

"I can tell you how you can get rid of them."

"I should be grateful to you if you would," replied the landlord.

"Oh, it's easy enough," said the traveller. "First catch one alive; give him a quart of beer and a bit of bread and cheese, charge him eighteenpence, and then let him loose among the others. He'll tell his pals, and you'll never be plagued with rats again."

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG. CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has ben so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arirving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

OUR BODIES ARE GOD'S TEMPLES

BE FILLED WITH THE SPIRIT

The Unregenerate—Their Privileges —"If the Spirit of God Dwell In You" — Greater Privileges — Greater Responsibilities—Greater Honors and Glories—Saved to Human Perfection — Saved to Spirit Perfection—Earthly Glory —Heavenly Glory.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

New York City, Jan. 11.—Pastor Russell preached twice here today in the handsome Auditorium of the new City Temple to a highly appreciative audience from the following text: "If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are."—1 Corinthians 3:17.

The Pastor declared that this Scripture could not be applied indiscriminately, with the same force, to all men. Only the Church are temples of God in the sense the Apostle here mentions; for only such as have been regenerated, begotten again by the Holy Spirit, are the sons of God. These have received a new life, and are Scripturally described as "New Creatures in Christ Jesus." To these, "Old things have passed away, and all things have become new." These have entered into a covenant with God through the merit of Jesus, who serves them as Advocate, imputing His righteousness to them, justifying them freely from their unintentional imperfections and weaknesses. Because they are thus justified by faith, God has accepted their sacrifice of earthly hopes and interests, and has made them New Creatures by begetting them with the Holy Spirit.

This, however, is only the beginning of their new experience. If faithful, they will still loyally comply with their Covenant of Sacrifice, and count no experience too hard in their endeavor to so live as to glorify God in their bodies and spirits, which are His. They will count it all joy when they pass through fiery trials, esteeming all things but loss and dross in comparison with the rewards which God has promised them. They follow their Redeemer through evil report, as well as through good report, seeking to walk in His steps. These, as New Creatures, are said to dwell in, or inhabit, the earthly body, using it merely as a servant in the doing of the will of God.

The distinction between these New Creatures, spirit-begotten, and the remainder of mankind (however just and well-intentioned) is very decided. We do not speak of humanity ordinarily, as apart from their bodies; for cut off from the body, they would be dead. We speak of such separation as dissolution. As the union of life (vitality) with organism (body) forms the soul, or sentient being, so the separating of these two components causes the soul to cease. Thus death would be the end of humanity, had not God provided for the redemption of our race, and its restitution by resurrection. Its restitution will be merely a bringing back of that which death is now destroying; viz., human or earthly being.

Whoever realizes the majesty of God's work in human creation should also realize that anything done, either deliberately or carelessly, to injure God's workmanship would be sin, whether the injury be toward his own body—himself—or toward another. There is a Divine Law to the effect that whosoever sins must suffer. Whosoever would defile his body, either by impure thoughts, angry thoughts, malicious thoughts, or by misusing it contrary to Divine arrangement, or by drinking, or by gluttony, is defiling himself, the temple or his soul, or being—the work of God. Every vile thought or act, every pandering to selfish appetite, is sure to bring automatically depravity of body or mind or both; and depravity is the process of death at work. And unless such depravity, or death, be overcome through Christ, the end thereof will be everlasting death. "The soul that sinneth it shall die."—Ezekiel 18:4, 20.

The same principle applies to all who would do evil to others, either by poisoning their minds or their morals, or by injuring their physical systems. Such a one would be doing violence to the work of God. He would be degrading his own manhood. The operation of Divine Law would surely bring him punishments, and these unheeded would ultimately bring death—"everlasting destruction."

We may warn every man along the broad, general line of the Bible. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." He that sows to the flesh—to sin, to selfishness, to meanness, to the fallen propensities, to anger, malice, envy, hatred, strife, evil speaking, etc.—will be sure to reap correspondingly bitter experiences; and this way persisted in would finally bring him to the Second Death. God has no gift of eternal life or other eternal favors for those who love sin. His mercies are provided for those who have learned the lesson and have turned from sin and become loyal and obedient to their Creator.

St. Paul tells exactly what he refers to by this term, "temple of God," saying, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" In the Wilderness, when God entered into covenant relationship with the Israelites, becoming their God and accepting them as His people under the Law Covenant, He manifested Himself in the most Holy of their Tabernacle. The Divine presence was indicated by a great light called the Shekinah Glory, which shone out from between the Cherubim covering the Mercy Seat.

When the Israelites would draw near to God, they did so through His appointed servants, Aaron and his sons. These had access to God's presence. The Tabernacle was therefore the temple of God, because God was represented by His Spirit, or Power, or Presence, there. But it was called the Tabernacle because it was merely a tent, in contrast with the permanent building erected later by King Solomon. After its dedication, God appeared in that Temple instead of in the Tabernacle, and His presence was manifested in the same manner.

The Church is the antitypical Temple of God; but, as St Peter points out, it as a Temple is not yet constructed. (1 Peter 2:4-6.) Each consecrated child of God, begotten of the Holy Spirit, is a living stone in preparation for a place in the glorious Temple of God, soon to be constructed. These living stones are God's workmanship. He works in them by the Spirit of Truth; and by His providence He shapes them, polishes them, develops their characters, and makes them ready for the coming building. Nevertheless, this Master-workman always recognizes the free will of His people. He works in them only as much as they are willing to let Him work, only in harmony with their prayers to be filled with His Spirit.

Some indeed draw back entirely. They are at liberty to draw back unto perdition; or, as many do, they are at liberty to draw back from the full preparation for the Kingdom and the Temple, to hold back from the chiselings and polishings, so as to be unfit for a place in the Temple. As long as they do not draw back in heart, however, but remain loyal to the Lord, they will get a blessing, even though they miss the chief blessing. This the Apostle shows in the preceding context, saying, "If any man's work abide, * * * he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved, so as by fire"—because he has built upon the Rock.

According to St. Peter's picture, the living stones for the Temple are merely chiseled and polished during their earthly life; and not until the resurrection will these living stones come together as the Temple of God, to be fully indwelt by His Holy Spirit. Hence St. Paul was speaking merely of our earthly bodies as temples of the Holy Spirit. In other words, he was calling our fleshly tabernacles temples. So in another place he declared, "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened; not that we would be unclothed (without a tabernacle, or body), but that we would be clothed upon"—with our Heavenly house or spiritual bodies, which God has promised in the resurrection.

St. Paul's thought appears to be that wherever God may dwell is necessarily holy—His temple or His tabernacle; and that any willful or intentional deliberateness in sin, depraving that temple or tabernacle would be an offense not only against it, but against God. Oh, if Christian people who have received the begetting of the Holy Spirit could but comprehend this lesson, we may be sure that it would have a powerful influence upon their lives!

Under Divine direction the stones and timbers for Solomon's temple were prepared before the work of constructing the temple began. We read that the whole building went together perfectly, without the sound of a hammer; i.e., there was no need to pound or chisel any part. Every stone was perfectly fitted for its place. This is very much the style of our modern construction. The huge stones in our great buildings are not chiseled on the spot, nor during the process of construction, but in the quarry, and then are crated and brought to the building site all ready to be placed.

God, the great Architect of the spiritual Temple, planned and directed that earthly temple's construction so as to make of it an illustration of the real Temple of God, the Church in glory. In our earthly experiences we receive the chiselings and polishings necessary to our various places in the glorious Temple about to be built. Whoever resists these chiselings, or by unfitness escapes them, will thereby just so surely escape being a member of the Church in glory. We cannot afford that loss. We must therefore gladly submit ourselves to the Divine providences which shape our lives, our destinies, and prepare us for the glorious things which God has in reservation for those that love Him.

The resurrection of the Church is in the Bible called the First Resurrection, or Chief Resurrection; for all those who will participate in it will experience an instantaneous change from earthly conditions—"changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye." Each one thus changed is thereby fitted, or built, into his place in the Temple of Glory. This resurrection work is due to begin at the Second Coming of Christ, when the dead in Christ shall rise first. (1 Thessalonians 4:16.) Thus a considerable number of living stones will be laid simultaneously to their places in glory.

Then will follow the change of the remaining members of the Church. As the Apostle explains, we which are alive and remain shall be changed. Each will be changed in an instant, not slowly; but all will not be changed in the same instant or moment. The processes will be gradually continue during the time called in the Bible the Harvest; and by the conclusion of the Harvest the last of these living stones will have passed beyond the veil, "changed." Then the Temple will be finished. The next step in the Divine program will be that which was typified by the glory of the Lord coming into Solomon's temple and filling it, after it had been completed.

In considering what may be the antitype of the filling of that temple with God's glory, we may not speak with too great positiveness. We may merely give our conjecture. We know that the resurrection change will give to each member of the Church class a personal glory; as it is written, "Sown in weakness, raised in power; sown in dishonor, raised in glory; sown an animal body, raised a spiritual body." But the glory filling Solomon's temple cannot seemingly refer to this personal glory. Rather, it must signify the honor which God will give to the Church and of which the Saviour spoke, saying that whosoever would confess Him before men, He would confess before the Father and before the holy angels. This would be the filling of the Church with the Divine glory.

Other Scriptures tell us that the Redeemer will present us blameless and irreprovable before the Father with exceeding joy. This will be glory for us! Having received the Saviour's "Well done"! to receive finally the Father's approval and by Him to be honored before the holy angels will be to fill the Church, the Temple of God, with Divine Glory. But perhaps still more than this is meant. Perhaps it means that when the Father shall receive the Church He will glorify her by communicating of His power, authority, to her, investing her, in association with the Lord Jesus, the Heavenly Bridegroom, with the Divine authority and power to take hold of the world's affairs for its rescue from sin and death, in connection with the binding of Satan for a thousand years and the blessing of all the families of the earth with the knowledge of the glory of God.

In everything God caused typical Israel to perform typical ceremonies, illustrative of various features of the Divine Plan. The Atonement Day sacrifices represented the "better sacrifices" of Jesus, our great High Priest. He first offered up Himself, at Jordan, finishing His work at Calvary. Begining at Pentecost, He has been offering up all those whom He accepts as members of His Body. The death of the last member of the Body of Christ, which is the Church, will mean the completion of the great High Priest's better sacrifices. It will mean the passing of all the members of His Body into death, according to the flesh, but into membership in the Body of the High Priest on the spirit plane, as spirit beings. It will mean that the High Priest complete will then be beyond the second veil.

As the first work of the typical priest beyond the veil on the Atonement Day was the sprinkling of the blood upon the Mercy Seat on behalf of all the people, so the antitype of this will mean the presentation to God of the merit of the better sacrifices of Christ on behalf of all the world of mankind. The type shows us that this merit will be acceptable. As then the high priest went forth from the Most Holy to the presence of the people, and lifted up his hands and blessed them, so this signifies that Christ and the Church will, after receiving the Father's blessing for mankind, go forth to bestow their blessings upon the whole world, during the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom—to take away the curse and to give, instead, the Divine blessing of Restitution of all things lost through Adam and redeemed by Jesus.

All through the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom God will be in His glorified Church, which will be therefore the glorious Temple of the Lord, from which will proceed to mankind all the blessings of instructions necessary for their full recovery to Divine favor. There will be no more atonement days, no more sin-offerings; for as St. Paul points out, the better sacrifices completely cancel sin. But there will be sacrifices; as it is written, "Then shall they offer whole burnt offerings upon Mine altar."

During Messiah's Kingdom the offerings of the people, which will be presented through the Church, the Temple, will be the offering, or devotion of themselves—their time, their talent, their influence, to be used in joyful service. Such consecration God is always pleased to receive. They will not be sin-offerings; for all the sin-offerings are accomplished in advance by the antitypical High Priest. His better sacrifices cover every feature of sin that is forgiveable at all. All wilful sins receive punishment in proportion to wilfulness—in proportion to knowledge and opportunity.

How glad we are to know of our privileges in connection with the glorious Temple which God is constructing! Oh, may we all as living stones submit ourselves, our wills, to God, to be finished in full conformity to His will! How glad we are that subsequently all mankind will have the privilege of approaching God through us—through this spiritual Temple, which is The Christ—Jesus the Head, and the Church the Body!

BAD BLOOD IS THE DIRECT CAUSE OF Pimples.

Pimples break out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them, unless you cleanse the blood of all of its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old, and reliable medicine has been in use for nearly forty years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other preparation for removing all the impurities from the blood and banishing the pimples.

Mr. Edward Paquette, Navan Centre, Ont., writes:—"One month ago my face was covered with pimples and a rash. I had tried a number of these so called blood purifiers with no avail. Seeing an almanac of yours in which you strongly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to try a bottle, and after I had taken it I could see a decided change, and after using three bottles more all the pimples had completely disappeared."

EUROPEAN TRAVELLERS

Statistics Show That Italians Make Fewest Railway Journeys

Comparative statistics of passenger traffic in the leading countries of the world show that England is the foremost and Italy is among the most backward in developing the "travel-habit." The average number of railway journeys made annually in Italy is only 1.71 per head of population, which compares with 22.82 in the United Kingdom, 14.26 in Belgium, 12.59 in Switzerland, 9.78 in Germany, 7.96 in France, and 3.55 in Austria. Coupled with the sparsity of travelers in Italy, what travel is done is mostly for short distances, 70 per cent. of the total number journeying less than 15 miles. The condition is regarded as so unsatisfactory, especially as preventing growth of a better feeling between the manufacturing north and the agricultural south, that the Italian Government has developed a policy of stimulating travel through a scale of fares, diminishing with distance.

The Cesarewitch

Cesarewitch by English-speaking people is pronounced more or less according to the taste and fancy of the pronouncer, though it is advisable not to strive after anything like the real Russian pronunciation "Cesare-Witch" is good enough for ordinary purposes. As to spelling, that of the race is fixed in a shape, fairly convenient for the Englishman, while if one wants to refer to the Czar's son one may spell pretty much as one pleases, with the certainty that any possible way has been done repeatedly. Modern Russians rarely use the term Czar, Czaritsa and Czarewitch, except in church prayers, preferring gosudar, gosudarynia and nasliednik.—London Chronicle.

CARVING CHESTNUTS

Realistic Imitation of Ivory From Very Ordinary Material

The Parisians have found a use for horse chestnuts which no one else seems to have thought of. Horse chestnut carving, in fact, is becoming quite the fashion in various parts of artistic Paris. One of the most expert workers in the new art is the Comte Jean de Berenger. With the countless little instruments—knives, scissors, brushes, pincers and other things—which are scattered about his worktable, he fashions from an uninspiring multitude of everyday horse chestnuts the most wonderful gallery of grotesque sculpture it is possible to imagine. The Comte gets his chestnuts from a special tree which grows on his estate in Normandy, close to the celebrated Abbaye de Junieges. Their only distinction is that they are of large size, and when divested of their outer brown envelope and carefully peeled become, when carved, to all intents and purposes very similar to the most beautiful smooth ivory.

Lord Chief Justice's Collar

One of the most important items of the costume of the Lord Chief Justice of Great Britain is the famous but mysterious "Collar of S. S." which he alone among the judges is privileged to wear. Antiquaries have racked their brains in vain to discover the signification of the S. S., which can be traced back to quite pagan times. The collar used at one time to descend from one Chief Justice to another. Lord Ellenborough, however, when he retired in 1818, insisted on retaining his, which Sir Matthew Hale had originally worn. Since then the tradition of the collar as an office loom has died out. The only other people to wear the collar are the Lord Mayor of London and some of the officers of Heralds' College.

A Large Briton

An English giant is Mr. Kempster, who stands 7 feet 2¼ inches in his socks, turns the scale at 322 pounds, and measures 50 inches round the chest. He can reach to a height of 12 feet 8 inches, and has no difficulty in lighting a pipe or cigarette at a street lamp.

His hands measure 11 inches from the wrist to the tips of his fingers, and he claims to have a longer span with one hand than any man in the world. He can cover sixteen keys of a piano with ease, and span 3 feet 2 inches with his arms.

His father is 6 feet in height, but his mother is only 5 feet 4 inches. He, of course, has to be provided with a special bed, and has to bend his head to pass through the average doorway.

Remains of the Banquet

It used to be customary to divide the turtle soup which was unconsumed at the Lord Mayor's banquet among the poor on the following day, but experience showed that its value was unappreciated by the recipients, and that half the soup was poured into the Guildhall yard within a quarter of an hour of the distribution.

When the soup was last distributed its value was estimated at $340, but as its merits were lost on the poor recipients, the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs' committee decided to substitute cooked joints.

Reading to Workmen

In a Toronto cigar factory where nearly all of the thirty-five cigar makers are Cubans, a curious custom is observed—that of having a man read aloud all day long to the workers. He reads the daily newspapers in the mornings and usually a novel in the afternoon. The firm pays his salary and is glad to do it for it makes the men contented and does not interfere with their work which goes on quite as well when their thoughts are miles away from it. In Cuba nearly all the cigar factories employ readers.

TWO OLD SAILORS.

Why One of Them Ignored Executive Officer Dewey's Commands.

In his autobiography George Dewey, the hero of Manila bay, records that Farragut's methods were always simple. There was a saying that his principal place for filing papers was his coat pocket. Generally he wrote his orders himself, perhaps with his knee or the ship's rail as a rest. The author recalls that one day when he was writing he looked up and said: "Now, how in the devil do you spell Appalachicola? Some of these educated young fellows from Annapolis must know." The author continues:

"A man who had such an important command could hardly have been more democratic. One night I had given orders for a thorough cleaning of the ship the next morning. I was awake very early, for it was stiflingly hot. Five o'clock came, and I heard no sound of the holystones on the deck, so I went above to find out why my orders were not obeyed, and my frame of mind for the moment was entirely that of the disciplinarian. There was no activity at all on deck. I looked around for the officer of the deck. He was an old New England whaler, brown as a buccaneer, who had enlisted for the war from the merchant service. I recollect that he wore small gold rings in his ears, a custom with some of the old fashioned merchant sailors who had traveled the world over. I found him seated up in the hammock netting, where it was cool, with Farragut at his side.

"'Why aren't you cleaning ship?' I asked.

"'I think I am to blame,' said Farragut, with his pleasant smile. 'We two veterans have been swapping yarns about sailing ship days.'

"The old whaler did not see how he could leave Farragut when Farragut wanted to talk, and inwardly perhaps he did not fail to enjoy his position as superior to the young executive officer's reprimands."

EARLY QUAKERESSES.

Mary Fisher the First to Be Publicly Flogged in England.

No feature of the early Quaker movement was so surprising to contemporary historians as the prominent part taken by women of all classes and positions in spreading its message. "They were not a whit behind the men," remarks one seventeenth century chronicler, "in courage or in contempt to material obstacles, inditing them not out of a womanly precipitancy and boldness, but upon a determinate advice * * * changing, as it were, their sex and being transmuted from women to men."

A staid matron named Elizabeth Hooton was the first to be "convinced" by Fox's teaching and became in the year 1649 the first woman preacher among the Quakers. Ann Downer, the young daughter of a clergyman, carried the message to London, gathering round her the nucleus of that Society of City Friends which grew to be the model and rallying ground for other towns and nations. Margaret, the wife of Judge Fell, was the "nursing mother" of the infant church—the center of all its activities, the helper and the ultimate appeal in all its distresses.

Mary Fisher, a servant girl from Yorkshire, heads the long list of heroic sufferers in England who were publicly flogged for their religion. She, too, with an older woman, was the pioneer who brought the Friends' doctrine to New England in 1656 and tasted the first fruits of the persecution which was meted out to her fellow believers, even to the extremes of mutilation and death, by those who were themselves the survivors of the Mayflower.—Mabel R. Brailsford in Englishwoman.

Artificial Flies.

Dame Juliana Berners, prioress of the nunnery of Sopwell, near St. Albans, Eng., was the author of the first book on angling in the English language, printed in 1496. She gives a list of twelve flies, and now, after a lapse of more than four centuries, artificial flies constructed after her formulas would prove as successful as any of the up-to-date creations.

RECOVERY OF FAMOUS PAINTING ✵ ROMANCE IN LIFE OF WAR NURSE

SOCIAL YEAR IN LONDON QUITE DULL, BUT THERE ARE BRIGHT PROSPECTS

For Many and Various Reasons Society Was Not as Lively as Usual in 1913, but 1914, It Is Now Predicted, Will Make Up for the Gayeties That Were Omitted.

SOME OF THE BIGGER EVENTS OF THE YEAR

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

LONDON now has quite recovered from the Christmas and New Year's festivities and the streets have resumed a more normal appearance. From a social viewpoint London never was more deserted at this time of year, and this is particularly noticeable at the theatres and restaurants, where well known persons are conspicuous by their absence.

As usual at this time of year Lord and Lady Clifford of Chudleigh are organizing the amateur theatricals which occur at their pretty little theatre at Ugbrooke Park, which they built a few years ago. This year the comic opera "The Duchess of Dantzic" will be played, many leading society amateurs taking part, including Lord and Lady Clifford of Chudleigh themselves. Fortunately there are no court functions fixed at the present time to be affected by the court mourning ordered for Queen Sophia of Sweden, and so far as general society is concerned the order is affecting it very little, as it is only on the occasion of meeting members of the royal family that mourning is required to be worn. During the period of court mourning members of the royal family can attend dinner parties, but not dances, as such functions are not permitted by court etiquette.

The The Dansant Club, which has been a great success at the Carlton Hotel, is to hold a second season at Claridge's Hotel, where a larger ballroom will make it possible to slightly increase the membership. At the first party, next Tuesday afternoon, one of the chief features of the season will be the introduction of new dances and the revival of old ones, such as the minuet and the pavane waltzes. Two-steps will be included in the programme, but no tangoes. An exclusive feature of the club will be the exhibition of reels and sword dances, accompanied by bagpipes.

Rather Dull Season.

From a social standpoint the year just closed cannot be said to have been a particularly eventful one. With the exception of the marriage of Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Duchess of Fife, in October, very few important weddings were solemnised. The season proper began later than usual, which undoubtedly was due to the fact that nowadays many persons leave England for the Riviera and other places abroad much later than they used to do.

One of the disappointing features of the year was that from various causes so very few great London houses were opened for entertainments. It is true there was a boy and girl dance at Devonshire House, but owing to the death of the Duke in Switzerland, Stafford House was closed, never to be opened again by the Leveson-Gower family.

Owing to the ill health of Lady Eileen Wellesley, the Duke and Duchess of Wellington did very little entertaining at Apsley House. Grosvenor House was practically closed, so was Londonderry House, with the exception of one reception given by the Marchioness of Londonderry early in the season. There was no ball at Chelsea House, Dorchester House, Bridgewater House, Spencer House or Lansdowne House. On the other hand, the Duchess of Portland, very late in the season, gave a small but brilliant ball at her residence, in Grosvenor square, which was attended by the King and Queen and nearly all the members of the royal family. The King and Queen also honored the Earl and Countess of Derby with their presence at a dinner and on another occasion at a dance at Derby House.

Some of the Events.

The Duchess of Norfolk gave a very enjoyable ball at Norfolk House, St. James Square, which also was attended by royalty. The Marchioness of Salisbury gave a ball at the beautiful house in Arlington street for the début of Lady Mary Cecil, which was attended by all the leaders of fashion, the Princess Royal and her two daughters being among the company.

The Duchess of Marlborough gave a small but delightful dance at Sunderland House, and the Duchess of Manchester also invited her friends to two small dances, one of them being a fancy dress affair, which was very amusing, and at which there was ragtime and tango dancing.

Wonderfully successful was the great ball given by Lady Naylor-Leyland at Hyde Park House, which was honored by the presence of six or seven members of the royal family.

Others giving balls and dances in the year included Lady Barrymore, Lady Leith of Fyvie and her daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Rosden Buru; Lady Inverclyde, the Hon. Mrs. Cecil Bingham, Lady Cooper and Mrs. Bischoffsheim.

With so many disappointments in the season society is pleased with the rosy forecasts of the coming early spring and summer season, for it is well known even now that there are many hostesses making inquiries about suitable dates on which to give balls and other entertainments, and it is also said that several new hostesses are to make an appearance and many débutantes are to be presented, in whose honor entertainments are being organized.

Among the number are daughters of the Duchess of Devonshire, the Duchess of Abercorn and Lady Evelyn Cotterell Sylvia, the eldest daughter of the last named, who has been completing her education in Paris, is to be presented at one of the spring courts. Her grandfather, the Duke of Richmond, has promised to give a ball for the event.

In the immediate future there are the Three Arts Club's fancy dress ball at Covent Garden Opera House on January 22, and a few weeks later the great Chelsea Arts ball at the Albert Hall, which usually brings four thousand revellers together.

Then there is the five weeks' season of German opera at Covent Garden, when in addition to "Parsifal" will be heard "Tristan und Isolde," "Die Meistersinger," "Die Walküre" and "Joseph." The last opera is unknown here, but a great favorite on the Continent.

But there will be a division of interest, for from now onward to February 1, when pheasant and partridge shooting ends, the country house season will be in full swing, many being entertained throughout the month for the hunt and country balls which are unusually numerous this season.

Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, who passed Christmas at Sandringham with Queen Alexandra, are back in their residence, at Mount street, and busy with preparations for removal to Hutton Hall, Yorkshire. Prince Arthur's tenancy of this fine mansion began on New Year's Day, and the young couple are anxious to settle there soon, as the Prince's military duties with the Scots Greys at York claim his attention.

The King and Queen are expected to arrive at Windsor Castle on January 17 or 19. The thirteenth anniversary of the death of Queen Victoria will be observed on January 22, when the royal mausoleum at Frogmore will be open.

The yacht Sapphire, which the King of Greece bought from the Duke of Bedford, has been renamed the Golsea, and as soon as she is refitted completely will leave Southampton for Athens, where her royal owner will embark for short Mediterranean cruises before his coronation in May.

THE SOUL DIARY OF FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE REVEALED BY AUTHOR

Biographer of World-Famous War Nurse Tells of Her Affairs and Her Passional Nature—Why She Rejected Her Lover Is Also Made Known.

THE WOMEN WHO SHOULD NOT MARRY

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

WHY Florence Nightingale did not marry is revealed in a fascinating biography by Sir Edward Cook. In the breast of the "ministering angel," "The Lady with the Lamp," raged a conflict between the desire for love, home and children, and a passion for a life spent wholly in the pursuit of a moral ideal.

This moving self-revelation is shown in letters to her friends and entries in her diary. At the age of thirty, after she had formed one deep attachment, she renounced all ideas of marriage. She made this declaration on her birthday in her diary of 1850.

"I am 30, the age at which Christ began His mission. Now no more childish things, no more vain things, no more love, no more marriage. Now, Lord, let me only think of Thy will."

The name of the man who made such an impression on her heart that she half repented her choice of a single life is not given. He is spoken of as "the stranger." For some years he pressed his suit. Friends thought marriage with him promised every happiness, and by many it "might have been called brilliant." "Florence herself," says her biographer, was strongly drawn to her admirer. She had not come to this state of mind in hasty inclination. She was on her guard against any such temptation. Many years before in a letter to her "brother Jonathan," as she called Miss Hilary Bonham Carter, she had written:—

"It strikes me that in all the most unworldly poetry (both prose and verse) la passion qu'on appelle inclination is treated in a very extraordinary way. When one finds a comparative stranger becoming all of a sudden more essential to one than one's family (via flattery, in general, of one sort or another), one is content with saying to one's self, 'Oh! that's love,' instead of saying, 'How unjust and how blind this feeling is.' I wonder whether, if people were to examine, they would not find (whatever it may ripen to afterward) this feeling at first is generally begun by vanity or jealousy or self-love, and that what is very much to be guarded against, instead of submitted to, is the stranger's admiration (and I suppose everybody has been susceptible at one time of their lives) having more effect upon one than one's own family."

"In this case, however," continues the biographer, "the stranger's admiration had stood the test. She felt drawn to him, not by vanity or self-love, but because she admired his talents and because the more she saw of him the greater pleasure did she find in his society. She leaned more and more upon his sympathy. Yet, when the proposal first came she refused it, and when it was renewed she persisted.

"Then, it may be said, she cannot have been 'in love' with him. And in one sense that is, I suppose, quite true; for love, as the poets tell us, does not reason, and Florence Nightingale reasoned deeply over her case. But it is certain she felt at least as much affection as suffices to make half the marriages in the world. She turned away from the path to which she was strongly drawn in order to pursue her ideal. In one of the many pages of autobiographical notes which she preserved in relation to this episode in her life she thus explained her refusal to marry:—

"'I have an intellectual nature which requires satisfaction and that would find it in him. I have a passional nature which requires satisfaction, and that would find it in him. I have a moral, an active nature which requires satisfaction, and that would not find it in his life. I can hardly find satisfaction for any of my natures. Sometimes I think I will satisfy my passional nature at all events, because that will at least secure me from the evil of dreaming. But would it? I could be satisfied to spend a life with him combining our different powers in some great object. I would not satisfy this nature by spending a life with him in making society and arranging domestic things. • • • To be nailed to a continuation and exaggeration of my present life without hope of another would be intolerable to me. Voluntarily to put it out of my power ever to be able to seize the chance of forming for myself a true and rich life would seem to me like suicide.'

"Florence Nightingale was no vestal ascetic," says her biographer:—

"'I don't agree at all (she wrote in 1846) that a woman has no reason (if she does not care for any one else) for not marrying a good man who asks her, and I don't think Providence does either. I think He has as clearly marked out some to be single women as He has others to be wives, and has organized them accordingly for their vocation.

"'I think some have every reason for not marrying, and that for these it is much better to educate the children who are already in the world and can't be got out of it. The primitive church clearly thought so, too, and provided accordingly; and though no doubt the primitive church was in many matters an old woman, yet I think the experience of ages has proved her right in this.'

"'Death,' she wrote in her notebook in 1846, 'is often the gateway to the garden where we shall no longer hunger and thirst after real satisfaction. Marriage, on the contrary, is often an initiation into the miseries of that inexorable word "never," which does not deprive us, it is true, of what are their festivals the idle and inconsiderate call life,' but which brings in reality the end of our lives, and the chill of death with it.'

"If, as some may hold, she was not in love," writes the biographer, "yet she confessed to herself many of a lover's pangs, and there were moments when, as she met her admirer again, or as she thought of him, she was half inclined to repeat of her choice of the single life. • • • To have entered into a marriage which gave no sure promise of her ideal would have been, she felt, the suicide of a soul; yet, when she was called to choose between the two paths her present life was starvation."

See Rottenness in Westminster

Roof of Famous Hall Bored Through by Beetles and Repairs To Be Undertaken.

LONDON, January 10.
[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]

MANY American tourists in the Houses of Parliament this summer have been disappointed to find the famous Westminster Hall closed to their inspection, and have turned away wondering what all the elaborate scaffolding, a peep of which they could get from without, meant.

It means that examination of the wonderful roof built by Richard II., about 1389, with a view to strengthening the structure, has disclosed an amazing and quite unexpected state of rottenness. It has been discovered that beetles have been at work for the last five or six hundred years, and have bored cavities through some of the beams through which a man might creep. Consequently the elaborate scaffolding has been erected while experts discuss what is best to be done.

Meanwhile the scaffolding has called forth a letter from Mr. W. D. Caröe, a church architect, who says:—

"The voluminous and menacing scaffold now erected spells alarm in these wanton days of female unrest. A single match might end for all time any difference of opinion as to the condition of the timbers."

In reply, it is pointed out that the suggestion is most unfortunate, and would better have been left unsaid.

The front of Buckingham Palace is also under reconstruction this summer. The present dingy façade is to give way to one of white Portland stone, which will form the last part of the Queen Victoria memorial. It has been arranged to carry on the work with three shifts working night and day, except Sunday, and it is expected that the operation will be completed within three months.

WANT VACANT LAND FOR LONDON'S POOR

Effort to Procure Free Gardens Has Not Met the Enthusiasm Expected.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

THERE is an effort in London to make use of vacant land to provide vegetable gardens for the poor in the way that already has proved successful in cities in the United States.

According to an officer of the Vacant Land Cultivation Society, there are 14,000 acres of idle land within the metropolitan area, sufficient to supply gardens to 112,000 families.

So far the society has not met with a ready response to its request for making use of idle land, although it agrees to vacate at a week's notice, and to hold itself responsible for any damages that may be done. Out of its hundreds of acres of unused land the London County Council has lent to the society less than ten acres, but the Gas Light and Coke Company has donated a large plot at Canning Town.

It is said that in the case of several gardens granted the men using them have not only supplied their families with vegetables, but have made upward of $1.50 a week from sales of produce besides.

HARD COURT TENNIS GROWING IN FAVOR

Hundreds of Places Have Been Marked Out for Playing in Winter and by Night.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

HARD court tennis is evidently growing as a winter recreation. Grosvenor House, the stately town mansion of the Duke of Westminster, now boasts its own tennis court, the Duke, who is a tennis enthusiast, having had a hard court laid down in the grounds at the back of his house.

But the makers of hard courts have put down hundreds within the last few months. The day has gone by when tennis players were content to say farewell to the net at the end of September until the beginning of May. The perfection of the hard court has now robbed winter of its tedium for the enthusiast, and the covered-in court, rendered bright as daylight by electric lighting, has made tennis by night another winter vogue.

Mr. Sabelli, the secretary of the Lawn Tennis Association, says that the coming hard court season promises to be a very successful one. Tournaments will take place at Scarborough, Dulwich, Brooklands and Dovercourt among other places, and he is expecting a great many entries. Besides affording tennis players an opportunity of playing through the winter months the hard court serves another purpose, it is, so Mr. Sabelli says, a very good training ground, the brilliant style of the California players being attributed to the fact that they keep fit on the hard covered court when play is impossible in the open.

Duchess Works for Mrs. Cassidy

Distinguished Canvasser Makes Votes for Women's Municipal Society's Candidate.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

"COME in, mum!"

"Mum" is a tall, stately woman in rich furs who stands on the doorstep. Nestling in the fur on her breast is a little button in Wedgwood blue. "Mum" timidly enters.

"I've come," she says, in dulcet tones, "to ask if you'll vote for Mrs. Ellen Cassidy next Saturday."

"Oh, lor, mum, my ole man ain't at 'ome. Em'ly, 'tike that brat off the chair and let the lidy sit."

The Duchess of Marlborough negatives the suggestion that the "dear little thing" shall be disturbed on her account, and a Battersea mother is promptly won over to Mrs. Cassidy's side.

The Women's Municipal Society, which has been running a "Hands off" campaign in the teeth of male opposition, was founded by the Duchess. It is a "non-party" party, as the Duchess so persuasively explains. Neither conservative, liberal, socialist, suffragist nor anti-suffragist, it is simply a woman's party with the watchwords, "Reform—Progress!"

Its committee, canvassers, agent and poll clerks are all women. Men are forbidden to take any part in the contest in Church Ward—except to vote for Mrs. Cassidy. Mrs. Cassidy has been a poor law guardian in Battersea for ten years, and a school teacher for twenty-nine years. Sure that the four hundred women electors could be relied on to be loyal to their sex, because she had been round and talked to them all, she busied herself chiefly with the men who could not see why women should meddle with municipal affairs.

"Ah!" says the Duchess when "Bill" Hugging says as how his missus knows rather less about politics than his little finger, "we're not politicians. You see, my good man, you men have kind hearts, I know, but you don't understand the need of feeding little 'Willie' before school begins as we women do. You don't realize the importance of baths and washhouses ("Bill" sniggers) or of pulling down slum tenements and building nice little houses."

Bill' thinks he is an expert on all these subjects, but he doesn't like to be obstinate when a "real lidy" asks him a favor, and "Bill" goes down in the Duchess' book as a reluctant convert to Mrs. Cassidy.

"Peaceful picketing," says "Bill" as he turns on his heel, "simply isn't it."

INSURANCE FOR CLIMBERS.

(From the Alpine Post.)

The General Committee of the Swiss Alpine Club has passed a resolution making it obligatory for members of the association to insure themselves against mountaineering accidents. An arrangement has been made, for three years provisionally, with certain Swiss companies to insure climbers for 5,000 francs ($1,000) in case of death and for lesser sums in case of partial disablement, at a yearly premium of 2f. (40 cents). One-half of this yearly premium will be contributed by the Alpine Club (from its general funds), the remaining half must be paid by individual members.

Queen Mary Forbids Slashed Skirt; One Young Woman Defies Her

Edict Is Issued That Dressmakers to Fashion Must Consider the Gown Taboo, but a Well Known Debutante Says She Will Ignore the Order at Court Very Soon.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

A hint to the effect that Queen Mary will not tolerate anything in the nature of a "slashed" skirt at court has been passed around among leading court dressmakers. There is one débutante, however, the bearer of an extremely well known name, who, it is said, purposes to ignore this regulation at one of the early court receptions this year. She declares that she will wear whatever dress is then most in fashion, whether the skirt is "slashed" or otherwise; and those who know her best are quite aware that she will be as good as her word.

In the reign of Queen Victoria a certain young lady of some position in society did not make her usual appearance at court. Queen Victoria questioned her father as to the reason for her absence, and was bluntly told that the state of her health did not permit her to remain in draughty corridors and anterooms for indefinite periods until her turn came to be summoned to the presence. The Queen realised the truth of this and took the rare step of commanding the débutante to appear before her in private audience, in order that she might be formally received at court. The young lady, it may be added, became the present Marchioness of Crewe and her father was, and is, the Earl of Rosebery.

Queen Mary is passionately fond of flowers, and likes a bunch of Parma violets fastened to her furs. Pink roses, carnations and other flowers have been from time to time called her favorites, but the Queen has no particular favorite, she is fond of so many kinds. Thus for evening wear she likes orchids or lilies of the valley. For the exotic and rather conspicuous blooms she has no very great liking, with the exception possibly of Malmaisons.

It is now recognized as quite the proper thing to wear a boutonnière on the lapel of one's dress coat, and at the opera and other places where society foregathers more well known men have been seen wearing flowers than not. The fashion is recognized by the King, who himself usually wears a white flower in his dress coat.

The King's taste in flowers is rather different from that of his father. King Edward went in almost entirely for gardenias, and every day when he was in residence at Buckingham Palace two or three perfect specimens were placed in his room for his use. He would wear one in the morning and then change it for another in the evening.

On the other hand, King George loves variety. For evening wear, of course, a white flower is de rigueur, and His Majesty prefers a small white rose, a gardenia or even a dainty pink-and-white carnation. For morning and afternoon wear he is very partial to Parma violets, a small bunch of sweet peas or a small unopened rose.

LORD SANDWICH TO GIVE FANCY BALL

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

That Lord Sandwich intends to give a fancy dress ball at Hinchingbrooke during the first week in February is hailed with delight by people in the neighborhood. It is very seldom that Lord Sandwich, who is a bachelor, gives any private entertainment there, though only a few weeks ago he lent it for a display of art needlework, and last year it was the scene of a very successful pageant. It is understood that the ball is to be given for Miss Marjorie Bagot, the daughter of Mrs. Walter Bagot.

Lord Sandwich's heir presumptive is his brother, Admiral Victor Montagu, who is one of the best known sporting men about town. He married Lady Agneta Yorke, who was one of Queen Alexandra's bridesmaids, and their eldest son is Mr. George Montagu, who married Miss Alberta Sturges, of New York.

Society from time to time has strange fancies, and it is impossible to say what may or may not happen next. The latest idea is the beer and kipper supper, which is being served in the grill room of one of the best known restaurants in the West End. The fashion is not confined to the bohemian world alone, for quite well known people in society are nightly to be found ordering their kippers and beer. Kidneys and bacon and poached eggs served on anchovy toast also figure on the menu.

ENGLISH ARMY MEN SEEK BETTER BOXER

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

Military officers generally are very sore over the recent easy defeat of Bombardier Wells by Georges Carpentier, the French champion, at the National Sporting Club. Two of the most notable boxers the army has produced of recent years, Gunner Moir and Bombardier Wells, have failed signally when pitted against first class men.

There is now a scheme under consideration to discover the very best heavyweight boxers that the services possess and to prove conclusively that the army can really produce a champion. For this purpose it is proposed to hold a series of contests next year and to provide suitable prizes, together with the assurance that the man who can prove his skill may be encouraged and trained to better things. Plenty of money will be forthcoming for this purpose.

Slingsby Fight Moved to London

Legal Battle for Possession of Big Estate Will Be Fought in English Courts.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, January 10.

The news that a lawyer, seven witnesses and depositions containing more than a million words are now on their way from San Francisco to England in connection with what is known as the Slingsby legitimacy action brings nearer the trial of what will be one of the most romantic cases ever heard at the Law Courts.

During the last year there have been several interlocutory applications in regard to the case in the Chancery Division, and an appeal with regard to these proceedings came before the Court of Appeal, when the Master of the Rolls and his colleagues directed that the action be tried and the question of the legitimacy determined. The latest reports would seem to indicate that the case will be in the list for the next sittings. In any event the story that will be told will be a sensational one, rivalling in drama the efforts of most writers of fiction. On the issue will depend the succession to the vast Slingsby estates, near Knaresborough, Yorkshire.

The question raised is whether the child whose claim to the succession is about to be investigated is the son of Lieutenant Charles Henry Reynard Slingsby, R. N., or a child alleged to have been substituted at birth by his late wife.

Lieutenant Slingsby is the eldest son of the late Rev. Charles Slingsby Slingsby, of Scriven Park, Yorkshire. The boy whose legitimacy he seeks to establish is named "Teddy." This lad he believes to be his son, but other parties concerned in the succession assert that the late Mrs. Slingsby, his wife, gave birth at San Francisco to a stillborn child, and that "Teddy" is the child of another woman secretly introduced into the household. The matter has already been before the courts at San Francisco in the shape of the prosecution of a medical practitioner for making a false declaration of the birth certificate.

The Slingsby family in Yorkshire are of ancient lineage. They are descended from John de Slingsby, who died of wounds received at the Battle of Flodden, in 1512. Their records refer to a baronetcy conferred on the family and upon the person of a cavalier who ended his days on the scaffold on Tower Hill in 1658 for being concerned in a royalist plot. This baronetcy became extinct in 1687, when Sir Charles Slingsby, a famous fox hunter, was drowned with many other members of the York and Ainsty Hunt by the sinking of a ferryboat in which they were crossing the River Ure.

The estates passed to the sister and heir of the last baronet, and on her death to a cousin, the Rev. Charles Slingsby Atkinson, rector of Kirby Sigston, Northallerton, who adopted the name and arms of the old family. He also met his death while hunting with the same hunt as his predecessor had done a year ago.

Lieutenant Slingsby was married in California [illegible] and married a second time [illegible] Slingsby, a grandson of Mr. F. Slingsby.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE VIBRANT WIRE

BY SARA JOSEPHINE BAYLES.

In its niche in the hallway the telephone bell began to ring violently. It broke the dark silence of the place, and brought Miller, who was smoking in the dusk, out of his reverie with an angry start. He rose, took down the receiver, and gazed meditatively at the wallpaper.

"Hello," he said.

"Is this —— Madison?"

"Yes."

"Is this Mr. William Lindlay Miller?"

"It is." said Miller, "and his eyes lost their meditative stare. The voice was a woman's, and it was unusually sweet, with a soft magnetic quality that provoked an instant interest. At her next words Miller stiffened with surprise.

"It's really Billy! Billy Miller! Isn't it funny how easy it is to get you on the wire? Until now you've always seemed so far away—so absolutely unattainable."

Miller frowned. "Who is this?" he demanded sharply.

The voice rippled a little. "Of course you'd ask that, but I can't tell you because I'm no one you ever saw or even heard of. If we do unconventional things, we must be careful. Call me 'Nobody'—'Nobody of Nowhere.'"

There was a silence. Miller said nothing, because he was trying to think of something non-committal and could not.

Then—"What are you doing?" said the voice, guardedly.

"Looking up the number of the Bloomingdale Insane asylum."

"Nonsense!" There was another ripple of laughter. "Is any one there with you?"

"Only a dog, but he's very intelligent. Would you care to speak to him?"

"No; I'm coming around. I shall be there in a few moments. Good-by."

There was an unmistakable click. Miller grasped the telephone excitedly. "What!" he shouted. "Here, Central, don't cut me off. I want that person again. Be quick. You can't? Blame it, you—oh!"

Miller slammed the receiver into the rack. He sat down on a chair, and a brindled terrier came and sat in front of him, and thumped a stubby tail on the rug.

"Here's a mess," said Miller with a wry smile. "Fritz, a lady is coming to see us—an anonymous and uninvited lady. But she had a pretty voice."

He went back into the smoking room, where he straightened the magazines on the table and stacked the couch cushions in stiff man-fashion.

At 11 o'clock he threw all the cushions at Fritz, and cast himself upon the couch in disgust. The evening had been uneventful, and he could only conclude that someone had been trying to play a stupid and pointless joke.

On the third day after, which was a Sunday, Lokari, Miller's Japanese, woke him from his morning doze with a summons to the telephone. Miller went in his bathrobe—yawning.

"Hello," he said, crossly.

"Good morning, Billy."

Billy jumped.

"Of course you won't recognize me."

"I believe I've heard your voice once before."

"Oh, that is nice of you to remember. One's mind is often cloudy on Sunday morning, too. What do you think?"

"I believe you're a woman, so I'd best not tell you what I think," said Billy. "I suppose all this is some kind of a joke on me."

Then the voice suddenly became so troubled, so earnest, and so eloquent with a quickened pulse, that Billy leaned nearer the instrument.

"Oh, please don't think that," it pleaded. "If there is any joke about this, it is all on me and it's a very miserable joke at best. I can't tell you what it is, and please don't try to guess. Did you wait for me the other night?"

"I was home all the evening," said Billy, cautiously.

"And who came?"

"Nobody."

"Nobody?"

"Nobody at all."

There was a pause. "I said I was nobody," reminded the voice, gently.

Billy hung up the receiver with a slam and went back to bed. He tried to sleep but could not. "I said I was nobody," repeated the voice, insistently. "Stuff" growled Billy and turned on his other side.

This was the beginning of Billy Miller's courtship—a siege laid to his heart by an intangible, bodiless voice that said the most amazing things, and then clicked off into silence. It rang up every two or three days, sometimes in the morning and sometimes in the evening.

At first Billy was annoyed; later he became resigned, and then interested, so that at last he found himself listening eagerly for the telephone bell, and he cursed certain male friends who called him up and aroused vain expectations. He had relinquished the joke theory. It did not seem probable that anybody would persist in a joke for six weeks when there was no satisfaction to be gained. The owner of the voice told him that she had wanted to know him and could find no other way. Billy began to believe her, but he was not a vain man, and he wondered. He knew that these things happened to matinee idols and popular concert pianists, but he had never been any thing more noted than the captain of a college football team four years before.

At the end of three months Billy was in love. During some thirty-odd telephonic interviews he had discovered nothing concerning the unknown except that she cared enough for him to make him care ten times as much for her. Sometimes he wrestled wordily with "Central" and found that her calls had come from one of the hotels on the avenue or a pay station on the upper west side, but his knowledge did not help him at all. He felt that his position was ludricrous. She knew how he looked, knew where he lived, knew everything about him. He knew her voice—and that was all. He grew nervous and restless. He often flushed and started when a woman touched him in a crowd or he met the eyes of some girl passing along the street.

"I saw you to-day," she told him once as he stood glaring helplessly into the receiver. "You came out of your club and drove south in a cab. It was about 4 o'clock."

"Just about that," said Billy, with a miserable laugh. "Where were you?"

"Crossing the avenue half a block above."

"Will you be there to-morrow at the same hour?"

She gave the negative he expected. "You know I can't."

"I know you won't." he said bitterly.

Their interviews had of late lost the more impersonal tone that had existed in the beginning. There had been a time when the theatres, current events and even the weather had furnished a topic for conversation. Billy put such subjects aside now with angry impatience. He argued hotly for his rights, and at times there was something that sounded like tears in the voice at the other end of the wire.

Then the affair came to a crisis suddenly one day in early winter, almost a year after that first night when Billy had waited in vain for his unknown guest.

She had laughingly reproached him for not recognising her in passing.

"It was on Broadway," she said. "The girl was very pretty."

"My cousin," said Billy bluntly.

"She was too pretty for a cousin. I hated her."

"I hate her, too—at times. I hate everybody these days, because they're everywhere and you're nowhere."

"Of course; because I'm nobody — Nobody of Nowhere."

"Will you ever be Somebody of Somewhere?"

"No, never."

"Do you mean that?" he asked earnestly.

"Every letter of it, so please don't argue."

"I can't," he said, hopelessly. "You're too unreasonable and illogical."

"I'm not trying to be logical. I'm following my own instincts. I'll try to explain those, but you won't understand, because you're a man. Five years ago when you were in college I saw you for the first time. Someone told me your name and—and things about you. After that I saw you a number of times in different places. I wanted to know you, but I couldn't think of any way until one night this wicked old telephone tempted me. I was afraid at first and I thought and considered just what chance there was of my ever meeting you in the natural course of events. I decided that there was about one chance in a hundred, so I rang up your 'phone number and forfeited that chance. But ringing you up was an admission and I can't deny what it implied. Ah, Billy, can't you understand? I've made advances which only a man can make with any decency, and considering everything I shall never, never meet you face to face and say 'This is I.'"

"You will," said Billy suddenly. "You will meet me to-morrow at Dawson's Art Galleries."

"Not to-morrow, or ever."

"I have something to tell you."

"You must tell everything over the wire. I can't meet you."

"Very well. Are you listening?"

"Yes."

"Then it's just like this: You'll have to consider me some in this affair. Perhaps you never anticipated the present situation. You saw me, and you cared enough for what you saw to make advances, which, as you say, no girl should make. Well, I've only heard you; but I care enough now to be ready, as soon as you will let me, to make the most serious advance a man can make. Do you understand?"

"I—I don't know."

"Then I'll put in plainer. I've seen hundreds of girls, but I never wished to marry them. It's only since I've talked to you that I've cared to think what marriage might mean. I don't know who you are, where you are, or what you are, but I'm staking everything on what I believe you to be. now will you meet me to-morrow?"

"I can't," said the voice, faintly.

"To-morrow," repeated Billy.

"I can't—I can't."

"You must," he cried.

"Dear Billy, no, no, no." There was something that sounded like a sob, and then silence. Billy dashed the receiver at the instrument in helpless rage.

He pulled himself together with an effort, put on his coat and hat, and went out into the street. But at every step he felt that those unknown eyes might be following him, and once, when a girl looked at him over long, he turned and half spoke.

The following afternoon he went to Dawson's Galleries. Why he went, he could not have told, except he was moved as the drowning man is moved to grasp a straw. There he saw a girl in a big black hat, whose glance was softly impersonal. Billy looked at her and wondered. There was another woman who returned boldly his bright, questioning gaze, and Billy shuddered as he turned away.

"She can't be like that," he protested inwardly. "It isn't possible," and he thrilled suddenly at the memory of the voice with a sob in it.

"I'd stake my life in that voice," he thought, and looked again at the girl in the black hat. Suddenly he walked across to where she stood before a large painting. He leaned forward and looked keenly into her face.

"So you came after all," he said.

The girl retreated in genuine surprise. There was nothing in her clear brown eyes but startled displeasure.

"You're mistaken, I think," she said and turned her shoulder upon him.

Billy apologised and left the gallery with hot cheeks.

"It wasn't her voice," he told himself, "and I'll never try that again."

Late that night he left his club. The clock in the hall struck 12 as he closed his own door. His eye fell upon the telephone book lying on a table under the instrument, and the sight of it brought back all his trouble with a rush. He took it up, ruffling thin, closely lettered pages with an unhappy frown.

"I'd call up every number in the book if it would do any good," he said, thoughtfully, and was about to put it down again, when the bell began to vibrate close to his ear. He reached quickly for the receiver. He thought it too late to be she, but her voice came over the wire, clear and eager, and his face softened visibly.

"Billy!"

"Hello! I didn't suppose it could be you so late."

"I know. It must be midnight, but I—I wanted to speak to you."

"I wish you'd want to do something more than speak. I went to Dawson's this afternoon. Were you there?"

"No."

"I've been thinking things over ever since our talk last evening."

"Are you going to meet me?"

"No; I rang up to say 'good-by.'"

"What!"

"Good-by, with a capital I, Billy—for always."

"Without my ever knowing anything more about you?"

"I can't help it. I'm sorry, sorry that I ever called you up. I never thought that you'd take me seriously like this. But after what you said last night, we can't go on."

"But you can't end it now after a whole year of—of—"

"Oh what? Of nothing at all. You can't care for a mere voice. You'll soon forget all of it."

"I won't!" he cried savagely. "It isn't your voice I love. I know your whole personality. I can tell when you're sad or happy or sick or well You care too. You said so. If you ring off for always now, I'll believe for ever that you did this for a vile joke on a vulgar bet."

"You can't think that," she said gently, "when you remember some of the things I have said."

"Then I'll forget them."

"Very well; I suppose that is best. Say 'Good-by' Billy."

"No."

"Good-by."

"I'll find you if I have to dig up every paving stone in this blasted town."

"Good-by."

"I tell you I won't say 'Good-by.'"

There was no answer. He leaned tensely against the telephone, listening.

"Dear," he cried suddenly.

"Only the whirring of the wires sounded in his ears. He stood erect and hung up the receiver with a white face. In the small dark smoking room he began to pace the rug with nervous steps. He could not believe that she had rung off for the last time, yet he felt a chill fear that she had really done so. He flung himself upon the couch by the window and looked down upon the countless rooftops below, and the thousands of lights twinkling far uptown and west toward the river. He meditated on the vastness of the place and the number of lives in those deep, crowded streets. To search there for one nameless woman whom he had never seen—he laughed aloud at the thought. Three weeks passed, and to Billy each week was an eternity.

On an afternoon in January he stood in the lobby of one of the big hotels. He leaned against a pillar looking idly up the wide marble staircase. It was late in the afternoon, and the place was thronged with richly dressed men and women continually passing.

A slender figure came down the staircase, and paused at the bottom—the figure of a graceful, well-gowned girl, whose eyes, shining luminous through her heavy white veil rested upon Billy. He saw her hesitate a moment, then she crossed the lobby, passing so close that she touched his hand. Billy's fingers closed over something. He opened them and discovered a square of white pasteboard engraved in letters that flashed a woman's name upon his consciousness. It was not a name that he had ever known, but the single word written across in pencil was "Nobody."

He made a rush for the revolving doors through which she had gone.

An electric hansom stood against the curb. A girl, who had just entered it, leaned forward. He stepped in beside her, the doors closed, and the cab started forward into the crush of moving vehicles.

For a moment Billy sat motionless His heart beat fast and he heard the girl beside him catch her breath with a nervous sob. He twisted abruptly caught both her hands in one of his and, leaning forward, raised her veil The electric light fell full on her wide pleading eyes and trembling lips With a low satisfied laugh he leaned nearer.

"Thank God, you can't ring off," he said.

SIMILAR SENSATIONS

An amused expression floated over the features of Congressman R. Mann of Illinois the other night when the conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to pride. The congressman said he was reminded of an incident that happened in a rural community.

Recently a woman from the city, whose husband had just been appointed to an important political position, was motoring through the county, when she chanced to think of a farm where she was slightly acquainted and decided to stop for a glass of water fresh from the well.

The city woman was bubbling over with the joy of her husband's appointment, and in the short chat that she had with the farmer's wife she didn't miss the opportunity to further allude to it.

"Of course, Mrs. Jones," said the city woman, with a beautifully beaming smile, "you remember my husband. He has just been appointed to a splendid office, and you can't imagine how ecstatically delighted I am."

"Oh, yes, I can," was the prompt and rather jolting response of the farmer's wife, "I felt the same way when our pig won the first prize at the county fair."

The same steam engine has been pumping water out of a coal mine in England for more than 100 years.

What is claimed to be an unbreakable telephone receiver has a steel skeleton within the rubber covering.

Successful experiments in Honduras indicate that cotton may become an important production of that country.

TEETOTALISM IN GERMANY.

Germany seems really to be losing its liking for alcoholic beverages. Only a few days ago we heard about reduced beer consumption in the very stronghold of Germany's brewing industry, Munich. Now the German Central Society for Prevention of Alcoholism publishes some interesting figures about the number of organized teetotalers. Out of a total of 332,458 members of organisations which have total abstinence for a purpose by far the largest part (220,490) are members of religious organizations. Only 6,225 are members of students' organisations. As compared with last year, the grand total shows an increase of 87,421. Not included in these figures are any organisations that have only partial abstinence for their purpose. In connection with this matter another set of figures, published by the Imperial Statistical bureau, are of interest. They refer to the hop production of Germany. At present there are planted in various parts of Germany to hops, altogether 67,620 acres (67,416 in 1912). Bavaria is far ahead of all other states, with 43,600 acres. This year's total crop is estimated to yield 58,398 tons (113,099 tons in 1912).

Consumption Takes Hundreds of People

every day in the year and the deadly germs claim more victims in cities than in rural districts, due no doubt to the increased number of indoor workers in confining quarters and their lack of sunshine.

Tubercular germs always attack when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, overstrain, confining duties or any drain which has reduced the resistive forces of the body. But nature always provides a corrector and the best physicians emphasize that during changing climate our blood should be kept rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals; the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood—it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and upbuilds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption.

If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known; it builds energy and strength and is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug—every druggist has it.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Jeremiah Hallett, collector of customs at Guelph, died at the age of 71 years.

The G.T.R. freight office at Welland has been broken into again for the third time in less than a month.

A charter incorporating Swift Current as a city was signed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan in Regina on Saturday.

Five thousand three hundred and fourteen cattle shipped to Chicago from Calgary, Alta., averaged $7.50 per cwt., or $518,115.

Ten thousand Montreal tailors are working less than three days a week, according to a statement made at the union headquarters Saturday.

Lieut. Mery, a military aviator, while making a flight yesterday at Santiago de Chile from a height of 3,000 feet, was dashed to pieces.

That babies can be fed by dogs is the declaration made Saturday by Prof. Armand Gautier, an eminent member of the Institute of France.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurt, the militant suffragette, was released Saturday in a state of collapse from Holloway jail, where she has been a prisoner since Jan. 3.

Wright has opened negotiations by cable with the Italian navy to sell the rights in his hydroaeroplane with his new stabilizer, which is specially adapted to being carried aboard all war vessels.

Claims totalling $100,000 will be filed against the City of Montreal by fifty-one automobile owners whose cars were destroyed in the Auto Garage Co. fire on Dec. 29, when the city conduit was broken and there was no water in Montreal.

BLIZZARD FOLLOWS FLOOD.

Belgium Is Overtaken By a Destructive Snowstorm.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 12.—The thermometer dropped suddenly twenty degrees yesterday morning, converting the torrential rain into a stiff blizzard. Throughout Belgium the snow is many inches deep.

The people are beginning to realize the enormous losses caused by the flood. The subsidence of the Vesdre river has left a deep coating of mud over thousands of houses. Firemen everywhere are pumping out cellars and spraying disinfectants to prevent an epidemic.

Streets are strewn with the bodies of cattle, fowl, dogs and cats. The machinery in numerous mills and factories has practically been ruined, and this means a long suspension of operations and the prospect of great suffering among the industrial population, of whom many are homeless. In some places where the waters reached a height of eight feet in the principal streets the residents took refuge in the upper part of the houses and were rescued by boats.

Gives Up Politics

Sir Robert Bond Retires After Thirty-two Years

BLAMES THE COAKERITES

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 12.—Sir Robert Bond, the former Premier, announced last night his withdrawal from public life. In an open letter he gave as his reason alleged bad faith on the part of the Coakerites, otherwise known as the Fishermen's Union, which, with the Liberals, formed the opposition led by Sir Robert against Sir Edward Morris, the present Premier, in the general election last October.

After saying that he will abandon the leadership of the Opposition and resign his seat in the Legislature from the Twillingate district, Sir Robert adds:

"I will never be a party to allowing any organization representing one element in the community to gain control of public affairs to the exclusion of other interests, as is now the avowed policy of the Fishermen's Union."

Sir Robert Bond has long been one of the most prominent figures in the public life of Newfoundland. For many years he was Premier until the Liberal party was overthrown by the people's party, headed by Sir Edward Morris, who was once Attorney-General in Sir Robert's Cabinet.

The Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond was born in St. John's, Nfld., in 1857, and entered the Legislature in 1882, and became Speaker of the Assembly in 1884. He was made Colonial Secretary, with a seat in the Cabinet, in 1889.

The ex-Premier has been a prominent figure in international politics for many years.

STRIKERS UNDECIDED.

Big Rally at Cape Town Ends Without Any Decision.

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 12.—The situation with respect to the railway strike was more favorable last night. The mass meeting called by the council of trades federation was held in the market square and proved to be quite orderly. Martial law was not proclaimed and conditions were quiet both here and at Pretoria.

The Government appears to retain full control and the mass meeting at Cape Town was unable to agree to a resolution either for or against the strike.

The warrants for the arrest of Bain and Mason, the leaders of the trades federation have not yet been executed owing to the vigilance of their followers. Nine thousand persons attended the market square meeting. Not a single policeman or soldier was visible, although there were plenty secreted within the hall. Mason delivered a violent speech, but the other speakers counselled respect for the law.

FATHER NOLIN DEAD.

Widely Known Jesuit Priest Took Ill Just Before Mass.

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—Just as he was preparing to say mass at 7.30 yesterday morning at St. Michael's Hospital, Rev. Ambrose Nolin, S.J., a priest well-known to Roman Catholic churches in Ontario, took suddenly ill and died fifteen minutes later. Death was due to heart failure. Father Nolin, who stood 6 feet 2 inches, was 73 years of age.

Rev. Father Ambrose Nolin came to Toronto about three years ago from Waubaushene, Ont., where he had spent two years with his brother, Rev. Father P. Nolin, who has a church there.

Before he was relieved of active duty, 13 years ago, Father Nolin had charge of a church in Pembroke diocese.

All Taft's Suits Too Big.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—Losing weight has compelled former President Taft to have his garments modelled on less generous lines. Saturday he gave a local journeyman tailor an order for changes to be made in 35 pairs of trousers.

Mr. Taft has reduced his weight 30 pounds and his waist line has drawn in six inches, so that it now measures 42 inches. Mr. Taft stipulated that a reef should be taken in the waist of each pair of trousers, the fullness to be "gathered in" at both sides of the front. The tailor will also alter 35 coats and vests to conform to Mr. Taft's bodily measurements as a Yale professor.

The Delicacy of Baby's Skin

Cold Air, Rough Winds, Strong Soaps Often Bring on Chronic Eczema.

More beautiful than the rose is baby's skin when in health, and so delicate that it is susceptible to anything which irritates. For this reason baby's skin troubles are many, and frequently chronic itching eczema is developd.

Nothing can be better for baby's skin when irritated, than Dr. Chase's Ointment, and when eczema is developed you can apply this preparation with the knowledge that its wonderful record as a healer of the skin is due to the success it has proved in the cure of eczema.

The intense itching of eczema of the face and scalp is very hard for the little one to bear, and is a source of worry and anxiety to the mother. The itching parts are scratched, and nasty and coloured scars are formed. Eczema naturally becomes chronic and spreads over the body. You can positively control eczema and cure it by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. What is better still is to use this ointment for all chafing and irriation of the skin and prevent eczema from getting started.

NOTES OF THE FASHIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—In the trellised gardens at Delmonico's where men and women tea and dance in the afternoon between four and six-thirty o'clock, two women wore a black and velvet ribbon around the neck with a white net ruffle attached. It is a very attractive fashion.

When the wearer removed her coat in order that she might dance more comfortably one saw that she wore beneath it a loose blouse of white net with a flimsy lining of pink satin that did not extend over the shoulders. The ruffle was merely gathered and fastened to the tight band of velvet ribbon. At the exact back the lace was run with tiny silk wire to hold it up.

The middle of the front of this blouse was snugly pulled down to the waist line in order that the edges would be prevented from leaving the neck. Haven't you often been annoyed by that defect in the open front of your blouse? Try pulling it down tightly to the belt in the exact centre and keeping it there. This will make the neckfit better, keep the collar in the right position, and give the ruffle the proper flare. All of these features are faulty if you neglect that one precaution. The velvet dog collar is an invention of the last few months and it is used in different ways, each individual working it out to suit her method of dressing.

Ruffles That Lie Close.

All neck ruffles do not flare. There is one that is gathered to the top of the velvet collar and then falls closely over it. Net is used for it, and it does not extend across the front; it lacks fully two inches of meeting. Doucet invented this kind of collar, and brought it out again last autumn on the best looking theatre gown of the season. It was of black net and satin with a touch of white tulle. In this gown the collar was of black net hanging over a velvet collar; down the front were ruffles of black and white tulle.

There is a new kind of collar in linen which has a large following. It is one of the latest offerings of the winter and by that token, it is probable that spring and summer will see much of it. It has a picot or hemstitched finish and by reason of the starch employed it stands well away from the neck. Its distinguishing feature is the sharp points that go out from under the ears.

There are cuffs to match this collar, and both soil easily. There is no getting away from that Don't wear them unless you are sure of your laundress or your bank account. Buy, or make, one pair just to show you know what is the latest thing, but don't fancy that, because they are pretty, you will adopt them for the summer.

The insistent demand for the open neck in all kinds of weather has brought about this fashion of not meeting the high collars in front. It has made the boned, straight stock of other years look old-fashioned. Women have not given them up, but they must be of tulle so that they will be invisible. There is no perceptible finish at the top. The condition in a nutshell is that you must make every effort to appear as if you did not wear a collar. Tulle and invisible bones are great aids.

Many efforts have been made to oust the white net blouse from the wardrobe of the fashionable woman for what reason no one knows. It has been disastrously cheapened. One can buy these now at the lowest figure they have reached. The high-priced dressmakers advise a blouse of chiffon cloth, but the public remains true to net. And why not? If we want to wear filmy garments, surely we have our wish gratified in this fabric.

Jumping from blouses to gowns as one must do if one wants to get over ground in a short space, notice the manner of overskirt that is now worn. It is quite new, and it looked very well indeed when the wearer danced the slow complicated steps of the tango which calls for all the grace there is in one.

The material is leather brown duvetyn, so soft that it resembles velvet. The lower skirt is opened in front and back, at the middle, and the tunic is gathered to the waist under a band of fur. The unevenness of this drapery is startling at first sight, and then one likes it.

The blouse coat is gathered to an embroidered band of the fabric. The sleevs are unnecessarily long, one would say if one did not remember that it is fashionable to cover the hands.

Made Attack on Jews.

ODESSA, Jan. 12.—At Skartaheff, a populous suburb of Lods, a fanatical mob Saturday attacked the Jews and pillaged their shops and houses. Sixteen Jews and three Jewesses were severely injured. Troops who were summoned suppressed the disorders.

Monarchists Escape.

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 12.—Eight prominent Portuguese monarchists escaped during Friday night from the ancient fortress prison at Coimbra, where they were incarcerated on a charge of conspiracy.

The prisoners had found an old underground passage in the fortress and through it reached the court yard, where three soldiers were on guard, whom they beat off with stones when they tried to capture them. They then scaled the wall and escaped into the country.

Judge McDougall Hurt.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—While going to the court house Saturday morning Justice McDougall was struck by a rig when dismounting from a car and seriously injured. The judge's back and one hand were badly hurt. He was taken to the court house and to the chief justice's room, where a physician was called and the injuries were attended.

EXPLOSION IN MINE.

Twelve Men Are Killed In Disaster Near Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 12.—Twelve men—five whites and seven negroes—were killed in an explosion in the Rock Castle mine of the Davis Creek Coal Co., 35 miles south of Birmingham, in Tuscaloosa County, early yesterday. More than 200 men were at work in the mine when the explosion occurred. All but twelve got out of the workings before the after damp affected them seriously.

The dead: W. W. Quarles, foreman; Frank Tillery, blastman; Joe Boesnick, Phil Mancer, John Hoadley, miners; seven negroes.

Mine Foreman Quarles had gone into the mine only five minutes before the explosion to set up some brattices.

Rescue gangs were rushed from Birmingham as soon as news of the explosion reached here, but there was little for them to do when they reached the mine.

High Tide Submerges Village.

KOESLIN, Germany, Jan. 12.—A high tide submerged the village of Damkerort on the borders of Buckow Lake adjoining the Baltic Sea Friday night and the fate of its 100 inhabitants is unknown.

A heavy gale is blowing inshore and the waters have reached such an extraordinary height that only three roofs of the houses are to be seen in the village.

Troops have been sent from here to assist in the work of rescue.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Corn disappointed the bulls today and failed to climb. Speculative features were active, but merchandising call had dwindled almost to nothing. Trading in the pit closed easy, at the same as last night, to 3-8c up. Wheat finished a shade net higher, oats unchanged to 1-3c advance and provisions with a gain of 2 1-2c to 10c.

HON DAVID LAIRD SICK.

Indian Commissioner Has Grave Attack of Bronchitis.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Hon. David Laird, Indian commissioner, is seriously ill. He is suffering from bronchitis and fears are entertained for his recovery. He is 80 years of age.

Mr. Laird had much to do with the entry of Prince Edward Island into Confederation, and himself entered the House of Commons in 1873. He became Minister of the Interior in the Mackenzie administration, and in 1876 was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest Provinces. At the conclusion of his term of office he became editor of The Charlottetown Patriot, which he conducted until he was appointed to his present position.

People of Albania Starving.

VIENNA, Jan. 12.—Private letters from Aviona depict Albania as the prey of famine and anarchy. Owing to lack of money business is at a standstill. Exports have ceased and imports are so small that the people face absolute starvation. Flour and meat are at exorbitant prices, and other food can scarcely be obtained. The towns and villages are overrun with hordes of beggars, whose importunities are so threatening that they really amount to robbery.

Report on Thaw Soon.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The commission which will determine whether Harry K. Thaw's mental condition would make him a public menace if he were released on bail met here at the house of Dr. Morton Prince, one of the commissioner, Saturday. The proceedings were secret.

It is expected that the report of the commision will be submitted to Federal Judge Aldrich at Concord, N.H., within a few days.

Chinese Parliament Dissolved.

PEKIN, Jan. 12.—The Chinese Parliament, which has been practically non-existent for months, was definitely dissolved by proclamation yesterday, the administrative council having approved the proposal, purporting to emanate from Gen. Li Yuenheng, vice-president of the republic, and the military and civil governors of all the provinces last December, suggesting the termination of the Parliament.

The proclamation says that the Parliament "will be reconvoked in due course of time."

It is now intended that the administrative council shall draft a constitution.

Gray Hair Becomes Dark, Thick, Glossy

Try Grandmother's Old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

TO CARE FOR HOUSEKEEPER.

Woman Doctor Would Adopt Companion of 58 Years.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 12.—Dr. Arathena B. Drake of 35 G street, South Boston, has petitioned the probate court for the right to adopt her housekeeper, Miss Matilda Bailey, 58 years old, as her daughter. Miss Bailey has been in the employ of Dr. Drake, who is 84 years old, and the oldest woman physician in New England, for thirty-eight years.

Dr. Drake was a close friend of Wendell Phillips, Theodore Parker, Louisa M. Alcott, author of "Little Women," and of the latter's father.

"When my husband died," said Dr. Drake, last night, "Miss Bailey came to live with me. She has been a faithful companion. She has been a daughter to me. I want to show her that I appreciate her kindness. That is why I want her to be recognized as my legally adopted daughter. I want her to be a legal heir to all my property in case anything happens to me."

Girl Leaps From Aeroplane.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 12.—One of the two women passengers carried Friday by Glenn Martin, an aviator, stepped from his machine when it was 850 feet in the air. She reached the ground safely and demonstrated to Martin's satisfaction the practicability of a new aerial life preserver.

Spectators saw the girl, Miss Piny Broadwick, fall 75 feet like a shot. Then a parachute attachment on her shoulder unfolded and she descended gradually and with no apparent effort at balance.

RUN-DOWN FOR YEARS

Strength Restored by Vinol.

Strength and even life itself depends upon nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good the whole body suffers.

Mrs. C. W. Busby of Moundsville, W. Va., says: "For years I was in a weakened, run-down condition, and I could not find anything that would help me. Vinol was recommended, and I tried it. Before I finished the first bottle I was better. I continued its use and I am as well as ever. I have gotten several neighbours to take Vinol with the same result."

We know the great power of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, in building up all weakened, run-down persons, and for chronic coughs, colds and pulmonary trouble, and that is why we guarantee to return your money if it does not help you.

New Swiss President.

BERNE, Jan. 12.—Col. Dr. Arthur Hoffman, of St. Gall, was elected by the Federal Assembly, President of the Swiss confederation for the year of 1914. He received 180 votes out of 194 recorded.

The new President was born in 1867, and has been head of the Federal Military Department for the past two years. He is a member of the Democratic Radical Party, and has lately held the post of vice-president of the Federal Council.

"Damaged Goods" Hooted.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Jan. 12.—Richard Bennett, playing the leading role in "Damaged Goods" at the Apollo, was hooted off the stage Saturday night by gallery artists. He bore the running comment shouted from the third tier as long as he could and then, breaking off his line, turned to the tormentors and cried:

"I've gone through hell to produce this play and do not intend to have its effect spoiled by rowdyism."

Such a volley of shouts followed this remark that Bennett turned and fled.

The play was reviewed by municipal officials and recommended to the public.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD

Mr Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

MAYOR BULLER OUTLINES HIS POLICY AT INAUGURAL MEETING OF COUNCIL

Welcomes the New Aldermen and Points Out the Duties of the City Council—Moral Conditions Will Be Considered—A Heavy Programme.

WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

The inaugural meeting of the City Council was held this morning, when Mayor William Buller formally assumed the responsibilities of office. His initial appearance in the red plush chair marks the first impulse of the civic government for the year 1914. In his inaugural address, Mayor Buller welcomed the new members of the council board and declared his advocacy for a number of important civic improvements. Those present at the meeting besides the Mayor and ex-Mayor Bradburn, were Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Langford, Johnston, Green, Duffus, Gordon, Stratton, Duncan and Saunders. Ex-Mayor Bradburn occupied a seat to the left of Mayor Buller.

THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Buller, in his address to the council, said: Permit me to welcome you to your duties as members of this City Council for this year, and especially the members new to those duties, Aldermen Saunders and Stratton. I congratulate those members who, having sought re-election, were so heartily endorsed by the ratepayers and returned by such handsome majorities.

The duties of the council of a City of this size are always important, but this year we will have to attend to work of special importance, and I am sure that we will all give our best attention and our best judgment to the subjects that will come before us.

Works for the disposal of the sewage of the City will have to be constructed. The plans for these were partly prepared last year, and it will be necessary to have them completed as early as possible and passed upon and forwarded to the provincial authorities for their approval, so that the work may be proceeded with promptly. Great care will need to be exercised, both to construct a system that will be efficient and adequate and to keep the expenditure down to as low a figure as can be done and accomplish the necessary results.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC.

The Hydro-Electric scheme for the City, said Mayor Buller, must be carried forward to completion with the co-operation of the Hydro - Electric Commission. An application made to the County Judge for an order for possession of the Peterborough Light and Power Co.'s plant has not been decided, and the fact brought out in the proceedings that the Peterborough Light and Power Co. had purchased the Auburn Power Co.'s dam and power house after the City's legislation had been dealt with will need attention. Hydro-Electric power for light and power purposes must be obtained by the City as soon as possible, and the remaining action for this purpose taken.

The street paving contract let last year was not completed when weather conditions stopped the work for the season, and the work contracted for will be completed. It will be well at the same time to consider whether further work of this character should be undertaken this year, and what streets should next be paved.

Steps should be taken to secure extensions of the street railway. The ratepayers having decided that a bridge should not be built at Dalhousie Street at this time, a belt line across the river at that point cannot be constructed now, but other belts or extensions would be useful for the people and should be feasible for the company. This question might be taken up by the Railway Committee.

TO EXTEND WATERWORKS.

There are sections of the City that should have waterworks that are now without that service, declared the Mayor. The council will, no doubt, be ready and willing to co-operate with the Water Commissioners so far as we can to secure needed extensions of the mains.

The assessment, being the foundation for the collection of the bulk of the revenue of the City, including the moneys of the Board of Education and other bodies, is one of general interest and importance. Permit me to ask you to have immediate attention given to the question of the publication of the assessment roll. It seems to me that it should be feasible and not too expensive to have it published, and if so its publication will meet with general approval.

Sanitation is a subject of great importance, and while it is one that comes largely under the jurisdiction of the Board of Health, the council can assist in the work of securing cleanliness and pure food and other supplies, and arrangements might be made with the hospitals or the City Health Department for a free medical dispensary sufficiently organized to be of service to the people who need it and would be benefited by it.

BREAULT MISSED THE WARDENSHIP

Ex-Reeve of Norwood, Recently Defeated, Was Ripe for the Head of the County Council

HAD SERVED FOR YEARS

The first meeting of the County Council will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 27 at 2 p.m., and one of its first duties will be the appointment of a warden. It had been understood that Reeve Breault, of Norwood, was stated to direct the Council this year, but he was defeated by Mr. Squire. At the last meeting of the Council, when the time came for the last handclasps it was noticed that the other councillors pointedly spoke to Mr. Breault. "You'll be back now Archie" or "Don't fail to come back next year," were some of the remarks, and judging by the custom, it seemed that the ex-Reeve of Norwood was destined for the chair. He had been on the Council for years and had given excellent service. At any rate it is safe to say he was mighty close to the wardenship, and election day put him farther away than ever. Such is life.

Warden Garbutt has proved himself one of the best wardens that have occupied the chair. He may be re-elected, but there has been nothing even rumoured as to who will be chosen.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. W. DWYER

Stricken With Apoplectic Stroke at 6 O'clock Saturday Evening and Passed Away at 9

Mrs. Wilfred Dwyer, a well-known resident of East City, passed away with startling suddenness Saturday night. While attending to her housework at six o'clock she was stricken with an apoplectic stroke and in spite of medical attendance she succumbed to the disease at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Wilfred Dwyer, whose maiden name was Ellen Delaney, was born in Douro, but for the past fifteen years has resided in this City. She was a member of St. Peter's Church and was widely known and deservedly respected. The news of this tragically sudden death will come as a shock to a large number of friends.

She is survived by her mother and three brothers — Daniel of Douro, John of Dummer, and Thomas of Wisconsin, as well as three sisters, Mrs. Richard Condon of Regina, Mrs. J. Garvey of Otonabee; and Mrs. P. Dougherty of Otonabee.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock to St. Peter's Church and cemetery.

JUDGING OF SEEDS AND LIVE STOCK

The committee appointed to arrange details, re. the judging of seeds and live stock met at the Agricultural Office of the District Representative on Saturday. The dates fixed by the Department for, are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 2nd to 4th, and will be held in the Armouries. A public meeting will be held in the recreation room of the Armouries, with addresses by Prof. J. B. Reynold, of the O.A.C., Guelph, nd other local speakers, on the evening of the 3rd at 7:30 p.m.

The committee consists of Messrs. C. E. McDowell, C. E. Moore, A. McGregor, J. H. Garbutt, Allan Mann, Wm. Collins.

The stock judges of the occasion will be Messrs. W. J. Gardhouse, of Thistleton, and R. Harding, of Thornhill.

LARGEST TAX EVER COLLECTED

Examiner Special:

CONCORD, N.B., Jan. 12.—The State of New Hampshire received on Thursday from Josiah E. Fernald, the administrator of the estate of the Rev. Mary Baker Eddy, discover and founder of Christian Science, $116,791.92, the tax on the estate. This is the largest legacy tax ever collected by the State.

THE WEATHER

Sunday was the coldest day of the winter up to the present time, and 17 degrees below zero were marked as having been reached during the early hours. During the day the temperature moderated considerably, and 18 degrees above were reached. This morning's temperature was 5 degrees above, with a strong wind blowing.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES

Of the City Council Selected for the Year 1914

THE MAYOR'S GRANT

At the conclusion of the Council meeting this morning, adjournment was made to the committee room, where the selection of the standing committees for the year was proceeded with. Two of the largest committees, namely, the Board of Works and Fire, Water and Light, will be headed by Ald. Duncan and Ald. Green respectively, providing, of course, the Council endorse the report of the committee of the Whole Council, when that body meet this evening. Aldermen Duffus, Anderson, Gordon and Johnston will assume their old charge, while Ald. Langford will guide the destinies of the Property committee.

Standing Committees.

Following are the standing committees for the year:

Board of Works— Ald. Duncan, chairman; Ald. Johnston, Anderson, Green, Stratton, Duffus, McIntyre and Saunders.

Fire, Water and Light—Ald. Green, chairman; Ald. Gordon, Duffus, Anderson, Stratton and Saunders.

Manufacturers' (Railways and Franchises)—Ald. Duffus, chairman; Ald. Green, Stratton, McIntyre and Gordon.

Finance (Printing and Licenses) — Ald. Anderson, chairman; Ald. Duncan, Green, Langford and Johnston.

Property (Market, Building and Health)—Ald. Langford, chairman; Ald. McIntyre, Duncan, Saunders and Stratton.

Legal (Reception, Legislation and Joint with County) — Ald. Gordon, chairman; Ald. Duffus, Johnston, Saunders, and Langford.

Power — Ald. Johnston, chairman; Ald. Gordon, Duncan, Anderson and Langford.

Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade will be represented on the Manufacturers' committee by three members.

On motion of Aldermen Duncan and Duffus, the Mayor was authorized to send deputations to other places on City business when circumstances warrant. The expenses of such deputations will be paid by the City Treasurer on the certificate of the Mayor.

Mayor Buller will receive the usual grant of five hundred dollars. This will be paid in four quarterly instalments.

The City Council will meet this evening in regular session. The first meeting of the year under the leadership of Mayor Buller.

T. A. S. NOTES

St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society received communion in a body on Sunday morning at the 8 o'clock mass. The attendance was over 300 with Mr. Jas. Grisdale and John Ryan as marshals. Bishop O'Brien addressed the society making a strong plea for a larger membership. At the regular meeting in the afternoon fifteen new members were received and the new officers were installed. There was some discussion regarding a more extensive use of the gymnasium. Some of the members feel that it could be used more frequently, and it is likely that something will be done in this direction in the near future.

Sacred Heart Church.

The members of the Sacred Heart T.A.S. will attend the 8:30 mass in a body next Sunday. The pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien gave a brief but pithy discourse on the drink evil yesterday.

DEATH WAS DUE TO HEART FAILURE

Wm. Downer, of Mariposa, Died While at Work

The sudden death of Mr. Wm. Downer of Mariposa occurred at his own home about 11 o'clock on Friday morning, Jan. 9th. It appears that Mr. Downer and his son, Austin, had been engaged during the forenoon cutting and hauling wood from the bush, the deceased being in his usual good health. On coming home with a load about the noon hour both father and son jumped off the sleigh on entering the yard and the deceased dropped to the ground, death ensuing immediately. He was a man of broad views, a clever horseman and breeder of some of the choicest Clydesdales in Mariposa.

PRINCESS MARY AT SANDRINGHAM—A ROYAL HUNTSWOMAN—The West Norfolk Hunt met at Sandringham this year, the first time for twenty years that the meet has been held there, the last time being when the late King Edward, as Prince of Wales, was in residence. Princess Mary was among those present at the meet, as were also the King and Queen of Norway and Prince Orlaf. Princess Mary is becoming a very popular equestrienne.

TEMPERATURE WAS LOWEST OF SEASON

Thermometer Recorded Seventeen Degrees Below Zero on Sunday Morning

COLDER TO-NIGHT

The frost king swooped down upon Peterborough yesterday morning, and in fact all Canada, but the weather man says the same gentleman will hit harder to-night. The mercury in the official thermometer pulled itself down to 17 degrees below zero in the morning, but rose steadily after that until at 8 o'clock in the evening it reached the cipher mark. Mr. Frost, however, was just showing that leniency which has characterized all his actions since time for winter came, and it is forecasted that to-night will be the coldest of the season, beating out the record of last night by several degrees. The wind which blew from the southwest yesterday, is about to swing around and come from the northwest.

A Sunday by the Fire.

Peterborough, which yesterday arrayed itself in the heaviest furs or sat by the stove, was a Labrador compared with other cities. In Winnipeg the cold did not register more than 12 points below zero, while in Prince Albert 14 below was the registration. Qu-Appelle, however, was the coldest point in the western provinces. Every place in Manitoba and Saskatchewan was feeling the first real cold spell and in no instance did the temperature in either province get up above zero.

Ontario temperatures were similar to that recorded in Toronto, where it was five degrees above zero, and in some localities there were light snow flurries, which wil continue to-day, with Peterborough receiving its proper share. Eastern provinces were also receiving some cold weather, making the cold spell Dominion wide.

To the hockey enthusiasts and winter sport fiends the cold spell was welcome, but the man out of a job and with a vacant coal bin was not so warm in his reception. However, there is nothing to indicate that unusually cold or violent weather will be Canada's lot, but it seems that it will be just a little more seasonable.

ADVERTISING TOURNAMENT

Examiner Special:

PINEHURST, N.C., Jan. 12.—On the links of the Pinehurst Country Clug the nnual tournament of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests was opened to-day with a field of contestnts representing New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Baltimore and a number of other cities. The tournament will continue until Saturday, on which day the final rounds will be played.

GOT JUDGMENT FOR $150 AND COSTS OF CASE

Judge Huycke Gave His Pronouncement on the Heard-Touchburn Case To-day

PLAINTIFF WON CASE

His Honour Judge Huycke gave judgment this morning in the case of Heard vs. Touchbourn, awarding the plaintiff, Heard, $150.84, with interest on that sum from April 10th, 1913, and costs of the action. Mr. E. L. Goodwill represented the plaintiff and Mr. D. O'Connell for the defendant.

Mr. O'Connell asked for a stay of thirty days for the purpose of considering an appeal.

The case was heard on Dec. 15th last and judgment was reserved.

Origin of the Case.

The action was instituted by Rich. C. Heard, a local implement dealer, against Robt. Touchbourn, a Bridgenorth farmer, for the recovery of $150, under a covenant contained in an agreement between the plaintiff and defendant, on March 20th, 1913.

Early in 1912, Heard owned a property in Bridgenorth valued at $1,400. Touchbourn was living on his farm, lot 1, Con. 4, Emily, which was valued at $4,500, and upon which there was a mortgage for $3,000 held by Wm. Robinson.

Both parties listed their properties for sale with Arch. Beavis who was endeavouring to bring about an exchange. In February, 1912, an agreement was made between the two parties under which Heard was to assume the mortgage of $3,000 on the Emily property and Touchbourn was to pay Heard $150. The defendant claimed that the agreement was not rendered to writing and did not represent the whole bargain as the true agreement, which plaintiff denied.

Would Pay Interest.

At a subsequent meeting in Bennet and Goodwill's office Touchburn stated that he desired to retain possession of his farm until the fall of that year and to retain his crop. This was agreed to on condition that the defendant would pay the taxes and the interest on the Robinson mortgage until March 1, 1913.

Early in March, 1912, Mr. Beavis called upon the defendant for the $150, "bond" money which was to have been paid by promissory note, but the defendant refused to sign the notes until he received his deed. Mr. Beavis drew up the notes and left them with Mr. Touchburn on the understanding that the defendant would sign them and send them to Beavis when he had received the deed.

About March 14th, 1912, Touchburn having received the deed, signed and mailed the promissory notes for the $150, and the commission to Mr. Beavis. The note he subsequently paid.

Sold the Farm.

In January, 1913, Heard sold the Emily farm to Mrs. E. H. Mann of Peterborough, subject to the $3,000 mortgage and undertook to protect the purchaser against the interest on the Robinson mortgage to March 1, 1913.

In that month the interest on the Robinson mortgage not having been paid, Heard requested Touchburn to pay it, and finally demanded that it be paid.

Heard Paid Interest.

About April 8, 1913, E. H. Mann made a demand on Heard for payment of interest, saying that Robinson was threatening a foreclosure. Heard thereupon notified Touchburn and not receiving any satisfaction, went to Omemee on April 26th, and paid the interest to Robinson, amounting to $150.84.

Heard then entered action against Touchbourn for the recovery of the said money and expenses instanced by him.

Judge Huycke held that the $150 mentioned in the first agreement was not the same money referred to in the second. His Honour ordered Touchburn to pay $150.84 with interest from April 10th, 1913, and the costs of the action.

WHITNEY MUST GIVE UP POLITICS IF HE WANTS TO SAVE LIFE

Present Crisis is Considered Past and Premier May be Removed to Toronto This Week.

THE LATEST BULLETIN

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The fact that he must give up politics with its hurly-burly if he desires to live, is being tactfully and gradually broken to Sir James Whitney by his physicians and friends. It is doubtful if he agrees that his political career is over, but on further improvement the full truth will be told him. A bulletin to-day indicated that the doctors thought the crisis had passed temporarily, and that his condition, though serious, is not at present critical. Arrangements are being made for the transference of the patient to Toronto, possibly this week.,

Less Favourable Now.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Monday, 1 p.m.—The condition of Sir James Whitney is again serious, after two days' steady improvement, which raised among his physicians, the hope that he could with safety be moved back to Toronto to-morrow. Another relapse supervened this morning and most of the good work has been undone. It is not believed, however, that his condition to-day is as dangerous as it was week ago. The doctors are very reticent about discussing the condition of their patient this morning. They have little to add to the official bulletin that "Sir James Whitney had a poor night and his condition this afternoon is less favourable."

THE BOARD OF HEALTH

Three Members Will be Appointed by the City Council This Evening

RETIRING MEMBERS

One of the duties that will devolve upon the City Council when they meet this evening, is the appointment of three members for the Board of Halth. This is in accordance with the new Provincial Act which empowers the Council to make three appointments each year. The Mayor and Medical Health Officer have representation on the Board, making a total membership of five. The members who retire this year are Messrs. James Murty, George Duncan and Dr. W. H. Young.

Annual Reports.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health was scheduled for to-morrow, but owing to the pending appointments it may be found necessary to postpone it for another week. The meeting will, in all probability, be favoured with the annual reports of Dr. McPherson, Medical Health Officer, and Sanitary Inspector Spence. The Act states that the first meeting of the year must be held before the first of February.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—Live Stock Market—Receipts higher, trade good, prices firm. Choice butchers', $8.70 to $8.90; good medium, $7.25 to $7.75; choice fat cows, $7.25 to $7.50. Calves and sheep steady. Spring lambs, $8.70 to $9.25; hogs fed and watered, $9 to $9.10; off cars, $9.25 to $9.35; f.o.b., $8.65 to $8.75.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES WERE SUCCESSFUL

The evangelistic services that were conducted last week by the Rev. Wilson Pugsly at the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, in Smith, were largely attended. Mr. Pugsley, during the past week, has given inspiring interpretations of the Bible, and those who drove from a distance to be present at the meetings were amply rewarded for their inconvenience. From a radius of six miles around, the Church members and others came to the services, and the Pastor of the Church, the Rev. Mr. McLaren, was very well pleased with the results of the meetings last week, which were a success from every standpoint.

The services will continue this week, concluding next Sunday. From the interest displayed in the meetings thus far and the splendid addresses already given by Mr. Pugsley, a large attendance and an inspiring message is looked forward to for every night this week.

COMMISSION MEN TO MEET

Examiner Special:

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 12.—Jacksonville is filled with delegates and visitors who have come from all sections of the country to attend the annual convention of the National League of Commission Men. The sessions of the convention will begin to-morrow and continue through the week.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Examiner Special:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 12. — Judge Thomas R. Freeman, general counsel for the Texas and Pacific Railroad and president of the International and Great Northern Railroad, was chosen president of the New Orleans Association of Commerce at the annual election of that body today. Edgar S. Stern was elected vice-president.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE BARBERS

The annual banquet of the local barbers will be held to-night in the Oriental Hotel. Instead of talking into the ears of their victims they will be forced to direct their volubility at one another. This will be subsequent to the big spread, however, which promises to be exceptionally good. Here is hoping the barbers have a big crowd and a big night.

PRETTY WIDOW EXACTS KISSES.

From All Who Seek to Enter New York Subway—Policeman Arrests Her.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Anna Brooks, a pretty widow, has been taken to Bellevue Hospital, because she exacted a toll of a kiss of persons entering the subway last night.

Mrs. Brooks stood at the subway entrance and denied admission to all who refused her a kiss. Many submitted gracefully, but an ungallant policeman resented payment of the toll, and placed the widow under arrest. She is under observation.

FOUR FOOT WIDE COFFIN NEEDED

For Burial of Six Hundred-Pound Weigh: Woman at Huntingdon, Indiana.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Jan. 12. — Mrs. Lillian Settlemeir, 58 years old, who weighed 600 pounds, died at her home near here yesterday of pneumonia. A special coffin, 44 inches wide and 28 inches deep, was required for the body, and it was necessary to enlarge the doorway before the coffin could be taken inside the house. A hay wagon will be used for a hearse at the funeral.

EXPLANATION WANTED.

In another column on this page is a letter from an elector asking Mr. Burnham, M.P., to explain why the fiscal policy of protection, which is guaranteed by its advocates to bring prosperity and plenty—of money and employment—does not protect, the countries to which it is applied, and especially this country.

It is something to be explained why in a highly protected country like the United States there should be a million of iron workers idle with a wage loss of fifty million dollars a month. These are the official figures of a responsible trade publication, and represent figures compiled from the returns of agents during the last ten days.

It is something to be explained why in a highly protected country like Canada there is such great and widespread unemployment; why in Toronto, the most prosperous and the most highly protectionist city in Canada, there are fifteen thousand unemployed; why in our golden west—in Winnipeg—there are armies of unemployed; why in other cities of the west there are bread riots, riots of the unemployed.

Whether these conditions are due, or not due, to protection, it is a fact that nothing like these conditions obtained during the fifteen years of the Laurier administration, during which we had rampant and practically unbroken prosperity—continuous and abundant employment at high wages. With the advent of a hightly protective government which gained office on the theory that international trade is a curse, and sky-high protection must be retained, we have trade depression, lessening revenue and,—inevitably, with a Conservative Government—immense increase of expenditure and big additions to the public debt. We have under the Conservative Government our first taste of hard times; the starving thousands of unemployed have the first taste of the soup kitchen, the first dole of unemployment charity.

Whether or not these conditions, in such striking contrast to the conditions of fifteen years previous, are related to the merits of free trade or a revenue tariff, or to protection, they are inimately related relatively, to good and bad administration; to careful, prudent, and effective administration, contrasted with, reckless, imprudent and extravagant administration.

Without arguing from first principles, and debating theories, the average elector, takes results as the measure of good government or bad government. With results as the touchstone, the elector is in a position to appraise the relative merits of the present Conservative Government and the Liberal Government it displaced. Causes and consequences, may form the subject of the explanation that is demanded of the powers that be, but no explanation is acceptable that will not explain away the facts.

FOSTER FEARED BY HIS FRIENDS

The Ottawa Citizen is rather too inclusive in this statement:

"It is universally regretted as unfortunate that Hon. G. E. Foster will be absent from Ottawa during the present session of Parliament."

Why is he absent? From one of two reasons. Either he holds his cabinet colleagues in contempt and refuses, or finds it impossible to work with such coterie of amateur statesman, and also refuses to accept the consequences of their maladministration of public affairs; or the controlling powers in the Borden cabinet, feel that they are outclassed by Mr. Foster's presence, overawing ability and ripe experience, and they find it easier to pack him off—out of the way—for he is not called away by any business that cannot very well wait till after the session or for that matter altogether. Circumstances point to the fact that Mr. Foster's absence is only an excuse. Nearly all the other members of the Borden cabinet, outside of Mr. Borden himself, are amateurs of little experience or ability. Hon. Geo. E. Foster, B.A., Ph.D., LLD., M.P., Minister of Trade and Commerce, is a veteran, with an experience, almost continuous, of over thirty years in Parliament, and several years in charge of the most important portfolio, that of Finance. He is by all odds the most brilliant and effective debater in the Conservative parliamentary ranks, and the one man whose debating power and eloquence are needed during a session of Parliament. Yet the backbone of the Borden government, and of the Conservative majority in parliament, as far as ability and experience are concerned, is bundled out of the country at the opening of every session, for no other apparent reason than this, that his presence would make his cabinet colleagues, to employ the language of the street, look like thirty cents.

SOMETHING FOR MR. BURNHAM TO EXPLAIN

A Correspondent Presents Some Facts and Figures

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—It would be a source of information to a number of your readers to know what has become of Mr. Burnham. Of course I mean the gentleman who is supposed to represent this important City in the Parliament of the Dominion.

In the closing days of the past year, 1913, Mr. Burnham proposed to give your readers the benefit of his opinion upon matters relating to the condition of things, not only at home, but abroad. The latter came in for a good share of attention and of course attempts made to show up all its imperfections as compared with the ideal system, such as in actual existence, here in the Dominion. But some one of your readers very quickly called attended to a portion of one of Mr. Burnham's statements that appeared in your issue of the 29th of December last. But up to this time I have not seen any attempt made to give your correspondent, ("Elector,") any proof of the statements made, and to which "Elector" called Mr. Burnham's attention.

Can it be that Mr. Burnham is not to be taken seriously in matters of this kind, or does he indulge occasionally at random by stating things which are the opposite of the truth, especially if it will serve the purpose of making his own particular form of government, etc., appear the better? If then, this be the case, surely Mr. Burnham has succeeded for once in making statements which are wholly unfounded, and neither does Mr. Burnham attempt to prove the same or have the manliness to correct the statements referred to. But unless I am very mistaken the time is fast approaching when the silence of our M. P. will be broken, and the Barrel public opinion will demand a record of the stewardship not only of the M. P. for Peterborough, but of the Government of which he is so consistent a supporter.

Why I make this statement, Mr. Editor, is because the columns of your paper to-day contain such a record that all citizens must be impressed with. On page one, I find this startling head line:

"Outlay Increases — Expenditure Six Times That of Revenue."

In the next column appears: "Iron Workers Idle."

And all this possible under a system of government known as "Protective Forms of Governments."

Surely then if free trade (so called) can and does enable England to pay her enormous increase of expenditure on armaments, provision for old age pension, state insurance, reducing the number of paupers by 50 per cent., reducing the national debt by millions of pounds; emigrants from the United Kingdom (Great Britain, Ireland, Scotland and Wales), show a decrease of 278,253 for the eleven months ending November, 1913, (Reynolds).

These statements are not made at random, but are facts already in history. And when the end of the financial years of protective countries are reached and the returns, complete, are available to the public, I shall feel grateful if you will allow me an opportunity of calling Mr. Burnham's attention to them and your readers will have actual proof of statements contained therein.

Another Elector.

COMMITTEE OF LOCAL DOCTORS WILL INVESTIGATE THE ACT

Respecting the Fumigation of Premises Wherein Tubercular Patients Are Confined---May Introduce an Amendment at the Next Session of the Legislature---Reports From the District Nurses.

A committee comprising the medical men of the 1914 Executive Committee of the Peterborough Health Association, and Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., were appointed at the annual meeting of the Association that was held Friday, to investigate the act respecting the fumigation of buildings wherein tubercular patients have been confined. The investigation may result in legislation being enacted to enforce compulsory periodical fumigation of houses where cases of tuberculosis are known to exist.

Dr. F. C. Neal said tht ordinary simple fumigation was of very little use in such cases. He advocated the complete renovation of houses so infected, and an amendment to the statutes, so as to make fumigation compulsory.

"That's a matter for Mr. Peck to take up," observed Mr. Bennet, President of the Association.

"Backed up by the Health Association," interjected Mr. Peck.

The reports of the two district nurses, Miss Edith Hamilton and Miss P. A. Mercier, which precipitated the question of fumigation contained the following:

General District Nurse.

The following is the report submitted by Miss Edith Hamilton, General District Nurse, to the Peterborough Health Association:

E. HAMILTON,
General District Nurse.

Miss Mercier's Report.

In submitting to you my report as District Nurse of the Peterborough Health Association for the past six months, I am pleased to state that much progress has been made in the care of tubercular patients and in the education of the people along preventative lines.

Since my appointment last July, I have had one hundred patients under my supervision and during that period I have made 945 visits.

A question that has frequently been asked, and one that has no doubt been uppermost in the minds of many citizens who are most interested in my work is, "How has the District Nurse been received in the homes of Peterborough?" The idea having been a new one as far as this City was concerned, the appointment of a nurse was looked upon with a somewhat skeptical eye. However, it affords me the greatest pleasure to tell you that the attitude of the public towards the nurse has been such as to be most encouraging and stimulates one to strive for even better results than heretofore.

Must Be On Guard.

When I commenced my work here, I was told that I would find conditions quite different from any that I had been accustomed to in other fields Wherever I have gone, I have met with kindness and consideration. Instructions and suggstions have always been heeded, and although in some instances not strictly adhered to in the manenr one would wish, the majority of people have done their best under trying circumstances. But there is yet much room for improvement. In spite of a ready willingness to do what one advises, there is often a tendency on the part of those in care of patients, to relax in the proper observance of preventative measures. Accordingly the nurse must ever be on the watch to guard against this slipping back into careless habits.

A Striking Example.

A striking example of this occurred only on Thursday. In calling on one of my patients, I was horrified to see the grandchild of an advanced case actually drinking out of the patient's glass, to the apparent amusement of the family.

In the home of another advanced case conditions were anything but favorable for a recovery. She was being cared for by an inebriate brother. The left overs from the patient's tray instead of being burned were fed to the dog. Her dishes were washed with those of the family, and the family's milk was kept in the patient's room, the excuse being given that it was the coolest room in the house.

It is in cases like these that impress one with the urgent need of proper places where they can receive care and attention, necessary to their well fare and remove causes of danger in the homes.

Where instructions have been followed to the nurse's satisfaction the results have been most gratifying.

Recently the father of a small family living in crowded, unsanitary surroundings, was moved out of doors on a very small front verandah with improvised curtains and a comfortable bed. The patient improved steadily, and in due time returned to work.

GAINED FIVE POUNDS

Another significant case, a man of advanced years, in a small, untidy, foul-smelling room, was also removed to the verandah, very homely, but adequate necessities were devised. Under this treatment the patient gained five pounds.

Still another case, a family of five was living in two rooms, the father and one of the children being tubercular patients. We succeeded in having the family removed to better quarters, where they have been made comfortable.

Particularly good work has been accomplished among the children; it is very gratifying indeed to see some of the little patients of six months, now out at play.

A child of four and a half years in a small ill-ventilated room whose mother, while willing to learn, was totally at sea as to the care of a patient; this little patient was also put out of doors and her mother daily instructed in the care and management of her disease. Now when passing this way, this little girl runs out to meet me and sometimes accompanies me on part of my way.

This improvement is also true of some adults who are back at work after a hard and often-times discouraging fight for health.

Among the most important problems that confronts a nurse, is that of fumigation. It would seem that this should be the duty of a properly appointed official, under the supervision of the Board of Health.

Supplies Used.

In conclusion I wish to say that since my appointment I have given out five sputum cups with 400 refills, four thermometers, seven rolls of absorbent cotton, 20 yards iodoform gauze, 10 yards of sterile gauze, 6 ounces of alcohol, 3 ounces carbolic acid, and large quanties of old linen.

The following articles have been received: 5 comforters, 2 quilts, 2 pillows, 6 sets of pyjamas, 1 shirt, 9 suits underwear, 1 ice cap.

I have collected $19 for services rendered.

MISS MERCIER.
District Nurse.

Mr. G. W. Powell, who is a member of the Executive Committee, commended the district nurses for the consistent and thorough-going manner in which they had performed their duties. He regarded the selection as a wise one. The most sanguine expectations of the Association had been more than realized.

"THE VERSATILES" TO RETURN

The fact that Manager Turner has been successful in securing "The Versatiles" for a return engagement on Saturday afternoon and evening, January 17th, in an entirely new bill, will be appreciated by all those who saw this clever company at the Grand on New Year's Day.

This time they will offer the charming opeetta, "Up the River" at the evening performance, preceded by the Pierrots in a dozen new numbers. At the matinee, "The Canadian Express" will be the offering.

The Ottawa and Hamilton papers, where the company have already produced "Up the River" compare it most favourably to "The Canadian Express," and suggest that it should be used as the opening bill because of the opportunities it affords the more prominent members of the company to wear classy clothes and act the roles of social leaders instead of just "passengers."

MOTOR TRUCK FOR BRANTFORD

BRANTFORD, Jan. 12—That Brantford should have a motor fire truck for the protection of the outlying districts of the city was demonstrated when a combined chemical and hose motor truck, en route for the city of Toronto fire department, accomplished in 13 minutes what it would take an ordinary hose waggon with a team of horses, 25 minutes. Several members of the aldermanic board, Mayor Hartman- Mayor-elect Spence, Chief Lewis an dseveral others, numbering in all 19, got on the truck at the fire hall and were taken up Market Street and thence up Terrace Hill Street. The truck took the hill from a standing start and seemingly without effort, which demonstrated that the 80 h.p. engine is amply powerful. The truck proceeded west on Terrace Hill Street to St. Paul's, and thence to the fire hall via Lawrence, Albion, James, Brant Avenue, Colborne, Market and Dalhousie Streets. All expressed themselves pleased with the result of the test, and it is quite likely that the demonstration yesterday will bring the matter of purchasing a motor fire truck to a head very soon. The price of the truck is $7,850, and it is the opinion of Mayor-elect Spence and the council that it would be a good investment, and they were delighted at the way the truck did its work, as was also Chief Lewis. Messrs. Hugh Cameron and Co., of Toronto, are the agents who gave the demonstration.

POLITICIAN FACES MURDER TRIAL

Examiner Special:

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 12.—Much interest is manifested in the case of Walter Runyan, a prominent farmer and Republican candidate for the State Legislature a year ago, who was arraigned in the Montgomery County Court here to-day to stand trial on a charge of first degree murder. Runyan is accused of having shot and killed Arlie W. Stull at the Runyan home, near Waynetown, early last November.

The aeroplane really runs over more people than the automobile.

DR. HYDE'S FOURTH TRIAL

Examiner Special:

KANSAS CITY., Mo., Jan. 12. — The case of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, who is accused of the murder of Sol Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist, in 1900, came up in court to-day for trial. This will be the fourth trial of the case, which has attracted wide attention for several years. At his first trial Dr. Hyde was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. The second hearing resulted in a mistrial, and the third ended in a jury disagreement.

SCHMIDT ON TRIAL AGAIN

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The electric chair at Sing Sing or life imprisonment at Matteawan, with the chances apparently about evenly divided between the two, is the prospect that faces Hans Schmidt, the former priest and confessed murderer of Anna Aumiller, who was brought into court to-day to stand trial for the second time. The first trial, which was concluded less than two weeks ago, resulted in a disagreement of the jury. It was reported that the jury stood 10 to 2 for a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

Interesting Story Of The Development Of The Canadian General Electric

Toronto News—A very interesting story was told of Mr. Frederic Nicholls, president of the Canadian General Electric Company, at a meeting of the directors held on December 27h, 1913, to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of he formation of the syndicate which ultimately established the concern in question. At the outset it was sought only to inquire into the feasibility of placing on a permanent basis a system of incandescent lighting. So promising appeared the outlook at the time that immediate steps were taken to carry out the undertaking. The preliminary steps were tedious. Six months were consumed in negotiating an agreement with the Edison Electric Light Company, of New York, for the exclusive use of their system, and by prolonged negotiations with the City of Toronto for a franchise to generate electric light and power and distribute the same by underground conductors.

It was on the 27th of December, 1888, that a number of Toronto's public-spirited citizens joined Mr. Nicholls in providing a fund to defray the necessary preliminary expenses. Little did any of them imagine the tremendous development that lay before their enterprise. Ten of them undertook to subscribe $1,000 apiece. Those assets, amounting in the aggregate to $10,000, have now grown into assets in the neighbourhood of $25,000,000. An average steady growth in this department of one million dollars a year would be remarkable enough in the case of an industry in a new country exploiting a new field of enterprise, but more remarkable still is the fact that a dividend has been earned and paid every year on the outstanding capital since the day of organization. Surely Mr. Nicholls nd his associates well may be proud of a record so unique. And Mr. Nicholls is not left alone to indulge in personal pride in this connection, for six out of the original eight directors are still acting in that capacity after an unbroken period of a quarter of a century.

The first concern organized by the syndicate was the Toronto Incandescent Light Company on June 26th, 1889, which, after a most successful career, was finally amalgamated with the Toronto Electric Light Company. Then came the parent of the present Canadian General Electric—the Toronto Construction and Electrical Supply Company, which was set on foot on February 11th, 1891. Electrical apparatus and supplies were to be sold and an alliance, with this object in view, was made with an American company following he same line of business. So successful was this company in obtaining the recognition of the purchasing public that negotiations were entered into to secure all the Canadian property and interests of the Edison Electric Light Company, including their factory at Peterborough. After some delay an agreement was concluded, and the Canadian General Electric Company was organized on September 5th, 1892. At that time the company's assets consisted solely of the land and buildings at Peterborough; now it owns ten manufacturing establishments, the head office and six branch office buildings.

Having attained its majority, the Canadian General Electric can look back over a career of unbroken prosperity. So conservatively have its operations been conducted that, in addition to hving out no less a sum than $6,286,744 in dividends during the past twenty years, a surplus nearly equal to 40 per cent. of the paid-up capital, both common and preferred, has been accumulated. In the company's capitalization there is absolutely no "water," every share of whatever rank having been sold for cash at par or better, and the average cash received by the company has been $118 per share sold. Mr. Nicholls is quite right in claiming this to have been unusul in the annals of Canadin industrials. The company has sufficient cash and current assets to pay off every dollar of indebtedness, also the entire issue of preferred stock, and still leave nearly $50 in net quick assets for every share of common stock in addition to all the capital assets. Mr. Nicholls looks forward to the future with confidence. The prosperity of the company is sure to run parallel to the future development of the country. The trunk line railways will undoubtedly electrify certain sections, such as terminals and mountain divisions, and this will mean much. Always the utilization of the Dominion's magnificent water-powers will impart impetus to this industry. Already nearly every city, town and village has the advantage of hydro-electric power.

HIS THIRD TRIAL

Examiner Special:

PALESTINE, Texas, Jan. 12.—For the third time Tennie Sneed, the negro charged with the murder of Paul Strange, a white man, near Marshall in 1911, faced trial here to-day. Sneed's first trial was held in Marshall about two years ago and ended in a disagreement of the jury Throughout the trial two companies of militia were on guard because of threats of violence. The second trial of the case was held here and, as at the first trial, the jury failed to reach a verdict.

HARWOOD HAPPENINGS

Annual Ball and Supper at the Lakeview House

Mr. Frank Roszel left this morning to resume his work with S. Jeffrey and Son, harness manufacturers, Port Perry, Ont

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman of the Lakeview House, Harwood, were in the City over Sunday, and were busy all day Monday buying supplies for the annual ball and supper, which takes place on Wednesday evening, January 14th. This is the principal social event of the winter in Harwood, and is patronized b ylovers of the terpsichorean art from all quarters of the hemisphere adjacent to Rice Lake. Mr. Gilman reports the lake in splendid condition for travelling—the ice being sound and the lake has been "bushed" across, so that parties will have no difficulty in crossing in the shortest bee line direct to the Harwood shore. The sleighing is also good all the way to the lake.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB FORMED AT GEORGE ST.

Yesterday afternoon the Excelsior Young Men's Club of the George Street Church held its first meeting since its organization. The meeting took place in the Church during the session of the Sunday school, and the first part of it was devoted to Bible study, the International Lesson being taught in a helpful manner by Mr. E. E. Logan.

The officers elected, and who were in charge of yesterday's meeting, are as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. R. G. Peaver.
Leaders—Messrs. E. E. Logan, C. S. Thompson and M McCarrell.
President—Mr. Haddock, Bs.C.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. H. Armstrong.
Secretary—Mr. B. Hamilton.
Treasurer—Mr. H. Lewis.
Editor—Mr. T. Shields.

The constitution, which had been previously drawn up, was submitted to the club and adopted. It provided, among other things, that the Club should adopt the following motto, "Intelligence, Industry, Integrity—Young Men For Young Men"

At yesterday's meeting the standing committees for the year were formed, and a delegation was appointed to attend he hockey meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to-night, as the Club will enter a team for the honours in the local Church League.

MADAME NORDICA IS VERY ILL

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Mme. Lillian Nordica is in a critical condition with pneumonia on Thursday Island, Queensland, according to a cable message received by her husband, George W. Young, a New York banker. The message was brief, saying merely that Mme. Nordica had developed pneumonia and was in a critical condition.

Friends here attribute her illness in a measure to the strain Mme. Nordica underwent recently in the grounding of the Dutch steamer Tasman, which went ashore near Thursday Island in the Gulf of Papua.

MILLIONAIRE FAMILIES UNITED

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Two families of wealth and national prominence were joined to-day at the wedding of Miss Gladys Eleanor Guggenheim and Roger Williams Straus, which took place at the Hotel St. Regis. The bride is the daughter of Daniel Guggenheim, one of the four famous Guggenheim brothers who have become multi-millionaires in the mining and smelting business. Mr. Straus, the bridegroom, is a son of Oscar S. Straus, formerly United States ambassador to Turkey and candidate of the Progressive party for governor of New York a year ago.

SECOND TRIAL

Examiner Special:

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Jan. 12.—The Reuter murder case, which was brought here on change of venue from Tulsa County, came up in court to-day for its second trial. The defendant, Mrs. Laura T. Reuter, is charged with complicity in the murder of her husband, Charles T. Reuter, a prominent lawyer of Tulsa, who was found slain in his home on May 5, 1912. Mrs. Reuter was convicted at her first trial and sentenced to life imprisonment. Two of her alleged accomplices are serving life terms in the penitentiary.

The members of the St. Peter's T. A. S. are requested to meet this evening at 8 o'clock to visit Brother Wilfred Dwyer's home, on the death of his wife.

SAYS SOMETHING TERRIBLE WILL HAPPEN NOW

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 12.—"Something terrible will happen," said Mrs. Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw when told to-day that the Commission had adjudged Thaw sane and that he might soon be at liberty. Prosecuting Attorney Jerome says the courts dare not release him on bail despite the finding of the Commission.

URGES CHURCHILL TO FORM A THIRD PARTY

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 12.— (Special acble.)—The biggest development of the political situation here to-day is the impassionate plea of the Daily Mail, the Harmsworth paper, with the bigest circulation in the United Kingdom, calling on Right Hon. Winston Church, First Lord of the Admiralty, to immediately launch a new party. The Daily Mail, continuing, points out that Lloyd George, whom it considers Churchill's rival for succession to the leadership of the Liberal party, will carry with him the domination of the wings of the party in the cabinent and parliament. Why should Churchill then not place himself at the head of the great independent party, which would neither be Unionist or Liberal, but would soon draw itself the most valuable elements, including Liberal imperialists who are strong, and the Conservative reformers who are seeking radical measures.

NEW ONTARIO TRAPPER IS PULLED DOWN AN EATEN BY A BAND OF WOLVES

Peter Nigosh Made a Gallant Fight For Life, Killing Nine of the Savage Animals With His Hunting Knife Before He Was Overcome — Man's Bones, With Half-Devoured Carcasses of Wolves He Killed Encircling Them, Told Story.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Jan. 12. — Word has just reached here of a fierce battle with a pack of wolves, in which Peter Nigosh, an Indian trapper, was killed in the Lake of the Woods country on Sunday. The encounter occurred near the Canadian boundary, a few miles from War Road, on the Canadian Northern Railway.

Nigosh was returning from his traps, a few miles up the lake, when he was suddenly attocked by the wolves. He had no time to scale the nearest tree, and had only a long hunting knife to protect himself. The pack closed in on him and one after another he slew them with his weapon, until nine were dead at his feet. Then, exhausted from his efforts, he fell an easy prey to the survivors of the pack.

On Monday, relatives began a search and early Tuesday morning they discovered the spot where the battle took place, but the only trace of the Indian with his bones stripped clear of flesh. The nine dead wolves were partly devoured.

Wolves are exceptionally numerous in that neighbourhood this winter. Because of the absence of snow they are unable to track and kill the deer and are made fierce and bold by hunger.

SYSTEMATIC FRUIT GROWING

Peterborough, Jan. 12, 1914.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,— I wish in this issue to show the advantages of systematic fruit growing. What I mean by systematic is this: Take one acre of land for example, and set it out in apples thirty feet apart each way, which will take fifty trees. The varieties that would be adapted for this climate would be: For summer and early fall, Yellow Transparent, Duchess and St. Lawrence; for late fall, Wealth, Wolfe River and Peerless, the Peerless being the best in every respect, the tree being the most vigorous and hardy, and the earliest bearer. The apple, being very clean, large and showy and the best cooking apple known in its season, is a seedling of the Duchess, grown by Mr. Miller of Minnesota, and introduced into Canada by Mr. C. G. Carton, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Crayhurst, in the County of Simcoe. For early winter apples, the Baxter as a cooker, and the Fameuse as a dessert apple for late winter, and spring the Millwaulkee and Peewalkee, Lassille and Northern Spy as cookers, and the McIntosh Red as a desert apple, and for a real late keeper, the Scotts Winter, and then after planting out your apples, fill in between the apple trees one way with Montmorency cherries or Lombard, Yellow Egg or Imerial Gage Plums, or Clapp favourite Flemish Beauty or Ribbon pears in Dwarf habit, or the Wagener apple might be used as a filled. After planting out fillers then fill up the rows, also two complete rows between the rows, with small fruits, such as the Columbian or Shaffer's Collossal rasperberry or Cumberland or Conrath Black-cup or the Downing, Pearl or Red Jacket gooseberry, or the Booskoop-Grant Black Champion or Victoria black currants. If any red currants are used, used the Perfection, Cherry or Fay's Prolific, the King Cuthbert, or any berry of spreading habit should not be used in systematic planting, but if those varieties are planted, they should be be planted by themselves, as they would interfere with the cultivation, which is necessary to give the best results in systematic planting. By planting your small fruits four feet apart in the row, the greater part of the cultivating can easily be done with the horse. High cultivation should always be kept up till the first of August. After that cultivation should cease, so as to give the stock a chance to ripen up for the winter.

Now, just to give the public a little glimpse of the profit in systematic planting, let me make mention of an instance where a man in Simcoe County put out about 1 1-4 acres of systematic planting six years ago. 60 apple trees and 60 Montmour cherries as filler, last season sold 315 basket of cherries at $1.25 per basket, making upwards of $400 from his cherries alone, with all his small fruits and apples to the good.

Now, if one hundred people would each put out five acres systematically, it would not begin to supply the demand of the City of Peterborough.

Thanking you for the space, I remain.

Yours, etc.,
W. H. MERRILL.

AN ENGLISHMAN RE-DISCOVERS SLOGAN

"Go west young man" has almost lost force as a slogan, so generally has it been acted upon. It remained for an Englishman visiing this city to rediscover the cry, and he repeats it with all the enthusiasm of a recent convert.

"An Englishman" is the title he prefers to be known by. He landed in Canada at Vancouver, coming from New Zealand, and in his travels through British Columbia and the western provinces he acquired an enthusiasm for everything western that had far from expended itself by the time he reached the East.

"I was disappointed," he says. "I admired the stores, the buildings, the hotels, the parks, but I was unconvinced. It was Canada—yes—but not the West. It has slums, not like the old country, but in the east there was less of that hope, that faith in one's self and others that was the greatest charm of the west. They told me living was cheaper, but I smiled. Houses are just as expensive and not half so modern or convenient while cafes are higher than in the West. Wages, too, are lower, domestics getting from $15 to $18 a month, and cooks from $16 to $20, while shop girls and stenographers vary. They all, however, average a lower scale than the West."

"I met some old country people and they said mildly, 'yes, they liked Canada.' With impatience I bade them wake up and go West, telling them that they had never seen Canada, the real Canada, until they had done so. I felt as though I had a mission, as though people should be taught that out there mines are waiting for experts, timber for bushmen and loggers, ranches for cowboys and farmers and domestics and that cities not yet built were waiting for capital and later, for tradesmen and students, women workers and wives, while sea fronts wasted their water for want of men to build up the trade of a nation that's going to lead the world."

"After seeing Canada with my own eyes and listening to my own heart I know that I shall see spring in Canada. I ask whether my position in England is worth what we pay for it in money, in freedom, in achievement."

The Parlour Suite Should Be Made of Solid Mahogany.

Because of its Beautiful Appearance, and Sound, Lasting Construction

MAHOGANY—the handsomest of all woods, comes chiefly from Central America, and is used extensively in furniture making, because of its strength, rich colour and graining, and its entire freedom from worms or insects.

And possessing such excellent qualities, it is admirably suited for the chief construction of furnishments for the Parlour or Drawing Room, seeing that to this room it is customary to give a rich, luxurious appearance.

While the home itself, ever a place of freedom and comfort, has its attractiveness enhanced by the addition of furniture of high order, such as these Mahogany Parlour Suites.

Distinguished by its simple, yet elegant design, is a suite of Solid Mahogany, similar to the illustration, and upholstered in beautifully figured silk of Old Gold and Green shades.

This is priced $43.75.

Another with Curved Arms and Upholstered Seat and Back, is also of Solid Mahogany, most richly appointed. And like others of this class it has a fine lustrous finish, and warrants many years of satisfactory service.

The price of this Suite is $46.50.

Other Suites which cannot be described here, are on view in the Furniture Section, the prices commencing (in the instance of Birch Mahogany pieces) as low as $23.75.

Conservative Delegates Are In Ottawa

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—A small army of Conservative delegates from every part of the province of Alberta and Saskatchewan plowed its way through the snow drifts from the Chateau Laurier to the House of Commons this morning and went into caucus in the Senate Railway Committee Room. They remained there all morning and will caucus further in the afternoon. To-morrow they expect to meet Premier Borden and members of the cabinet. It is one of the biggest delegations of its kind which has invaded Ottawa for some time. Though the Conservative members are not all unanimous in their views on the big issues which interest their province, they all, however, desire to jog the elbow of the government here as to what is best for its future popularity in the west. Free wheat and aid to catlei ndustry are issues.

Mayor Buller Outlines, Etc.

In this connection the system of garbage collection will need further consideration. There will need to be a decision as to whether the area from which the collection is made will be extended, and a change made in the law at the last session of the Legislature necessitates a revision of the method of collecting the revenue to pay the expense.

BUILDING BY LAW.

The Mayor, in referring to moral conditions, said that moral conditions may not have been considered the primary interest of a municipal council, but prevention is better than cure, and while policemen are rightly employed for the protection of the citizens, it will be our duty to take any steps we can that will conduce to the moral welfare of the City, especially in shielding and guiding those young in years.

The building by-law should receive attention with a view to revision and better provision should be made for the protection of the public using the sidewalks where buildings are being erected.

The high cost of living has been brought home to everyone, and I wish to ask you to consider carefully how the market regulations may be wisely amended to encourage lower prices of articles for food.

It has for many years been the policy of the council to secure manufacturing industries of a substantial character, and we will continue to work together in that matter. If we are fortunate in securing new industries this year we should try to arrange, among the other conditions, that at times when men have to be laid off the preference will be given to men with families by retaining them at work.

WOULD ENLARGE COMMISSION.

It has been suggested that, especially as the Water Commissioners will have new duties, it would be well to have provision made so that the Mayor would be a member of that board. This would ensure a closer touch between the Water Commissioners and the council, and if you think it would be of any advantage to the City legislation to this end can be asked for.

It may seem that I have outlined a fairly heavy programme, said Mayor Buller, especially as other important matters will no doubt come up to be dealt with, and the general work must be carried on, but I have done so with confidence, knowing that you will give serious consideration to any subject introduced with a view to benefiting the City, and will take such action as you believe will advance the interest of the ratepayers.

It is the interests of the City we wish to serve, and I am confident that we will work together in harmony for that purpose, said the Mayor, in conclusion.

On motion of Aldermen Johnston and Langford, the several matters outlined in the Mayor's address was referred to the Property Committee for further consideration. At 11.25 the council resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of selecting the standing committees. The council then adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening.

Anniversary Of Rev. Mr. Webb's Local Pastorate

Observed in the Murray St. Baptist Church Yesterday—Rev. Mr. Brown, of Edmonton, Spoke

The seventh anniversary of the Rev. J. R. Webb's pastorate of the Murray Street Baptist Church, was observed yesterday. The congregation of the church paid a glowing tribute to their pastor by attending both services in large numbers in spite of the fact that the mercury in the thermometer was registering a negative temperature.

In the morning the Rev. T. B. Brown, of Edmonton, gave an inspiring sermon. Mr. Brown also took charge of the evening service, at which the pastor himself preached.

During the seven years Mr. Webb has been pastorate of the Murray Street Church he has not only discharged his duties in a manner for which he is admired by all of the congregation, but he has enlarged the sphere influenced by the Murray Street Church. The increased membership during the time Mr. Webb has been in charge of the church's affairs, necessitated the building of a larger church a few years ago. Mr. Webb certainly merits the honour which fell to his lot during yesterday's service.

In opening his sermon in the morning Mr. Brown told the story of how in the time of Christ, an injured dog was being abused by a crowd of people. Jesus passing by went over to the animal, and instead of saying "What a despicable cur," as the others had done, he said, "What beautiful white teeth the dog has." This illustrated the fact that Jesus fixes instantly upon the brightest and most beautiful features of everything. So we should see there was good in everybody.

Speaking on the text "This have I against me, that you do not leave me against me, that you do not love me as ye did," Mr. Brown said that when one's love for Christ faded, his spiritual flame would burn out, and the result would be darkness. So on the judgment day the weeping and gnashing of teeth would not take place because Jesus foretold it, but because of the sorrow of some at their stupidity and folly in rejecting him upon this earth.

No doubt here were some in the audience who could say: "I do not fear that. I love Jesus Christ as never before." To these Mr. Brown said: "Let me tell you something. You have come through a period of sorrow; you are chastened by grief."

There were others who might read of the punishment with terror because they were not sure of their love. It might be becoming colder because of their indifference to prayer, or from neglecting to read the Bible. It was a catastrophe to avert which all the strength of their nature should be summoned. Christ's promise of punishment in cases where love for Him grew cold was not a threat, but a warning. Some scolded for the pure delight and satisfaction of doing so, but Christ reproved in order that he might heal.

In conclusion Mr. Brown told of a town having its water supply cut off because of birds building nests in the pipes leading to it from the source of the supply. He said that the devil was always trying to establish obstructions to cut off the spiritual river from us. But he hoped that every one would leave the church with a determination to keep Satan down and not allow their love for Christ to become cold. Because of his efforts to do this, the years of his life since his 60th birthday had been the brightest and happiest of his life.

Economy may be wealth, but most of us prefer to get rich in some other way.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT AT THE Y.M.C.A.

A very enjoyable entertainment was presented at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening by the Ladies' Aid of Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

The entertainment, which was entitled "A Friendly Tea in Sunny Village," was a benefit for the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A.

The performers made a very creditable showing, and the large audience thoroughly appreciated the acting. Old time costumes were worn, and the hall was decorated appropriately.

The entertainment was similar to the one presented in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church last November, of which a full description was given in the Examiner at the time.

After the entertainment on Friday night the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary treated the Charlotte Street Ladies to a banquet, and Mrs. Lightfoot, president of the Charlotte Street Ladies' Aid, appropriately tendered thanks to their hostesses.

MR. BURNHAM WILL AGAIN TRY TO END TITLES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, JAN. 12.—At the coming session of the Commons, Robert Bickerdike of Montreal will move to abolish capital punishment in Canada and substitute therefore imprisonment for life. It is understood also that J. H. Burnham of Peterborough will re-introduce his motion to abolish the honorary titles in Canada.

WISH TO LOCATE RELATIVES OF MAN DEAD IN ERIE, PA.

Chief Thompson has received a communication from H. D. Taylor & Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., that Mr. R. M. Ferguson, a traveller for that firm, is dead, and asking him to locate his sister in this City, as well as relatives in Port Hope, Coldsprings and Centreville.

Mr. R. C. Wool, solicitor for the deceased, has got into communication with the firm in Buffalo, and has ordered the remains to be forwarded at once from the Harnot Hospital, where he passed away, to Millbrook, for interment. The late Mr. R. M. Ferguson died in Erie, Pa.

MR. F. W. MILLER IS IN WINNIPEG

Immigration Officer Miller left on Saturday for Winnipeg, where he will be involved in a law suit to recover damages for the death of his son, Herbert, who was killed through an accident some time ago. He will be away for ten days, and his duties will be looked after by Adjutant McElhiney, of the Salvation Army.

CURLING

To-morrow at noon a representation of five or six local rinks will leave to take part in the Lindsay bonspiel.

There will be no schedule games played this week.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. DAVIDSON

Canon Rolls of the faculty of Trinity College, Toronto, officiated at all the services at St. John's Anglican Church yesterday, owing to the absence of the Rector, Canon Davidson, who was in Toronto, having attended the funeral of his brother, the late Mr. W. E. Davidson, who died on board ship on his way to Mexico, and which took place in Toronto on Saturday. A service was conducted at St. Simon's Church by the rector, Rural Dean Cayley, and Archdeacon Patterson Smyth of Montreal.

The Church was filled for the service, and amongst those present were: Rev. Canon Davidson and Mr. N. F. Davidson, brothers, and four sisters: Sir Glenholme Falconbridge; Mr. Z. A. Lash, K.C.; Hon. F. Osler; Messrs. Britton Osler, John D. Falconbridge, George M. Rae, John G. Grley, Elmes Henderson, D. S. Cassells, Robert Cassells, Arthur W. Anglin, John H. Moss, J. M. Macdonnell, Provost Macklem, E. R. Rogers, D. W. Saunders, W. D. Gwynne, W. R. Houston, J. A. Ready and Cawthra Mulock.

The pall-bearers were: George H. Hanning, R. B. Henderson, Sidney W. Smith, Wm. M. Hargraft, R. C. Brown, Miller Lash.

In connection with the sad event, the great bell of St. John's Church, Peterborough, was tolled at 3.15 p.m.

TRAVELERS OPEN NEW CLUB ROOMS

The Peterborough Commercial Travellers' Association opened their fine new quarters in the former Public Library building, Water Street, on Saturday evening with an enjoyable smoker. About one hundred of the members and their guests were present, all of the local manufacturing houses being represented. Mayor Buller was present and delivered a fine speech, in which he complimented the travellers upon their enterprise and the spirit of harmony they have manifested. Mr. Adam Hall and Mr. Hopwood also made short addresses.

The following programme was decidedly entertaining:

Violin solo—Mr. Frank Whitehouse.
Recitations—Mr. Ed. Desautel.
Vocal solo—Mr. J. Firth.
Piano solo—Master Eddie Firth.
Vocal solo—Mr. W. Greenslade.
Recitation—Mr. Geo. Lynch.
Piano solo—Mr. J. Woodburn.

The club rooms are well appointed. The furnishings are of the finest quartered oak, many of them deeply upholstered. A new Nordheimer piano has been installed in the front room, and a pool room and card tables in a rear rom. There is a fine cloak room with telephone, and a lavatory. The travellers have an option on the rooms on the top floor and it is likely that they will soon require them. The membership is already large and should soon embrace every traveller resident in this district. The beginning has been auspicious and the present enthusiasm should flourish. In addition to the following list of members there were many of the merchants present on Saturday night:

Adam Hall, J. M. Brooks, W. J. O'Brien, S. Cooper, A. J. Eaton, H. G. Walker, Jas. McDonald, B. E. Finlay, Maurice Rosenburg, Jas. H. McDonald, B. Gillespie, A. J. McClellan, C. L. Brewer, E. M. Wall, W. E. Metheral, J. J. Duffus, Jos. Bleakley, Thos. Bishop, G. W. McKim, W. J. Hopwood, J. E. Firth, B. F. Ackerman, R. J. Kidd, Chas. Stapleton, G. G. Pope, G. King, Frank Whitehouse, J. S. Coon, W. J. Oke, Fred Trebilcock, J. R. Doble, John A. Cameron, Chas Shields, H. C. Sherwood, R. W. Davidson, Frank Downes, W. Gould, R. F. Bedgwick, W. E. Martin, F. M. Brown, C. K. Leek, Alex. Elliott, J. Doughty, E. Burnham, S. A. Oke.

Mild Weather Bad For The Coal Companies

A General Slackness of Trade, Caused Partly by Less Manufacturing

A CHEERFUL OUTLOOK

Such slowing down of manufacturing as has been reported, together with the mildness of the winter, have not been good for the coal companies. In some quarters there has been expressed the belief that whatever loss the Dominion Steel Corporation might experience through the slowing down of the steel industry would be more than offset by an increased output from the companies coal mines. But this hope does not appear to be very well based, for what hits one branch of industry hits the other.

Mr. C. H. McDougal, general manager of the Dominion Coal Company, on his return to Sydney after a business trip in search of markets and new buyers for the company's huge output of coal, said that from what he had observed during his trip he would only conclude that the reports of the general slackness of trade were only too true. While there seemed to be some optimism as to the conditions which probably prevail in the near future, the situation at present was very quiet all over.

Asked as to whether he anticipated any necessity to work short time in the collieries, Mr. McDougal said that while the general quietude of trade reflecting on manufacturing concerns would in turn affect the demand for coal, he did not think that any very unusual shortage of operations will be necessary at the collieries.

Mr. McDougal spoke most cheerfully of the outlook for the summer which, he stated, would bring such a call for fuel as would ensure abundance of work in the mines of the Dominion Coal Company.

SHIPPING COMPANY SHOWS A PROFIT

The disastrous storm on the Great Lakes last fall was recalled this week by the publication of the annual report of the St. Lawrence and Chicago Steam Navigation Co., which, despite the loss of the steamer James Carruthers, compared very favourably with its predecessors. The company collected $273,794 from the underwriters on the James Carruthers, and provided for the full balance of the cost out of the insurance fund, with a balance of $61,096 being left at the insurance account.

The following statement compares the principal items of the accounts for the past three years:

	1911.	1912.	1913.
Management	$ 14,233	$ 15,445	$ 19,357
Written off	.....	35,000	.....
Dividends	5 p.c.	8 p.c.	8 p.c.
	43,000	68,800	68,800
Carried forward	141,476	158,645	222,150
Steamship earn	62,210	134,031	150,161
Insurance fund	53,802	109,280	61,096
Bank balance	37,584	43,278	315,935
Capital stock	860,000	860,000	900,875

As will be seen, the company's insurance fund suffered severely from the loss of the James Carruthers, but at the close of the year it was larger than at the end of 1911.

The publication of the statement was followed by a small advance in the stock.

BRICKLAYERS IN SESSION

Examiner Special:

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 12.—The biennial convention of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union began its sessions to-day with delegates in attendance representing the 90,000 members of the organization throughout the United States and Canada. One of the most important matters to come before the convention is the proposal to affiliate with the American Federation of Labour. A recent referendum vote of the membership of the union was overwhelmingly against affiliation, but it is believed possible that this decision may be reversed when the matter is brought to a vote in the convention.

MISSION WORKERS GATHER

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—From many parts of the United States and Canada men and women who are actively interested in missionary work are gathering in this city to take part in the Home and Foreign Mission on North America Wide Conferences, which open Wednesday. Preliminary to the opening a notable banquet is to be given to-morrow night at the Hotel Astor. The "New Era in Christian Missions" will be the topic of discussion at the banquet and among the prominent speakers will be J. Campbell White, of the Laymen's Missionary Movement; J. Ernest McAfee, of the Presbyterian Board; Dr. John R. Mott, and Alfred Gandier, principal of Knox College, Toronto.

40,000 PEOPLE
Came to Live in Toronto Last Year

It Requires Nearly 10,000 New Homes to Properly Shelter the Tremendous Annual Influx of Population

The biggest problem to-day that Toronto has to face is how to supply its tens of thousands of homeseekers with suitable houses and building property.

Toronto has a population of 22 to the acre, this means that each year it requires from 1400 to 2000 additional acres to provide building sites for the natural increase of population.

A city on the American Continent is considered in healthy condition when it has not more than 5% of vacant houses. According to the report of the Toronto Police census, Toronto has over 90,000 houses—therefore it should have 5,000 vacant houses, but Toronto's increase in population is so tremendous that it is conservatively estimated that there are not more than 250 vacant houses to-day.

Dr. Hastings, the Toronto Medical Health Officer, states that the city is in need at the present time of 20,000 new houses.

With all builders active, they cannot keep up with the demand. A house is hardly half finished before it is sold.

Toronto has reached a period of expansion where small real estate holders are making fortunes.

Farm-lands that surrounded Toronto a few years ago are now solidly built-up sections of the present city.

Toronto has a world-wide reputation as a city of homes. As a rule the Toronto man's greatest ambition is to own a house of his own, and his first investment is in a house or homesite property.

It is principally this fact that makes Toronto real estate such a reliable investment.

TORONTO
Will Reach the Half Million Mark by End of Year

Toronto's population is just touching the half million mark. It has doubled in ten years, and it requires no stretch of the imagination to foresee a million population in 1923, if not sooner.

The same influences that have made the United States what it is to-day and built up the mighty cities of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago are now at work making Canada one of the greatest nations in the world. The 19th Century belonged to the United States, the 20th Century is Canada's. Immigration is coming into the Dominion from all parts of the earth and the best of that immigration—the English speaking new comers—are mostly settling in the cities; and Toronto is getting the cream of them all.

TORONTO REAL ESTATE OFFERS THE SAFEST—SANEST—MOST PROFITABLE INVESTMENT IN CANADA TODAY

Toronto's increase in assessment this past year shows the rapid growth of its land values. One hundred million dollars is to be spent shortly on the development of Greater Toronto. $25,000,000 in making the harbor one of the finest on this continent, $13,000,000 on the Esplanade viaduct, $4,000,000 on the new Union Depot and railway improvements, $4,000,000 on Drainage of North Toronto, $20,000,000 by the C.P.R. and G.T.R. on line extensions and additional shunting facilities.

The building permits alone for six months amounted to the immense sum of $15,000,000.

The time to purchase Toronto real estate is now while these developments are going on, for when they are completed, the land values in the city will have reached the highest point in the history of Toronto and substantial profits can be reaped by those who had the wisdom to invest early.

WE ARE THE LARGEST REAL ESTATE FIRM IN THE DOMINION

The Dovercourt Land, Building and Savings Company, Limited, has its finger on the pulse of Toronto. It has studied the growth of Toronto for years—it has foreseen the time when the city's expansion would cause land values to rise quickly to their normal level.

We have opened up subdivision after subdivision, developed them and built them up. Every foot of land we have sold to our clients has advanced in price, making them handsome profits. We do not abandon our clients after we sell to them. We develop their land—make it more valuable and resell it for them when it has advanced in price. We spend immense sums in improvements—for instance, we are spending $50,000 on the development of our latest subdivision, Strathgowan, making it one of the most beautiful residence properties in Toronto. We are owners—not agents. We are land developers—not speculators. We always buy in the line of growth where the rise in land values is immediate and certain. Our clients who take our advice are never disappointed.

They profit by our knowledge of realty conditions—by our ability to spend large sums of money in purchasing and developing raw land—by our ability to resell at a profit the land they purchase from us.

ERIE AND TORONTO FOR THE CANADIAN LEAGUE FOR THE COMING SEASON

Guelph Franchise Will Go to Erie, Pa., While the Berlin Franchise Has Been Bought by the Toronto Baseball Club.

A CLASS B LEAGUE

HAMILTON, Jan. 10. — Bright days are ahead of the Canadian League. President James P. Fitzgerald of the Caandian League, announced this morning that the League has been granted the Erie (Pa.) territory by the National Commission, and that the Guelph franchise would be transferred there, while he also made the sensational and unexpected announcement that "a gentleman by the name of Mr. Percy Kerwin" had purchased the Berlin franchise.

For the benefit of the fans it might be said that Percy Kerwin is secretary of the Toronto International League baseball club and that the understanding is that he has purchased the Berlin club for the Toronto Stadium while the Toronto International League club is on the road, the decision to take this step having been hastened by reason of the activities of the Federal League in Toronto the Toronto owners believing that the Canadian League can be used to advantage to fight the Federal advances in the Queen City.

President Fitzgerald would not say if this was true or not. Other than to repeat that Percy Kerwin had purchased the Berlin franchise and would leave for that City to-day to close up the deal, he would not talk. When pressed for an explanation of Kerwin's activity in the matter Mr. Fitzgerald would not go so far as to say "it looks that way," meaning that it looked as if the Berlin franchise would be taken to Toronto. That this is a fact is only too evident and is supported by the following item which appeared in the Toronto Globe this morning:

The Toronto Federal leaguers are still very much in the air. Beyond the positive statement that this city will be represented in the new league and the vague assertion that efforts are being made to sign players, there is nothing doing.

The Federals and the motordrome promoters are conferring anent the establishment of a joint park for gasolin bikes and baseball on the site secured by the motordrome people on Greenwood Avenue, near Queen Street. Scarboro Beach is too far from the centre of the City for Federal purposes.

President McCaffery presented a new angle to Federal League affairs in Toronto yesterday when he announced that the Toronto Internation Leaguers were cosidering allowing the Canadian League to enter this territory. The Canadian circuit has wanted Toronto for two years. Should a Canadian League team be installed at the Island Stadium to clash with the Federals during the absence of the Leafs on the road the people of the Queen City will have ball enough.

Should the Canadian Leaguers come in there will be no chance for the Tecumseh lacrosse club at the Isl and Stadium and the Indians would have to secure new grounds.

Richard Carroll and B. R. Hepburn M.P., of the local Federals, were in conference here yesterday, but had nothing definite to give out concerning their plans.

The decision of the National Commission of Minor Leagues that the Canadian League was entitled to the Erie, (Pa.), territory, and the decision of the Toronto magnates to allow the Canadian League to invade that City under International League patronage are the biggest things that have happened in minor league baseball in some years, and will prove a source of much satisfaction to all Canadian League fans. The replacing of Guelph and Berlin by such cities as Toronto and Erie will place the Canadian League in Class B company and make it the strongest minor league circuit in America. Here are the cities that will comprise the circuit for the season of 1914, with the population figures:

Toronto	500,000
Hamilton	100,000
Ottawa	90,000
Erie	80,000
London	55,000
Brantford	30,000
Peterborough	25,000
St. Thomas	18,000
Total	898,000

Belleville Team Here On Thursday Night

At the request of the promoters of the big concert in the Grand Opera House on Friday night, the game with the Belleville intermediates, scheduled for that night at Brock Street rink, has been transferred to Thursday night of this week. Fans are asked to note this change in the schedule. The Belleville club kindly agreed to the game being switched, and announced this morning that they would be along on Thursday night with a big crowd of fans on a special train. The game will be one of the events of the hockey season. Belleville is the dark horse team of the group, and their defeat of Whitby on Friday night shows distinctly that they have class. A record crowd will see the Bay of Quinte team perform here on Thursday night.

For some two years now President Fitzgerald has been working on the proposition of landing a Canadian League team in Toronto. Almost daily he has been at the Toronto owners to consider the proposition, but invariably was turned down by President McCaffery of the Toronto Club. Some months ago McCaffery undertook to purchase the Hamilton Club, but just when it appeared that the deal would go through he called things off. Now his reason appears evident, for at the time that he failed to go ahead with the purchase of the local club he refused to bive any real reason. The success of the League in landing the Erie territory is also due to President Fitzgerald, who has worked patiently and persistently on the matter for some months. He has been rewarded, and the various club owners owe him a debt that they will never be able to repay. In addition to landing Toronto and Erie, it must also be remembered that Mr. Fitzgerald has secured Niagara Falls territory for the Canadian League, in case it should be needed. Truly prosperous days are ahead of the Fitzgerald circuit.

TEAM COMMITTEE FOR INTERMEDIATES

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club, a team committee, composed of J. P. Bond, Pete Spratt and Cyril Giroux was appointed to look after the intermediate team in regard to choosing the line-ups, etc.

Pete Spratt has stated definitely that the duties of his position at the De Laval factory will prevent him from getting into the game this year. The defence man of last year's senior team would like to play this winter, but circumstances will not allow him to do so.

JACK WHITE IS MENTIONED

As Possible Leader of the Petes During Coming Season

Toronto News—Canadian League baseball moguls will confer here today for the purpose of talking over the composition of the league the coming season. The admission of Toronto into the circuit will be a point that will come in for much discussion. It is not likely that Erie, Pa., will join the league. "Knotty" Lee has about decided to retain his Hamilton holdings and in that event will again manage the team. Jack White, the old Toronto and Buffalo player, who because of some difference with the Syracuse Club last year left the Stars early in the season, is spoken of as the probable manager of the Peterborough Club. Nothing definite has been done in that respect as yet, but Owner Denham will interview White to-day and talk over matters.

HOCKEY

There is a big week ahead of the Peterborough Hockey Club this week, with the club's two teams slated to play three games, all of which must be won. To-morrow night the intermediates play the return game in Oshawa and a battle royal should be the result. A win for Peterborough would put them in a fine position to win the district and they may be depended upon to chase the Oshawa squad all the way. The intermediates will have a half hour's workout to-night, commencing at 7.30 o'clock. On Thursday night the Belleville intermediates will be here, and on Friday the juniors will visit Port Hope, where they must win to keep in the running. All junior players are requested to be out to-night at 7 o'clock, and on Wednesday night at the same hour, for practice.

At the first annual meeting of the Alpha De Laval Hockey Club, the following officers were elected:

Patrons—Ralph Stoddard, W. R. Breyfogle, J. H. French, R. C. Read, Ed. J. Ruiter, Wm. Sangster.
President—Chas. D. Cook.
First Vice Pres.—E. F. Lawrence.
2nd Vice Pres.—J. A. Robinson.
Secretary—S. R. Smyth.
Treasurer and Manager—G. A. Evans.
Captain—Pete Spratt.
Committee—Wm. Hill, George Ruiter, W. Fitzgerald, A. E. Todd, E. G. Ido.

The team had a work out on Thursday and hope to make a good showing in their first game this evening, Jan. 12th.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE.

The League opens its 1914 season to-night at the Brock Street Rink. Three games will be played, the first starting at 8 o'clock. They will come off in the following order: At 8 p. m., Tool Room vs. Bankers; 9, "Examiner" v. Test Room; 10, De Laval v. Plumbers. Some smart stick play may be looked for among the six teams to take the ice this evening.

THE EXAMINER HOCKEY TEAM

The above team play their first game of the Mercantile Hockey League's season to-night at 9 o'clock at the Brock Street Rink. All players are earnestly requested to be well on time, so as not to incur the two dollar penalty for being dilatory. There will be a good line up, and some real good sport may be expected, as at the recent work-out the men all appeared to be in good shape.

This team had a thoroughly good work-out on the Central Rink, Charlotte Street, on Saturday evening. Judging from their work Manager Russell considers that his team should be able to give a good account of themselves to-night at 9 o'clock, when it plays the Test Room team in the second of the three games with which the Mercantile Hockey League opens its season at the Brock Street Rink. The following is the line-up for to-night:

Goal—Swanston.
Right defence—Lees.
Left defence—Clancy.
Rover—Heard (Capt.)
Centre—Armstrong.
Right wing—J. Barringer.
Left wing—Manion.

TOOL ROOM HOCKEY TEAM.

The following will be the line-up for to-night's game in the Mercantile League:

Goal—Cassidy.
Right defence—McGrath.
Left defence—Kelly.
Centre—Robson.
Right wing—Heath.
Left wing—Hillier.
Rover—Barrie.
Spares—Primeau and Regan.

TEST ROOM HOCKEY TEAM.

The following will be the line-up of the "Test Room" Hockey team in to-night's Mercantile League game:

Goal—Dwyer.
Right defence—McKean.
Left defence—Brackenreid.
Rover—MacDougall.
Centre—Carter.
Right wing—Boone.
Left wing—Munro.
Spares—Cranfield and Allen.

A very interesting game of hockey was played this morning on the Central Rink, Charlotte street, when the Queen Alexandra beat the King George school 11 to 0.

Although the ice was heavy the Q. A. S. team kept the K. G. S. busy in the first half with scoring 9 goals. The second half was a more interesting game, when the K. G. S. held the Q. A. S. down, allowing only two gols. Thus leaving the score Q. A. S. 11, K. G. S. 0.

The manager will arrange for any school games by 'phoning 1253, between 12 and 1:30 p.m., and from 4:30 to 7.30 p.m.

Mr. R. Dobie, Mechanical Supt. of the Canadian General Electric Company, will face off the puck in the opening game of the Mercantile League to-night.

Manchester United Defeated By Swindon In First Round

Sunderland Piles Up Nine Goals Against Chatham--Manchester City Beaten by Fulham--League Tables

The expected happened Saturday, the leaders of the Southern League just put it over Manchester United at Swindon in the first round for the English Cup by the narrow margin of 1 to 0. A remarkable feature about the round is the fact that there were only three tie games out of the 32 games played. These games will be replayed during the week.

Sunderland's Big Score.

Sunderland put up the largest score of the day by whitewashing Chatham 9 to 0. The West Ham United and Chesterfield game produced another cricket score, the former team winning 8 to 1. Bristol Rovers were badly trimmed by Preston North End, the tail-enders of the first division.

"Toffee" Team Defeated.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was the defeat of Exeter by Glossop. The latter team have been doing very badly this year, and it was generally conceded that Exeter would have no difficulty in defeating them. However, this again shows the glorious uncertainty of football, and Glossop deserve all the credit for lowering the colours of a first division club and thus attaining the right of entering the second round.

"Peacocks" Pile up Score.

Leeds City, though playing away from home, managed to beat Gainsboro Trinity by 4 goals to 2. In the first division clash between the "Uniteds" of Sheffield and Newcastle, the former team went to the wall by 6 goals to 5.

Plenty of Goals.

A goal scoring contest took place at Leicester, where the "Fosse" and "Spurs" piled five goals up against each other. This does not speak well for the defence of either team. Both Bradford teams were successful in defeating their opponents.

The first division team defeated th "Arsenal" by 2 to 0, while the second leaguers put it over Reading by 5 to 1.

Hyde Readers Beaten.

While the Manchester United team were being beaten at Swindon their local rivals, the "City," were getting it put over them at Hyde Road. Fulham, a Southern League team, succeeded in beating the iCty by 6 goals to 2. Hull City piled up a 6 to 0 score against Bury at Hull.

No Surprises in Scotland.

The only big score registered in the Scottish League Saturday was that of Celtic against Dumbarton. The Glasgow team piled up four goals against their opponents. The following is the Scottish League standing up to date:

LONDON, Jan. 10—The first round of the competition proper for the Football Association Cup saw twenty-five decisive results in the thirty-two games played. Some surprising scores were recorded, Sunderland tallying nine against Chatham, while the dockyarders failed to get a single goal. West Ham United beat Chesterfield Town 8 to 1, and Hotspurs got 5 on Leicester Fosse's ground, while the home team were piling up the same total.

Swindon settled Manchester United at once, and Glossop put Everton out. Sheffield United went to Newcastle United and beat the Tynesiders 5 to 0 on their own grounds.

The seven draws will be played off next week as follows:—Barnsley vs. Liverpool; Bury vs. Hull City; Notts Forest vs. Clapton Orient; Bristol City vs. Queen's Park Rangers; Tottenham Hotspurs vs. Leicester Fosse; Brighton and Hove vs. Oldham Athletic; Chelsea vs. Millwall.

The draw for the second round, to be played January 31, will be made on Monday afternoon.

Following is the corrected list of Saturday's games — several of the scores having been given incorrectly in the first cabled reports:

Stars For The Week

To-day the moon will be at the full and will pass near to the position of the planet Neptune.

On Wednesday Venus and Mercury will be in conjunction about a degree apart in the early eastern morning sky just before the sun.

On Thursday the moon will be at its closest to the earth during the month. The sun is to-day about 22 degrees south of the equator and now moving slowly north at the rate of about half a degree a week, whilst at the same time it is moving westwardly among the stars at a rate that varies during the year from six to seven degrees a week.

GEMINI (The Twins).

On remnants of Babylonian monuments and boundary stones, probably the most ancient records known, there appears a set of symbols repeated over and over again. The symbols represent the two stars in Gemini, Castor and Pollux, who served as indicators of the first new moon of the year at a period 4,000 years before the Christian era. They were simply a picture of what men saw in the sunset sky at the beginning of the first month 6,000 years ago. They were later associated by the Greeks with the twin brothers, Castor and Pollux, who were supposed to possess immortality between them in such a way that when one died the other revived. Castor and Pollux were objects of adjuration among the Romans, and the slang of the present day, "By Jiminy," is a survival of the old Roman form of oath.

These two stars can readily be recognised at 9 o'clock at night in the eastern sky about midway between the horison and the north star.

Too Busy to be a Suffragette.

"An English-American Mother" writes as follows to the Chicago News:

"After reading the letter of 'American' in The Daily News, I would like to correct the statement made that 12 is the age of marriage in England. The writer must have meant India or China. England is not barbaric or uneducated. The age on leaving the school is 14, and children are not allowed to leave before that age. Twenty-one is considered the legal age of womanhood, and, as records show, most marriages in England take place between the ages of 24 and 34, a sensible age. The result is fewer divorces; in fact, divorce is so rare in England that it is considered a disgrace.

"I was left a property-owner in England, but was too busy to become a suffragette. I was taking care of five sturdy boys and two girls, a more suitable occupation than voting."

A Life on the Ocean Wave.

A captain of one of the ocean liners was showing a young lady friend of his over the ship during one of his eastward trips. As they passed through the steerage he called his fair companion's attention to a big, husky Irish emigrant, who was putting away with knife, fork, and spoon a bountiful supply of corned beef and cabbage, combined with other articles of diet. The captain eyed him for a moment, then, addressing the young lady, said:

"Just look at the enormous amount of food that fellow is consuming."

"I suppose, captain," said the fair girl, with a beaming smile, "he is what you sailors call a stowaway."

OBITUARY

BABY ROBINSON.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, 197 Antrim Street, died in Nicholls Hospital yesterday morning. The parents will have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement.

The funeral was held to-day to the Little Lake Cemetery.

CHRISTIANA CUFFE.

The death occurred late last night of Christiana Flora Cuffe, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cuffe, Gordon Avenue. For the past two weeks the child had been suffering from pneumonia, to which she succumbed last night. She was one and a half years of age.

In their bereavement, through the loss of their beautiful little daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cuffe will have the sincerest sympathy of the community.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the family residence, Gordon Avenue, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Service will be conducted at the house at 2 o'clock.

MISS BAYLOR, FERMOY, IRELAND

Deceased was the oldest daughter of the late George and Mary Baylor, Duntaheen, Fermoy, Cork Co., Ireland, and sister of Mrs. William Menzies, 291 Rubidge Street, this City. She was born and lived all her life on the homestead in Fermoy, and was about 77 years of age, being the second oldest of a family of thirteen children, the eldest, Peter Baylor, being still living. Of the very high respect and esteem in which deceased and her family are held, the Fermoy correspondent of the Cork Daily Examiner, writes:

On Christmas eve the funeral of one of the most respected inhabitants of the district of Fermoy, in the person of Miss Jane Baylor, Duntaheen, took place, and whose family has been identified with the national movement since its inception. Springing from a good old stock the Baylor family have endeared themselves to the people of the district of Fermoy. They have, although differing in creed from the majority of their neighbours, been on the most popular and friendly terms with everyone, and in order to show the great respect and esteem in which the family are held, Mr. George Baylor has represented the Fermoy Rural District on the Board of Guardians and Rural Council for a long number of years, and on a couple of occasions, when a contest was forced on the division, the electors placed him at the head of the poll. Mr. George Baylor is one of the most popular of men. He has always identified himself with the national cause, and on the recent demonstrations at Midleton, where he was introduced to Captain Donelan, M.P., and at Limerick, he was found to be in the marching line among his Catholic fellow-countrymen. His sister's funeral on Christmas Eve was composed entirely of the Catholic neighbours, and this fact alone speaks volumes for the high regard in which he and his family are held. The funeral was of imposing dimensions, considering that a great majority of the traders and townspeople were engaged at the usual Christmas trade. At their recent meeting the local division of the A.O.H. expressed in the most feeling terms a genuine expression of sympathy with Mr. Baylor in his bereavement. At the interment, which took place at the family burial-ground at Castlehyde, Rev. T. C. Abbot, Rector, and Rev. J. Kennedy, Curate, officiated.

The chief mourners were: Messrs. George Baylor, R.D.C. and Peter Baylor (brothers), Mr. George Baylor (nephew); Mrs. Cope (niece); Messrs. William Baylor, George William Baylor, R. S. Baylor, solicitor, and A. Patterson, Castletownroche (cousins).

Among the general public were: J. Shinnick, J. Cotter, D. Hayes, J. Tobin, J. Ahern, P. Barry, E. Donegan, Henry Barry, Jas. Barry, U.D.C.; W. J. Magnier, solicitor; W. Dennehy, John Tobin, W. Troy, T. O'Mahony, J.P., Chairman R. Council; J. Quain, R.D.C.; W. Sheahan, Town Clerk; T. Evans, W. Hales, M. Smaul, S. Mills, P. Ambrose, J. Barry, E. J. Barry, Dr. James Barry, E. Ryan, Tom Myles, U.D.C., P.L.G.; D. L. O'Gorman, M.C.C.; Thomas Magnier J.P., P.L.G.; Mi. Magnier, J. O'Keefe, W. Moroney, W. Meade, James Barry, P. O'Neill, Clerk of Union; J. J. Broderick, D. Curtin, P. O'Keefe, M. Lyons, J. Lyons, J. Keating, T. O'Brien, B. Higgins, R.D.C.; Coughlan, Mi. Molony, D. Cahill, B. Dunlea, P. Cahill, R.O.; J. Leahy, J. Kitty, James Shinick, B. Barry, T. O'Connell, U.D.C.; W. Coughlan, C. Spillane, D. Gallagher, M. Roche, J. O'Dywer, D. O'Connell, J. Hayes, C. Cashman, Q. Cotter, T. M. Gormly, Master of Union; T. Morley, D. O'Callaghan, S.I.O.; T. Stack, P. M'Hugh, E. J. Rice, E. J. Quinlan, J.P.; Chairman Urban Council; J. Sheehan, U.D.C.; M. Walsh, J. Molloy, P. O'Brien, T. Kelleher, S. M'Sweeney, J. Fitzgerald, J. Sheean, M. O'Keefie, A. Carr, U.D.C.; L. Eager.

At the weekly meeting of the Fermoy Urban Council, Mr. E. J. Quinlan, J.P., Chairman, presided.

Mr. J. Sheehan said that during the week a very old and respected inhabitant of the district of Fermoy had passed away in the person of Miss Baylor of Duntaheen, who was a sister of Mr. George Baylor, which was sufficient proof for expressing their deep and sincere sympathy with her family in their bereavement. The Baylor family had been in every movement which had for its object the upliftment of the people, and in times gone by they were the means in many ways of helping their countrymen. The deceased lady was held in the highest esteem by all classes, but especially by the poor, who had from time to time gone to her for assistance, and cures had been effected for them by her which many doctors were unable to accomplish. It was their duty to extend their sincere empathy to Mr. Baylor on the loss he had sustained by the death of his sister, and he begged to propose that such a vote should be forwarded to him and his family in their bereavement.

Mr. P. Power in seconding the motion, said that it should be remembered that Miss Baylor never charged for the trouble she went to or for anything else in respect to the cures which she effected.

Mr. Kelleher said he wished to be associated with the vote of sympathy. It was the least compliment they could pay to a family who were in every movement, charitable and otherwise, in the district of Fermoy for the good of the people.

Mr. Quan also associated himself with the motion.

The Chairman, in declaring the resolution carried, said there was no family more deserving of anything the council could do than the family of Mr. George Baylor, who was a staunch Irish Protestant, who was not afraid to throw in his lot with the vast majority of the Irish Catholic people in their struggle for freedom. Mr. George Baylor who was a thorough Irishman, and thoroughly honest, was a shining exemple for many of his fellow Protestants who should not be afraid or ashamed to do what he did. The deceased was known far and wide, and often people came many miles to see her and consult her for their ailments, and all her trouble and everything else was given without any charge. They were all sincerely sorry for Miss Baylor's death, and her brothers had their entre sympathy in their bereavement. The Clerk would convey the vote in the usual course.

Hockey—That's All

Wilfred Stratton, of Peterborough, was the star of Saturday's Junior O.H.A. game in Toronto between Varsity and Aurora. The local had played right wing for the Collegians and scored eight goals, several on rink length rushes. The morning papers say he was the fastest boy on the ice. Gordon Matthews, of last year's Collegiate team, played on the Student defence.

MUST HAVE BEEN SOME BALL GAME.

While reading through the Cobourg World of October 9th, 1888, Mr. F. D. Kerr recently chanced upon the report of a baseball game between the Live Oaks of Bowmanville and the Beavers of Newcastle. After a hard game, it said, the Beavers won by 55 runs to 44. It surely must have been a hard one for the fielders and batters any way.

South African Unions Vote For General Action

TROOPS ARE MOBILIZING

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 13.—Quiet prevails throughout South Africa to-day, but this may be the lull before the storm, as the incoming ballots from various centres make it practically certain that a general strike will be voted. The ballots received from the miners along the reef all favor a strike, and the various trades, including shop assistants, warehousemen and clerks, in Johannesburg have voted similarly.

The feeling is growing in Johannesburg that the situation is becoming more serious. The Cape Town harbor workers have not been officially called out by the union, but their response will not be known until to-night.

A ballot by the Johannesburg branch of the Typographical Union has resulted, by a large majority, in favor of a strike. This probably means that the people of Johannesburg will have no newspapers after to-day.

The most hopeful feature of the situation is the extraordinary success attending the mobilization of troops. It is estimated that there are 20,000 armed men on the Rand, most of whom have come prepared for the same kind of a campaign which made the Boers so long the despair of the English generals.

Cape Town yesterday also bore the appearance of a besieged city. A great mass meeting of workmen was held last night without the slightest indication of disorder. The impressive display of military is likely to have a wholesome effect on the Basutos, squads of whom continue to be escorted to the borders of the native settlements under armed guards.

Reports from different districts are conflicting, but the general opinion is that the situation has grown worse. Meanwhile the Government is withholding the proclamation of martial law until the last moment.

Dynamitards Will Be Shot.

PRETORIA, South Africa, Jan. 13.—The shooting of dynamitards at sight is to be a feature of the martial law to be proclaimed to-day throughout the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, and the proclamation is to be otherwise also of a most drastic character.

The Government purposes making an attempt to resume the full service of trains on all the railroads to-day, and it is in order to safeguard the train crews and the passengers that regulations usually imposed only during a state of siege are to be introduced.

CEREMONY AT O.A.C.

Hon. Martin Burrell Formally Opens "Agronomy" Building.

GUELPH, Jan. 13.—The new field husbandry building of the Ontario Agricultural College was formally opened here last night by the Hon. Martin Burrell, Dominion Minister of of Agriculture. Special interest was lent to the occasion by the fact that this new building, erected and equipped at a cost of $65,000, represents the first building to be completed with the money received by the Ontario Government from the Dominion under the Agricultural Aid Act.

The large gathering that last night crowded the big hall in the new "Agronomy" building was the first session of the annual meeting of the Onario Agricultural and Experimental Union.

In calling on Hon. Mr. Burrell formally to open the building, Hon. Jas. Duff, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, who was chairman, paid a tribute to Prof. C. A. Zavitz, head of the department of agronomy. Since the Ontario Agricultural College was established in 1874, he said, there was no department which had expanded so much as that of Prof. Zavitz.

Hon. Mr. Burrell referred to the great work that was being done by the Ontario Agricultural College, which he styled a national work.

Mr. Burrell reviewed the work that the Department of Agriculture was doing all over the Dominion, and the progress that had been made in the last few years. He announced that the first issue of a new Government publication was now on the press, and would appear in a few days, the "Agricultural Gazette," and would be sent to all interested in agriculture.

VOTES FOR FREE WHEAT.

Manitoba Legislature Unanimous for Removal of Duty.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13.—The free wheat resolution introduced in the Manitoba Legislature by H. S. Simpson, a Conservative member, was under debate in the House yesterday. It wound up with the resolution being unanimously carried. T. C. Norris, Opposition leader, was the principal speaker, devoting his time to twitting the Conservatives on their change of front since the Federal reciprocity campaign. A resolution by Mr. Norris that the resolution be redrafted to include free entrance into the United States of oats, barley, flax, and the entrance into Canada of agricultural implements duty free was ruled out of order.

Mr. Simpson's resolution memorialized the Dominion Government to remove the countervailing duty on Canadian wheat, in order that the farmers of the Canadian west might be able to take advantage of the wheat clause of the new Underwood tariff in the United States.

Breaking Up the Gangsters.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. — Thirty members of East Side gangs yesterday began serving five-day workhouse sentences, and "Dopey Benny" Fein, leader of a band that bears his name, and three of his lieutenants, are being held without bail on a direct charge of homicide in connection with the murder on Friday night of Frederick Straus, a prominent German politician. A bullet fired by members of Fein's gang at an enemy struck Strauss as he was passing a hall where the gangsters and their friends were holding a dance.

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,000,000 bushels. Its situation is so well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united so that the four-pointed star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 33,000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8,000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5,700,000 bushels.

SETBACK REPORTED

Sir James' Condition Yesterday Not So Hopeful

FRIENDS WERE PESSIMISTIC

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—According to the official bulletins the condition of Sir James Whitney, the Ontario Premier, was not nearly so encouraging yesterday as it was during the previous few days. His restlessness had increased, and besides an alarming weakness manifested itself. Dr. R. A. Pyne, his colleague and physician, admitted last night that the prospect was not encouraging, but he intimated that no danger was to be apprehended within a short time.

At nine o'clock Dr. Pyne issued the following bulletin: "Sir James Whitney's condition has not improved during the day. He is still restless and weak."

Dr. Pyne went out for a few minutes shortly after nine o'clock. On his return he was met in the lobby by Horace Wallis, the Premier's secretary, who had come to the telephone from the sick room. After a few minutes' conversation both went back to their rooms.

Dr. Pyne announced, however, about 10 o'clock that the restlessness which had characterized the Premier's condition during the day had ceased. "He is now resting quietly," said Dr. Pyne, "and the prospect is that he will have a fairly good night."

Last night the same pessimistic feeling was apparent with Dr. Pyne and Mr. Wallis as that which existed when the previous setback took place some days ago. The fact that the patient had grown weaker in the meantime was not considered to have helped the case, and while those in charge did not admit that all hope was lost, they were not looking forward to developments with any degree of confidence, although they maintained that there was no sign of a fatal termination for some time.

TO INTERN FEDERALS.

Mexican Refugees Made Ready To March To Fort Bliss.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 13.—Six generals of the Mexican Federal army, 3,300 fugitive soldiers and 1,500 refugees who were driven out of Ojinaga, Mexico, by Gen. Francisco Villa's rebel forces, were put in readiness yesterday for a four days' march over the 62 miles of road to Marfa, Texas. The soldiers will be interned at Fort Bliss indefinitely.

At Marfa, the nearest railroad station, the Federal army which sought asylum in the United States after their defeat by the rebels, will be guarded by the border patrol pending their final disposition by the War Department. Among the civilians are 1,207 women, as officially counted by Major McNamee.

The whereabouts of Gen. Pascual Orozco and Ynes Salazar, commanders of the Federal volunteers, who fled from Ojinaga with 700 cavalrymen, was unknown to the rebels.

Would Abolish Hanging.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—Robert Bickerdike, M.P., Montreal, has given notice that he will move at the forthcoming session to abolish capital punishment, and J. H. Burnham, M.P., of Peterboro, will reintroduce his bill to abolish honorary titles in Canada now granted on recommendation of the Governor-General-in-Council.

Broken Rail Wrecks Train.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 13. — A broken rail on the Welland division of the Grand Trunk caused the derailment of 25 cars of a 30-car train near Allanburg, several cars being smashed and traffic delayed until last night. The crew escape injury.

Merry Del Val Arch-Priest.

ROME, Jan. 13.—The Pope has appointed Cardinal Merry Del Val, Arch-priest of St. Peter's, to succeed the late Cardinal Rampolla, according to the official announcement made last night. A deputation of the Canons of St. Peter's was received in audience by the Pope yesterday afternoon and discussed with the Pontiff the appointment of the new Arch-priest.

Cardinal Merry Del Val is well-known throughout Canada, having been Papal Delegate here some years ago.

Academy of International Law.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 13.—An academy of international law is to be established here in connection with the peace organizations. Negotiations to this end have been in progress for several days with various committees of the peace associations, including the Carnegie Peace Endowment, and these were successfully concluded yesterday.

Will Titanic Claimants Get Thirteen Million Dollars?

AMERICAN OR BRITISH LAW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. — Compensation for the stupendous loss of life and property when the steamship Titanic went to the bottom of the ocean will be put for consideration to-day by the Supreme Court. On the outcome of the argument of some of America's leading Admiralty lawyers will depend whether the Ocean Steam Navigation Co., the owners of the Titanic, must face the payment of some $13,000,000 of claims, or whether its liability is to be limited to $90,000.

Intricate questions of law which have perplexed legal minds of the United States and Great Britain ever since the Titanic's maiden voyage was ended by the iceberg's fatal blow, and which have not yet been decided by the British courts, will be up for decision.

The navigation company seeks to have the American court hold the Admiralty laws and rules of the United States applicable to the case, and thereby limit the liability of the company to the salvage from the wreck and the passenger and freight money received on the voyage, amounting in all to some $90,000.

American law does not apply, because the disaster occurred on the high seas. Furthermore, it is contended that the American law contemplates limitation of liability only when the disaster occurs from striking an iceberg. Some of the lawyers also argue further that British law fixes the liability of the owner because the Titanic carried the British flag, and that the Supreme Court should so hold.

Should the British law be held applicable, the American court would have to determine whether it shall proceed to take jurisdiction of the claims and enforce the British law, or whether the claimants must sue in Britain. In either case, it is said, a prolonged contest would result.

HON. MR. LAIRD DEAD.

Indian Commissioner's Illness Proves Fatal.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — Hon. David Laird, Indian commissioner for Canada, died at his residence here yesterday morning, after an illness of a few days. He contracted a chill while at his office last Tuesday and bronchitis developed. Deceased was 80 years of age and known as a statesman from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He was one of the builders of Canada, having been largely instrumental in bringing Prince Edward Island into the Dominion in 1873. He was also an ex-Minister of the Interior and ex-governor of the Northwest Territories. Mrs. Mathieson, wife of the Premier of Prince Edward Island, is a daughter and was at his bedside when the end came.

Beat Down Guards.

BRIDGETON, N.J., Jan. 13.—Two prisoners, known in police circles as the "Pink Shirt Twins," sawed and fought their way out of the Cumberland County Jail here early yesterday. They cut away two bars of their cell, and using them as weapons, beat a guard and a "trusty" into unconsciousness. They then bound and gagged them and walked out of the jail.

The escaped prisoners are Harry Jordan and Edward Haight. They were recently paroled from the penitentiary in Philadelphia and were arrested here several months ago charged with burglary.

Agriculture Course Begins.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 13.—An important addition to the Woodstock Collegiate Institute curriculum was inaugurated yesterday morning when a four weeks' course in agricultural instruction was started. The course is being conducted jointly by the Board of Education and the local representatives of the Department of Agriculture. Representatives of the Board of Education and the City Council were present for the opening ceremonies and gave the undertaking their approval.

Tidal Wave at Callao.

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 13.—The seaport of Callao was inundated yesterday by a tidal wave accompanied at 1.45 yesterday morning by an earthquake lasting 55 seconds. No loss of life is reported.

The naval school at La Punta and some of the hotels were flooded. Telegraphic communication between here and the coast was interrupted, but the telephone continue in operation.

No similar inundation has occurred there since 1878.

Fatally Scalded In Wreck.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Jan. 13.—Pere Marquette passenger train No. 1, from Chicago to Grand Rapids, was wrecked near here yesterday forenoon, when the engine was derailed by sand and snow which had been blown on to the track. William Grandzow, engineer, was fatally scalded, and his fireman seriously hurt. The 150 passengers escaped injury.

Death of Brant Pioneer.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 13—The death of Wm. P. Croome, one of Brantford's best known and highly esteemed citizens, occurred at his late residence on the Mount Pleasant road on Sunday morning, Jan. 11. Mr. Croome was born in Bristol, Eng., in 1842

HE ALLEGES HERESY.

Bishop of Zanzibar's Controversy Has Roused England.

LONDON, Jan. 13. — Interest in the Kikuyu controversy continues unabated, and while the Archbishop of Canterbury's letter, published in The London Times last Saturday, had the effect of allaying the bitter feeling and stemming the tide of letters to the newspapers, the opinion is general that the adherents of the High Church party and the evangelical school are merely having a brief armistice, and that hostilities will be resumed with increased violence when the Bishop of Zanzibar arrives in London to make formal charges of heresy against the Bishops of Uganda and Mombasa. The Bishop of Uganda has already reached London, but is maintaining a discreet silence.

The cloud of issues raised has so obscured the original issue that for an intelligent insight into the present crisis it is necessary to return to the genesis of the controversy, which is found in the Bishop of Zanzibar's open letter to the Bishop of St. Alban's charging the Bishops of Uganda and Mombasa with "heresy in their teaching of the meaning and value of episcopacy."

A canon of Worcester sums up the real question at immediate issue as follows:

"The crux of the whole question seems to me to be not the matter of sentiment of whether or not the English Church can regard the religious efforts of the various dissenting bodies with a friendly eye, but whether the English Church can formally co-operate with non-Episcopal bodies; in fact, what is now the law of the Church of England guiding the actions of her ministers."

New Postal Agreement.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, announces a new agreement with the Government of Australia for the direct exchange of parcels, under which the present rate of 24 cents a pound up to 11 pounds either way is reduced after the first pound to 12 cents a pound. The reduced rate takes effect from Jan. 1, 1914. This will no doubt lead to an increased volume of parcel post business between the two countries.

ZAM-BUK Would have Saved this Lady $28

To enable you to test Zam-Buk at our expense we will send free trial box if you will cut out this advt., and mail it with 1c stamp and name of this paper to the ZAM-BUK CO. Toronto

Mrs. F. Gervais, of 126 Bleury Street, Montreal, writes:—"My baby girl developed a bad rash on her body and it made her very fretful and ill. She would not take food, and seemed very sick indeed. From fifteen pounds, her weight fell away to nine and a half pounds.

"I took her to a doctor who gave me a kind of lotion to use and I used it regularly, but the baby got no relief. The skin disease seemed to get worse and worse all the time we were doctoring for it, so we took the child to a second doctor. He told me to stop nursing the baby, and gave me other advice which I followed, but the skin disease got worse and worse.

"At this time a friend of mine visited us and, having seen the sad plight the baby was in, she said I did not know how to go about things. She took my baby to her home and applied Zam-Buk to its little body. This seemed to give the baby ease right from the first. It cured the sores and began to reduce the inflammation. I went on with the Zam-Buk treatment, and to my delight, within one week from first starting with Zam-Buk the child looked like a different baby altogether! Within a month the skin disease was cured completely, the baby's appetite had returned, and she was almost back at her normal weight. She now looks like the very picture of health.

"There is another feature of the case. One of the doctors has just sent me in a bill for $30! The treatment I got for that money left the child no better than before it was started. The cost of Zam-Buk treatment, which restored my child to health, was $2!"

WHY ZAM-BUK IS SO SUPERIOR

Zam-Buk is now recognized as the leading salve, because in general practice it had been found to do more real good in a greater number of cases than any other salve. There are many reasons for this. Most salves contain rancid animal fats. Zam-Buk is purely herbal. Most salves contain mineral coloring matter. Zam-Buk does not. Put any ordinary salves into a warm room and leave them undisturbed for a length of time. Then take a whiff of them! Do the same with Zam-Buk and you will find it pure, fresh, wholesome. Zam-Buk is healing, soothing and antiseptic all at the same time. Try it. Mothers especially should have it handy for the children's sores, etc.

Zam-Buk is a "short cut" to skin healing. Use it for all skin irritation and diseases, eczema, ulcers, blood poisons, chapped hands, cold sores, ringworm, scalp sores, old wounds, and for Piles. All druggists and stores, 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

The new Cort Theatre in Boston will be opened this month.

"To-day" has passed its one hundredth performance in New York.

Granville Barker hopes to establish a permanent repertoire theatre in London.

The Taliaferro sisters are appearing in a new comedy called "Young Wisdom."

Norman Hackett has been engaged to appear at the head of a stock company in Atlanta.

William A. Brady is soon to produce a playlet by Walter Hackett called "Don't Weaken."

George Bernard Shaw's play, "The Philanderer," has been given its first American performance in New York.

The English musical comedy, "The Girl on the Film," is proving one of the successes of the season in New York.

Le Matin, one of the most influential newspapers of Paris, is advocating the establishment of a State moving-picture theatre.

Miss Maude Adams is supported by a company of fifty players in the new four-act comedy, "The Legend of Leonora," by J. M. Barrie.

Hartley Manners, author of "Peg o' My Heart," has written a playlet called "Devil Montague," which will be used by Frank Kemble Cooper.

Announcement is made that Charlotte Walker will be seen next season in a dramatization of Jack London's novel, "The Valley of the Moon"

Louis Mann, with several able supporters, is touring the vaudeville circuit in a one-act version of his play, "Elevating a Husband."

Ann Meredith is to have one of the leading roles in Guy Bolton's comedy, "The Rule of Three," which is to be produced in New York soon.

Eugene Walter is planning to take a company to Australia to present "The Wolf," "The Easiest Way," and several other of his successful plays.

In her new play in which she has scored a decided success in Paris, Sarah Bernhardt takes the role of the old mother of a young criminal.

Frank Craven, well known as an actor, has written a play called "Too Many Cooks," which William A. Brady has accepted for early production.

The company of the Odeon in Paris will give performances this year at Monte Carlo, including an adaptation of "William Tell," which will enlist, it is said, many wonders of realistic stage settings.

Fraulein Hedwig Reicher, a beautiful and gifted young German tragedienne, who has acted in English, much on the American stage, has been specially selected by Gerhardt Hauptmann to create the role of Penelope in his historical allegorical drama, "The Boy of Odyssey." Plans are being made to present the piece for the first time in Berlin in the early spring.

Fatality of Whooping Cough

Many parents think lightly of whooping cough, and treat it as a necessary evil, not giving the child who has it any special attention.

The seriousness of whooping cough was emphasized by the Medical Health Officer in Toronto a few months ago, when he reported 14 deaths during the month from whooping cough, and only ten from scarlet fever, typhoid fever and measles combined.

So many people write to us about the relief and cure of whooping cough by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine that we can recommend it with the greatest confidence.

It loosens the cough, aids expectoration, and by its soothing influence prevents the terrible paroxysms of coughing which are so distressing to witness, and which wear away the strength of the child. By using this treatment the disease is held in check, and cured in a few weeks, instead of months. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the bottle you buy. There are many imitations.

A FAMOUS LORD'S RULES FOR MEMORY.

Lord Beaconsfield's receipt for a good memory was simple—never take a note. That is a somewhat doubtful rule; it has to be balanced by the truth in Jowett's warning, "A man should make a compact with his memory not to remember everything. Great memories, like that of Sir William Hamilton, are apt to disable judgment." But there is no doubt that sheer memory flourishes best where note-making is impossible. As an instance, Dudley Kidd tells how he saw a council of Kaffir chiefs discussing a legal case. A precedent of 60 or 70 years ago came up, and the old men, who had been children at that time, reconstructed it to the minutest detail, even to the exact colours of the various cattle concerned, with perfect unanimity.

Your remark that memory is largely a matter of sympathy is no doubt true, writes a correspondent. It explains suggestively why it is that in later years we remember our pleasant experiences more easily than our troubles. I once visited a village where I found the oldest inhabitant, a frail old man, who regaled me for an hour with quaint and comical reminiscences of his youth. With each fresh anecdote his ready laugh broke out. It appeared as though his life had been one long comedy. "Did you ever have any troubles?" I asked. "Whoy, yes, to be sure," said the patriarch, "but Oi've forgotten all they, 'cept there was anything funny about 'em."

Many a man's failure in this world may be attributed to the fact that he used blank cartridges when firing at the target of success.

A man never realizes how much sense one girl has who jilts him until another gets busy and marries him.

KISSING PUBLICLY IN LONDON STREETS.

The foreigner astonishes us now by kissing publicly in London streets. It was just the other way round in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Erasmus and many other visitors commented, usually with approval but always with surprise, upon English women's free manners in this respect, and some of them make a special point of the street. The England of 1470 was likened by Niklas Poffel to the Venusberg, since he had found in every town and inn lovely ladies willing to be kissed. "They, like the Germans, jest with them gladly, and give them friendly kisses. This they do openly in the church, in the street, everywhere." Laonicus considered English ways "excessively simple," since in every house and street were wives and daughters ready to be kissed.

No Rip Sleep There.

Joe Jefferson once played a one-night engagement as "Rip Van Winkle" in a small Indiana town. In the hotel at which he stopped was an Irish porter, who, from the serious interest he took in the house, might have been the proprietor. At six o'clock the next morning Mr. Jefferson was awakened by a violent thumping on his door. He had left no "call" order, but his sleep was spoiled, so he arose and soon appeared before the clerk, indignantly demanding to know why he had been called.

The Irishman was summoned. "Mike, there was no call for Mr. Jefferson," said the clerk. "Why did you disturb him?"

Taking the clerk by the coat the Hibernian led him to one side and said in a whisper: "He was shnoring like a horse, sorr, and Oi'd heerd the bhoys say as how we were wanst, afther shlapping for twinty years; so Oi sez to mesilf: 'Moike, it's comin' on to him ag'in, an' it's your duty to git him right out o' yer house."

A YEAR INDOORS

"For thirteen months I was so bad with chronic indigestion that I could not go out of doors. Nerves were unstrung, the heart bad and smothering feelings came on that I thought I would choke. Doctors' treatment failed me, so I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I thank for my present good health. I am now doing my housework and have a family of ten."

TOMMY KNEW JIMMY.

Speaking of useless remarks at a banquet, Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, told of a New England boy named Tommy and his Sunday school teacher.

On a recent Sabbath the teacher was trying to impress on Tommy the fact that there is nothing more beautiful in this world than an unselfish nature, and hoped that his heart was large and generous.

"It is this way, Tommy," said the teacher, "suppose you had two apples, a large one and a small one, and you were giving one of them to your little friend Jimmy, wouldn't you tell him to take the large one?"

"No, ma'am," was the rather unexpected response of Tommy.

"Why, Tommy!" exclaimed the teacher, in a disappointed way. "Why not?"

"I wouldn't have no chance to tell him," answered Tommy. "Before I could speak he would have the biggest one bit in two."

PERJURY PENALTIES.

Perjury, besides being one of the oldest of offences in the catalogue of crime, has always been very severely punished. In the days of the Roman Empire any one who committed perjury was thrown from a precipice, while the Greeks branded their false swearers. It is interesting to note that when the latter embraced the Christian religion the punishment was altered to that of having the tongue cut out, a sort of punishment which was considered to fit the crime in the early centuries. In the middle ages some countries adopted the system of giving the perjurer the punishment for the crime he falsely accused another of. Thus, if he swore a neighbour had committed murder and the charge was disproved, the perjurer would be sentenced to death and the other penalties of the penal code were exacted for the particular crime alleged.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

THE NOURISHING DATE

The Eastern peoples have known for centuries just what we are beginning to learn, that the date is more than a mere delicacy, being almost a perfect food. Until recent years, dates, figs, nuts, etc., were regarded by Americans as luxuries with which to top off a substantial dinner or eat between meals like candy. The present idea, however, that these products are foods is right. We need not think of them as delicacies, but may put them on a cost basis with other products.

By chemical analysis the date contains: Protein, 2.1; carbohydrate, 78.4; fat, 2.8; water, 15.4; ash, 1.3; which puts it into the starch and sugar class of "carbohydrates." It is just in this winter season that we need the heat and energy furnished by carbohydrates, and so the date offers a heat-producing food at a comparatively low cost.

Dates are most frequently eaten raw, but are equally good in many cooked forms, as many of the following recipes will indicate. When combined with nuts and used with milk, they form, indeed, a complete meal, as vegetarians have often proved.

* * *

Stewed Dates

Wash a pound of dates and let them stand in a pint of water overnight. Let them come to a boil, then simmer gently for a few minutes, flavouring with a few drops of lemon or lime or orange juice. Remove the fruit, add a little sugar to the liquid left in the saucepan, and simmer until thickened. Pour over the fruit and serve cold.

* * *

Date Sandwiches.

Chop stoned dates until soft enough to spread. Use thin slices of buttered bread and make sandwiches. Instead of buttering the bread one may substitute finely-chopped nuts, if desired. These sandwiches will make a most satisfying luncheon.

* * *

Date Gems.

Stone and chop half a cup of dates. Beat separately the yolk and white of one egg. Add the yolk to the dates, with a pinch of salt, a half pint of sweet milk, two scant cups of flour, into which two teaspoonfuls of baking powder of oil or butter, and beat in the whipped white of egg. Bake briskly for twenty minutes.

* * *

Date Souffle.

Make an orange or lemon gelatine. When this begins to congeal slightly upon being taken from the fire and whipped while cooling, add the well-beaten whites of two eggs and one cup of chopped dates. Place in a mould and set on ice.

SWEET POTATOES — SOUTHERN STYLE.

Parboil some sound sweet potatoes and skin them. Cut in slices a third of an inch thick. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of sliced potatoes, sprinkle with sugar, and then put another layer and another sprinkling of sugar. Add half a cupful of water. Cover and cook in a moderate oven until they are tender and almost transparent.

* * *

SWEET POTATO PIE.

Rub two large boiled sweet potatoes through a sieve. Add the yolks of three eggs, sugar, spices, molasses, and ginger to taste, and enough milk to make a thin cutard. Add a little salt, too. Bake with an under crust until firm. Add a meringue, brown, chill, and preserve.

* * *

SWEET POTATO WAFFLES.

Cream a tablespoonful each of butter and cream and add a beaten egg. Then add a cupful of flour, teaspoonful of baking powder, a little salt, two cupfuls of milk, some cayenne pepper, and mashed sweet potato enough to make a smooth batter. Cook on waffle irons.

* * *

SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES.

Slice cold boiled sweet potatoes and put them in a layer, about an inch thick, in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle them with granulated sugar and add bits of buter. Continue with butter and sugar and sweet potatoes until the dish is full. Add a sprinkling of salt, sugar, and dots of butter on top and then add a little boiling water. When they are brown they are ready to serve.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING.

Grate a raw sweet potato and add it to a quart of hot milk. Let it come to a boil and add two tablespoonfuls of butter. Remove from the fire and beat in four eggs that have been beaten creamy. Season with salt and pepper and then pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake about twenty-five minutes, until nicely browned.

* * *

SWEET POTATO PUFFS.

Steam five large sweet potatoes until tender, then remove the skins and put the pulp through a fine sieve. Add a tablespoonful of sugar, a little salt, some onion juice, and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat with an egg beater until light and smooth, and then add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour the batter into buttered muffin rings or custard cups, and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Serve with roast chicken. As this is a custard-like mixture it is well to set the muffin pans or cups into a dish containing water while they are cooking.

* * *

SWEET POTATO CROQUETTES.

Mash boiled sweet potatoes, add melted butter, pepper, and salt, form into little cakes, dip in beaten egg and breadcrumbs, and fry in deep hot fat for three minutes.

Two Chorus Girls Out of Work.

They sat in a cheap Broadway restaurant—two chorus girls out of work. It was Thanksgiving day.

"When I came to New York a year ago," said the blonde, "I told the folks at home that I'd probably return for Thanksgiving in a private car. Back in Oberlin they think I'm doing fine. I hadn't the heart to tell them the truth."

"That's what they think of me back in Wheeling," said the other girl quietly. "The paper back home printed my picture last Sunday showing me to be a big actress."

"They're having turkey and cranberries at my house back home to-night," said the first.

"Same at my home," said the other.

The first put her face in her hands and was silent. A moment later the waiter approached them.

"What'll you have?" he asked.

"An egg sandwich and a cup of coffee," came from the blonde.

"Same for me," said the other.

The waiter smiled, turned on his heel and departed in the direction of the kitchen. Two heads went into two pairs of hands and a silence fell over the little party. Two girls were thinking, and thinking hard.

DODGED A LEGACY

Romance of a Soldier of the French Foreign Legion.

CAST ASIDE MANY MILLIONS.

This Singular Titled Austrian Refused to Disclose His Identity When His Good Fortune Became Known, and His Fate is an Unsolved Mystery.

The French Foreign Legion is the most picturesque military organization in the world. It is the refuge of men of all nations gone wrong through impulse or misfortune who wish to bury themselves in oblivion while fighting to regain an honorable place in the world of life and activity.

The rank and file of the corps is composed of princes, dukes, marquises, counts and viscounts, generals and officers of all grades, all arms, of the armies of all countries, magistrates, financiers, diplomats, lawyers and professional functionaries of all sorts; honest adventurers who simply want to "see the world;" the neurasthenic, the disheartened, the unemployed; those who, having lost everything but honor or having lost honor itself, would make a new start.

All this diverse human metal, thrown into the melting pot together, is eventually molded into that brave, stoic, loyal, devoted, patient and tenacious prototype of the man of arms, the Legionary.

Of the Foreign Legion a thousand romantic tales are told, of which the following true story may be taken as an example:

One day General Bruneau, commander of the legion, received a registered letter, postmarked Vienna and signed by the representative of a well known Austrian detective agency, to the following effect:

Monsieur le General—Will you kindly inform me if a young man of Austro-Hungarian nationality, supposed to have enlisted in the Foreign Legion under the name of Justus Perth, is now at Sadia? You will understand the interest we have in finding him when I inform you confidentially that in consequence of unforeseen happenings he has become, without his knowledge or expectation, sole heir to a fortune of 12,000,000 crowns. Inclosed is a photograph taken when he was a student at the University of Prague.

The photograph showed a stocky youth of perhaps twenty to twenty-two years of age and whose somewhat beefy face was fringed with precocious whiskers. He wore eyeglasses, which made it difficult to judge of the form and shade of his eyes.

General Bruneau's first step was to have his secretary-adjutant search the enlistment rolls for the name of Justus Perth. No such name appeared. Then he had all the Austrians of the detachment line up and scanned their faces in the hope of identifying the original of the photograph. Only two, both of whom were recent arrivals, showed possible traits of resemblance, and these in a very imperfect degree.

These two Austrians were closely examined by Dhuermer, the secretary, who spoke the German language fluently. Both denied stubbornly that they had ever used or heard of the name of Justus Perth.

"Possibly it may loosen your tongues," pursued the secretary, "if I tell you why the general is looking for this Perth. The fellow has just inherited 12,000,000 crowns. Now, is either one of you Justus Perth?"

"Nein."

"Nein."

"Send them back to their companies. It is of no use," said General Bruneau.

Time passed and the incident had been forgotten when in 1908 there came to Bruneau a formidable looking envelope bearing the government seal of the minister of foreign affairs. It inclosed a letter which drew from the officer an exclamation of surprise.

This letter was a diplomatic paraphrase of the former inquiry by the Vienna secret service agency regarding Justus Perth. It insisted upon further investigation, to be conducted with more care and discretion than in the previous instance. Furthermore, the commandant was confidentially advised that "Justus Perth" was only a fictitious name and that the real title of the person to be found at any price was Count Otto von X.

Another photograph, more recent than the one which had accompanied the first inquiry, was appended.

"No sooner did I set eyes on this photograph," continued Bruneau, "than I made the astounding discovery that the Count Otto von X., the pseudo Justus Perth, was none other than the secretary-adjutant, Dhuermer, who had so energetically questioned the two bewildered Austrians called up before me on the former occasion!

"My course was now simple enough. Shortly after that first interrogatory our secretary-interpreter, Dhuermer, had been transferred to Tonkin, in regular course of the annual relief of the battalions serving there. This information I wired to headquarters.

"Next day the response came:

"Legionary Dhuermer sent home account of health, en route Singapore.

"Another cipher telegram to the French consul at Singapore brought the following:

"Legionary Dhuermer, alias Count Otto von X., disappeared from transport steamer, roadstead of Singapore; cannot be found.

"And the mystery remains unsolved to this day."

Around their campfires in the Sahara what tales might not be told if ever these silent, impassive Trappists of action should but speak their stories!—Los Angeles Tribune.

From Bad to Worse.

Hemmandhaw's face wore a worried look.

"I'm in trouble," he said. "I don't seem to be able to get up early in the morning."

"Why don't you get yourself a nice little alarm clock?" the head bookkeeper suggested.

"I did, but I didn't hear the thing when it went off."

"Then why don't you get a big one?"

"I did that, too, and it made me lose too much time."

"Made you lose time?"

"Yes. It rang so loudly that it awakened the man in the next room, and he beat me to the washroom."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Why Do They Do This?

Miss Prim (who is forty-one)—Yes, I was thirty only last week. Think of it! The caller (aged thirty-seven, with a charming insincerity)—Dear me! I couldn't have guessed you were more than four years my senior. I will be twenty-five next month. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UNITED STATES ENGLISH.

They Think Abroad We Are Forming a New Language Here.

Unless they are fairly conversant with current transatlantic fiction, and, above all, with the newspapers of today, Englishmen do not realize that a new language seems in process of formation in the United States. A Danish savant, the professor of languages at the Copenhagen university, has predicted that in a few centuries "they will be speaking American over in England instead of English." He is also of the opinion that "the so called slang of the present American tongue is far more poetical, picturesque and serviceable than the English of Shakespeare's time."

Making allowance for a certain exaggeration, this expression of opinion is notable as showing that an expert believes a new American "language" to be in course of development. American slang is certainly more forceful and expressive than the argot of the British isles, and, although much of it is quite unnecessary, it consists in large part of the employment of very up to date metaphor, rather than the use of "cant phrases," as they were termed in the eighteenth century.

In fact, the use of metaphor is so pronounced that an Englishman, otherwise ignorant of "good United States lingo" might understand much of it if he were conversant with the technical terms employed in engineering or railway operations. It is creeping into English rather rapidly, a fact heartily to be deplored.—London Globe.

SWEET POTATOES IN JAPAN.

One of the Three Things There Native Women Really Love.

The sweet potato seems to have emigrated from China via the Loo Choo islands to Japan. Nearly two centuries ago Aoki Konyo recommended to the shogun the cultivation of the sweet potato all over the empire. In grateful memory of the benefactor there now stands over Aoki's grave a monument with this unique inscription, "The potato professor."

One of the distinguishing features of Tokyo is the sweet potato bakeries, where, during the colder months, hot potatoes prove a godsend to many. Around these potato shops the poorer children crowd with their coppers, anxious for the morsel which is to them what milk chocolate is to children of the west. Rumor has it that there are but three things the Japanese woman really loves—pumpkin, theater going and sweet potato.

At present there are more than 1,600 potato ovens in Tokyo, and the sale of roast potatoes annually totals more than 1,000,000 yen. In no country in the world can the poor people get pure, wholesome food more conveniently and economically than in Japan. Whether one gets a box of rice with pickles and dry fish in a station or a pot of tea for 2½ cents on the train, it is always clean and attractively served.—Detroit News Tribune.

The Skepticism of Posterity.

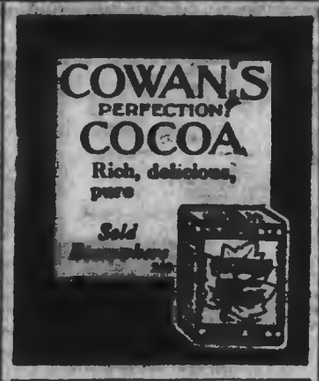
There is one very large, very sad and very certain truth about all the relations of past and future. That truth is this—the future will not believe us. It will not believe our most solemn and profound assertions. It will rationalize them or ridicule them. In one way or another it will explain them away, for that is the most certain thing about the attitude of men toward their remote ancestors. They will believe the testimony of material things or of their own conjectures, but never the sworn word of their fathers. Were it not so there would be no room for historical criticism or perhaps for history as a science at all.—Hilaire Belloc in Pall Mall Magazine.

Senseless Question.

Briggs had hired a horse to take a little exercise. He got more exercise than he wanted, and as he limped to the side of the road to rest himself a kind friend asked him:

"What did you come down so quick for?"

"What did I come down so quick for? Do you see anything up in the air for me to hold on to?" he asked grimly. —Chicago News.



Aviation Notes.

A German chemical plant which yields much hydrogen gas as a byproduct has built a three mile pipe line to supply it to dirigible balloons.

A dummy aeroplane secured to a pivot, but swayed by the wind, has been designed to get students acquainted with the sensation of flying.

In a Paris aerodynamic laboratory for testing model aeroplanes wind speeds up to seventy-one miles an hour are produced by ingenious machinery.

Household Hints.

Medicine bottles, drink or food should be covered in the sickroom.

Stick a pin through the cork of every bottle that contains poison, and this may save tragic mistakes when seeking medicine in the dark.

If the cloth upon the table of the living room had little weights fastened securely to each of its four corners it would not be displaced by every one who happened to touch it in passing.

Science Siftings.

The eye cannot see a molecule, an atom or an electron.

Taking cognizance of the various movements of the earth, a person taking a three mile stroll has traveled 85,255 miles.

Every beat of the heart sends two ounces of blood into the hair-like blood vessels called capillaries, lining the air cells of the lungs, and from this air the blood is filled with oxygen.

The Cookbook.

The best way to make boiled ham juicy and tender is to leave it in the water in which it is boiled until quite cold.

Leftover kidney minced and mixed with a little gravy or some tomatoes will be found a welcome addition to the breakfast or luncheon omelet.

The water in which any vegetables except potatoes or cabbage have been cooked may be used for the basis of a soup or to add to the stock kettle. There is considerable nutriment in it.

How She Knew.

"I do think," exclaimed Mrs. Tolker indignantly, "that Mrs. Gadabout is the most aggravatingly inquisitive woman, if I must say so, I ever knew. Why, I never pass her on the street but what she invariably turns her head and stares back at me to see what I've got on and how it sits from behind."

"How—er—that is, I was wondering, my dear, how you found out that the mean thing looked back. Some one tell you?" inquired Mr. Tolker innocently.

And Mrs. Tolker straightaway turned the stream of her indignation, seething hot, from Mrs. Gadabout to her "insinuating wretch of a husband," as she fondly termed him, and after the first pyrotechnic outburst refused to speak to the fortunate man for the rest of the evening.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Real Founders of Russian Music.

The old saying that a man must devote his whole life to one thing to become really great finds a curious exception in the founders of the new Russian music. The most brilliant men in this work all originally followed other lines. Tschaikowsky was a lawyer; Caesar Cui was professor of fortifications in the Military Academy of St. Petersburg and is today lieutenant general of Russian engineers; Borodine was a physician; Rimsky-Korsakov was an officer in the Russian navy; Balaieff was a timber merchant; Moussorgsky was a soldier, being an officer in one of the most famous regiments, and Sokalsky was in the diplomatic service, being stationed for several years in New York and afterward becoming editor of the principal newspaper of Odessa.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Animal Dances.

You know about the turkey trot,
The monkey twist;
The bunny hug, as like as not,
Is on your list.

You know the weasel dip, of course,
The pigeon wing,
And that great dance, the crazy horse,
The latest thing.

I love the neat gorilla flop,
The kangaroo,
The proper place to give a hop
Is at the zoo.

SAWDUST HAS MANY USES.

Once Considered Waste, It Is Now a Very Valuable Product.

The sawdust man in New York is a very important business man. The wholesale sawdust dealer advertises all kinds of sawdust and requests that you will telephone your needs so that there may be an early delivery.

It used to be that any one who wanted sawdust went to the sawmill and asked for as much as he wanted. There was only one kind of sawdust in the good old days and that was an unimportant product, which anybody could have for the asking. Now the sawdust wholesaler will tell you that sawdust is a very valuable product and that the sawdust business is offering greater opportunities.

There are about sixty kinds of sawdust on the market, so says the sawdust expert, and all of them have their stated uses in the realm of trade.

All the way from the preparation of food to the polishing of precious metal ranges the usefulness of sawdust. The hardwood dusts are used for polishing in some jewelers' shops and cheaper sawdusts are used for polishing less valuable metal work. In packing and making cushions, for the covering of floors and in the fur business, sawdust is useful.—New York Herald.

Legend of Buckingham Palace.

If William IV. had gained his way Buckingham palace would be serving as parliament house. Two days after the old houses of parliament were burned Lord Brougham, who was then first commissioner of works, records in his diary: "Went to St. James' and saw his majesty. I cannot say he was much affected by the calamity, rather the reverse. He seemed delighted at having an opportunity of getting rid of Buckingham palace, said he meant it as a permanent gift for parliament and that it would be the finest thing in Europe. At 3 o'clock the king and queen went over the ruins. The king looked gratified as if at a show. Just before getting into his carriage he called the speaker and me to him and said: 'Mind, I mean Buckingham palace as a permanent gift. Mind that.'" —London Chronicle.

Embarrassing.

"Do you ever see the president?" asked Willie of his uncle, who lived in Washington.

"Yes; nearly every day," was the reply.

"And does he ever see you?" queried the little fellow.—Chicago News.

Thought Nothing But Death Would End Her Misery.

WAS TROUBLED WITH Heart Disease.

Mrs. J. D. Talbut, Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from heart disease, and leaking valves. I have had resource to every kind of treatment I could think might help me, including the skill of several doctors. I suffered so for years that at times I have felt that nothing but death could end my misery. I was advised by a friend, who had suffered untold pain and misery, just as I had, and had been cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, to give them a trial, so I decided to do so. I am delighted with the result, as I am now completely cured, and can eat and sleep as I have not done for years.

"You are at liberty to use my name at any time as I am convinced they are the best pills on the market for any form of heart disease."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS! GROW LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR! LUSTROUS, CHARMING—25 CENT DANDERINE.

No More Dandruff or Falling Hair —A Real Surprise Awaits You.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, way and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an apearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp —Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Cold Storage Men Repudiate Blame.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. — Cold storage plant magnates, with press agents and lawyers, are in Washington clamoring for an opportunity to prove to the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce, that refrigerated storage of eatables has nothing to do with the high cost of living. They came to Washington confident they would be heard to-day, but the committee has put the bill introduced by Representative Mackellar, on which hearings were to be heard into storage for at least a month.

Berlin's Furniture Show.

BERLIN, Ont., Jan. 13.—The third annual exhibition of furniture men of Berlin and Waterloo opened yesterday. There are twenty-eight exhibitors, a number of whom are showing in the old W. G. & R. factory building on Queen street, while others are using their own show rooms at their factories. The exhibition continues for the week, with a banquet on Thursday night.

Three Men Loved Same Girl.

PAUPORES, Minn., Jan. 13.—David Craig, 57 years old, and Sandy Rogers, 60, both farmers, Sunday were shot and killed by Harry Reely, aged 35, who then committed suicide.

Reely was said to have been infatuated with a 16-year-old school girl and objected to the attentions paid her by Rogers and Craig, who were also single.

Former Creemore Man Kills Himself.

TOFIELD, Alta., Jan. 13.—Albert Trent, rancher, living ten miles north of here, killed himself yesterday in the granary on his farm, blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. WILL HOLD JUBILEE.

Prince Edward Island Asks Dominion to Co-operate.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—The Dominion Government has been invited by Hon. A. J. Matheson, Premier of Prince Edward Island, to take part in the jubilee of the Charlottetown conference which will be celebrated next midsummer. It was at the farmers' Charlottetown conference in 1864 that the first steps were taken which resulted in the confederation of the provinces of Canada in 1867. The only living member of that conference is Sir Charles Tupper, and it is hoped that he will be able to be present at the jubilee celebration.

Premier Matheson asks that the Dominion Government co-operate with the Prince Edward Island Government in making the celebration national in character.

Premier Borden has replied that the Government will co-operate in every way possible.

Senator Cox Ill.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Senator Geo. A. Cox, for many years a leader in the financial world of Toronto, yesterday, owing to ill-health, resigned the office of President of the Canada Life Assurance Co.

His physician, Dr. J. L. Davison; stated last night that the Senator was seriously ill, and it is known that his condition has been causing grave anxiety to his family and friends. Senator Cox is resting quietly at his home in Sherbourne street.

Regularity

of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. Salts and other harsh mineral purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills—entirely vegetable—regulate the bowels effectively without weakening, sickening or griping. Use

BEST LAXATIVE FOR BOWELS—"CASCARETS"

They Clean Liver, Sweeten Stomach, End Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Indigestion, Constipation

Get a 10-cent box.

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cent a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

LOTS OF EARTHQUAKES.

This Japanese Town Had 350 In Rapid Succession.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 13.—A series of 350 slight earthquakes shook the town of Kagoshima, at the southern end of the island of Kiushiu, yesterday, and were followed by the eruption of a volcano on Sakura, a small island in the Gulf of Kagoshima, where two villages were buried in ashes.

The earthquakes continue incessantly, and the work of rescuing the inhabitants of Sakura by boats, which have proceeded there across the intervening th— miles of water from Kagoshima, is extremely difficult.

Ashes have fallen all day in Kagoshima itself, and telegraphic communication with the capital is interrupted.

Dr. McDougall of Oxford says that it is right and proper to laugh at others' mishaps, thus turning into a stimulant which promotes well being a mass of minor ills. Which is quite true, no doubt. Any one can try it for himself, beginning with his own mishaps.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

The sheep and lamb trade was active. Sheep, ewes, $6.25 to $6.50; rams, $5 to $5.50; culls, $3 to $4; lambs, $9 to $9.35.

Hogs

Hogs, selects, fed and watered, sold at $9 to $9.10.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—Trade was good today at the local stock yards for butchers' cattle. The majority of shipments were received before the storm began to interrupt traffic. Some, however, did not arrive until quite late on that account. Receipts on the market at the West End Stock Yards were 900 cattle, 2500 sheep and lambs, 3640 hogs and 150 calves.

A good quality of beef was offered. Butchers' bulls were slightly easier on large receipts. Other prices held steady. A large shipment of western hogs, consisting of 3 car loads, was received, and tended to depress live pork prices down. Prices for selects eased off 25c, as the shipment of western selected hogs sold lower by that margin.

Sheep were offered freely and the price was easy. The undertone to the market for lambs was also easy and demand light. Prices ranged between 4½c to 7½c per pound. A fair demand for calves held prices very steady. Quotations:

Good bulls, $7 to $7.25; choice butchers' cattle, $7.25 to $7.50; fair butchers' cattle, $6.75 to $7; medium butchers' cattle, $7.25 to $7.50; butchers' cows, good, $6.75 to $7; fair, $6.25 to $6.50; bulls, $4 to $6.75; feeding steers, $5.25 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.50 to $5; hogs, fed and watered, $9.50 to $9.75; sows, $7.50; stags, $5; calves, $3 to $15.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 4500; fairly active; good to choice steady; common 10c to 15c lower; prime steers, $8.75 to $9.40; shipping, $8 to $8.65; butchers, $7 to $8.40; heifers, $6 to $8; cows, $3.60 to $7.25; bulls, $5.40 to $7.50; stockers and feeders, $5.50 to $7; stock heifers, $5.25 to $5.75; fresh cows and springers steady, $35 to $90.

Hogs—Receipts, 26,000; 15c lower; heavy, mixed and yorkers, $8.45 to $8.50; pigs, $8.35 to $8.40; roughs, $7.50 to $7.65; stags, $6 to $7.65; dairies, $8.35 to $8.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 18,000; active; mixed sheep, 15c higher; others steady; lambs, $8.50 to $9.40; yearlings, $6 to $7.25; wethers, $6.75 to $6.25; ewes, $3 to $5.75; sheep, mixed, $5.75 to $6.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 9000; market, irregular; beeves, $4.65 to $8.40; Texas steers, $6.25 to $8; stockers and feeders, $6 to $7.60; cows and heifers, $6.40 to $8.40; calves, $7.50 to $11.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 43,000; market, weak; light, $7.95 to $8.30; mixed, $8 to $8.30; heavy, $8 to $8.25; rough, $8 to $8.10; pigs, $6.75 to $7.95; bulk of sales, $8.10 to $8.30.

Sheep—Receipts, 40,000; market, mostly 10c to 15c lower; native, $4.25 to $6.10; yearlings, $5.90 to $7.10; lambs, native, $6.75 to $8.25.

Labor Saving Postman.

One of the sights to be remembered in Portugal, said the Rev. H. O. Fenton, lecturing at the Royal Photographic society, was that of the postman delivering his letters among the congregation at church on Sunday, thereby saving himself many a weary walk.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Word Improve.

Improve at first meant to refute, to condemn or disapprove. In the French it means precisely the opposite of the English word. Milton uses it in the sense of increase. Only in the course of ages did it take on the present signification of bettering.

Unsociable.

Gabe—Smith is an unsociable cuss, isn't he? Steve—Should say so. Why, that guy wouldn't even talk in his sleep.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take two cups of granulated sugar, add one cup of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex ($0 cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly. Any housewife can easily prepare it in five minutes.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and tastes pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, bronchitis, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this recipe, if the genuine Pinex is used. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you, if you ask him. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

CAUSTIC CRITICS.

When Poet Clashes With Poet Then Comes a War of Wit.

Tennyson has been severely handled by his fellow writers. Bulwer-Lytton killed three birds with a stone when he spoke of Tennyson's

Jingling medley of purloined conceits,
Out-babying Wordsworth and out-glittering Keats

George Meredith said of the "Holy Grail" that "the lines are satin lengths, the figures Sevres china. Why, this stuff is not the muse—it's misery. The man has got hold of the muse's clothes-line and hangs it with jewelry." The "Idylls of the King" are "yards of linen drapery for the delight of ladies."

But, then, Tennyson once said of Meredith that reading him was like wading through glue. And if Meredith called Matthew Arnold "a dandy Isaiah," George Moore has set it down that "in George Meredith there is nothing but crackjaw sentences, empty and unpleasant in the mouth as sterile nuts," not a particularly happy bit of style in itself.

Of Carlyle's "French Revolution" Gilliam said, "The style is so abominable I could not get on with it," and of Hallam's "European History" Carlyle remarked, "Eh! The poor, miserable skeleton of a book."—New York Post.

Telepathy.

"Telepathy" is an instance of a new-fangled word for an old thing. Bacon called it "sympathy" between two distant minds. Isaak Walton similarly explained Dr. Dunne's vision in Paris of his wife and dead child, observing that "if two lutes are strung to an exact harmony and one is struck the other sounds." Scottish highlanders, who would have been puzzled by the word "telepathy," have long been familiar with the idea for which it stands. Andrew Lang quoted the case of a poor highland woman who wrote to her son in Glasgow, "Don't be thinking too much of us, or I shall be seeing you some evening in the byre."

My father once had a curious telepathic experience. He was dressing in his bedroom one morning when he suddenly saw the face of a Scotch servant girl, contorted with agony, in the looking glass before him. He went downstairs to the kitchen and found the girl writhing in a fit upon the floor, her face exactly as he had seen it in the mirror.—London Spectator.

Starting the Day Right

Do you begin the day with a "grouch"? Are you tired in the mornings? Do you fail to benefit by the restorative influence of sleep, which should make good the energy and vitality consumed by the day's work?

Then you are rapidly becoming bankrupt so far as health is concerned. You should look to your habits of eating, make sure that you get lots of fresh air in your sleeping apartments, and restore wasted vitality by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure does not induce sleep by any drugging effect, but when you have been using it for a few days and get the nervous system into condition you find yourself resting and sleeping naturally and healthfully. By keeping up this restorative treatment you will be able to make good the waste and fill the exhausted nervous system with new vigour and energy. This means thorough cure of such symptoms as headache, sleeplessness, indigestion and tired, listless feelings.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE RESCUE OF ESSIE

Everybody knew the Klinkers. They had been hanging on to the edges of things for years, while all their acquaintances wondered how on earth they did it.

When other families whose heads earned good salaries could not afford porterhouse steak and opera tickets, the Klinkers somehow managed to emerge from the entrance to their apartment building with aigrettes in their hair and enter big, impressive automobiles.

Essie Klinker was 31 and unmarried. She was tall and thin, with a tilt of the head that hypnotised the people into whispering that she was aristocratic looking. Essie would have fainted at the suggestion that she get a job downtown ,since her father seemed unable to hold one. She manicured her nails beautifully and evolved wonderful costumes from garments handed over by certain rich and distant relations. Essie in a made-over gown, with the active consciousnesa of unpaid butchers', grocers' and dry goods bills, was still able to cow the Diggins girls across the street, who were fat and rosy, and whose father had heaps of money in the bank.

Essie's mother was a shrimp-like little woman, with a perpetual frown of worry, for it required much mental effort to conduct a household on nothing.

Occasionally Essie's father would condescend to accept remuneration at the hands of some vulgar employer, but he never was able to endure the association long. There came occasional cheques from the distant rich relatives. About these cheques the Klinkers never spoke, but they were put to immediate use when they were received. It was the rich relatives' automobiles and theatre tickets that the Klinkers enjoyed—but when Essie spoke about their outings to the Diggins girls, she always told how her father bought the tickets the last time he was downtown, and everything was sold out, so they had to take a box.

Once Mrs. Klinker called on Mrs. Spring in the same apartment building and said she had decided that her apartment was too crowded, so Mrs. Spring could have the old mahogany davenport she was so much in love with—and the price was ridiculously low, only $75. Mrs. Spring, who one day had inadvertently expressed admiration for some of the Klinkers' old mahogany and who had no room for the davenport, at the end of the interview bewilderedly found herself in possession of that piece of furniture, and minus the money that she had intended to devote toward buying a new fur coat. The fact that Essie Klinker appeared in new furs shortly after the transaction only added to Mrs. Spring's bewilderment.

But the person whom the Klinkers caused most exasperation was Mrs. Dormor. She kept house for her bachelor brother, and was able to live almost luxuriously. So it rasped her soul when Mrs. Klinker, in a shabby suit and a five-year-old hat, frankly patronised her.

"I met her in the hall," Mrs. Dormor related in indignant gasps to her brother, "and I had on my new $60 suit and the furs you gave me on my birthday, and that woman had the nerve to look me over and remark that it was wonderful what bargains one could get nowadays in the cheap ready-mades! She added that it must be such a comfort to me!"

Mrs. Dormor's brother laughed, thus increasing her wrath. He was stout and big and rosy and had a sense of humour. "That's great!" he said. "Essie Klinker seems to be a nice sort of girl, though—she can't help her family!"

Mrs. Dormor sizzled. "That Essie always gives me afternoon tea when I drop in—and when I know they haven't a thing in the house for dinner but hamburg steak and carrots! And she acts as though she were giving me a real treat. It makes me want to slap her!"

"Don't!" advised her brother. "They'd apply to the Supreme Court of the United States for justice—and get away with it, too! Essie has nice eyes."

When one's bachelor brother says that a girl has nice eyes it behoves one to move warily. So Mrs. Dormor remained away from the Klinkers for a month and never mentioned their name. Then one Monday afternoon Mrs. Klinker ran upstairs and rapped on the Dormor door. She almost dragged Mrs. Dormor out. "You must come down to tea!" she insisted. "It's been such a long while. Oh, you really must!"

Essie was not visible when Mrs. Dormor entered the Klinkers' flat. Once or twice she thought she heard sounds of an altercation in the kitchen, but Mrs. Klinker called her attention to something, and she could not be certain. After a while Essie entered, slightly flushed, followed by the tea tray in the hands of the Klinkers' grumpy maid.

"I'm not sure about this tea," Essie murmured. "Our usual brand is very special, and the grocer was all out of it. Do you take one lump or two?"

Mrs. Dormor waited for her brother that night at the hall door, and began talking before he had shut it. "And when I got back from their fashionable afternoon tea," she concluded, "our cook informed me that just after I left home the Klinkers' cook had come up to borrow $2 of her for Essie to pay their washerwoman! Essie didn't have a cent, and the laundress wouldn't go without her money. Now what are you laughing at?"

"I'm not laughing," said Mrs. Dormor's brother with a final gasp, getting back into his overcoat and making for the door. "I'm going down this minute and ask Essie Klinker to marry me! She's a nice girl, and you don't suppose she likes having to do that sort of thing, do you? What a life for that lovely girl!"

WAS SUBJECT TO SEVERE BRONCHITIS.

Doctors Only Gave Temporary Relief.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup
CURED HIM.

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes. Neglected bronchitis is one of the most general causes of consumption, so cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. C. G. Dring, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Our little boy has been subject to severe bronchitis ever since birth, and different doctors claimed to be only able to relieve him temporarily. A neighbor advised us to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle, and after the third dose noticed a decided change, so kept on with it, and a couple of bottles were enough to completely cure him. Now we always keep a bottle on hand, and give it to him as soon as we notice him troubled with a cold, after which it disappears as if by magic. We recommend it to all our friends who find it is just as good as I say."

Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

Be sure and get the genuine "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FARMER'S WIFE ALMOST A WRECK

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Own Story.

London, Ont.—"I am a farmer's wife and a very busy woman. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back so bad that I could not get up or scarcely move without pain, and my periods were painful. My husband called in a good doctor and I was under his care for some time, but he did me little or no good. One day a friend of mine told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had been greatly helped by it. I began taking it and soon got well, and my periods became natural again. Since then I have had perfect health. In fact I have never felt so well in my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine many women need. If you think this letter will help other women please publish it."—Mrs. K. C. YOUNG, Tambling's Corner, London, Ontario, Canada.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

THE FARM WATER SUPPLY

Often Neglected and a Source of Contamination and Disease

Usually the first considerations in locating a well are convenience, cheapness of construction, and certainty of striking an adequate water supply. The well is therefore usually located near the house or the barn, and often in a low place subject to seepage or surface drainage from the barnyard or outbuildings, thus contaminating the water and making it dangerous to health. Water thus contaminated may cause typhoid fever or similar diseases, contaminate milk, butter, and vegetables sold from the farm, and altogether directly and indirectly cause great loss and suffering to the farmer and to the country at large.

Often these wells have clear, cold, sparkling water, and it is hard to make their owners believe that it cannot be safely used without first destroying the bacteria and removing the source of contamination. If this cannot be done, it is necessary to dig a new well in some location free from such danger. This should always be the first consideration in the location of a well.

It may cost a little more to distribute the water, but it is money well spent. A pure water supply is one of the most valuable assets of a farm. The water should always be piped to the house, barn and garden. The saving of labor much more than repays the cost of such distribution.

LOTS OF ADVENTURE

Harrow Graduate as Coal Heaver, Landed in Police Court

His face begrimed with soot and his clothing in a dilapidated condition, Arthur Thomas Perch, 19 years of age, a graduate of the famous Harrow School, of England, appeared in the Montreal police court charged with deserting the steamer "Sargasso" at Quebec.

The appearance of Perch in court terminated a worldwide search, extending over several months, conducted by his parents, resulting in finding the boy working as a fireman in the coal bunkers of the steamer Wabana. The young man's ambition was the navy but he finally signed for three years' apprenticeship on the merchant vessel Sargasso, but after six months sailing found the life very irksome. He wanted adventure so when the steamer was lying at Quebec he determined to get away from the binding discipline and see some of the world.

His sight seeing, however, did not go much farther than the few dollars he had in his pocket, and he was soon glad to get a job as coal heaver, at which he worked till discovered by the legal firm retained by his parents. The case against Perch was dismissed.

Clean Dust Pan

A new convenience for housewives is a long handled dust pan with a lid that opens automatically when it is placed on a floor, closing again as the pan is lifted.

Electricity in Foundries

An electric machine has been invented for preparing molding sand in foundries, breaking up the lumps, separating the grains and leaving it cool, loose and clean.

TYPES OF IMMIGRANTS

Some Advice to Newcomers From the Old Land

A Montreal gentleman related his experience with two types of immigrants. One, when asked what he would do for a living, said he was in no hurry. He had a little money to spend. He would visit the lakes and Niagara Falls. His money would keep him for a month or two, and when his funds got low he would settle down.

The other looked for a job on the day he landed in Montreal, and got one within three days. "Meeting him recently, he told me he was getting on splendidly. In the short time he had been working in Montreal he had saved $50, and hoped to add to his pile at a quicker rate during the summer."

We don't blame the first young man for wanting to see something of the new country. But "looking around" is apt to become a habit; and the money spent on a two months' holiday would be a huge comfort in the bank, and would make the young man a little more independent of his employers. Canada also is a place where labor is movable and where men are likely to see a good deal of the country in the course of their employment.

We do not by any means advise the newcomer to stick in the first place he happens to land in. This is a new and big country, with many opportunities. But the new arrival should, as soon as possible, get in touch with the business and industry of the country, and so learn what the opportunities are. The quest for adventure and sight-seeing may be combined with employment and the search for employment.

BIGGEST PAIR OF TUSKS

Burmese Elephant Carries Huge Ivory Adornments

In the stables of the Royal Palace at Mandalay, in Burma, there may be seen an elephant with a remarkable pair of tusks, which the Burmese declare are the largest in the world. These gigantic tusks measure as much as seven feet nine inches on the outside curve, with a greatest circumference of no less than seventeen inches. To naturalists the most extraordinary point about these tusks, which are still being carried by their owner, is that they virtually touch the ground and almost meet. Apparently, however, their owner experiences no inconvenience from these long and cumbrous appendages while taking exercise. As a zoological curiosity the elephant has naturally attracted wide attention, and it is said that several offers have already been received for the tusks when the animal should see fit to depart from this world.

Air-filled Clothing

A safety suit for aviators patented, in England is covered with paracinute like pockets and the entire garment can be inflated to break its wearer's fall.

A Big Ditch

The earth and rock taken out of the Panama canal would fill a tunnel 14 feet in diameter bored through the earth at the equator.

In Germany the lithographic trades unions have a membership exceeding 100,000.

Senator Derbyshire, of Brockville, Ont., writes:

To the Proprietors of Peps,
Toronto.

I am very pleased to express my high opinion of your preparation. Some time ago I contracted a very bad cold, which settled on my lungs and bronchial tubes. I almost lost my voice, was constantly coughing, and experienced considerable pain.

A friend offered me a box of Peps and I tried them. I was very much pleased with their almost instant action. They seemed to go direct to the sore places, stopped the coughing, and made my breathing easier. I continued their use for a short time, and they completely cured my cold. Since then, on one or two occasions, when I have contracted a bad cold, I have used them, and each time the result has been equally satisfactory.

My wife has had an experience somewhat similar, and although neither of us believes in very much medicine-taking, we regard Peps in a class by themselves, and such a handy effective remedy, that we always keep a supply in the house.

(Signed) D. DERBYSHIRE.
Senator,
Brockville, Ont.

Peps are small pastilles containing certain medicinal ingredients, which when placed upon the tongue immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, Peps fumes get there direct; and at once commence their work of healing.

All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. a box or post free from Peps Co., Dupont Street, Toronto for price. Send 1c. stamp for trial packet and booklet telling all about Peps.

Peps

A Matter of Pronunciation

"And what state did you say you were from?" asked the Britisher of a gentleman to whom he had been introduced at the horse show.

Your breezy Westerner is always glad to boost his own territory, and it was with considerable pride and emphasis that he announced, "I'm from I-o-wa, sir, the finest state in our Union."

"Bally strange, you know, about you Americans laughing at your cousins across the sea for the way we pronounce our words, C-h-o-l-m-o-n-de-l-e-y as Chumley, and B-e-a-u-c-h-a-m-p as Beecham, you know. I've one on you now, you know, old chap. Only yesterday I met a gentleman from your state at luncheon, you know, and he said he was from your state, 'the finest in our Union,' and all that sort of thing, only he pronounced it O-hi-o! Jove, I think that's one on you Americans, don't'cher know?"

Both True

That the Rev. Mr. Jerdan, who occupied the pulpit of the Lawson Memorial Church on a Sunday, said, in the course of a sermon, 'that many a man could keep a motor car that could not keep his temper." That the irreverent young man in the corner pew at once thought of something to clap it, and whispered to his neighbor: "There's many a man can change his mind that cannot change a bob."

Reduce the high cost of living

Do you know that buying soap in cakes is wasting from 25¢ to 40¢ on every dollar? N.P. SOAP, the best soap you ever used, costs 15¢ a bar. It weighs more than four 5¢ cakes of ordinary soap, and more than five cakes of some brands.

BUY IT, WEIGH IT, TRY IT.

HUNGRY HUSBAND BURNS HIS WIFE

Sets Fire to Her Because She Had Not His Supper Ready

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—On returning to his home, No. 62 Hopkins Avenue, Jersey City, the other night, Peter Rooney found fault with his wife, Mary, because supper was not ready. A quarrel followed, and it is alleged Rooney said:

"I'll burn you up."

He seized a vial containing alcohol, according to the charge made by Mrs. Rooney to the police, and poured it over her.

"Then he held me and touched a lighted match to my clothing," the woman said, "and he continued to hold me until he suddenly decided he wanted me to live."

Mrs. Rooney's screams were heard in the street. Neighbours went to her aid and found her husband bending over her trying to smother the flames with his hands. Both hands had been badly burned and Mrs. Rooney's clothing and hair were burned off.

The flames spread to furniture in the room, but were put out after the arrival of the firemen.

A doctor said Mrs. Rooney's condition was critical, and an ambulance came from Christ's Hospital. Rooney was also taken to the hospital to have his hands treated. Later he was locked up on a charge of atrocious assault and battery.

Mrs. Rooney said that her husband had come home surly and out of humour from drink. Rooney, who is 32 years old, and a workman employed by the Pennsylvania Railway, admitted, according to the police, that he set his wife on fire, but added:

"I don't remember much about it."

ANNUAL MEETING GRAND CIRCUIT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 13.—The stewards and secretaries of the Grand Circuit got together here today for their tenth annual meeting. Before the meeting adjourns it is expected that the schedule will have been arranged and all other preliminaries perfected in connection with the coming season of harness meetings along the "big line." The general expectation is that the circuit will be opened in Michigan as usual and that Detroit is likely to be restored to her old place as the initial link. From Michigan the line of march is likely to be to Cleveland, Pittsburg, Buffalo and down toward the East through Syracuse, Hartford, Readville, Salem perhaps, Providence and then West again.

TAUNTS POLICE CHIEF.

Krafchenko Sends Dead Rabbit to Winnipeg Officer.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13.—Aroused at the public clamor for a thorough investigation of the escape of John Krafchenko, the Plum Coulee desperado, from the Winnipeg central police station Saturday morning, the Manitoba Government yesterday announced the appointment of a royal commission to make a complete probing. The enquiry will be conducted by Chief Justice Mathers of the Court of King's Bench.

Developments yesterday added more mystery to the escape. It was found that one of the bars of the window in the room where Krafchenko was confined had been pried loose from its cement bed and moved about four inches. The nut on the end of another bar had been removed, a feat that could not be done without a wrench.

The police now believe Krafchenko is being harbored by friends in the city.

During his preliminary trial Krafchenko openly boasted that he would be out shooting rabbits in the spring. Yesterday a rabbit was delivered to Police Chief MacPherson, with "the compliments of John Krafchenko." Close scrutiny of the handwriting proved beyond doubt that it was that of the escaped murderer, it is said in police circles. Rewards offered for information leadings to the arrest now total $6,000, and the City Council last night added another thousand to this.

HAS A FINE NERVE.

Appendix Removal a Mere Bagatelle to This Man.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 13.—"Slow down a little bit at West street; I want to go over to the sanitarium and get my appendix cut out." After making this request, Warren Pullen, a local life insurance man, jumped from a moving automobile, walked to the Jackson sanitarium, and an hour later was on the operating table watching the surgeons work on him. Mr. Pullen refused to take an anesthetic. "That ether stuff makes a fellow sick," he explained to Dr. Crisler. After the operation the young man insisted on getting a good look at the incision and then calmly requested that his wife be notified of the operation.

Storm Caused His Death.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 13.—Wm. D. Williamson, G.T.R. engineer, died sitting in a chair at the engine shops after reporting for duty yesterday morning. It is supposed the exertion caused by wading through the heavy snowstorm from his home brought on heart failure. Williamson had been an engineer for thirty-three years.

Toronto Woman Released.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13.—Esther Sutherland of Toronto, wife of Fred. Sutherland, who, with Valentine Philip, confessed to counterfeiting here last week, appeared before Magistrate Judd yesterday morning and was discharged, the court holding that she was with Sutherland only in the capacity of a wife.

One Hundred Million Dollars

Being Spent On The Development Of Greater Toronto

This is the biggest plan of improvement ever undertaken by Toronto, and heralds in a period of unprecedented commercial activity and prosperity.

It has already given a powerful impetus to business of every kind.

When this magnificent plan is finally completed Toronto will be the finest residence City on the American continent. It will have one of the best harbors in Canada, not only from a utilitarian point of view but from a standpoint of beauty. What is now the railway esplanade will be a raised viaduct to a $2,500,000 station. From the Humber to Scarboro will be a magnificent concrete breakwater and boulevard along the whole length of the island.

Toronto will be not only the railway centre of Canada, but one of its greatest shipping ports.

Great development work will take place around the present outskirts of the city. Toronto will really be two cities—the industrial section down town and the great residence district of magnificent homes along the highlands to the north, where Lawrence Park and Strath Gowan are situated.

Never before in the history of Toronto has there been such an opportunity for safe, profitable real estate investment as is today offered by certain districts in the City.

TORONTO

Is Growing At The Rate Of Thirty To Forty Thousand A Year

Toronto is just now passing the half million mark. Its population has doubled in ten years, and it is confidently expected to reach the million mark before 1923. This means that during the next decade realty values will be many times what they are now, the city will have doubled in size and the foresighted investors who have the wisdom to purchase now will find their Toronto realty holdings the most valuable asset they could have.

With the growth of Toronto all sections of the city will naturally show an increase in land values, but there are certain properties which on account of their location will advance more rapidly than others. It is to show you just what these locations are, and why they will increase in value that we have sent our representatives to your city, and the experience and knowledge of our whole organization is now at your disposal.

As we have said before, we are the largest real estate firm in this country—our holdings in valuable Toronto real estate are enormous, and the investors who took our advice, depended on our judgment and invested through us during the past years have made profits that would have been impossible had they depended on their own judgment.

We are the Home Builders of Toronto

We Convert Raw Land into Magnificent and Valuable Residence Property

Toronto is pre-eminently a city of homes. The Toronto man's first ambition is to buy a home for his family. He is not satisfied with a rented house, with a flat or even luxurious suite of apartments. He wants his own home, whether it be an unpretentious little house or a mansion.

This is the principal reason why there is such a demand in Toronto for improved homesite property where building operations can commence at once.

No organization or company in Toronto has done so much as ourselves to foster this home-loving spirit. We have created for the home-seeker the most beautiful and charming residence parks to be found anywhere in Canada. We have opened up subdivision after subdivision, developed them and filled them with fine substantial homes. Land that a few years ago was farm land is now a solidly built up, integral part of the city.

All this we have done because we have studied Toronto's needs for years, watched its growth and foreseen its development.

STRATH GOWAN—the Beautiful

A woodland in the midst of Toronto—a shadowy forest surrounded by the city's growth—the old homestead of Jesse Ketchum, whose name meant much in Upper Canada.

It is seldom that land developers have such a naturally beautiful property on which to work, and by the time our $50,000 development work is completed, Strath Gowan will be one of the very choicest residence parks in Toronto.

The demand for new, beautifully situated, and well restricted building lots in high class residence property is becoming keener every year as the tremendous influx of newcomers is forcing the wealthier class of residents from the older districts of the city.

Probably no property we have ever placed on the market offers better advantages and greater possibility of profit to investors than STRATH GOWAN, and we can confidently recommend the purchase of one or more lots to our clients and all others who are looking for a safe and profitable investment.

For prices and terms see Mr. H. C. Lapp, our district manager, who is now in town and can be seen at the office of our local agent. If you cannot call, 'phone or write for an appointment.

COUNCIL WILL PROVIDE WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED

Ald. Duncan Expects to Have Civic Employment Ready in a Few Weeks—First Meeting was a Light One

TWO RATEPAYERS PRESENT

The civic curtain was raised at the Council Chamber last night exposing to two lone ratepayers the 1914 City Fathers trimmed for action.

The two lone ratepayers seemed lost among the old familiar benches. True, they were joined by Mr. D. O'Connell and Mr. W. H. Munro, but these gentlemen departed when the object of their visit had been attained.

Like all first acts the initial session last night was merely introductory.

The business presented served as a light lunch with an adjournment at 9:15. A little fodder was passed to several of the committees and Mayor Buller suggested that the various parts of the civic machinery be lubricated as soon as possible preparatory to grinding the grist.

Although the meeting simply enabled the Council to cast off its moorings there was a little note of economy sounded.

There will be less money spent in all the wards this year and retrenchment will be the watchword. Mayor Buller fitted into his new position as easily as an Irishman gathers himself into a police uniform,—in New York. Alderman Stratton and Alderman Saunders received their first lesson in procedure. Alderman Gordon was the only absentee.

Communications.

The Dickson Company wrote asking that an outlet sewer be constructed for the convenience of the property on Harvey and Waterford streets between Dublin and McDonel streets. Last year provision had been made for the work and it was asked that the sewer be laid during 1914. Board of Works.

A communication was read from the Canadian Municipal Journal requesting a subscription for each member of the Council. Finance Committee.

A similar letter from the Municipal World was referred to the same committee.

The Canadian Surety Co. wrote in regard to guarantee bonds which they of trust. Received.

A request for a donation was resupply for persons accepting positions ceived from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. Finance Committee.

The estimates from the Board of Education were received. The total required this year is $81,000. Finance Committee.

The Peterborought light and Power Co. wrote that they had removed twelve open arc and two incandescent lamps from the territory served by the new Magnetite arcs, and asked that if any others were to be removed that the company be notified. Received.

Letter from Mr. O'Connell.

The following letter was received from Mr. Daniel O'Connell representing the Otonabee Power Co.:

Referring to your resolution, passed at yourm eeting on the 29th ult., I beg to again place before you the offer of the Otonabee Power Co., to sell its distribution system to the Peterborough Light and Pawer Co., and the offer of that company to supply rates and on the terms as they are now being supplied by the Otonabee Company.

I am instructed to inform you that these companies desire to repeat to you their offer of December 16, as set out in their letter of that date, and to further state that the Otonabee Co. is willing to continue serving its customers without a franchise until such reasonable time has been afforded to your Council of 1914, to investigate and consider the offer of the companies.

I also beg to point out that, in considering this, the companies would be glad to place all information and data, regarding the properties to be sold, in the hands of your engineers, so that you can satisfy yourselves as to the fair value of the same.

Committee to Digest It.

Mayor Buller said he felt that the Council desired to consider the proposal first and it would be taken up by the Power Committee. Mr. O'Connell would be notified when the committee was ready for further information.

Moved by Alderman Green, seconded by Alderman Stratton, that the city sell its lots on Bolivar, Patterson and Sherbrooke streets, if the desired price can be secured; otherwise that they be held for three months. Carried.

New Board of Works Chairman.

Alderman Duncan thanked the Council for the honour conferred upon him in his apointment as chairman of the Board of Works. He realized the demands that would be made upon his time, and ther esponsibility placed upon him. He considered the requirements of the position before accepting it, and was prepared to do his best.

"I ask for the assistance of all the members of the Council. We will have to cut things in the centre ward and outskirts this year. In regard to the unemployed wes hould do something as soon as possible to afford work for them. The engineer states that he will have the plans ready for the outfall seker in a short time, and we could begin that work in two or three weeks."

THOUSANDS KILLED BY AN ERUPTION

Japanese Volcano Spreads Death and Destruction—One Town Being Wiped Out

COMMUNICATIONS CUT OFF

TOKIO, JAPAN, Jan. 13. — Thousands were killed and injured, and a property loss of more than a million was feared to-day as a result of the eruption of Sakuras Hima volcano in Kagoshima Bay. One town was completely wiped out and the mainland is cut off, and accurate accounts of the cause are impossible. The Emperor has personally ordered relief at once.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 13.—It is now known for certain that the City of Kagoshino, with a population of 64,000 was totally destroyed by recent volcano eruptions. While it is known some escaped by flight, it is also certain that tens of thousands lost their lives. Destruction came upon the city in the night.

Slight Hope For Recovering

Sir James Whitney is Slowly Sinking

Examiner Special;

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Hope for the recovery of Sir James Whitney is slowly but steadily growing less as the days go by, and his condition fails to improve. The official bulletin to the effect that there was no change except that he was weaker, seems to indicate a feeling on the part of the attending physicians that there is ground for disappointment at the lack of progress. In conversation with your correspondent this morning Dr. Pyne admitted that there has been steady retrogression since Sunday. Hope, however, is not all gone yet entirely. Possibility of a sudden change for the better is still present, but is hourly becoming more remote. The patient's mind is wandering most of the time now.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 13—(11.30)—Sir James' condition is not improved. It seems weaker than yesterday.

YOUNG MAN WAS RELEASED

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13.—Benjamin Greisoch, young Russian Jew, held at Halifax by the Immigration Department because of his desertion of the Russian army, has been released and is now en route to this city. Friends in this city interceded with the Department to secure the young man's release as death faced him in the land of the Czar because of desertion.

COASTING ON CITY HILLS TO BE STOPPED

Ald Johnston Fears That Some One Will Be Hurt on the Streets.

Coasting on the hills in the City is dangerous, both for the boys on their "bobs" and the people on the street. Ald Johnston said at last night's Council meeting that he had seen and heard of several narrow escapes. He did not wish to spoil the fun of the "little codgers," but it was in their interest that they should not coast on the City streets. He sugegsted that Chief Thompson detail a man to warn the young people.

Ald. Green suggested that a notice be placed in the papers demanding that the practice be discontinued.

FOR DR. GRENFELL'S WORK

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, whom the people of Peterborough are interested in and for whose work contributions are being asked for through the local press, was born in Parkgate, Cheshire, in 1865. He was educated at Oxford and received his M D. degree in 1889. He was trained for the practice of medicine under Sir Frederick Treves and the late Sir Andrew Clark, and in 1890 was appointed Superintendent of the Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen, which was made a royal national institution by Her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria.

Under his leadership the Christian world has awakened to its privilege of service in the far frozen north, and under his supervision, hospitals, co-operative stores, industrial schemes, have been founded. He has been a true hero and colleges and governments and cities and individuals feel they have honoured themselves in honouring him.

Peterborough should become known among those who help to carry on this great Grenfellian task as a city that appreciates to a great and increasing extent his humanitarian and Christian efforts on behalf of the needy people of the north.

No contribution is too large to be used, nor too small to be appre ciated. ....

249 CASUALITIES AMONG BACHELORS

Dan Cupid Had a Busy Year With a Substantial Gain Over Leap Year

MINISTERS' INCRIMINATED

The casualities among the ranks of bachelors for the year just closed readched a total of two hundred and forty-nine, which is twenty-four more than that of the previous year. This is a substantial increase when one considers that last year was leap year, which concedes the inalienable right of a woman to take the initiative in the all-important matter of matrimony. The cynic would say that the joys of married life end almost as soon as the contract is consumated, and a five-dollar bill is diverted into the ministeral treasury, and that the first joy is the last joy. Tere is, however, nothing in life approaching perpetual felicity. Matrimony not excepted. If it were otherwise, life would become monotonous and social revolutionists would soon be out of a job. Either outcome would be nothing short of a catastrophe.

Thirty-One Ministers.

The services of thirty-one ministers were required to perform the two hundred and forty-nine marriages that were recorded during the year. This averages approximately eight apiece. The approximate number of ceremonies performed by the ministers during the year is given in the following table, which includes the corresponding figures for the year 1912:

BIG FIRE RAGES AROUND NOTRE DAME CHURCH MONTREAL

Examiner Special:

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—Fire broke out in Montreal's wholesale quarter at noon to-day, and aided by a high wind, is sweeping all before it. At the time of writing quarter million dollars' damage has been already done, and flames are now attacking the Church of Notre Dame. Fire fighters are terribly handicapped by the temperature, fifteen below zero.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. DWYER

The funeral of the lat. Mrs. W. Dwyer, who passed away suddenly on Saturday night, was held at 3 o'clock this morning from the family residence, 645 Rogers Street, to St. Peter's Church and Cemetery. A large funeral cortege proceeded from the late home of the deceased to the Cemetery, testifying as to the esteem in which Mrs. Dwyer was held by all who knew her.

FIRE STARTED IN BASEMENT

And Burned Through Woodwork to Attic of Taylor's Coal and Wood Office

DAMAGE WAS $200

About 7 o'clock last night Mr. Taylor, Sr., entered his coal and wood offices, at the corner of Aylmer and Perry Streets and found them full of smoke. Without waiting to ascertain the cause he started toward the telephone to summon the fire brigade. As he did so the interior of the building became a mass of flames and he was forced to retreat. He ran to a neighbouring telephone and called the brigade out. In a few minutes they were on the scene of the blaze and attacked it with chemicals. This subdid the flames a little and while they were fighting the blaze with the chemicals the hose was connected. The water was directed to the blaze in the attic and after a stiff fight between the blaze and the fire laddies the latter were victorious, and in a short time the fire was put out.

It was found that an overheated stove in the basement that had been tired up to protect the building from the severe frost had ignited the wood work in the basement. The fire was carried by the wooden joists to the attic, where the blaze broke out most fiercely. It will be seen that a fire of this nature is a difficult one to fight and the brigade and Chief Howard deserve credit for the splendid way they handled it.

THE COLD SNAP IN TORONTO

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—A cold snap which arrived yesterday, found many families in this City unprepared for it and this morning may cases of destitution and exposure to the elements during the night are being uncovered. Charitable institutions all over the City have their hands full and many cases were sent to the hospitals. It was found that many homes passed the night without a particle of fuel and very little clothing to cover the children in bed. Pitiful stories are told to the relief officers. Similar conditions are prevailing in Montreal, Hamilton, and other cities.

OFFICIAL MERCURY SANK 32 DEGREES BELOW ZERO

COLD WEATHER PENETRATED THE POLICE COURT

And Was Largely Responsible for the Slim Attendance of "Railbirds" —Lawyers Were Absent

BLACKLISTER FINED

A cold reception awaited the habitues of the police court this morning. The air that was disseminated throughout the building was not far removed from the open air temperature. Two prisoners occupied reserved seats in the penalty box and about a dozen stragglers filled out the background. Lawyers were conspicuous by their absence. They are evidently adverse to working in cold weather.

Was Garnered in.

Alexander Hoskin doesn't approve of being cared for by the police, even with the temperature at 32 degrees below zero. In the police court this morning Hoskin admitted being drunk, but affirmed that he wasn't so bad.

"You might have frozen to death," remarked Magistrate Dumble.

"That's one incentive the officers had for picking you up," said Chief of Police Thompson.

Hoskin was fined $2.

Fined $10.

A local man was fined $10 and costs for being under the influence of liquor while on the prohibited list.

"When the Government makes a law to save a man from himself it ought to make a man consider why such a law is necessary. You have deliberately defied that law."

The Magistrate admonished the accused to assert his manhood and stand firm on the pedestal of sobriety.

RUMOUR IS NOT CONFIRMED

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—There is no shadow of confirmation here of the report that Hon. Adam Beck will succeed Lord Strathcona as High Commissioner at London.

E. W. COX IS PRESIDENT

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Announcement was made yesterday of the retirement of Hon. Geo. A. Cox from the position of President of the Canada Life Insurance Company, and of the appointment as his successor of Mr. E. W. Cox, his eldest son, and for some years past General Manager of the company.

Senator Cox will bear the title of Honorary President, while Mr. E. W. Cox will be President and General Manager. For some time past Senator Cox has been in poor health, and has been preparing for retirement by unloading on others an increasing portion of the work he had been doing. Mr. E. W. Cox has been connected with the Canada Life since the early eighties, and has been identified with the head office since 1899.

THE WEATHER

A cold wave of the old-fashioned variety has been hovering over this section of the country for the last few days. While Sunday was a cold day, with 17 degrees below zero, it was hardly in the same class as what we are experiencing to-day. Last night at 6 o'clock we had it 12 degrees below; at 9 o'clock 20 below, and this morning at 7 o'clock, 32 degrees below zero. No lower during the night. At noon to-day it was 19 degrees below—a very low figure for the middle of the day. While other thermometers may have given still lower readings these are official, and are correct. Thirty-two degrees below zero does not constitute a record for Peterborough, but it has been exceeded but a couple of times during the last twenty-five years.—W.P.

COLD TO-NIGHT.

Probabilities — Moderate winds, fine; very low temperture again to-night. Wednesday—Fine and slowly moderating.

Other Thermometers Dropped to the 40 Mark But Their Registrations are Questionable—Some of the Results of the Cold Snap

NOT QUITE A RECORD

Thirty-two degrees below zero at 7 o'clock this morning is the official registration for last night's cold spell. The mercury gathered itself up like a snail and threatened to withdraw into the bulb, but fortunately considered the 32 mark sufficient. This was in Mr. Walter Peters' government glass. Some weather registers went all the way to the 40 mark, but it is claimed that there is only one correct figure.

This is not a record, although it is not far from 38 degrees, which stands for the past twenty-five years. During that time the thermometer dropped below thirty degrees a number of times and this morning's descent may be regarded as a tidy performance on the part fo Old Probs.

Froze Water Pipes.

The frost picked out the weak spots in the protection of water pipes and the City's plumbers and their staffs were out early. At eight o'clock Adamson and Dobbin had twenty "hurry up" jobs on their hands. R. J. G. Sutherland had almost the same number and the other plumbers were correspondingly busy. Numerous families found their taps dead, and had to send out to more fortunate neighbours for water.

School Attendance.

Public School Inspector Mowat told the Examiner that the school attendance showed a considerable decrease this morning, particularly among the kindergarten and lower form pupils.

Janitors Out Early.

The Janitors of the schools were out two hours earlier than usual. Four o'clock, instead of the customary six o'clock, found them firing up, and the fires were maintained near the maximum. The result was that the rooms were comfortable.

Mr. Wilson, at the City Buildings, was confronted with similar conditions, and put in a busy morning.

Stoves in Milk Waggons.

Mr. George A. Gillespie equipped the Peterborough Dairy milk waggons with coal oil stoves in order to prevent the frost getting into the milk and breaking the bottles.

Gas "Froze."

A number of gas consumers reported that even that fluid was frozen. At any rate the flame was but a tiny one even with the valves wide open, and for a time the heat was scarcely sufficint for cooking.

Nearly 40 at Shelter.

Mr. W. Henry of the Children's Shelter said the thermometer registered 39½ degrees below on the north side of the house, and 37 degrees on the south side at daybreak this morning. It was the first time they had ever felt the cold at the Shelter. Last night a slight chill was experienced and strong fires were needed.

Children Turned Back.

Some of the children at the Shelter were unable to attend school this morning. The cold forced the youngest of them back to the Shelter.

Magistrate Dumble on the Weather.

"The coldest morning I have experienced in a rest many years," remarked Police Magistrate Dumble, this morning. One did not have to leave the confines of the Police Court Chamber to find corroboration for His Worship's implication. A handful of straggiers, familiarly known as 'railbirds' strayed into court. If it was with the object of soaking up a little heat at the City's expense a disappointment was in store for them. There was scarcely enough heat to go around much less to give away.

Mr. Ernest Saunders, of North Monaghan, reported that his thermometer registered 40 degrees below, while Mr. Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township, stated that the mercury in his thermometer dropped out of sight altogether, and he could not give definite figures.

22 BELOW IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—The whole of Eastern Canada is in a grip of the coldest weather on record for years. At White River, north of Lake Superior, which is acknowledged to be about the coldest spot in North American civilization, the temperature today is from forty to fifty below zero. In Toronto, the official observatory thermometer registers twenty-two below, which is the lowest since 1896. The lowest temperature ever registered in this city was 29 below. That was back in 1859.

DR. GRENFELL'S WORK.

Now that the King's Daughters have devoted their energies to the work of general charity, instead of devoting themselves to Dr. Grenfell's Deep Sea Mission work, the appeal of the Ministerial Association deserves general attention. The Association is appealing through the press for funds to aid in the work in which Dr. Grenfell has sunken his own means, and to which he is devoting a life of daily and hourly sacrifice. When we see how much he is sacrificing in the name, and for the love of the Great Sacrifice, we might well do a little likewise. It may require some sacrifice to give substntially, but we might well sacrifice a little when others are sacrificing so much. Many of us can aid substantially, without hurting ourselves, and, by the way, without benefitting ourselves. It is hoped that the response will be liberal. When we are shivering in the cold grip of 65 degrees of frost, we can better sympathize with the condition of our own fellow beings and fellow citizens in the cold bleak weather of Labrador, with the sick in body and soul, needing the bodily as well as the soul message of healing. Appeal is being made through the city press and contributions will be received and acknowledged by the several newspapers of the city. Trouble them; keep them busy.

WHEN MONEY IS GOOD.

We often do a lot of philosophising in regard to money—as to its sordid character—that is those of us who haven't much money. We say that it is dross, that it cannot last, that it cannot save life when the call of death comes. It is true that money cannot save life, but it is a fact that it can prolong life. Sir James Whitney is a case in point. The man who was declared doomed to death is to be removed home to Toronto. If Sir James had not been ill in a luxurious room in a palatial hotel; if he had not had all the care, medical attention, comfort, nursing, and aids to life that money and money alone can privide, he might have been dead days ago. Another man or woman, with the same physical constitution, with the same disease, stricken down in a miserable tenement, cold and bare with insufficient clothing for bed and body, without nourishment, without vigilant and skilled nursing, without comforts, with the cold piercing the openings of the miserable dwelling, with all the aids to life lacking, that only money can buy, would have been speedily under the clods of Potter's field. Truly money is a great thing; it prolongs life, if it cannot save it; and and how, agonizingly, when we see suffering from sickness, going on all about us, de we wish for money.

ONTARIO'S RAILWAY.

It is a self evident fact that government maangement of a public utility is only justified when the administration is good. Is our provincial railway well maanged? Latest returns show that the results are disappointing. The inoome is decreasing and the deficits are increasing at a rather alarming rate. The official returns just handed out by the government show a drop in net earnings of $200,000 for the year. Taking into account interest charges, the deficit is $500,000, a fairly tidy amount. What are the causes? The matter of management is not an easy one at best, but the causes of abnormal failure are not difficult to suggest. In the first place the chairman, Mr. Englehart, lacks one essential quality, expert knowledge. He is a good business man and a good citizen, but he is not a railway expert such as the executive head of a railway should be. He is a political, not a practical official. Above all, the head of a railway should have technical knowledge and training. Worse than that the government is apparently using the railway as a Conservative party asset; political influence dictates appointments to various executive offices. In many cases employees of the people's railway are acting as Conservative party organizers for New Ontario. The Elk lake branch used from the beginning as a political agency—recall Sir James Whitney's notorious Elk Lake telegram — was apparently built in fulfilment of a corrupt promise, made to influence an election. It was built against the report of the chairman of the Commission, for plainly political reasons. It is therefore unnecessary to ask if it has paid or nearly paid? Another reason why the provincial railway does not pay is that from lack of a constructive policy, the settlement of New Ontario has not been facilitated with the result of increasing traffic. Dullness in the mining industry might be a legitimate excuse for some decrease of traffic, but when it is accentuated by political mismanagement, we cannot expect that failure should not result.

A SPEECH AND ITS SEQUEL.

Premier Borden gives us warrant for classifying, "O, that mine enemy would write a book with, "O that mine enemy would make a speech." The session of parliament is opening and Mr. Borden will be made to feel that he has made one speech too many; that one speech will "return to plague the maker." In laying down his noted, if now badly wrecked, Halifax platform on Aug. 21st, 1907, Mr. Borden said:

"Shall our advent to power mean no more than a mere party trimuph? Are the experiences of the past ten years to be repeated in all their degrading details of broken pledges, opportunist policy, stolen elections; indecent public appointments, and robbing of public assets? Those who know me best, know how little I have desired a public career; and if I thought such an outcome possible I would turn with unspeakable aversion from the task before me."

Mr. Borden must have been in prophetic vein when he spoke these words; and have foreseen that what he figuratively applied to his political opponents, he has literally made applicable in his own case. He has shown in his own two short years of administration, disregard of every pledge implied in the above extract from his speech. He has countenanced and applied the opportunist policy which dictated the secret alliance of imperialistic Tories and the anti-imperialistic Quebec Nationalists. He has approved of such "stolen elections" as Macdonald, Chateauguay and Hochelaga. He has countenanced, if not made, "indecent public appointments"— from cabinet ministers to lock masters—and in the process made the civil service a medium of the practice of the most degrading features of the spoils system. He has approved such "indecent public appointments' 'as that of Hon. A. B. Morine to the chairmanship of the Public Enquiry Commission. It was all very well to act on the principle of "set a thief to catch a thief," but this appointment was so bad that a little ventilation of the appointee's record, forced his resignation before he set to work. As to "robbery of the public assets," Mr. Borden has approved and defended the Prince Albert land deal, which robbed the public domain to the extent of $350,000, the Dorval military site deal that took a clear $100,000 out of the public treasury, the Gimli land sale which gave to a party friend public land worth $15,000 for a paltry $750. No leader has ever made a public speech in opposition, who has so completely and circumstantially performed in office what he therein so vigorsouly condemned.

THE UNFAIRNESS MUST GO.

The "Pioneer," the official organ of the temperance interests, has, under the above heading, the following comment upon the retention of the three-fifths' clause as applied to effectuating the adoption or rejection of local option by-laws:

"The injustice cannot last. People of Ontario are coming to realize its true character. Even men who have no partiality for temperance reform resent its one-sidedness and favouritism. It has been for a number of years the strong bulwark protecting the liquor traffic against the public opinion of the Province of Ontario, and that public opinion will not stand being thwarted very much longer. Every excuse for its retention that has ever been put forth has been proved unfounded, and even in the Conservative party, where it has had support there is an uprising against it of those who feel that it is not only a hindrance to the temperance cause, bu a discredit to the Government which sustains it.

YOUR OWN HOME

Why pay rent? when I am able and willing to supply you with the best lots in the market at $150 and up, on any reasonable terms your circumstances require. Pay small deposit, hen pay as you can until you get $50 paid, when I will make special terms to assist you in getting a suitable home of your own, as I have done for scores of others, who are right here happy in their own homes. Ask them how I treated them. I am prepared to deal with you in like manner, providing you are a sober, honest and industrious man. Fifty years' business experience enabled me to guide others, and is still ready to guide you. I WANT TO RETIRE, but must sell my lots before I can, hence my low prices and easy terms. Every person wishing a safe and profitable investment should buy my lots. Cash or credit. Decide now. Spring will soon be with us.

GOOD WISHES and SOUND ADVICE FOR 1914

IF you were thinking of building you would naturally look to a contractor for information. If you are thinking of buying wouldn't it be better to see one who has had this experience and could tell you what a certain building or vacant piece of property is worth. A number of years contracting and building has been my experience before branching out to handle Real Estate, surely I should know values. Is this worth anything to you, if you are thinking of buying. Call and See

ON SESSION IN WASHINGTON

Examiner Special:

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 13.—The International Joint Commission which has been intrusted with the task of settling various waterway and other problems of mutual concern to the United States and Canada, assembled for a session here to-day. The particular matters scheduled to be considered at the session are the application of the Michigan Northern Power Company for authority to build a dam for power purposes at Sault Ste. Marie, and a similar application of the Greater Winnipeg water district to divert water from Shoal Lake, west of the Lake of the Woods, for the purpose of a water supply for the City of Winnipeg.

HERE! MEN OF MODERATE HAIR

Read This

HERPICIDE

You will often see a man who fulfils your ideal of a man in almost every particular. He may have a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, and an interesting personality and bear himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His linen is immaculate and his clothes faultless as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impressions are ruined when you discover the collar and shoulders of his coat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff.

This is an indication of personal carelessness, not to say uncleanliness. You feel like telling him to get a bottle of Herpicide, and if you are a real friend to him you WILL tell him. This remarkable remedy would in a short time remove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop his hair from falling and prevent him from becoming bald. Bald-headed men always look old, whether they are or not.

Dandruff is due to a germ which causes the scale-like accumulation. Newbro's Herpicide, used intelligently, checks this accumulation, prevents the hair from falling out and stops that frightful itching of the scalp almost instantly. It has a most delightful odour.

Herpicide is the Original Remedy, that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications obtained at the good barber shops.

Send 10c. in postage for a sample bottle and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

STEPHEN FOSTER IS REMEMBERED

Examiner Special:

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 13. — The historical folklore societies of Pittsburg to-day joined in an appropriate observance of the semi-centennial anniversary of the death of Stephen C. Foster, whose one great mark of fame was that he wrote the song, "My Old Kentucky Home."

Although born in what is now a part of Pittsburg, Foster belonged to the Middle West and the country bordering the Ohio river, for he spent most of his life in those parts. His most famous song was written while he and his sister were on a visit to the home of their relative, Judge John Rowan, later United States senator, at Bardstown, Ky.

Through the liberality of James C. Park the City of Pittsburg has recently acquired the ownership of the old Homestead in the suburb of Lawrenceville, where Foster was born. Mr. Park, learning that the property was likely to change hands, bought the place and presented it to the city on condition that it shall be maintained as a museum and memorial exclusively in commemoration of the author of "My Old Kentucky Home."

International Wrestling Tournament

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The international wrestling tournament to be held in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night promises a splendid treat for the lovers of the mat game. Champion grapplers from many countries will compete in the programme, which will include matches at both catch-as-catch-can and Graeko-Roman styles. The tournament will be a sweepstakes affair, each entrant posting $100. This money, with a substantial purse offered by the management, will go to the winner, after deducting consolation prizes for the second and third men.

Some of the best of the American wrestlers will take part in the tournament, while the foreign contestants will include such well known men as Lurich of Russia, Aberg of Finland, Hanson of Norway, Alvarez of Spain, Fristensky of Bohemia, and Mamutoff the Cossack.

Painting the names of streets on the cement kerbing at corners instead of on pole supported signs is being tried by a California city.

FIRE CHIEF HOWARD PRESENTS HIS REPORT FOR YEAR 1913

420 Gallons of Chemicals Were Used During the Year—Calls Attention to the Necessity for Additional Equipment

INSPECTION OF BUILDINGS

Fire Chief Howard presented his annual report to the Council last night.

Peterborough, Jan. 12th, 1914.

To His Worship the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to submit herewith my sixth annual report of the Fire Department for the year ending December 31st, 1913.

During the year, the Department responded to 197 alarms of fire, and the apparatus travelled 190 miles. We have laid 31,650 feet of 2 1-2 inch hose, and raised 975 feet of ladders; in addition to attending the number of fires mentioned, fire drill was conducted at intervals throughout the year, laying 28,800 feet of hose and raising 1,400 feet of ladders. In extinguishing fires, we used 420 gallons of chemicals.

The total damage by fire, as near as could be estimated, for the year 1913 was $17,400, divided as follows: $8,070.00 damage to buildings, $9,330.00 damage to contents.

The Department had 40 battle with a number of very serious fires, but nevertheless we have again been exceptionally fortunate in keeping the fire loss very low. The figures given in this report make a creditable showing for the City of Peterborough, and while we have been lucky in this respect, I trust the gentlemen of your Board will see to it that the Department, in strength and equipment, is kept abreast with the growth of the City. The by-law submitted to the ratepayers on January 5th, although defeated, could be taken as an indication that the citizens do not want proper protection. A number of explanations are offered, which justify the citizens in turning down the by-law,

As I mentioned in my report of last year, I again bring to your attention the necessity of providing additional equipment and sub-stations.

The inspection of public buildings, wholesale, retail and manufacturing establishments has been carried on throughout the year and warnings given to persons and concerns who were inclined to be careless, have no doubt had beneficial results.

The inauguration of the collection of garbage has had the effect of reducing the fire hazard to a very considerable extent, more especially in the business district of the City. The manufacturers and merchants take kindly to any suggestions offered to safeguard their premises, and in every instance have shown a disposition to co-operate with the Fire Department in an endeavour to reduce the fire waste in our City.

During the year 1913 five new fire alarm boxes were added to the system, and I shall respectfully request a further addition during the coming year.

I have very great pleasure in reporting the excellent behaviour of your gremen. They have at all times been faithful to their duties, courteous and polite to the public. There were few breaches of discipline throughout the year, none at all worth mentioned. The Department to-day is in better shape in consequence of the general good feeling existing. I attribute this partly to the fact that the men are more contented, having received a slight increase in their salary during the past year, and I trust the gentlemen of your Board will show the Department every possible consideration in the future.

You will please find attached to this report, a table showing the number of fires and alarms received, how received, the causes as near as could be ascertained, a stock sheet showing the amount of equipment and supplies on hand, and other general information in connection with the workings and doings of the Department throughout the year. It is also a pleasure to be able to report that we have had no accidents in the Department of any kind.

In conclusion, I desire to express the sincere thanks of your firemen and myself to His Worship the Mayor and Gentlemen of the 1913 Council, who throughout the entire year were most generous in their support and kind in their co-operation.

The Chief of Police and his staff of constables rendered valuable assistance to this Department on several occasions, which is highly appreciated. The general good feeling existing among all the City officials, which is so evident, is no doubt a source of gratification to the general public.

We wish to tender our sincere thanks to the public press of the City for the many kind references to the Department from time to time.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

I have the honour to be, sirs,
Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD,
Chief Fire Department.

FIRE CHIEF HOWARD—Whose anual report was presented to the City Council, last evening. He recommends additional equipment and sub-stations.

A FABLE TO SHOW WHY VOTES FOR WOMEN SHOULD BE A FACT, NOT A FABLE

Our Women as Good, if Not Better, Than Those of Other Countries, Who Give Women the Ballot

The progressive people of Toronto are always ready to show visitors from abroad all the marvels of this great city, and there is often a cosmopolitan group of sightseers.

A Scotsman, a Dane, a Norwegian, an Icelander, an Englishman, a Swede, an Irishman, a Finn, and a Welshman came to Toronto and met here coming in from the West, an Australian, a Canadian, a New Zealander, a Californian, a Kansan, a Tasmanian, a resident of Wyoming, one from Colorado, one from Washington, one from Utah, one from Idaho, and one from Natal, South Africa. They were all guests of the Average Toronto Man, and escorted by him, went out with their notebooks to study the wonders of this metropolis.

They greatly admired the marvellous enterprise which in less than a century had put a city of half a million civilized inhabitants where only wild Indians had formerly roamed.

They asked questions about various civic problems and made extended notes from the answers of their host, the Average Man.

"Please tell us," said the guest from Natal, "about your regulations concerning the suffrage. Do you have privileged classes who do all the voting?"

"No," said the host, "all citizens vote here without regard to rank."

"That's the way it is with us," said the New Zealander. "Men and women vote on all matters."

"You quite misunderstand me," said the Toronto Man. "I did not say women voted here, only that all citizens do."

"But are not women citizens?" said the Norwegian and the man from Wyoming. "Our women vote on the same terms as men because they are citizens."

"Well, I do get mixed on some of these legal questions," said the Toronto Man. "Some courts have been troubled whether women were citizens or persons or townsmen or countrymen or only inhabitants or residents or human beings, and I scarcely remember all the fine distinctions. One religious body once decided they had souls and I know they are surely human beings, but I am not positive about them being citizens."

The polite Swede said, "I dare say your city has very good grounds for such disfranchisement. The women here are probably ignorant natives. They are doubtless too low in the scale of civilization to really appreciate modern self-government. Now in an old, well settled nation like ours, Sweden, there have been through the centuries so many intelligent women that a couple of hundred years ago Sweden recognised their value by allowing certain women municipal franchies. Now more and more women are qualified. Full suffrage will soon be extended to women for the King in his speech from the throne has just recommended this. But your women of course are different. This point is very interesting, a city of brilliant able men associated with undeveloped savage women, a mixture of barbarism and civilization. I must put this down in my notebook."

"Does this explain the situation?" asked the Icelander.

"No, indeed," said the Toronto Man, "you mistake our women. They are educated. They flock to every school in the city. They can secure professional education also of every kind. Really, they sometimes lead their classes."

"But you doubtless have some other good reason," said the Australian. "I can imagine it. In an early time my country, too, was a place to which criminals were sentenced, and your women, though intelligent, may be deported criminals, sent here from other countries."

"You are mistaken," said the Toronto citizen. "Our women are not criminals. They average very well with men. Only a small percentage of the inmates of our prisons are women. In our city jails there are never as many women as men, though women are sometimes arrested for things overlooked in men."

"Probably your women, though intelligent and moral, are so lazy they never deserve or acquire property and thus need no share in government," suggested the Scotsman and Englishman together. "Some sort of property qualification has disfranchised your women as utter poverty in our country would disfranchise even men."

"Let me explain this, too," said the Average Citizen. "Our women are not lazy. They really work. Toronto has many thousands in shops and stores and factories. We have four times as many more at hard labour as mothers and housekeepers. Some have saved money from their earnings. Some have inherited it from parents. Yes, many women do have monied interests to protect and many more need protection honestly acquiring money."

"Let me explain," said the Finn. "Your women are doubtless cowardly and unpatriotic, they cannot appreciate what love of country means. Our Finnish women worked with our men this century past to help to regain our liberties, and when freedom came, women as well as men were fully enfranchised. But few women can be as patriotic as our Finns. We must not expect too much of them in such a new country. Your women are doubtless traitors all."

"No, you misjudge them," said the host. "It is true no foreign enemy has troubled our shores for many years so that neither women nor men could be constantly showing the warlike patriotism which inspires one to kill enemies. But there is a loftier patriotism than killing the enemy. It is shown in saving life. Women excel in this kind of patriotism. Women organize the corps of army nurses. They lead the Red Cross work. They go to districts desolated by fire, famine or pestilence. They rescue, they nurse, they heal. They lead great reforms which strive to cure the evils which impoverish, debauch and destroy.

The men from Colorado, Utah, and Idaho conferred together a moment, and smiled wisely. One then said, "If the Toronto Citizen would visit our states and compare the present conditions with those which existed sixteen to nineteen years ago, before women voted, he would notice a great moral and civic improvement. It may be that Toronto women have no interest in civic questions."

The men from Kansas, Denmark, Ireland, and Wales then joined in. "These civic questions our own people have decided were peculiarly in woman's sphere, and woman's exercise of municipal suffrage has been a great benefit to women, to the state, and to men as well."

The Average Toronto Citizen again defended. "Our women, too, have been very active in civic matters. Their judgment has been excellent. Their zeal abundant, and their courage wonderful. But they seem to have little political influence, and much of their work goes to waste. For twenty-one years the women have been trying to get custodial care of the feeble-minded of Ontario, who left at large are increasing with alarming rapidity, but so far they have had no satisfactory results to their efforts. They do not reform the bad women fast enough to keep up with the speed with which men ruin them. I must admit that our women do not always secure results."

The New Zealander explained: "No wonder your women do not accomplish as much politically as ours. No matter how well educated, moral, industrious, patriotic, public-spirited and unselfish they may be, they lack the power of the ballot which our women have."

"Yes," said the Australian. "Our laws would have allowed these women to express their wishes directly. Our women vote. It is strange that your country should pension the soldier who takes life, but rarely pension the mother who gives life."

"Our Colorado women put Judge Lindsay back on the bench and our California women removed Judge Weller."

"Our women in the State of Washington," said another guest, "Put a corrupt mayor out of office in Seattle and on the following year when he quietly secured a renomination, the women again ralied and retired him to private life permanently."

"What does all this mean?" said the Average Toronto Man, dazed. "I don't believe our women would vote even if we did allow them the ballot."

"That was just my idea," laughed the Californian. But you give them the chance and all the timid, gentle-voiced, quiet home women will surprise you as they did us. I never imagined 75,000 Los Angeles women would vote within a month after securing the suffrage. But they did. Other California women since then proved that they would vote when they could."

"Well," said the Tasmanian, "it may be that your women are not allowed a share in municipal affairs because they are inferior to the women in all the English speaking cities outside the United States and inferior to the hardy northern nations represented here. Our women have municipal suffrage and in half these places women have full suffrage. It means that your women must be very degraded and incapable, much below the women in all these countries and States from which we, your guests, come."

"Please stop," said the Average Citizen, "Even if I am your host I can no longer endure the slurs you are all casting at our Toronto women. I must tell you point blank that no women on earth are superior to ours. No women deserve more than ours. Our mothers came to this country and worked hard with their hands. Our charities show what women can do. Our great teaching force, our business women, our home keepers, altogether make a wonderful combination. Any city could be proud of our women. They are the peers of the noblest women on earth."

"Why, then," said the Finn, "do you politically disgrace your women by classing them with men guilty of election frauds and with unpardonable criminals? Why do you not enfranchise them as our countries have done?"

Bewildered and dazed, the Average Toronto man could only answer "I do not know. Should I join the Men's Equal Franchise League and secure municipal suffrage for women at once?"

His guests united in joyful chorus, "Yes, Oh, yes!"

The Scot's Retort.

A canny Scot had been shown all over a battleship for the first time in his life. He had asked questions about everything, and wound up approaching one of the marines, and, pointing to the little metal "grenade" that ornamented his cap, asked what it might be. "Don't you know? Why, that a turnip," replied the marine jocosely. "Ah, mon," retorted Sandy. "I was no referrin' to your head."

ARE TAXES TAXES? QUESTION OF THE HOUR

A very strange question, the reader will say. Yes, it is strange, but there is need to ask it and to examine into it, because a large number of very respectable and usually intelligent persons seem to be answering it in the negative.

The official trade returns issued at Ottawa show that many millions of dollars were taken into the Dominion treasury last year in the form of duties imposed and collected on food. Food has become very costly of late. All the causes of the increased price may not be clear beyond debate, and all the remedies that are needed to give relief may not be beyond debate. But it has occurred to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that, while professors and statisticians and commissioners are inquiring into these debatable things, there is one thing that the Government can and should do, and that is to abolish or reduce the taxes imposed by the tariff on food That would seem to be a very short and simple way of dealing with one part at least of the evil.

Now come the Conservative writers, who tell us that if these duties be taken off things will be no cheaper. This is a most remarkable assertion, and unfortunately our Conservative friends make no attempt to explain it. They are content to make the statement and leave the matter in that way. But surely intelligent readers, whether they be Liberal or Conservative, will desire the subject to be probed a little further.

The many millions which we have said are taken into the Government's treasury in the form of duties on food are not imaginary. They are very real, otherwise they would not appear in the official returns. Benevolent as our Ministers may be, they are not suspected of having taken these many millions out of their own pockets and presented them to the Dominion treasury. Then money was paid by the importers of food. These importers are, no doubt, good citizens, and generous in their own way; but nobody imagines that their generosity takes the form of presenting these millions to the Canadian treasury as a free gift. The importers, very naturally, very legitimately, add the duty they have paid to the price of the goods, and add also a profit on both the goods, and the duty. Then they turn the food over to the retailer. The latter, also a good citizen, is beyond the suspicion of presenting these millions to the Canadian treasury. He has himself paid for the duty and for the wholesaler's profit on the duty. He takes careful account of all these payments, adds his own profit, and has the goods ready for the consumer.

The consumer comes. If he is a man of small means he probably finds that the payment of the duty and the retailer's profit on the duty have raised the price of the article to a figure which is beyond his means, So he turns away sadly, regretting that the men at Ottawa, by keeping on h duties at such a time, have placed the article beyond the limits of his modest income.

If the duty be abolished, the wholesaler will not then have to pay the tax. He would be glad, no doubt, to keep up his own price if he could. But the retailer is no fool. He knows that, having no longer to pay the duty, the wholesaler can afford to sell at a substantially lower price than before and he will insist on receiving the benefit of the change. He also would be glad to keep up his old price if he could. But the consumer is not a fool—not always. Occasionally he can be humbugged and misled by foolish cries.

But a little later common-sense asserts itself and the consumer manifests a Missourian determinason to be shown why things are what they are. He is in that frame of mind just now very much so. He knows that when there are taxes on the food that he buys, it is he that pays them in the higher price of the goods. When these taxes are taken off he will know that nobody has paid them for him, and that therefore he has not to pay them to anybody.

Yes, taxes really are taxes. The people are understanding this better every day.—Montreal Telegraph.

FREIGHT ENGINE LOST A WHEEL

The front wheel on an engine taking a freight to Lindsay, about six o'clock last evening, broke, and crippled the engine. The stalled train and engine created a blockade on the line between here and Lindsay and the train due here at 5.30 o'clock was sent around by Bethany. A train was sent from this City to Millbrook, where the passengers for Peterborough were taken and brought here.

The wrecking crew managed, however, to get the track clear for the 9 o'clock train from Lindsay, last night, and the engine and train were brought back to Peterborough.

TAKE EXCEPTION TO THE REFERENCE

The Examiner, City:

Dear Sir,—I observed last night in the Review a cutting from an exchange, in which the Editor of the Review takes a rather offensive fling at the Methodist people, as follows:

Saturday Night tells a story of the late Rev. Starr, of Toronto, as follows:

"Are you a Christian?" Mr. Starr asked a little negro.

"Yes, sah; I'se a Christian."

"Well, are you a Methodist?" continued the minister.

Oh, no, sah; I'se a 'niggah, and that's bad enough," was the child's unexpected answer.

When Mr. Frank Dobbin was Editor-in-Chief, the Review did not pride itself in saying nasty and offensive things about the Methodists, but apparently conditions have changed, and the Review, unwilling to assume the responsibility, takes a cutting from the Saturday Night, which always sneers at the Church and Church workers.

As a Methodist, I resent very much the ridicule heaped on the Methodists and Methodism, and the Review has offended one of its subscribers by a very offensive and uncalled-for reference.

Yours truly,
METHODIST.

A gentleman who had been spending a holiday at a Scottish seaside village noted for its gold links, asked one of the caddies if he got much carrying in the winter time.

"Na, sir, na," replied the caddie. "There's nae carrying in the winter time. Ye see, it is this way. If it's no sna' it's frost; if it's no frost it's sna; if it's neither sna' nor frost, it's rain; if it's no rain, it's wind; an' if it's a fine day, it's the Sawbath!"

THE ONTARIO FARMER

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—It begins to look as if the government intended to bring in free wheat, free flour, free Semolina and free by-products. How this will affect the Ontario farmer the latter has not told the press or government. He has held no meetings and promoted no discussions, hence it looks as if he had no objection. If the freight rates and mill machinery prices are equalized it will not hurt the Ontario miller. Ontario farmers are not as a rule feeding their land. Their grain is not up to the original standard. They will have to feed all their grain to cattle, etc., in the future and rely upon the home market more than ever. Ontario grain (speaking generally) stands no chance of export in any form. The Ontario farmer will do well to keep his ear to the ground or or he may find himself largely sidetracked by foreign enterprise. Agriculture has suddenly come into its own all over the continent, and indeed all over the world (Britain excepted.) We must see to it in Canada that we get our share of the good things as a nation and not merely in a local way.

Yours,
INTERESTED.

Many a man has an idea he can't make his mark without making a mark of some other fellow.

PRIEST CATCHES POOR BOX THIEF

Used His Fists to Subdue Boy

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Rev. Jerold Goulette, assistant rector of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Mary in Ozone Park, L.I., saw a youth leaving the church on Wednesday afternoon and then discovered that the poor box had been robbed.

The priest, who is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds, saw the youth disappearing down the street. Though he wore his cassock, the priest leaped into a passing baker's waggon and said, "Catch that fellow!"

The youth broke into a run, but Father Goulette overtook him. As the priest was reaching out, the youth turned, closed in, and, with a dexterous twist, threw the priest on his back.

But up leaped Father Goulette and then it was shown that he is a clever boxer. Every blow he struck counted. The youth fought back but he was outmatched. A right swing sent him sprawling and before he could rise Father Goulette was on top of him. Squirming and kicking were vain.

John McPhern and Mounted Sergt. William D. Winkleman pried the prisoner from under the stalwart priest and took him to the Jamaica Court. Father Goulette, with cassock much mussed, appeared as complainant.

Before that the prisoner had said he was Alexander Robertson, of Grand Street, Maspeth, a stenographer and book-keeper, and until a year ago a choir boy in a Long Island church. But he told Magistrate Miller he lived in Ivy Street, Elmhurst. He added he was one of eleven children. He refused to give the street number of his home. He was held in $1,000.

The police said it was true Robertson had been a choir boy in a church near Jamaica. He belongs to an excellent family, they added.

In 1912 twelve marriages were performed by non-resident ministers, making the total for the year 1912, two hundred and twenty-five.

Figures are Approximate.

The forgoing figures do not tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; for it is stated that the registration of marriages often comes in with a rush after the New Year, though the ceremony might have taken place in November or December. The quarterly totals are seventy-five, fifty-eight, and sixty-six respectively. The months of July, August and September were the favourites with those matrimonially inclined.

Rev. Canan Davidson headed the list last year with a total of twenty-eight marriages to his credit, while the honours of the previous year were carried off by Rev. Isaac Couch.

TURNBULL'S

Left A One Dollar Bill

Actual Distress is Beginning to Manifest Itself

A warm hearted lady called at the office of Sanitary Inspector Spence this morning and left a one dollar bill with which to buy coal for some deserving family. She also inquired as to the need and intimated that she was desirous of supplying additional assistance where the need justified such action. Inspector Spence states that actual distress is beginning to manifest itself in grim reality. Several families were visited this morning and found to be in dire need. Fuel and provisions were supplied by the relief department in a number of cases. Some families, the Inspector asserts, are reluctant to reveal their condition, preferring to suffer rather than appeal to charity.

WILL INTRODUCE LEGISLATION

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — The Minister of Labour will introduce legislation early in the present session of Parliament to widen the scope of the Industrial Disputes and Investigations Act to include private enterprises. Penalties will be provided for such cases as an employer refusing to employ workmen on the ground that they were members of a union, and on the other hand union men will be prevented from refusing to work alongside a man who is not a union man.

A CONFLICT OF OPINION

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — The adoption by a unanimous vote in the Manitoba Legislature of the free wheat resolution of Harvey Simpson has caused considerable surprise in the government circles here. It is believed here that the action of the Manitoba government was taken entirely upon its own initiative and without any promise of support from the Federal government. The peculiar position now presents itself of one Conservative government of the west and two Liberal governments standing together for free wheat with two Conservative oppositions opposing it. It is not expected here that the budget speech will contain any mention of the abolition of the wheat duties this session. It is believed that the government will save all its tariff revision until the session before the next general election.

SACRED HEART RINK HAS BEEN OPENED

The skating rink on the Sacred Heart Church grounds has been opened with a fine sheet of ice. The lighting has been greatly improved by the use of Tungsten lamps. The 57th band will play every Monda yand Thursday evenings. The dressing rooms are commodious and comfortable.

BYERSVILLE RINK

Open to-night. Good Ice Warm Dressing Rooms. Come and enjoy yourselves.

NO FREE SKATING RINKS THIS YEAR

The Council has abandoned the free skating rink proposed. It will be remembered that the Water Commissioners offered to provide, without charge, water for a rink in each ward. Last night the City Fathers applied the microscope to the idea and discovered certain financial flaws, expense microbes, that were responsible for its rejection.

Ald. Anderson would not advocate the spending of money for caretakers and maintenance, and this expense would be unavoidable.

Ald. Duncan pointed out that the T. A.S. rink in the south end, the Jackson Park rink, the canaal, and goose pond provided skating for many. He was inclined to favour a rink on Central Park.

Ald. Johnston liked the idea of a free rink in front of Central Park, but to facilitate the discussion, he moved that Ald. Duncan, Green, Langford and McIntyre be a committee to deal with the matter. After the Council meeting they got together and decided to take no action.

Lt.-Col. Clegg had offered the use of the 57th parade grounds for rink purposes.

A WEAK HEART

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, when the blood is thin and watery, remember the blood-forming qualities of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by its use flood the system with rich, red vitalizing blood. This is Nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting benefits.

THE BARBERS' BIG BANQUET

The local Union Barbers held their second annual banquet in the Oriental Hotel last night. There were forty local members of the Union present, and the dinner was even a greater success than the inaugural affair last year.

Mr. George Campbell was chairman, and fulfilled his duties in a very acceptable manner. The spread was a sumptuous one, and it is doubtful if any change could have been made in the menu to improve it. Judging from indications thrown out during the time the good things were being consumed, that was at least the opinion of the members of the merry assembly last night. There was nothing lacking at the Barber's banquet last night; it was a whole-souled affair.

After the dinner the musical programme was begun by the singing of God Save the King, accompanied by Mr. Woodburn, who presided at the piano during the evening.

Mr. John Smith rendered a splendid vocal solo, which was so heartily applauded that in spite of his modesty, he was forced to give an encore.

Mr. Gainey, in replying to the toast to the International Barbers' Union, said that $60,000 was being spent annually by the order in benefits. He then outlined the progress of the local branch of the Union up to its present strength.

Mr. George Campbell, who presided, gave an interesting and logical discussion of the 10 o'clock closing.

One thing was very evident last night, and that was the splendid feeling between the "bosses" and their employees. Several of the former spoke hopefully last night of the improved relation that they looked for between themselves and the other barbers.

One of the most successful and best enjoyed banquets of the season was brought to a close by the singing of God Save the King.

MANY DONATIONS WERE RECEIVED

RUN DOWN BY A TRAIN

An unfortunate Austrian, whose name cannot be ascertained, lies between life and death at the Oshawa Hospital. The man was taken there mangled and bruised on Sunday night from the G.T.R. - Oshawa Junction, whither he had been brought from between Whitby and Pickering by the conductor of freight No. 16. He was found lying at the side of the track, having been overlooked by either that or an earlier train.

Lindsay's Big Bonspiel Opens

104 Rinks Present—Only One Lindsay Rink Survived Morning Battles

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 13.—It is real curling weather in Lindsay. This morning the thermometer registered 37 below zero at 9 o'clock when the first batch of curlers took the ice. There are ten good sheets of ice in two buildings, the skating rink and the curling rink, and promptly on time this morning the first 64 were on the ice. Great enthusiasm prevails over the weather conditions. Some of the oldest inhabitants of Lindsay say that this is the coldest spell they can remember. The draw for the Gillies Trophy is being made this morning, and the hours of play have been extended, so that the last game for the evening will be commenced at 11.30 p.m. This will mean that the rinks will be playing till well after 3 o'clock in the morning. The committee are doing all in their power to make the stay of the curlers as pleasant as possible, and are meeting all clubs at the station with autos to convey them to various hotels. D. M. Braden, the famous skip of Winnipeg, arrived here with his rink this morning, and he is matched against Davis, of Brampton, in the Flavelle Trophy. Braden has for the past two years loomed large in the big Winnipeg spiels. Two years ago he won all the trophies but one, winning 36 out of 37 games in ten days. Last year he won them all but two. He has a rink of young men with him. Another famous skip present is F. Cassidy, who is playing third for MacRochon, of Winnipeg. Cassidy's kids were well known as bonspiel trophy winners four years ago.

The Peterborough rinks are skipped by J. E. A. Fitzgerald, R. M. Waddell, T. F. Matthews, W. M. Lang and R. Sturgeon.

The Knowlson rink was the only Lindsay rink to survive the morning's play. A battle was fought between the well known curler, O'Connor, of Lindsay, and O'Connor, of the Aberdeens Toronto, the latter proving successful by 12 to 8. Hamilton, of Fergus, was beaten out in the last end by Hetherington, of Bobcaygeon, the score being 12 to 10. Fred Gelding, of the Aberdeens Toronto, was another who was beaten out on the last end at the eleventh end. They had tied with their opponents, A. Thorbaum, of Brampton, the score being 10 to 10, when Thorbaum ran in two and won.

GRAND THEATRE

Notable Visit of Wm. Lawrence Brough and Miss Olga Esme.

Mr. Lawrence Brough's Canadian tour is drawing to a close, owing to his return to England shortly to fulfil his Old Country engagements. Tomorrow (Wednesday, January 14th) for one night only, he together with Miss Olga Esme and his All English Company of sterling players, will present Moncton Hoffe's brilliant comedy, "The Little Damozel," a play that took London and New York by storm. This celebrated actor has made a very happy choice in selecting "The Little Damozel" for presentation to Peterborough theatre-goers. It is a comedy that is different from most plays of that nature in that the author has written a play that makes you laugh until the end of the second act, and then deep emotion takes its place. You are gripped, held by the sudden transition from happiness to sorrow in the lives of "The Little Damozel" and "Recky Poole," and you leave the theatre as the curtain falls glad that the tangle has been unravelled, glad that you have seen Moncton Hoffe's play, and glad to know that it was produced and acted in a manner worthy of the play and the author—a play and a company that must not be missed. It will be followed by the rollicking farce in one act entitled "Confusion," in which both Miss Olga Esme and Mr. Lawrence Brough will appear. Seats should be secured immediately.

WAS 32 BELOW ZERO

temperature twenty below zero, a disastrous fire broke out in the Robertson Oliver grain warehouse to-day, and owing to the extreme cold the water froze before it reached the flames from the hose held by the firemen. The greatest difficulty was experienced in fighting the flames. The building and contents were partly destroyed. The loss will be seventy thousand. Several buildings in the neighbourhood were threatened, but were saved by the courageous work of the firemen, many of whom were badly frozen.

At National Hotel.

The frost got at the water pipes in the basement of the National Hotel and cut off the supply for the baths and kitchen. The freeze-up caused considerable inconvenience until a staff of plumbers thawed out the pipes.

TRAIN SERVICE DELAYED.

Snow fell over much of the country, and was especially heavy in the highlands of the Province. Snowploughs were busy on the northern lines all day yesterday.

Owing to the very severe weather many of the trains were very late in arriving at the C.P.R. station, one or two to the etxent of four hours. The cold is responsible, together with the heavy winds, which prevented the engines from steaming properly, and thus caused a considerable dislocation of traffic and delays that were altogether unavoidable.

ICICLES.

The pedestrians on George Street were somewhat startled this morning by the apparition of one A. E. Rodgers, who sallied forth armed with a coal-oil stove.

Bottles were popping in the windows of the local restaurants, due to the expansive forces of the congealed liquid within. This occurred in windows where electric fans were in motion.

Even the stock market showed a tendency to freeze up. The market was dull and listless and the trading was restricted to small proportions.

Two fires have been caused by the severe cold spell. An overheated stove was responsible for a $200 blaze in the coal and wood offices at the corner of Aylmer and Perry Streets.

And Raymond Collett, at 271 Perry Sreet, set his house on fire trying to thaw out the frozen water pipes with a torch.

HAMS AND BACON.

Canadian Justice Is Swift, Sure

United States newspapers are wont to call attention to the promptitude with which justice is meted out in Canada as compared with the United States and to hold this fact responsible for the greater prevalence of crime across the line.

For example, the Kansas City Star of recent date describes at length the proceedings which led to the conviction at Calgary of a young man named William Collins on a charge of murdering a companion named Benson, who came to southern Alberta with him and took up land. Under the heading of "Justice at Quick Step," the Star comments on the methods that were followed by the Canadian authorities. The brevity and directness of the document asking for Collins' extradition from the United States, to which he had returned, is contrasted wth the length and formality of those that are used by American law officers. The article in the Star continues:

"The day after arrival in Calgary a preliminary hearing was given Collins in the barracks of the Mounted Police. The Government appointed an able lawyer to defend him, but how different from the American method; there were no motions for continuance, nor changes of venue, nor any other dilatory tactics whatever. Within twenty-four hours after his arrival in Calgary, Collins was given a hearing and held for trial.

"Only one day intervened between the preliminary hearing and the beginning of the trial. In any American court a day or two—at least, would have been consumed in getting a jury, and in many cases in murder trials in Missouri, weeks, and even months, have been spent at this. It took just 20 minutes to select a jury to try Collins. In the United States a jury of twelve men try a man for murder. In Canada, a jury of six does it.

"There was no quibbling, no man was asked if he had "conscientious scruples against concurring in a verdict of guilty if that verdict might mean the infliction of the death penalty." All the long and complicated questions asked jurors in this country were omitted. Twelve men were called from the venue and were sworn, the State struck off three names, and the defence struck off three; the rmaining six were sworn to try the case fairly and return a verdict according to the law and evidence. All done in twenty minutes, and the trial began at once. It lasted two days. There was not a quibble, nor a trick, nor a subterfuge in the whole of it.

"The arguments were made very briefly. The jury retired and within ten minutes returned with a verdict of guilty and the Judge, without leaving the bench, sentenced Collins to be hanged February 17.

"And he will be hanged that day. His lawyer will appeal and it will be passed on at once. No delay of two or three years, as in this country, and no hope of reversal.

Can anyone doubt the value of such a tribute as this in inducing the best class of American citizens, as well as those of other countries, to come and make their homes in Canada? Thre has been no more powerful factor in promoting the movement in this direction of those who obey the law themselves, and are dissatisfied with the loose manner in which it is administered in so many western states, than the reputation which Canada has hitherto had in this respect.

It may be that justice is not administered quite so expeditiously in Canada as it once was, but in the main it is quickly and effectively administered, and no man guilty of murder, or indeed any really grave offence, has a chance to escape paying the penalty of his crime.—Brantford Expositor.

Coal Prices Dropped Still Further by Fitzgerald

Better buy Now at These---The Lowest made.
$1.00 per Ton Below Regular Prices.

I propose to meet any competiton that is put up by any dealer and meet it in a decisive way. This I know the Public will appreciate. Consumers are urged to send in orders at once.

It will pay to buy and burn Coal at these prices. Don't Delay. We deliver the best Screened Coal. First quality Lehigh Valley Coal. Every Load.

Egg Coal, reg. price $8.00.	Our price $7.25	Nut " " "	$8.50.	" "	$7.50
Stove " " "	$8.25. " "	$7.25 Pea " " "	$7.00.	" "	$6.00

I claim that the prices heretofore asked for Coal have been reasonable considering the expenses of the Business. Below I give a statement of facts in connection with the cost of handling Coal in this City. One Ton of Coal of 2000 lbs.

1 ton Nut (at Buffalo)	$5.36
Freight from bridge	1.25
State export tax	.10
Total cost on truck	6.71
Handling cost in this city	1.35
Selling price to public	8.50
Leaving profit per ton	44c

Cost of Economical Coal Handling

(From the Coal Trade Journal)

In answer to an enquiry with reference to the net profit per ton on coal we state that the profit can fairly be assured by deducting the following items of expense, these being based up a fairly equipped yard, up-to-date generally

Advertising	$0.03	per ton
Breakage, loss in transit, calm	.15	"
Dumping in pocket	.01½	"
Office and general expense	.12½	"
Insurance and taxes	.03	"
Yard superintendent and employees	.13	"
Interest on investment or rent	.10	"
Bad debts and equipment depreciation	.02	"
Office employees	.15	"
Owner's salary	.15	"
Interest on stock carried	.02	"
Average cost of delivery	.50	"
Total handling cost to dealer, per ton	$1.42

The Public may ask how I can afford to sell Coal at the Prices I now make. I am selling the Coal at Cost on Truck and only adding the cost of Cartage to Consumers (70c per Ton). Overhead expense will be charged to other lines of Business

Belleville Game Looks Like The Hockey Classic Of The Present Season

With Belleville running a big excursion here and with the 57th Band volunteering their services for a concert, it begins to look as if one of the old-time crowds will see the big battle between the Belleville and Peterborough intermediates here on Thursday night. The game will be one of the most important local fixtures of the season, and promises to be one of the most exciting staged at the Brock Street arena in a long time. The Belleville team showed unexpected strength in beating Whitby on Friday and they will have to be counted on all the way. The two Indian players, the Brant brothers, are said to be stars, and the whole team showed speed in the Whitby game. The Petes cannot afford to lose any more home games to stay in the running and they will take no chance with Thursday night's game. It looks like the hockey classic of the year.

Mr. T. F. Matthews Appointed Hon. Pres. Church Hockey League

A very successful meeting of the Church Hockey League was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlours last night. The Executive drew up the schedule, elected the officers, and drew up the usual code of rules. Everything looks good for a succesful season and the game will be played on Jan. 22nd, from 7 to 8 p.m. at Brock Street Rink between All Saints' and Knox teams. St. Paul's and Murray Street Church will clash the same night from 10 to 11 p.m., and on Friday, Jan. 23, George Street and the Y. M. C. A. play from 10 to 11.

The following list of officers were appointed:

Hon.-Pres.—S. F. Matthews.
President. J. E. Smith.
Vice-President—D. Loucks.
Secretary—A. Harper.
Treasurer—J. J. Thompson.

The Executive members present a member of each organization, was as follows: J. E. Smith, George Street; H. Webb, Murray Street; E. S. Killeter, Y.M.C.A.; H. Williamson, Knox Church; Mr. Campbell, All Saints; D. Loucks, St. Paul's; A. Harper, St. Andrew's.

The rules drafted are as follows:

1.—Each player must have a definite connection with the Church for which he is playing.

2—No player will be eligible to play in this league who during the 1913-14 season has played in the O. H. A. or Junior City League games.

3.—O. H. A. rules shall govern all games.

4.—The certificates of the men playing the first game must be in the hands of the Secretary the day of the first scheduled games; the balance to be in the hands of the Secretary the day of the second game.

The following schedule was drafted and the dates other than the first three games to be announced later:

All Saints vs. Knox.
St. Paul's vs. Murray Street.
Y. M. C. A. vs. George Street.
St. Andrew's vs. St. Paul's.

Y. M. C. A. WANT A CERTIFICATE FOR RICHARDSON

Claim That the Junior Defence Man is Eligible Because He Did Not Play an O. H. A Game Until This Season

EXHIBITION GAME ONLY

The Junior City League has an interesting case on its hands just now in the case of player Cecil Richardson of the Peterborough junior club, a certificate for whom has been asked for by the Y.M.C.A. City League Club. When the constitution of the league was drawn up a clause was passed barring all players who had played in the O.H.A. series prior to this season. This was thought to include Richardson, but technically does not do so.

The only game in which Richardson played for the Peterborough Club last season was in the final game of the group series at Oshawa. The Petes were out of the running and could not get a full team of eligible men. Flowers could not make the trip and Joe Dwyer, who was not eligible because of having played more than one senior game, was taken along to play goal. There was no certificate for Dwyer and consequently the Peterborough management defaulted the game to Oshawa before going on the ice, notifying Referee Harry Burgoyne to that effect and the game was played as an exhibition game. Technically, therefore, Richardson did not take part in an O.H.A. game until this season, and is perfectly eligible under the rules of the City League to play with the Y. M.C.A. or any other club that files his certificate with the League secretary.

JUNIORS WORK OUT TO-MORROW

Full Turnout is Expected at Brock St. Rink

The Junior O.H.A. theam will practice to-morrow night at 7 o'clock and a full turnout is requested. This will be the last practice before the game in Port Hope on Friday night and every regular shoull be out for the workout.

OPENING OF THE MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE IN BROCK STREET RINK LAST NIGHT

Test Room Looks Like Pick of the Material but the Race for the Bacon Promises to be an Interesting One--

Last Night's Scores.

Bankers 2. ..... Tool Room 0.
Test Dept. 8. ..... Examiner, 0.
Plumbers, 3. ..... DeLaval, 1

The opening games of the Mercantile League were played at the Brock Street Rink last night and all the teams entered for the honours had a chance to display their class. The opening game was played from 8 to 9 between the Bankers and Tool Room, resulting in a win for the Bankers. In the second game the Test Department of the C. G. E. whitewashed the "Examiner" 8—0, and in the third match the plumbers won from the De Laval seven, 3—1.

The First Game.

For this fixture the teams were:

Bankers		Tool Room
McCrimmon	Goal	Cassidy
Phelan	Right Defence	McGrath
Corkery	Left Defence	Kelly
Paton	Rover	Barrie
Minorgan	Centre	Robson
Carson	Left Wing	Hillier
Smith	Right Wing	Heath

After the face-off the Tool Room showed a good deal of speed, and had the Bankers on the defensive for several minutes. Barrie, Robson and Heath all got shots at McCrimmon, who handled them nicely. The money men broke away and a skirmish in front of the Garnet and Grey goal almost resulted in a counter, but Cassidy was there all the time and blocked several nice efforts. The Tool Room were having the edge on the Bankers, whose nets had several narrow escapes. But Minorgan and Phelan relieved several times and saved a counter. The whol forward line of the Tool Room looked dangerour during the first half, but at the rest the score stood 0—0.

In the second half, however, the Bankers came back with a rush. They had the Tool Room fighting to save their nets, and back-checked so hard that Barrie was the only man on the Tool Room line-up that got away during the first ten minutes and during this period the Bankers got their first goal. Still back-checking hard and aided by some beautiful stops by McCrimmon, the Bankers held their own and just before the final gonx, slipped another past Cassidy, making the final score 2—0.

Both goal tenders looked good and Minorgan for the Bankers, and Barrie for the Tool Room, put up a stellar brand of hockey. Both teams lacked combination, the goals being secured on individual rushes.

The Second Game.

The Test Department of the C. G. E. and the Examiner clashed in the next game. The teams were:

Examinr		Test Dept.
Swanston	Goal	Dwyer
Lees	Right Defence	McKean
Clancy	Left Defence	Brackenreid
Heard	Rover	MacDougall
Armstrong	Centre	Caster
J. Barringer	Left Wing	Munro
Manion	Right Wing	Boone

The Test Room gave an indication of their speed right at the beginning. The Examiner defence was playing well up the ice when the Test seven broke away from in from of their own nets, carried the puck right down the ice on a nice combination rush and beat Swanston for the first goal. The going after that was a little harder for the men from the C. G. E., but they outclassed their opponents in almost every department, and after several individual rushes, notched another counter on a combination stunt, which commenced by Carter breakig away from centre ice. In spite of considerable hard checking, the Test boys took another one before half-time.

In the second half the Examiner came back with a good burst of speed and Dwyer was called upon to stop several hard shots. But their going did not last, and before long the Test had got their third goal. The second half was only a struggle on the part of the Examiner to keep their opponents out, but owing to the speed of the opposing team and carelessness of the defence, as well as the inability of their forwards to break away, their efforts were not successful and the final score was 8—0 for the Test hoom.

The Test Room seven looked easily the best team that took the ice last night, McKean at right defence having speed and weight. Brackenreid, at left defence, played a good game last night; MacDougall at rover, and Carter, at centre, too, had a hand in the fireworks. Dwyer played a good game in goal, although he was not overworked, getting several dangerous looking shots, particularly in the second half.

The Third Game.

In the third fixture last night, the Plumbers defeated the DeLaval seven 3—1.

In the first half the De Laval team showed a lack of team work that ultimately allowed the plumbers to take the game. Spratt and Todd showed a little speed, but neither got away very often, although the dairy stalwarts missed several beautiful chances to score. The game, during the first half was a see-saw one, resulting in a 2—1 score in favour of the plumbers.

The second half was merely a repetition of the first period. Reynolds and Helson for the plumbers, pulled off some nice individual stuff, and occasionally the forward line broke away in a combination rush. Had it not been for Spratt the score would undoubtedly have run into larger figures, but his body checking broke up rush after rush. The plumbers got one goal in the second half, making the score 3—1.

The teams were:

De Laval		Plumbers
Fitzgerald	Goal	Dunford
Spratt	Right Defence	Reynolds
Reuter	Left Defence	Millette
McLaren	Rover	Dobson
Todd	Centre	Helson
Patterson	Right Wing	Grange
Hill	Left Wing	Logan

Len Dobson refereed all three games satisfactorily.

BLACKBURN IS THROUGH

Coloured Pugilist Released From Penitentiary To-morrow Will Fight No More

Examiner Special:

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 13.—Friends of Jack Blackburn, the former well known pugilist, are arranging to give him a new start in life when he is released from the Eastern Penitentiary here to-morrow, after having served five years for shooting another negro in a quarrel over a woman.

Though he is said to be in good physical condition it is not at all likely that the negro will ever be seen in the ring again. He is past his thirtieth year and was virtually all in as a fighter when he got into trouble.

When in his prime Blackburn stood well up among the welterweight fighters. He hailed originally from Indianapolis and began his ring career in 1902. He won in bouts with such fighters as "Spike" Sullivan, Jimmy Gardner and Mike Donovan, and fought several draws with Sam Langford.

TY COBB AS POSSIBLE FEDERALIST

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 13. —A delegation of local ball fans expect President Gilmore of the Federal League here from Buffalo this afternoon and will talk over with him the proposition to give Ty Cobb fifty thousand dollars on three years' contract, to manage the Federal League team here.

New Clubs A Big Thing For The League

Hamilton Spectator: It is doubtful if any baseball announcement has proved of greater interest to Canadian league fans than the report that Toronto people had purchased the Berlin franchise and that the National association had awarded the Erie, Pa., territory to the Canadian league. It is but three years since the Canadian league was launched and in that short time the circuit has grown from a six-club class D organization to an eight-club class B circuit, as it will now become. This is the most rapid growth and development enjoyed by any minor league in America, and surely speaks well for the strength displayed in the past three seasons and for the future of the organization. George O'Neill, the London magnate, who purchased the Guelph franchise a month ago for $2,500, is on his way to Erie to-day for the purpose of taking up the matter of placing the franchise he owns in that city, while something definite in connection with the disposal of the Erie franchise can be expected at the Canadian league meeting which is to be held in a few days. The decision of the Toronto International league magnates to take over the Berlin holdings is sure to prove a big thing for the Fitzgerald circuit, and in connection with the deal which was consummated on Saturday, full credit may be given the league president, James P. Fitzgerald. Mr. Fitzgerald took over the office of league president two years ago, but even before he was actively connected with the organization he made several attempts to have the Toronto Baseball club place a Canadian league club in Toronto. When he became president of the league his efforts were renewed, and that for which he fought for over two years is now likely to take place. The Toronto magnates have made no announcement of any kind as yet, but have thrown out the hint that the Berlin franchise may be placed in Niagara Falls. Those who are placed in conversant with the situtions, however, are sure that the franchise will be placed in Toronto.

That a circuit composed of Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Erie, London, Brantford, Peterborough and St. Thomas will prove a pretty powerful one is only too evident. In dropping Guelph and Berlin, the league gets rid of the two weak members and rounds out what appears to be a perfect circuit. Erie is a grand ball town, while a Canadian league team in Toronto is sure to meet with general support, especially as class B ball will be furnished. The change will mean greatly improved ball and a bigger proposition all the way through. Given an interesting struggle for the pennant, a big season should result.

Reisling Is New Manager Of Cockneys

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13—Just to keep up the standard of Canadian League baseball in the face of the big changes in the make up of the circuit, the London baseball club set to rest the managerial berth of the Tecumsehs when President Stevely announced the signing up of "Doc" F. C. Reisling, the former Washington American League pitcher, to lead the Londons next season.

The Caldwell, Ohio, dentist, affixed his signature to a London baseball contract calling for a much fatter monthly stipend than ever before paid to a leader by the local club, but from appearance they have not made a mistake by grabbing the former big leaguer. Mr. Reisling is a big fellow of fine appearance, who is delighted with London as his prospective summer home, and perhaps his future abode. Dr. Reisling arrived in the city Saturday and after meetings the directors, his formal acceptance of managing the London club was made and he will sign the contract to-day.

He stated that he would take his regular turn in the box as well as play a position in the outfield. "I have kept in condition the past two years, playing independent ball in and around the state, and with a regular spring training I will be in fine shape for the coming season," he said.

Mr. O'Neill will accompany the new London manager to Buffalo at noon to-day, where they will meet Linneborn, the little London second baseman, and talk over the coming season's prospects. Mr. O'Neill will go on to Erie Pa., where he expects to make final arrangements for the transfer of the Guelph franchise.

This is not the first time for Dr. Reisling to visit London, as he was here in 1898, when Pete Lohman held forth here with his celebrated club Dr. Reisling was pleased to learn that Tecumseh Park was still the place where the games are played. Secretary F. F. Buzzell announced that the five-year lease of the park had practically been closed with the owner, W. J. Reid.

Manager Reisling went over the reserve list of players, including Pitchers Heck, Steiger, Beebe and Boldt besides Bierbauer, Linneborn, Smith, Reidy and Deneau, and stated that with what men he has he will be able to whip together a very likely looking aggregation, which will make a fine showing in a class B league, if that is what will become of the league since the changes in the circuit are announced.

Reisling pitched with Toronto in the Eastern League when Jo Jo Keenan played shortstop for Wilkesbarre, Pa., and was pleased to learn that Keenan was making his home in this city and marveled at his ability when he was told that he played in the Canadian League during the past three seasons.

The new leader is reserved and has a boost for everybody but himself.

NEWS FROM THE OLD COUNTRY SOCCER CAMPS

The struggle for the two leading positions in the second division of the English League grows more strenuous as the weeks slip past and any of the first eight on the table may qualify at the end of the season. It is generally the cup ties that find out the weak points in a side, and when they come on some of the teams appear to have a chance of qualifying just now, may get such a gruelling that they will quickly drop into the "also ran" class. When the pinch comes those who have the most efficient reserves will likely fare best.

A Wise Choice.

The transference of Fred Mavin, of Oldham to Bradford came as a direct surprise to followers of the game in West London. Russell's rapid rise to fame had, for the time being, fairly eclipsed Mavin, and one would have fancied Mr. Maley would have wanted a player with a bigger name to fill the place of the disabled Howie, but the Bradford manager has done so many successful things in football that the engaging of Mavin may very well be followed by run of success that will firmly establish Bradford at the head of the second division.

There is no doubt about Mavin's earnestness, and if he can regain the ability to shoot as he formerly did, Mr. Maley will have no reason to regret his bargain. Anyhow, after watching Mavin against Chelsea Reserves at Fulham in the final of the Middlesex cup he was quite satisfied the Tynesider would adequately fill Howie's place which, by the way, is asking a good deal as the Scot has been a very fine player for Bradford and has few superiors in his position.

After Blair.

The representatives of more than one Southern club crossed the border to watch James Blair, of Clyde, play against Herts of Midlothian, at Edinburgh. At the time of writing, it is not known if business has been done, but the odds are that the matter has been left in abeyance as the price asked by the Clyde club, $10,000 is considered much too stiff. More especially as Blair has been off the field lately, and only resumed playing for the first time on Saturday When in form Blair is a back of the very highest class, but $10,000! It's a big price and a club paying it would require to go into the final of the cup to justify such an outlay. Unless Clyde reduce considerably it is unlikely the deal will go through, but a brilliant display by the latter player against the Hearts of Midlothian may have worked the oracle.

Still No Change.

As a result of Saturday's games no change fails to be made in the leading positions of the Scottish League. Celtic still hold a commanding lead with Hearts next best. Rangers, however, have fallen back a bit through that loss of one point to Partick Thistle on Monday. Ayr United gave them a very hard fight at Ibrox today, the champions only getting home by the odd goal. The surprise of the day was Raith Rovers' win over Hibernians at Easter road, although it is not the first time the "Langtonians" have beaten the men with the green jerseys. Hearts did splendidly to win at Aberdeen, despite the fact that the Granite City team are no great shakes this season.

Cupholders Safe.

As ws anticipated, Aston Villa, although none too brilliant at the present time, were good enough for Stoke, whilst Blackburn Rovers, who are regarded as likely finalists if not winners of the cup, had easily the better of Middlesboro. Sheffield United's win at Newcastle is the best of the day. Brighton and Hove did splendidly to tie the game at Oldham, and the "lads" may not relish that visit to the south for the replay.

London Tit-Bit Drawn.

There was great excitement in London over the Millwall vs. Chelsea game. The play was most exciting and at the finish neither could claim a victory nor a goal to their credit. Extensive as Stamford Bridge ground is, it will be severely taxed by the crowd which will attend the replay during the week. The other results are much as expected.

CHOIR PRACTICE.

An innovation in the way of having choir practice out of town will be tried by the members of St. Andrew's Church choir to-morrow (Wednesday) evening. On the invitation of Mr. Petrie, a member of the choir, they intend sleighing to his farm in Otonabee, leaving the church at 7.15. Every member is expected to sleigh.

SOME BAD ROADS.

Dr. McCullough, Brock Street, yesterday undertook to visit his farm a short way from Millbrook. Taking a rig at Millbrook he started to drive to his destination. After going some distance he encountered as bad roads as he has ever experienced, in some the drifts being 7 feet high. The Doctor had to abandon the trip and retrace his steps home.

NAMES WERE WRONG.

In a recent report of a wedding that took place at St. George's Church, South Peterborough, on Wednesday, January 7th, the bride's name was given as Miss Mary Vincent, when it should have read Mrs. Mary Vincent of Byersville, and the groom's correct name is Mr. George Cray Smith and not Mr. John Cray Smith as previously noted. The ceremony was performed by the incumbent, Rev. Mr. Price.

DIED IN ORILLIA WHILE ON A VISIT.

The death occurred in Orillia on Sunday at 1 a.m. of Edward Greenland, who left Peterborough on New Year's Day to spend the holiday with his brother. While in Orillia he was stricken with appendicitis and undergent an operation which proved fatal. The deceased was a resident of Peterborough during the past ten years and had come from England. He was a faithful member of All Saints' Church.

The funeral was held in Orillia today.

A COMPARISON

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Kindly print the following in your paper and oblige a subscriber:

To "Nuff Sed."

If you are as well acquainted with the works of both men as you would have us believe, you must have realized long e'er this, that Shakespeare's words ain't in it with the "poems of Peterborough."

Compare any of Shakespeare's with John Bell's poem, "The Hornets Nest," in Saturday's Examiner.

Own up then that you have not seen its equal, and retire with me before we're stung.

WEDDING BELLS

McCONNELL—BAKER

The folowing from the Cupar Herald, Sask., refers to the wedding of a son of Mr. James McConnell, Elm Grange, Gilmour street:

A very popular and pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's church, on Saturday morning last at eleven o'clock, when one of our most well known couples were united in holy matrimony.

The contracting parties were Miss Ethel Margaret Baker and Mr. Bruce James McConnell, both of Cupar, the nuptial knot being tied by the Rev. H. V. Hitchcox.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. J. Dillon of Fort Qu'Appelle, looked charming in a brown serge traveling suit with hat to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses, lilies of the valley and asparagus fern. Mr. Harry McConnell acted as best man.

The church was well filled with the friends of the bride and groom.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party and the invited guests went to the bride's home, where a reception was given.

The presents received by the newly married couple were numerous and handsome as well as valuable.

The happy couple left on the eastbound train for Winnipeg, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will take up residence at Loon Creek.

It is pleasure to chronicle the marriage of such worthy young people, and this paper wafts to them its warmest congratulations.

MISS KATIE RUDKINS

Miss Catharine Rudkins, a very well known and highly respected resident of this City, passed away at five minutes after eleven o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's Hospital, after an illness of eight weeks.

The deceased lady was 50 years of age, and was born in this City, where she resided all of her life. She was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral, and possessed of a sterling character for which she was admired by all who came in touch with her. The late Miss Rudkins also possessed a marked business ability, and for several years conducted a drygoods and millinery establishment on George street, between Hunter and Brock. When the "Crystal Block" was burned about twelve years ago, Miss Rudkins' place of business was destroyed. Since that time she has been connected with several local business houses, and for some time before her death rendered valuable service in connection with the management of the Home Furnishing Company on Charlotte street.

She is survived by one brother, Mr. W. Rudkins, of this City.

The funeral arangements will be announced later.

Thawing Out Pipes Set Fire To Woodwork

At nine o'clock this morning the fire brigade was called to the old Childrens Shelter to extinguish a chimney fire. No damage was done by the flames.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Raymond Collet, 271 Perry Street, was thawing out his frozen water pipes with a torch when the flame ignited the joists of the basement. The fire brigade was called to put it out, which they did speedily with the cehmicals. Very little damage was done.

At twenty minutes to one this afternoon, one of the boxes on the line shaft at the Fuel and Cartage Company got hot and ignited the sawdust around it. Result: One more call for the fire brigade, and one more fire extinguished by them.

At 11.50 yesterday morning a chimney fire broke out in the home of Mr. John Freeman, 532 Patterson Street. It was extinguished by the brigade.

Canada's railway interests are growing at a relatively faster rate than those of any country in the world.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. R. M. Hamilton, Auburn, will receive on Thursday afternoon of this week.

Mr. Donald Potter, representing the Consumers' Cordage Co., Toronto, is in the City to-day.

Mrs. T. J. Blois, 265 Rubidge Street, is spending a few weeks in Port Hope, the guest of Mrs. Alf.

Mr. William Roberts of Peterborough, attended the funeral of Mrs. Stephens, which was held from Port Hope.

Miss Hilda Walsh, of Hastings, and Miss Jessie Spence, leave for Ottawa this morning for the opening of Parliament and Drawing Room.

Mr. Alex. Gibson left on the noon train to-day for New York from where he will sail on the steamship Baltic for the Old Country. Mr. Gibson will combine business with pleasure. He expects to visit his mother in Scotland and will be away six weeks or two months.

Car Collided With Stage

At a quarter to two o'clock this afternoon the Enniamore stage, crossing the corner of George and Hunter Streets, was run down by street car No. 14.

The stage was being driven east across George Street, and evidently the driver did not see the approaching street car. At any rate he drove right in front of it, and the street car went crashing into the outfit from Enniamore. Fortunately the car was going slow at the time, and only carried the stage about six feet. The whiffletree broke at the time of the collision, and the horses would have bolted, had not a sure-footed bystandar rushed ont and caught them in the nick of time. The fender was broken completely off the street car, and bent in every direction.

According to eye-witnesses, the driver had time to see the street car and avoid it.

Bridge Has Been Removed

Mr. Joseph DeShayes, foreman of construction in connection with the new C.P.R. bridge that was erected across the Otonabee river, left yesterday for Walkerton, where he will supervise the erection of the bridge that was removed from Peterborough. The new bridge in Peterborough is completed with the exception of the middle span. The latter will be constructed as soon as the alterations are made to the span that was originally designed for a permanent span. The necessary changes are being made at the works of the Hamilton Bridge Company, Hamilton.

Annual Meeting Of St. John's Athletic Club

Last evening St. John's Athletic Club held their annual meeting in the School House at 8.30 p.m. In the absence of the President, Mr. A. Kingdon took the chair, with a good attendance of members.

The Secretary read the minutes and also the financial statement, which showed a balance of $7.20.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

J. H. Burnham, M. P., patron.
Hon. Pres.—Rev. Canon Davidson.
President—C. Graham, (re-elected).
1st Vice-Pres.—C. Throope.
2nd Vice-Pres.—A. White.
Sec.-Treas.—W. T. Ward, (re-elected).

Branch Officers—Football Captain, A. V. Dallin; Harrier Captain, C. Throope, (re-elected). The other branch officers to be elected later on.

Mr. A. Theobald made an admirable speech, thanking the past officers for their services, proposing that the secretary write a letter of appreciation to W. Packwood (past secretary) for his services.—Carried.

Patronage Committee (to interest church members and others in the work of the club)—A. Kingdon, W. T. Ward, E. Tucker.

Working Committee —A. Kingdon, A. Theobald, D. Eldred.

The following committee was appointed to promote a concert to be held the latter end of February or beginning of March: A. White, A. V. Dallin, D. Eldred.

A suggestion was favourably received if sufficient funds were obtained to have a war canoe.

A toboggan party will be held on Tuesday, January 20th at Jackson Park, at 8 o'clock. All members invited.

Meeting adjourned at 10.30 o'clock till the first Tuesday in February.

Only Thing To Do.

In a natural history gabfest the other day the talk turned to the evolution of the butterfly, when Senator Elihu Root was reminded of a children's fancy dress affair at one of the theatres.

Just previous to the beginning of the entertainment a woman excitedly rushed up to the stage door and demanded entrance, but the attendant in charge barred the way.

"I am very sorry, madam," he apologetically said, "but this is a children's affair, and no adults are admitted."

"But my little girl in in there," insisted the woman, with a look of deep concern, "and she has forgotten a part of her costume. She is to take the part of a butteruy, but has no wings.'

"I can't help it, madam," was the obdurate response of the doorkeeper. "My orders are to let no adult pass. Your little girl will have to go on as a caterpillar."

Natural Mistake.

"Waiter!" shouted the noonday patron of a very rapidly working downtown cafe.

In due time the waiter heard the summons and stood at attention.

"Take this beer away!" continued the guest, still in strident tones. "Can't you see that there is a fly in it? Ugh!"

The waiter picked up the glass and inspected it anxiously. Then he smiled reassuringly and set it down again.

"Natural mistake, sir—no offence," he said. "That ain't a fly, sir—it's only a little lump o' dirt."

Building Is Gutted

Montreal Business District Invaded By Flames

LOSS IS ABOUT $450,000

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—Fire invaded the dreaded down town danger zone yesterday afternoon and gutted the seven-storey building near the corner of St. Paul street and Place Royale, owned by Molson estate and occupied by the hardware firm of Frothingham and Workman. Intensely cold weather conditions added to the fact that the blaze was right in the heart of the congested warehouse district, made the task of the firemen doubly difficult.

The fire, which is said to have been caused by the upsetting of a plumber's lamp in the shipping room on the ground floor, quickly spread upwards through the other flats. The wholesale hardware firm employes about 85 persons, 20 or so of them being girls. All got out safely.

Another danger to the firefighters was the presence in the building of a considerable quantity of ammunition, but a larger part of this was contained in a fireproof vault that escaped injury. Upon the top flat, however, were a number of cases of cartridges, and an hour after the fire started these began to explode.

The stock and property of the Frothingham and Workman firm were covered by insurance to the extent of $285,000 and it is calculated that their loss by fire and water will amount to around $200,000. The loss to the Molson estate, which also is insured, will be roughly a quarter of a million, making the total damage about $450,000.

Battling in a temperature twenty-five below zero, firemen were not only hampered by the bitter cold, but by the fact that half a dozen other fires broke out while they were still fighting. One time only seven pieces of apparatus were left with which to combat the central fire. Nearly every fireman sustained frostbites, and so serious were the injuries and the effects of the frost that the inland revenue offices nearby were turned into a temporary hospital.

Bad Blaze In Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—A spectacular fire did $80,000 damage and threw five firms out of business for the time at Dundas, Sheridan and Fisher streets last night. The conflagration grew to such proportions that it necessitated the calling of a general alarm before the flames could be controlled. A large force of policemen was collected from different parts of the city to keep an immense crowd of excited spectators out of harm's way. One death resulted. Mr. C. G. Miles, owner of a woodworking factory, dropped dead from heart failure in his office.

Six firms in all are affected by the disaster. Mr. W. K. Rankin, the owner of the property, who conducts the Excelsior Packing Works, was the heaviest loser. Besides the loss of a big power plant, which he rented out to his tenants, his factory was partially destroyed. Mr. W. J. Smith lost everything. His novelty works were razed to the ground. Parker Brothers' wood-turning shops were also a total loss, and J. W. Woolnough's show-case factory was also eaten up by the flames. The other losers were Messrs. R. Lembke and G. G. Miles.

Big Block Burned.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 14.—Fire last evening destroyed the three-story brick Schuster Block, corner of Bridge and Pinnacle streets, causing a loss of about $30,000. It was just noticed as a small blaze in the rear of the fruit store of Sam Domenico, but with great rapidity it spread upwards and got into the third storey, and from the rear and top gradually ate its way to the lower floors and front offices. The weather was bitterly cold, and the firemen experienced much discomfort in their work.

Public School Damaged.

WHITBY, Jan. 14.—Fire damaged the Dundas Street Public School here yesterday morning to the extent of probably $1,000. The school was in session at the time fire was discovered, but the children all marched safely out of the building. The bitter cold made fire-fighting difficult, and frozen hydrants delayed the work.

SOUTH AFRICA IS ON VERGE OF A TITANIC CONFLICT

Martial Law is Declared--With the Participation in the Railway Strike of the Turbulent Rand Miners and the Difficulty of Sending the Native Labourers to Their Homes Government Takes Drastic Action.

CAPE TOWN, Sout Africa, Jan. 14.—A general strike throughout South Africa was proclaimed last night by the Trades Federation and the Rand miners by a two-thirds majority voted to join in the movement. Government retaliation was swift. It took the form of the proclamation of martial law. This was the only step the authorities believed adequate to meet the situation, for the strike of the miners means not only the turning loose of the most turbulent spirits in the Rand, but raises the whole question of the position of the native workers. If the miners actually obey the strike order the Government will immediately take steps to send the natives under escort back to their kraals.

This means that about 200,000 natives must be marched back by road to their homes at enormous cost. It will be most difficult, after the end of the strike, to recruit them again. In brief, such a step would mean disaster for the Rand for many years.

Although official reports from Johannesburg show improvement in the train service, reports from other districts are less encouraging. In Natal the situation is one of great tension, and it is feared that the loyalty of the trainmen will not stand the strain much longer. An instance of the men's temper is shown in the action of an engine driver, who quitted his train on the Veldt and left the passengers stranded. Practically no information is at hand as to conditions in the Orange Free State, but improvement there is not considered probable.

From the Government's standpoint about the only ray of light yesterday was the assurance from the Indian leader, Gandhi, that the passive resistance movement by the Indians against their grievances would be dropped during the present trouble.

The Union Government remains firm in its attitude. The Premier, Gen. Louis Botha, is said to have declared that he would "guarantee that with the end of the present crisis there would not be another workers' strike in South Africa for a generation."

Feeling runs high between the Government's supporters and the strikers, and the chance of mediation is practically hopeless. The Supreme Court has granted an application compelling the Government to show cause why the strike leaders should remain in prison.

Premier Botha has addressed a circular to the natives, advising them to obey explicitly the compound managers, assuring them of the fullest protection, and the circular seems to have had an excellent effect.

The strikers are now making strenuous attempts to bring about the running staffs of the Cape Colony railways, but the pickets are not allowed to approach within a hundred yards of the quarters where the railway employes are housed.

All strike meetings yesterday were remarkable for the moderate tone of the speakers, who advised the men to proceed with the organization of their own police force and keep the peace so well that the tremendous display of force by the Government would be made ridiculous. The Government is already threatening to institute a press censorship as strict as prevailed in war time.

SALE OF LINCOLN RELICS.

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Collectors and dealers from many parts of the country were on hand to-day at the opening in this City of the sale of the famous Lincoln collection owned by the late Major William H. Lambert of Philadelphia. The sale will continue for several days. The collection embraces hundreds of books, manuscripts, letters, personal mementoes and other objects associated with the memory of President Lincoln. The interest of collectors centres largely in the manuscripts and personal letters, of which there are many of great importance, not only throwing light on the inception and growth of the political ideas back of the emancipation of the slaves, but also many that have a remarkable interest as bearing upon Lincoln's personal character.

MERCURY BROKE RECORDS.

Eastern Canada Tingled Yesterday But Worst Is Over.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—A cold spell which broke low thermometer records over a wide area in Eastern Canada and the United States, inflicting great suffering in Ontario yesterday. Inquiries at the Meteorological Bureau to-day elicited the information that the cold weather had spent its force and that for a few days at least milder temperature would prevail.

The mercury in Toronto touched its lowest point in 28 years with an official record of 22 below zero. Suffering throughout the city and suburbs was acute, and over fifty cases of more or less severe frostbite were treated in the hospitals. No deaths were reported, but two drivers fell from their wagons unconscious.

Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal were more severely visited by the cold with readings of 28 below. Quebec was 20 below, Port Arthur 22 below, Hamilton 18 below, London 8 below. In the Maritime Provinces heavy gales raged, while in the west the weather was exceptionally fair and mild.

Bank Merger Proceeding.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 14. — It was announced at the annual meeting of the Bank of Vancouver yesterday that a proposal for amalgamation with another bank is proceeding. It was unanimously decided that the matter would be dealt with by a full meeting of the shareholders on March 15. No announcement was made of the identity of the bank with which negotiation was proceeding, but it was thought that it was the

Royal Mail Steamer Cobequid May Be Lost

WIRELESS HAS GIVEN OUT

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 14.—A wireless cry for help from the Royal Mail steamer Cobequid, fast on the dreaded ledges of the Grand Manan just before dawn yesterday, followed five hours later by a final flicker of her radio, saying that the ship was fast filling, has caused grave concern for the 130 persons on board. The Cobequid was bound for St. John, N.B., from the British West Indies, in command of Captain Hawson, completing her first round trip over this route. She had a crew of 103 men, a number of second-class passengers and the following first-class cabin: L. S. Navarre, L. Botts, W. C. Zoller, Mrs. Zoller and child. She had called at Bermuda, but most of her passengers were from points south of there.

Whether the Cobequid had survived an all-day battle with hurricane seas and would hold together until one of the fleet of nearly a dozen rescue boats could reach her was a matter of increasing hourly anxiety today.

Up to dark no trace of the distressed vessel had been found on the east shore of the Bay of Fundy, where she was first reported aground. Nor could a glimpse be seen through the vapor which shrouded the west side of Grand Manan, on one of those numerous ledges, it was later believed she rested.

The Cobequid was formerly the steamer Goth, and had been pressed into the winter service from the Maritime Provinces to the tropics. She sailed from Halifax on Dec. 5 for West Indian ports, and started north again on Dec. 30 from Grenada. She called at Bermuda on the ninth and then cleared for St. John.

Approaching the Bay of Fundy, famous for its swift tides and mountainous seas, a blizzard descended upon the steamer. Captain Hawson was heading for Gannet Rock light, the guide to the western side of the bay, and a warning of the ledges which stretch ten miles to the southward of Grand Manan. It was about sunrise when the operator at the wireless station of Cape Sable across the bay, picked up the Cobequid's cry for help. The message said that the vessel had struck a ledge off Brier Island, which is on the east side of the bay, and needed immediate assistance. For the next few hours frequent messages were received from the stranded steamer, one of which said that the forward hold was filling. At 9.40 a.m. came the last gasp of the fading wireless to the effect that the engine-room was flooded, the batteries were exhausted and the operator was unable to get any sparks.

In the meantime both the Canadian and American Governments had begun active measures for rescue. The German steamer Kronprincessin Cecilie, off Sable Island, on her way to New York, was urged to change her course and head for the Cobequid, two hundred miles to the northward.

The Government steamer Lady Laurier was started out from this port for the run of 150 miles to Grand Manan. The steamers Belvidere, Helena and Lansdowne were asked to help, and the U. S. revenue cutter Woodbury, en route to Rockland from Portland, was ordered to steam full speed for the scene.

Toward night it was discovered that the cable steamer Tyrian was at anchor behind Campobello, only 40 miles from Gannet Rock Light, and a message was sent to her skipper urging him to proceed immediately to the aid of the Cobequid.

When the keeper of the Brier Island Light was notified of the accident, in the hope that he might give some information regarding her, he replied that he saw no trace of the Cobequid. This was subsequently confirmed by the steamer John L. Cann, which made a circuit of the island during the day. On a re-reading of the first message from the Cobequid the opinion was reached that the navigator was at a loss as to the real position of the steamer, and that she was in reality on the west side of the bay.

Unfortunately communication with Grand Manan had been cut off sometime before through the breaking of the cable, so that no information could be obtained from there.

Unusual Operation Will Succeed.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 14.—In an effort to cure a case of paresis, serum was applied directly to a diseased brain here, and surgeons declare that the operation, the first of its kind in this country, will be successful. The operation has been performed three times in France, and in two of the cases there satisfactory results have been obtained.

The operation was on a man fifty-one years old. Two small holes were bored in his skull, one on each side of the brain. A serum obtained by inoculating a rabbit with an arsenic compound was then injected.

Divine Sarah Is Honored.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—From Paris comes the news that at last the name of Sarah Bernhardt has been added to the roll of fame of the Legion of Honor. Her claims have been put forward several times before, but the influence of a strong element in French society prevented the French actress from obtaining the decoration.

Among the famous women who are possessors of the red ribbon are Adelina Patti, Mme. Curie, the Baroness De Rothschild, Mme. Paquin and Mme. Outrieu, the aviator.

LOSS OF LIFE GREAT.

Japan's Earthquake Toll Increased by Tidal Wave.

TOKIO, Jan. 14.—A tidal wave added it terrors to the earthquakes and eruption which struck Kagoshima, in Southern Japan, Monday, according to official advices.

Hundreds of houses were destroyed or damaged, and many people killed or injured.

The earthquakes in the island of Kiushiu have resulted in a large loss of life and damage to property which cannot be estimated at present. At Moji one hundred persons have been killed. Many houses in the town of Kagoshima, capital of the province of Satsuma, have been destroyed. Monday night the city was in darkness, the only illumination being the glare from the volcano Sakura-Jima.

The evacuation of Kagoshima was impeded by a huge rock that had been thrown out by the volcano, which wrecked the rails outside the town. A telegraph operator at Kagoshima sent this message: "The city is almost buried in ashes and stones. The people are in a panic and a wild exodus has taken place."

Warships have been despatched with doctors and supplies. The earth shocks and volcanic eruptions continue with violence. The volcanic eruption began with thunderous explosions, and the volcano became a roaring furnace. The burning rock and ashes set fire to several villages.

At Kagoshima, the heat was intense, and a hail of glowing cinders made it impossible to remain. The horror was increased by the shaking caused by incessant shocks of earthquake, which rocked the houses all day. The people fled in disordered droves along the highways leading out of the city. They had abandoned everything and soon were suffering from lack of food and drink.

No Change in London.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—No credit is given here to the story that Hon. Adam Beck is to succeed Lord Strathcona in London.

The High Commissioner has not resigned, nor has he intimated any such intention. When he decides to retire, the Government will consider the selection of a successor.

SPECTACLES ARE NEEDED
by almost every one after the fortieth year. The eyes are not "defective" in the ordinary sense of the term, but a change takes place in them at this time which renders all close work a source of trouble.

Doing Without
By various devices it is possible for a person in need of "rub along" without their aid. But what is the result? Apart from the discomfort entailed, and the probability of the trouble increasing at a much more rapid rate, injury to the nervous system and frequent attacks of headache results.

The strain is too much for the unaided eye.

Correct Glasses
would remedy this. They would improve the general health, stop the headache, prevent rapid increase of the trouble and make seeing easy, pleasant and profitable. Then beyond this, they represent one of the surest means of keeping off the advances of old age. They keep people young

A Typhoon in Japan.

My room on the second floor rocked and swayed, and it seemed as though the building could not hold together. After awhile I grew accustomed to the motion and the noise of breaking glass and dropped off to sleep, but a terrific crash right by my ear brought me up with a start. The sheet iron shutters of my windows had finally succumbed to the fury of the gale and, although fully eight inches outside of the glass, had bent in until the windows, sash and all, lay shattered on the floor. A drenching torrent whirled in through the crack between the resisting shutters, seized a screen and hurled it clear across the room on to my bed and then seized the bed and bounced it savagely up and down. Then part of the roof took leave and slid past my window with the nerve racking clatter of coal pouring into an empty steel bin.

By dawn the typhoon was satisfied with what it had done and moved on out to sea. I retrieved my saturated clothes and went downstairs.—Melvin A. Hall in Century.

Unconscious Memory.

The memory of sleepwalkers is occasionally prodigious under the influence of the dominating impulse that moves them. There is an instance of a poor and illiterate basket maker, who was unable to read or write, yet in a state of sleep he would preach fluent sermons, which were afterward recognized as having formed portions of discourses he was accustomed to hear in the parish church as a child more than forty years before. Quite as strange a case of "unconscious memory" is referred to by Dr. Abercrombie. A girl given to sleepwalking was in the habit of imitating the violin with her lips, giving the preliminary tuning and scraping and flourishing with the utmost fidelity. It puzzled the physician a good deal until he ascertained that when a child she lived in a room adjoining a fiddler who often performed on his violin in her hearing. —Pearson's Weekly.

A Faint Hearted Poet.

Samuel Rogers, the English poet, whose house in London was noted as a literary center, was very fond of the society of ladies and was a great favorite with them. Yet he never married, and in his latter years he used to regret not having done so. Rogers' "nearest approximation to the nuptial tie" was with a girl whom he thought to be the most beautiful he had ever seen. At the end of the London season she said to him at a ball, "I go tomorrow to Worthing." He did not go with her. Some months afterward, being at Ranelagh, he saw that the attention of every one was drawn toward a large party that had just entered, in the center of which was a lady leaning on the arm of her husband. Stepping forward to see this wonderful beauty, he found it was his love. She merely said, "You never came to Worthing."

Cupped Potatoes.

Wet as many teacups as you have guests and fill two-thirds full of nicely seasoned mashed potatoes, turn on to baking tins, brush with beaten egg and brown in the oven. Put on a hot platter with a pancake shovel.

All Pretty.

A crash paper announced for its columns a forthcoming story, entitled "The Prettiest Girl In the Town." A hundred young ladies immediately sent postcards warning the editor not to use their real names.

An Old Shipyard.

Japan has a shipbuilding yard still in operation which was established 1,900 years ago.

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out of the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities. Cleanse it thoroughly by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and reliable blood medicine that has been on the market for nearly forty years.

Mr. James Wilds, Plaster Rock, N.B., writes:—"I was greatly troubled, a few years ago, with boils and carbuncles, and the doctor told me I was in a bad condition. My appetite failed me, I began to lose strength, and was pretty well run down when one of my friends recommended Burdock Blood Bitters. After using three bottles I began to feel like another man. My troubles soon left me, and to-day I can certainly give Burdock Blood Bitters a high recommendation to my friends."

One of the sights of London is the costermonger when he is arrayed in gala attire. The costermonger, as many of our young readers may not know, is a peddler of fish or vegetables, and he travels the streets of London in his barrow, which is a small wagon drawn by a donkey. When dressed for a holiday the costermonger is a sight to behold. He wears a suit of velvet decorated with rows and circles or whatever figure suits his fancy all done with pearl buttons. Some of them have been known to disport a costume with 70,000 pearl buttons sewed on as a decoration, and the young people of his family are similarly clothed on special occasions—such as a picnic or other outings. The girls in the picture are costermongers' daughters. Their velvet costumes are covered with pearl buttons, as the photograph discloses. They were dancing at a picnic when the photographer passed that way and caught them in action.

What Every Girl Can Do.

The Girl's World suggests fifteen things which every girl can learn before she is fifteen. Not every one can learn to play or sing or paint well enough to give pleasure to her friends, but the following "accomplishments" are within every girl's reach:

Never fuss or fret or fidget.
Never keep anybody waiting.
Shut the door, and shut it softly.
Have an hour for rising, and rise.
Always know where your things are.
Learn to make bread as well as cake.
Keep your own room in tasteful order.
Never come to breakfast without a collar.
Never go about with your shoes unbuttoned.
Never let a button stay off twenty-four hours.
Speak clearly enough for everybody to understand.
Be patient with the little ones, as you wish your mother to be with you.
Never let the day pass without doing something to make somebody comfortable.
The girl who has thoroughly learned all this might be called "a mistress of arts."

The Weathercocks.

Any number of players may take part in this game, which is really good fun.

The four corners of the room are named after the four points of the compass, north being diagonal to west, the rest are weathercocks. The latter should stand in a line in the center of the room. When the wind points to one corner, calling out the name of that direction, the weathercocks must immediately face the opposite direction. Thus if the wind says south they face north, and so on. If he should name a point they are already facing they must remain perfectly still.

When the wind cries "Variable," the vanes must raise themselves to their toes and sway back and forth until the name of one of the cardinal points is again called, when, as before, they turn to the opposite point.

Whenever the wind shouts "Storm" or "Tempest," each vane must whirl completely around three times. Any player failing to observe any of these orders, which are more confusing than they sound, must forfeit some article, such as a handkerchief, hair ribbon or trinket, to be redeemed by a humorous "stunt" after the game is over.

Arrowheads.

The Indian art of making arrowheads is being practiced by white men, who use them for commercial purposes and sell them as old and genuine.

The flint is not chipped with stone or metal, as you may have imagined, but with water.

An Indian wishing to make an arrowhead held a piece of flint in fire until it was sizzling hot, then allowed a drop of water to drip from a stick upon the spot he wished to chip away. The sudden cooling made the flint chip off at once.

The only cunning necessary in the art was the shaping of the arrowhead, and so it was not so difficult a thing as most white men imagine.

Dolly's Bedtime.

My dolly is very sleepy.
She ought to go straight to bed.
Her lovely blue eyes are blinking;
She's nodding her golden head.
But she's such a dear little dolly
I think I will let her stay
Until grandpa throws down his paper
And carries us both away.

Pen Picture of John Paul Jones.

John Paul Jones was something more than a sea fighter. After his great battle he knew brilliant days in Paris, where Queen Marie Antoinette paid him attention and invited him to sit beside her at the opera. All the great ladies ran after him, and quite a few seriously lost their hearts to him. An American woman who met him in Paris wrote this account of him: "He is small of stature, well proportioned, soft in his speech, easy in his address, polite in his manners, vastly civil, understands all the etiquette of a lady's toilet as perfectly as he does the mast, sails and rigging of his ship. Under all the appearance of this softness he is bold, enterprising, ambitious and active."

No Change.

The prince of Monaco, who, having had both an English and an American wife, knows whereof he speaks, said of marriage:

"Through marriage a Frenchwoman gains her liberty, an Englishwoman loses hers and an American woman continues to do as she likes."

The Double Work of the Blood

The circulation of the blood is one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism in the universe. Besides carrying nourishment to every part of the body, the blood collects the waste products and passes through the kidneys in order that these poisons may be eliminated.

Hence you see the tremendous importance of keeping the kidneys in healthful working order so that they free the blood of these impurities before they find lodgment in some weak spot and set up serious disease.

Aching back and aching head, troubles with the digestion, deposits in the urine, constipation and biliousness—such are the symptoms which indicate the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The liver is awakened to action, the bowels regulated, and the kidneys made vigorous in their work of purifying the blood.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are kept at hand for use in just such cases. They save many doctor bills, and by keeping the digestive and excretive systems in health do much to prolong life and bring comfort in old age.

West African "Fetishes."

Each town or village in the Gold Coast territories of West Africa has its own "fetish," which is usually to be found at the entrance to the chief's or priest's compound, and takes various forms, such as a conical pile of earth or a three-pronged stick supporting a pot in which grows a shrub, grass or an aquatic plant.

These represent the "fetish" itself, which is recognized in many forms, as of lightning, a lion, hawk, crocodile, snake, tortoise or other animal, bird or reptile. Such "fetishes" guard and watch over the general welfare of the village and its inhabitants, and communicate with the latter through their priests. When offended these "fetishes" are propitiated by the sacrifice of sheep or goats and of black cats or dogs.

Every family has its own "fetish," usually a conical heap of clay with a small pot sunk in its apex. It is to be seen outside every compound, and is consulted on all matters relating to the welfare of the family. Sacrifices are made to it by killing fowls over it and allowing their blood to run into the pot and over its support, the birds' feathers then being stuck on before the blood congeals. The "lightning fetish" is the most dreaded, and is universally invoked to avenge theft. No native would dream of attempting lightning. The veneration of ancestors also forms part of the native religions belief and their shades are consulted through the family fetish.

A Mistaken Scientist.

Sir George Biddell Airy, British astronomer royal, told the pioneers of the first Atlantic cable that it was a mathematical impossibility to submerge the cable to the necessary depth, and if it were possible no signals could travel through so great a distance. Sir George was also asked about the possibility of making Big Ben, the great clock in the tower above the Houses of Parliament, so trustworthy that it would not lose five seconds a day on the average. He replied that no clock exposed to the weather could run with so small an error. The late Lord Grimthorpe, however, said he would guarantee that degree of exactness, and by designing his gravity escapement he produced a timepiece that is never five seconds out with the observatory at Greenwich, to which it signals its time each day, and on most days is dead true.

HANDLES THE CONSULS.

F. C. T. O'Hara Is Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The head of the consular service of Canada is Francis Charles Trench O'Hara. That is not what he is usually called, either officially or colloquially, but that after all is his chief function. Possibly one reason why we do not give him that name is that we are too modest to speak of our commercial agents as consuls. In certain important legal senses of the word these representatives of Canada in foreign lands do not stand on the same footing as the consuls of Great Britain or of any other independent state. But in a very large sense that is what they really are. There are some twenty-six of these officers, and they represent the merchants and farmers and manufacturers of Canada in widely sundered parts of the earth. They are officers of the Department of Trade and Commerce; and the Deputy Minister of that Department is Mr. O'Hara.

Though the most outstanding, this headship of the consular service is after all only one of the functions of Mr. O'Hara. He also controls the branch of the Government service which numbered the people. Under the Liberal regime the census was made by the Department of Agriculture; but when Hon. George E. Foster came in, he relieved the Hon. Martin Burrell of this part of his work. There was a good deal of justification for so doing, too, because Agriculture was a heavy department and trade and commerce a rather light one. At the same time it is to be remembered that Mr. Foster also lightened his labors by transferring the Government Annuities to the Postoffice. That, however, is just by the way. What concerns us here is that Mr. O'Hara is now responsible for the smooth working of the tabulation of the people. He also supervises the payment of all bounties and steamship subsidies; administers the Grain Act, which is the backbone of western life; and as a side-line runs a general statistical bureau which keeps "tab" on the progress of Canada in trade and commerce, currency and banking, insurance and loan companies, railways and shipping.

It was the Western Ontario peninsula which gave F. C. T. O'Hara to Canada. He is the second son of Robert O'Hara, who was Master in Chancery at Chatham. His grandfather was a distinguished officer in the British army. Military training and legal knowledge are not bad inheritances to have in one's blood. "F. C. T."—he is usually referred to by his initials—came into this inheritance at Chatham on Nov. 7, 1870. His experience of life, in which he learned how to deal with men, was varied.

His entry into the Government service came through the door of the private secretary—an entrance which has introduced a goodly number of efficient administrators. When the Liberal Government was formed in 1896, Mr. O'Hara became private secretary to Sir Richard Cartwright. A better training he could hardly have had. His intimate relations with one of the greatest administrators that Canada has ever had would give him a knowledge of his department and of methods of work which would be vouchsafed to few. It was no wonder that he learned the game thoroughly. For ten years he continued in this relation to Sir Richard, and then in 1906 was made superintendent of commercial agencies. Two years later he became chief controller of Chinese immigration; and in the same year acceded to the position of Deputy Minister.—Francis A. Carman.

Mission of the Russian Fleets.

A Russian fleet under command of Admiral Lesoffsky lay in New York harbor during the winter of 1863-4, and another was in San Francisco harbor for the same period. Thurlow Weed is authority for the statement that Farragut in his presence at dinner asked Lesoffsky why he was idling the winter away. The Russian answered, "I am here under sealed orders, to be broken only in a contingency that has not yet occurred." In general conversation he allowed it to appear that the particular contingency was that a foreign power should attack the United States. The same authority records a confirmation of this matter by Prince Gortschakoff in St. Petersburg, who showed the Czar Alexander's own order.—New York Sun.

Simple Transposition.

One of the artists had just finished singing "Sally In Our Alley." The song appeared to affect Pogson. I gave him a dig in the ribs and inquired:

"Upset you, old man?"

"That song," he began, "brings to my mind an incident of many years ago which happened when I was a boy. How well I remember the commotion, the wail of the governess, the shrieks of the mater! I had a little sister named Sally, and one day we were playing marbles (we called them 'alleys') when all of a sudden Sally swallowed one of my best 'glassies.'"

"But what's the connection with the song?" I asked.

"The alley in our Sally," replied Pogson as he edged away.—London Answers.

"Johnny," said the boy's father, "I suppose you are going to hang your stocking up next Christmas?" "No, I am not,' was the reply after some thought. "Why not?" "Because," he answered, looking his father straight in the face, "you couldn't put a bicycle in my stocking, could you?"

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG. CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has been so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

GREAT CRIME-TRACKER

DETECTIVE EUSTACE WAS LONDON'S SHERLOCK HOLMES.

Inspector on Metropolitan Police Force Captured the Celebrated Anarchists Polti and Farnara by a Clever Ruse—How He Got the Robber Who Was Looting In a Nunnery.

After twenty-seven years' service, Detective-Inspector Eustace, of the "W" or Brixton Division, London, has retired on pension from the Metropolitan Police Force. During the course of his exciting and varied career he has always shown a versatility and extraordinary adaptability to peculiar situations ending always in the all important result—success. To slip over the early career of Inspector Eustace in the force, memory recalls 1894, when he was concerned with Mr. Quinn the present superintendent of the special branch of Scotland Yard, in the eminently dangerous tracking down of the two desperate foreign Anarchists, Polti and Farnara, who were ultimately condemned to 10 and 20 years' penal servitude respectively for possessing explosives. Polti was arrested carrying a bomb at Blackfriars Bridge, with the intention of blowing up the Stock Exchange, and Farnara, who was known to possess a revolver, was apprehended in a lodging-house at West Ham. After a ladder had been placed against a wall, Eustace mounted it, and, peering through the window of the room where Farnara was suspected to be, saw that it was occupied by some half-dozen foreigners. Descending, there was a consultation among the officers, and, as a result, the downstairs door was forced open with a jemmy. Mounting the stairs stealthily by the light of a bull's-eye lantern, the officers reached the bedroom door. This, to their surprise, was unlocked, and Eustace, opening it, laid full length on the floor, holding his lantern above him until he had focussed the rays upon each of the sleeping men in turn. One lay with his face concealed by his arm, but a cap hanging at the head of the bed indicated that he was the "wanted" man. To make sure, however, Eustace stepped softly to the bedside, plucked a long hair from his own head, and with it tickled the man's nostrils. As he did so the hand descended to remove the cause of the irritation, and in a flash he was recognized and pounced upon, the bed-clothes wrapped round him, and, before he or the other occupants of the room realized what had happened, Farnara was standing in the street. While his clothes were being brought to him he became frantic with rage, shrieking in French, "It's your chalk—not mine. Until two days ago I was prepared for this. To-night I was not. It would have been a sweet death, you parasites, if I could have blown you up with myself." The importance of the securing of these two misguided fiends was never minimized by the Home Office. They granted the officers concerned a special reward of $250.

The officer was often concerned in capturing coiners. On one occasion he had to descend from a roof to a back room by means of a rope, and was enabled thereby to see the "mint" in operation. A dog barked, and one of the men, looking out of the window, remarked, "Oh, it's all right; it's only a cat!" Mr. Eustace gave the signal to the men who were supporting him, and the raid was successfully carried out.

Many other similar stories could be told of his daring and enthusiasm in his work, but probably his most singular and dramatic adventure was in connection with a nunnery in East London. The complaint from the nunnery was a great mystery as to the systematic disappearance of money from a locked drawer in a room while the window was kept fastened and the doors were locked. The thefts occurred so frequently, and in so mysterious a manner, that the fervent Mother Superior was driven to the belief that the Evil One himself was at work. It was under these circumstances that Inspector Eustace was called in. He was accommodated in special apartments with two nuns to keep guard outside the door. For the purposes of detection, Inspector Eustace employed his best secret endeavors whilst the nuns were in chapel. His patience was quickly rewarded, and in a most extraordinary manner. Whilst crouched in his observation corner he discerned a shadow moving cautiously along towards the Mother Superior's room. In his progress, the owner of the shadow was bound to pass Inspector Eustace and be aware of his presence. Realizing instantly that he was in dangerous quandary, the officer acted as though on a flash of inspiration. Near by was a pedestal minus a statue. The inspector mounted it and posed as a statue. The thief, as he proved to be, crept along until he caught sight of the new figure on the pedestal. He gasped in fear of what he thought was an apparition, and fainted, falling heavily. And that was Inspector Eustace's opportunity. Leaping down, he gripped his man, and finding him in possession of master keys of the whole establishment, convinced all concerned that the artful criminal had been robbing the nunnery for years during the times the nuns were at their devotions. Originally he had been employed to effect some repairs on the premises, and in this way had obtained the impressions of the keys.

On two occasions Inspector Eustace was himself arrested on suspicion of being on enclosed premises at night with felonious intent, when the real facts were that he was on criminal-catching bent.

SECRETS OF THE TOWER.

Dungeons To Be Opened to the Public —Memories of the Past.

Visitors to the Tower of London will shortly be able to view some of the most interesting parts of the historic fortress which have so far been closed to the public.

It was on April 3, 1875, that the Tower was first thrown open to visitors, and now, nearly 40 years afterwards, announcement is made that the White Tower, Dungeons and the Bloody Tower will for the first time be on view. The question of opening the Byward, Salt, and Bread Arrow Towers is under consideration, but it is not yet possible to state when this will be done.

There is possibly no part of the Tower of London likely to appeal more strongly to sightseers than the Bloody Tower. The story of the young princes and their murder, which provided the structure with its ill-sounding name, is one which is known to every child, and a peculiar air of mystery has always attached to the closed tower. From the upper window of the Bloody Tower access is obtained to the Constable's Garden, where Sir Walter Raleigh was allowed to take exercise.

One of the most interesting relics in this tower is the Axe of Office which was carried before a prisoner as he was brought from his trial. The Lieutenant of the Tower, watching through the loopholes in the walls of the Traitor's Gate, could see from the way in which the axe was held whether the prisoner had been acquitted or condemned.

The White Tower, the central and oldest portion of the fortress, contains the chapel of St. John, one of the earliest, as well as one of the most impressive specimens of Norman architecture in the kingdom and the famous collection of armor and ancient arms, which is displayed in the Banqueting Hall and Council Chamber. Raleigh is said to have been confined in one of the rooms on the first floor during the time he wrote his "History of the World."

The White Tower itself has, of course, been open to the public for many years, and among the gruesome relics which are inspected by thousands are the axe with which the Earl of Essex is said to have been beheaded and the block at which Lord Lovat knelt on Tower Hill to receive the fatal stroke.

The vaults now to be opened were formerly used as prisons and torture chambers. Here the rack was freely employed and the holes in which the instrument was fitted still exist under the boarding of the floor. When the beautiful Anne Askew was racked, the Lord Chancellor of the day himself gave a turn to the screw.

Tradition states that Sir Walter Raleigh was confined in a cell here for twelve years; while in the prison, well-named "Little Ease," Guy Fawkes was racked until he confessed.

It will be realised that before these dungeons are thrown open to the public steps have to be taken to facilitate egress as well as entrance. As an attendant said, "It's easy enough to get people in, but the trouble is to get them out again."

On January 24, 1885, the White Tower was the scene of the dynamite explosion for which Cunningham and Burton were afterwards sentenced to penal servitude for life. The explosion occurred at two o'clock in the afternoon and sixteen visitors were injured.

In the Salt Tower, at the southeast angle, is a quaint drawing on the wall of the Zodiac, the work of one Hugh Draper, of Bristol, imprisoned there as a sorcerer in 1561. The Broad Arrow Tower is next to the Constable's Tower on the eastern side.

These towers were used at various times as prisons, and are chiefly interesting because of the inscriptions on the walls made by prisoners.

Margate Bathing Customs.

Almost as much pomp as attended the Duchesse de Berri when she took her daily dip in the sea was displayed toward the ordinary bather at Margate a century and a half ago, when Benjamin Beale, the Quaker, invented the bathing machine. According to an old guide book, the company desiring to bathe assembled at the bathing rooms in the High street, where they waited their turns. When a machine was vacant a bell rang, and an attendant solemnly conducted the bather to the seashore, watched him back to his admiring friends. The charge for half an hour's dip, including the "guide," was 1s. 3d.—London Globe.

Kames Castle.

Kames Castle, on the Isle of Bute, said to be the oldest castle in Scotland, has been restored at a cost of $35,000 by the Marquis of Bute. It has been inhabited for 600 years, but the only part of the original structure is the tall square tower, which is a landmark on the island. The marquis has adhered to the Scots' baronial architecture.

Gotham's Potter's Field.

In New York's potter's field more than 5,000 bodies are buried in the course of a year. New York's pauper dead make it necessary that as many as eighty workmen and half a dozen keepers be maintained at potter's field all the time. The "field" is on Hart's island, at the entrance to the sound, eighteen miles up the East river, and the gravediggers, drivers and general caretakers are prisoners from the workhouse force on Blackwell's island, with a head keeper and several assistants, not prisoners, to supervise them.

Victoria's Harmless Cosmetic.

Douglas Jerrold, the English humorist, was prolific of puns in conversation and in correspondence. Professor Brander Matthews in the Century quotes one of his best.

In a letter written just after Queen Victoria had been fired at Jerrold declared that he had seen her out driving and added that "she looked very well and—as is not always the case with women—none the worse for powder."

Rondeau.

My heart's a lyre attuned to sing
The vanished ecstasies of spring—
The blowing flowers, the budding trees,
The murmur of the vagrant bees,
The homing bird on eager wing,
The fervent sunshine gladdening
With genial beam each lowly thing,
The newborn charm of hills and leas—
My heart's a lyre.

And while I ponder, shivering
The fogs these frosty mornings bring
Amid rheumatic miseries
It utters vernal melodies,
And so I know by this one sing
My heart's a liar.

The Ruling Passion.

The amazon in days of old displayed
A man-like vigor on the battlefield;
But, none the less, ere fighting she surveyed
Her features in her shield.

The modern maid who also yearns to face
Some day, if need arise, her country's foes,
Would she not ere the battle pause and place
Some powder on her nose?

Eaton Customs.

Quaint Traditions of Britain's Greatest School For Boys.

It is frequently the complaint of parents, and other people generally, that the Eton College boy seems to be the slave of etiquette. But such things are an inseparable part of Eton, and a boy likes to be correct. An Etonian always turns up the bottom of his trousers, no matter what dress he may be in. The bottom button of his waistcoat is always left unbuttoned; this is an invariable rule at Eton. Then if an Etonian has occasion to use an umbrella, though Eton boys as a rule are very loth to carry umbrellas because there is never room to pass with them on the Eton pavements, he is not allowed to roll it up, unless he is a member of "Pop" (Eton Society).

Boys are not allowed to link arms with one another, this is a special privilege of "Pop," but a member of "Pop" may link his arm with a non-member. When a boy goes to the playing fields to watch games or walk about, he wears the coat of an ordinary lounge suit instead of his Eton jacket, and a cap instead of a top hat. But when there is a change coat (any coat that is not the regulation Eton dress) the collar must always be turned up. This rule is strictly adhered to, whether a boy is going to cricket, football, or rowing, only "Pop" being allowed to wear them down.

Even at games the Etonian has to study etiquette. For football he wears knickerbockers of the standard grey cloth, buckled below the knee, a flannel shirt, a change coat, or sweater (or both), a scarf, a cap, and black boots. Brawn boots may only be worn by members of "Pop," "shorts" by boys who have played for their houses in house-matches; canvas shirts are worn only by boys with their house-colors. For Fives, grey flannel trousers and white shirt and brown india-rubber shoes are worn, "shorts" may be worn with house-colors; white shoes by members of the First and Second Cricket Eleven, the Rowing Eight, and the Keepers (Etonians for Captains) of Racquets and Fives. The "Eight" and "Eleven" alone may wear white flannel trousers. For cricket, the same clothes as at Fives for the ordinary boy, except that brown boots or shoes with spikes take the place of india-rubber shoes.

Members of "Pop" have special privileges as regards dress, they may wear a buttonhole, patent leather boots, any form of waistcoat they like, a Panama hat for cricket, none of which may an ordinary Eton boy don. It is also generally recognized that only "Pop" may wear "pumps" in the streets.

The new boy has a great deal to learn in the way of names of persons, places, and things. At Eton a brother Etonian is always known as a "Fellow," whereas at Winchester he is called a "man." A swell is always called a "Blood." The lamp-post in the middle of the college is known by both masters and boys as "The Burning Bush." A boy that goes in for boating is known as a "Wet-bob," and one that takes up cricket a "Dry-bob."

Pupil-room, the room which each tutor has for his small pupils, is commonly known as "puppy-hole" for obvious reasons. There are many other terms peculiar to Eton, for instance, "Sock" is the term for "tuck" of all kinds. Beer is known as "Swipes," and it is not generally known that Upper Boys are allowed to drink it.

Then there is the very old custom of Chamber Singing; it is an annual function which takes place about the third Saturday evening of the Winter Half; all the new Collegers of the last year have to sing a song (of their own choosing, but preferably with a chorus) in the middle of Chamber, standing on an old round table.

Tipping the Executioner.

Public executioners in England used to add very considerably to their official salaries by the extortion of tips from their victims, and a man of any rank was expected to hand his executioner anything from 5 to 50 guineas.

If the tip was liberal enough it was possible to defeat the ends of justice. The famous Jack Ketch once confessed to having accepted 20 guineas from a notorious criminal, in consideration of which he gave him an opportunity to slip off the scaffold and mingle with the crowd. Whereupon Ketch made a feint of pursuit, seized a white-faced little tailor from among the spectators and strung him up instead.

Taking No Chances.

Special precautions are being taken by Sir Thomas Lipton to guard the secrets of the new Shamrock which he is having built to race for the America Cup next year. A large shed with a glass roof has been erected, and everything is under lock and key. No workman can enter the shed without passing a special watchman. As the builder of the yacht remarks, "A bridge-player does not show his hand to a keen opponent."

Just Help the Kiddies.

What without doubt is one of the queerest trades in London is that of an elderly man who stands daily at a congested corner in South London and assists children across the street. At Christmas he receives small sums as gifts from the parents of the children and he has his old age pension, but beyond that his work, which was undertaken out of pure benevolence, goes unremunerated.

BOOTH WAS ARRESTED

SALVATIONIST'S AUTO WHITE SLAVE CRUSADE RECALLED.

Head of the "Army," Along With W. T. Stead and Others, Bought a Girl to Prove That It Could Be Done and Booth Alone Escaped Conviction for Abduction — He Has Led a Strenuous Life.

Bramwell Booth, who was in Canada recently on his first Canadian visit as general of the Salvation Army, is perhaps the best known campaigner against the white slave traffic living. It was he who made the investigations that led to the memorable battle between the English authorities and William T. Stead, who, as editor of The Pall Mall Gazette, was sentenced to serve three months in prison for his work in exposing this terrible traffic.

It is not generally known that Bramwell Booth also stood trial along with the late Mr. Stead on a charge of procuring a young girl, in order to bear out the charges made by the two men that such a thing as a white slave traffic really existed. General Booth, or just plain Bramwell, as he was then, was acquitted, while Stead was not as lucky. Several of Bramwell Booth's associates, however, spent varying periods in Holloway jail; and it is perhaps to the credit of him more than any other man that the so successful fight against the heinous traffic has been waged.

General Booth still considers the inauguration of the battle against the traffic, the greatest one he ever performed, and spends much of his time in keeping the battle alive. It was in the early days of the life of the Salvation Army, and while that great body was still being subjected to the taunts of jeering mobs and utter ignoring of the press, that Bramwell Booth discovered that a traffic in young girls existed between England as the source of supply and France and Belgium as the market. At first he was loath to believe what he heard; but, on further investigation, he found that the traffic hit some of the most exalted heads of England and the continent. His disclosures, however, were of such a nature that the newspapers refused to print a line, and he was met with the greatest barrier he could encounter. In his perplexity he approached Stead, who at first only laughed, but quietly carried on an investigation of his own, and learned that conditions such as those described to him by Booth really existed. Stead then decided to throw all the power he held as editor of The Pall Mall Gazette into the propaganda.

When Bramwell Booth asserted that girls of thirteen and even younger were taken from their very mothers' arms and sold into the home of some dissolute nobleman or some wealthy untitled profligate, he was scoffed at. The House of Lords had passed a bill raising the age of consent, and providing some penalties for persons who violate the honor of children, but the Commons on the plea that to pass such a bill would be to acknowledge the charges against the national honor, resisted the bill.

Members of the House indignantly denied that any English woman under any circumstances could be induced to sell her own flesh and blood, even they scoffed at Bramwell Booth and Stead.

Rebecca Jarrett, a reformed keeper of a disorderly house, confessed that she had purchased many girls of tender age from mothers, and had afterwards incarcerated them in her dive. She said that the prices varied from $25 to $250.

Rebecca Jarrett discovered the names of some of the noblemen who had lent a hand to the traffic, and they were published by Stead in his paper.

Convinced that by arguments alone they would not be able to drive the terrible seriousness of the traffic home to the minds of the legislators, Bramwell Booth and Stead decided they would actually buy a girl from her mother, which they did through Jarrett, who represented herself as the dive-keeper of old.

When it was made public that this had been really done, Stead, Bramwell Booth and Jarrett, along with several others were placed under arrest, and charged with abduction, every one except Bramwell Booth was convicted. Booth was hissed in the street, and even the press of that day spoke in bitter words of the "heinous act he had committed." They could not see how he had accomplished anything by bringing such practices to light, and he was condemned on every side.

It was not until 1885 that any concerted efforts were made by the Government to suppress the traffic. In that year, Lord Dalhousie, a member of the committee appointed by the House of Lords to investigate the matter, said that it "surpassed in arrant villainy and rascality any other trade in human beings in any part of the world, ancient or modern."

That was the beginning of the victory, and each year has seen additional laws passed aimed at extinction of the traffic. The most recent law to be passed for that making the use of the lash compulsory to offenders on their first conviction of engaging in the traffic.

General Booth since he stepped into the position left vacant by the death of his father has inaugurated a system of lobbying to prevent the passage of legislation that would tend to make the present most efficient laws involved.

"I think that England now leads the world in the suppression of this traffic," said the general recently, "It is now for us to see that she keeps her position, and at the same time help the rest of the world to improve the conditions that exist to the day in hundreds of our large cities throughout the world."

London Tango Crazy.

London is Tango mad. Tango teas, Tango dinners, Tango suppers, Tango hats and Tango dresses are all the rage. Indeed, the general greeting is not "How do you do?" but "Do you Tango?" or, "Are you Tangoing to-night?" Even the little urchins round the barrel organs have been bitten with the craze, and little Polly Jenkins and Maria Biggs may be seen assiduously practicing the steps "down our alley."

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

He Was Ready.

There was recently haled into court a little Irishman to whom the thing was a new experience. He was, however, unabashed, and wore the air of a man determined not to get the worst of it.

"Prisoner at the bar," called out the clerk, "do you wish to challenge any of the jury?"

Whereupon the Celt looked the men in the box over very carefully, and with a skilled eye.

"Well, I tell ye," he finally replied, "Oi'm not exactly in trainin'; but Oi could pull off a round or two with that fat old boy in th' corner."

A Saying Come True.

Unlike the notes of the Bank of England (which are destroyed as soon as they find their way back to the bank), notes on the Scottish banks are put in circulation again and again. The result is that some of these notes get very dirty, the one-pound notes getting particularly grubby and worn in the course of their travels.

An English barrister who was given a sheaf of these notes in payment of a large amount, regarded them with horror for a few seconds, holding them delicately between his thumb and finger.

"Now," he said, holding them at arm's length, "now I understand the meaning of that saying about 'filthy lucre.'"

A young lady reporter on a country paper was sent out to interview leading citizens as to their politics. "I say I see the gentleman of the house?" she asked of a large woman who opened the door at one residence.

"No, you can't!" answered the woman decisively.

"But I want to know what party he belongs to," pleaded the girl.

"Well, take a good look at me," she said sternly. "I'm the party he belongs to."

A Close Figurer.

Shimmerpate: "Roxmore is the thriftiest man I ever saw. He can make money go farther than anybody I know."

Hemmandhaw: "Right you are! I believe that man could lead a double life on twelve dollars a week!"

The Happy Family.

Mr. Scrappington: "After all, only a very small percentage of men squander their money on chorus girls."

Mrs. Scrappington: "That is because the percentage of chorus girls is very small compared with the number of men."

Suspicious.

Ted: "How are you getting along with that new girl of yours?"

Ned: "Fine! When I call now, she doesn't light half the gas jets she used to."

Spokesman of Creditors: "Well, Cohen, we've decided to accept five cents on a dollar—cash!"

Cohen, the Debtor: "Cash, you say? Den of course I get der regular cash discount?"—Puck.

A grave-digger was remonstrated with for making an overcharge.

"Weel, ye see," said he, making a motion with his thumb to the grave, "him and me had a bit broke about a watch a dizzin o' years syne, and he never paid me the difference. 'Noo,' says I to mysel', 'this is my last chance. I'll better ta' it.'"

An English gentleman on a tour thru Scotland was unfortunately accompanied by wet weather most of the time. When he set out from Glasgow to Greenock the morning was very fine. However, before he had proceeded half-way he was overtaken by a heavy shower.

"Boy," said he to a little fellow herding near the roadside, "does it always rain in this country?"

"Na," replied the lad, "it sometimes snows."

A Scotchman asked an Irishman: "Why are farthings coined in England?"

Pat's answer was: "To give Scotchmen an opportunity of subscribing to charitable institutions."

"If I'm not home from that pairty the nicht at ten o'clock," said an elder to his better-half, "dinna wait for me."

"That I winna," said she significantly, "but I'll come for ye."

He came home at ten o'clock precisely.

Wise Freshman: "No woman ever made a fool of me."

Senior: "Who did?"—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Prof. Profound: "Now they claim the human body contains sulphur."

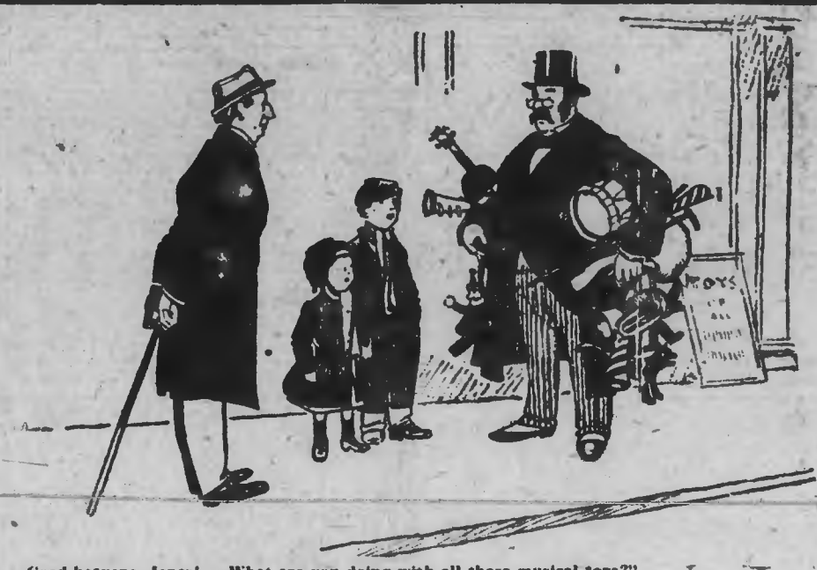
Miss Butterfly: "In what amount."

Prof. P.: "Oh, varying quantities."

Miss B.: "Maybe that is why some girls make better matches than others!"—

Mr. Phlat: "I must come and play my violin for you some evening, Miss Sharp. You like music, don't you?"

Miss Sharp: "I do, indeed, Mr. Phlat; but come all the same."



Good heavens, Jones! What are you doing with all those musical toys?"
"Going to give 'em to the Smith kids."
"But I thought you couldn't stand the Smiths?"
"That's just it, old boy!"

Information Desired.

"They were divorced within six months after their wedding."

"H'h'" returned the pessimistic bachelor. "What detained them?"

The Luncher: Look here, waiter, I'm very sorry, but I've only just sufficient money with me to pay the bill, and nothing left for a tip for you.

The Waiter (confidentially): Would you mind just letting me 'ave another look at the bill, Sir?

Drawn by Fred Buchanan.

Her Sarcasm.

"It is half-past one o'clock!" severely said Mrs. Gnagaway. "What kept you from getting home until this untimely hour?"

"I was detained at the office, making statements," replied her husband.

"And that is one of the statements, I presume?"

What He Waits For.

Judge: (to man arrested for vagrancy): "You have no visible means of support; but I suppose, like many others of your sort, you have some excuse?"

Prisoner: "Sure!"

Judge: "Well, what is it? Why don't you go to work?"

Prisoner: "I'm waiting to pull off a big business enterprise."

Judge: "Why are you waiting? What are you waiting for?"

Prisoner: "I'm waiting until navigation of the air becomes general. Then I'm going to get the right to paint advertising signs on roofs."

Her Just Cause.

"Never again will I marry a dreamer!" said the Reno visitor, after securing her final decree.

"You might do worse, my dear," remarked the latest arrival. "I married a snorer."

There Yet!

Two soldiers were speaking about the battle of Bull Run. One of them was a Yankee, and the other an Irishman.

"Pat," said the Yankee, "were you at the battle of Bull Run?"

"I was," said Pat.

"Did you run, too?"

"I did!" said Pat. "And th' folly what didn't run is there yet!"

Too Much Knowledge.

"I do not think people should get married until they are thoroly acquainted with each other!"

"What would you do — abolish matrimony?"

"Why are you sobbing, my little man?"

"My pa's a millionaire philanthropist."

"Well, well, that's nothing to cry about."

"It ain't, ain't it? He's just promised to give me five dollars to spend for Christmas, provided I raise a similar amount."

Of Course!

Billy, while being reprimanded by his teacher for some misdemeanor, sat down, leaving her standing.

She reminded him that no gentleman should seat himself while the lady with whom he is conversing remains standing.

"But this is a lecture," replied Billy, with a grin, "and I am the audience!"

Mrs. Nouveau-Mariee: "What's the trouble now, Mary?"

Mary: "Sure, an' there's thrubble enough, mem. Here we do be with company for tay, an' nary a bit o' bread in the house."

Mrs. Nouveau-Mariee: "Oh, well, never mind. Make some toast."

Neighbor: "Every time you feed your dog, he brings the bones over and gnaws them on my premises. Isn't there some way to stop it?"

Owner: "Suppose you feed him, hereafter; then he'll probably bring them over and gnaw on my premises."

An Impossibility.

Dr. Crabbe had almost succeeded in dismissing Mrs. Gassoway, when she stopped in the doorway, exclaiming: "Why, doctor, you didn't look to see if my tongue was coated!"

"I know it isn't!" said the doctor wearily. "You never find grass on a race-track."

Magistrate: "Officer, what is this man charged with?

Constable: "He's a camera-fiend of the worst kind, yer worship."

"But this man shouldn't have been arrested simply because he has a mania for taking pictures."

"It isn't that, yer worship; he takes the cameras."

Sir James Barrie's affection for explorers is no new thing. All who know his "Edinburgh Eleven" will remember the eulogy of Joseph Thomson, the Dumfriesshire Scot, who did pioneer work of the Livingstone kind in Africa. It is a fine pen-picture of a dour, brave man, but it has flashes of the early Barrie. This, for example:—

"Perhaps his most remarkable feat consisted in taking a bottle of brandy into the heart of Africa and bringing it back intact."

Another story of Mark Twain. He had finished his speech at a dinner-party, and, on his seating himself, a lawyer rose, shoved his hands deep into his trouser-pockets, as was his habit, and laughingly inquired of those present:—

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a professional humorist should be funny?"

When the laughter that greeted this sally had subsided, Mark Twain drawled out:—

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a lawyer should have his hands in his own pockets?"

At a recent meeting of the Church Army Prebendary Wilson Carlile told a story concerning a Royal Army Medical Corps orderly, who was being impressively warned by a nurse before going on night hospital duty that he must on no account be tempted by the darkness to fall asleep.

"It's all right, miss," he said, with a twinkle in his eye. "There ain't no fear o' that. I was a poacher afore I joined."

A little boy was once overheard saying to his pet rabbit:—

"How much is seven times seven?"

There being no response from the rabbit, the boy said:

"How much is four times four?"

Still there was no response.

"Now I will give you an easy one. How much is two times two?"

Still the rabbit refused to respond. "Well," said the boy, "I know father was fibbing when he said rabbits are the greatest multipliers in the world!"

Lord Lyons, the famous ambassador, was not what one would call a witty man, but there is one good story told of him showing that he could make an apt reply on occasion.

One of his friends, Mr. Augustus Craven, was intensely mysterious in manner, and once on meeting him in London Lord Lyons asked if his wife were with him.

It happened that Mrs. Craven was staying with Lady Cowper at Wrest, and Mr. Craven replied, in his solemn, slow, mysterious way:—

"She is at Wrest."

"Requiescat in pace!" replied Lord Lyons, with equal solemnity.

Out of Sight.

Caller: "Is your husband in, Mrs. Maguire?"

Mrs. Maguire: "Yis, sor!"

Caller: "I'd like to see him."

Mrs. Maguire: "Ye can't, sor! He's in for three months!"

Not Mentioned!

The will of a local nobleman was duly published in the daily papers, wherein he left to his widow his real estate, and also his "plate."

"Dear me!" said an old woman, who heard of it. "How particular those grand folks are! When my old man died there wasn't a plate or a basin mentioned in his will."

Didn't Want to Arrive Too Soon.

"What's the matter with the train?" asked the lecturer, vexed with the sped they were making.

"If you don't like this train," the guard retorted, "you can get out and walk!"

"By Jove!" said the lecturer, "I'd like to do it; but a reception committee is to meet me at my destination and I don't want to get in ahead of time."

Prevailing Malady.

Madge: "I didn't think that going south for the winter was good for any kind of fever!"

Marjorie: "It was in her case. She had the golf fever!"

Bored.

Mr. Dennis Drew, a well-known actor-baritone, was telling the other day a story of the Wells-Carpentier fight, which, it will be remembered, lasted exactly 19 seconds.

"Two 'nuts' met at the club, said one: 'Were you at the fight last night?'

"'Oh, yes!' drawled the other, 'but I was rather bored, and I did not stay to the end!'"

"I want to see some mud-guards."

"For what make of cycle, sir?"

"They're not for a cycle, they're for me."

Enterprise.

An enterprising young florist, in order to increase his trade, displayed this sign in his window:

"We give a packet of seeds with every plant."

His competitor across the street promptly sought to meet the competition by placing in his window the following announcement:

"We give the earth with every plant."

Blarney.

An Irish policeman, having got into trouble with his authorities, sought the aid of a solicitor in a forthcoming inquiry. He was quite candid and confessed he was in a purty bad fix."

"I suppose I should take that as a compliment," slyly remarked the man of law.

Policeman: "Tubershure, sorr; got a gintleman Ol'd place before yirself, thinkin' nonshure wid a face as sarious as an undertakir."

The Finisher.

The appetite of the guest was a keen one, and he was doing full justice to the excellent dinner provided by his host. The little daughter of the house watched him open-mouthed for a while. Then, finally, she smiled on him brightly and said:

"Oh, I do wish you were here to dinner every day."

The guest beamed with satisfaction.

"Do you, my dear? Why?" he inquired.

"Because," came the unexpected reply, "there won't be anything cold to eat tomorrow!"

See Europe First.

Friend (at bookstore): "Hello, old man! Buying a book?"

Other One: "Yes; my wife's going to Europe, and she wanted me to get her a volume about the famous historical places in the United States, so that she will be able to describe them to the foreigners she will meet!"

Stonemason (in box describing assault): He walks into my yard and runs me up agen' one o' me own stones.

Counsel: Did he hurt you?

Stonemason: Hurt me! Why, I've got "sacred to the memory of" stamped all down me back.

Jane: Oh, Missus objects to your milk. We keep findin' bits o' wood and things in it.

Imperturbable Peter: That's all right, Miss. The fact is, our cow's got a wooden leg.

Judge: "And you mean to say that you opened the pen and stole those sheep and didn't know a thing about it? Why, man, where were your wits?"

Culprit: "I don't know, your honor. They must have been woolgathering."—Ohio Sun-Dial.

European Innkeeper: "How do you like your room?"

American Tourist (jokingly): "Seems just like home. Makes me feel as if I was back in New York. The room smells of sewer gas."

Innkeeper (to clerk): "Add five shillings for sewer gas."

No Romance in These.

Polly: "Having announced that they were going to live in an apartment, I suppose the Newlyweds got a lot of useful presents!"

Dolly: "Yes, indeed! Among them I saw a snow shovel, a lawnmower and a set of garden tools!"

Located.

Ted: "If you make love to that girl, you'd better look out for her big brother."

Ned: "If there's any trouble it's more likely to be caused by her little brother!"

An enterprising tradesman sent a Glasgow doctor a box of cigars, which had not been ordered, together with a bill for twenty-five shillings. The accompanying letter stated that:—

"I have ventured to send these on my own initiative, being convinced that you will appreciate their exquisite flavor."

In due course the doctor replied:—

"You have not asked me for a consultation, but I venture to send you five prescriptions, being convinced that you will be quite satisfied with them as I am with your cigars. As my charge for a prescription is five shillings, this makes us quits."

"What's the trouble, John?"

"Why, sir, here's a note from Mr. Mahlstick, in which he tells me that he is off on a little trip, and wants me to send his drawing materials along."

"Well, and isn't that plain enough?"

"Hardly, sir. I don't think, sir, that you know Mr. Mahlstick. I don't know whether to send his paints and brushes or only a corkscrew."

At the opening of the Shakespere Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon a concert was given, and Mr. William Shakspere, the well known professor of singing, signed his name to the visitors' book.

A Cockney wag, seeing the signature, and believing it was done for a joke, thought he would go one better, and signed himself "Oliver Cromwell."

A teacher had been at great trouble to explain to her class the meaning of the word "notwithstanding," and, on asking for a sentence in which the word occurred, was somewhat nonplussed to receive the following from a blushing maiden of some eight summers and winters:

"Please, miss, my little brother has a hole in the seat of his trousers, and it's notwithstanding."

The clergyman, visiting the hospital, stopped at the bedside of a pale young man swathed in bandages.

"Cheer up, young man," he said, unctuously; "keep smiling—it's the best medicine."

"I'll never smile again," replied the young man.

"Nonsense. Yes, you will!"

"No," sadly continued the battered one, "no nonsense about it. I'll never smile again—at least, not at another fellow's girl!"

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Are The Original Pill For The Cure Of Backache, Lame Back, Weak Back Or Any Other Kidney Trouble.

The fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are the original Kidney Pills has not prevented the placing of other preparations in pill form upon the market under the name Kidney Pills. It is necessary, therefore, that all wishing to secure the curative effects which have made Doan's Kidney Pills so popular everywhere, should see that the trade mark, the Maple Leaf, appears on the wrapper. Without this trade mark you are not getting the genuine Kidney Pills as originally placed before the people by Mr. James Doan, as shown by the following declaration.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, } To Wit:

In the matter of Doan's Kidney Pills.

I, James Doan, of Kingsville, in the County of Essex, Druggist, do solemnly declare that Doan's Kidney Pills were first manufactured and sold by me on the 14th day of February, A.D., 1885.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

Declared before me at Kingsville, in the County of Essex, this 27th day of July, A.D., 1906. } James Doan.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A NIGHT

As Hector Bidochoux reached his door he shuddered. His brain was just clear enough to realise that he was very intoxicated. He had lost his hat and broken his cane against a lamppost which he thought insisted on getting in his way. It was half-past three in the morning.

"It is a pleasant reception I will get,' he murmured. "Adelaide won't do a thing to me."

Where the deuce was his key anyway. He sought in all his pockets and even in his pocketbook until at last he found it in the back pocket of his evening coat.

"Strange! I am really drunk, for I remember distinctly, I mean, I don't remember at all that I put it into that pocket."

He entered very softly and afraid of awakening his wife he did not even turn on the electric light. He pulled off his shoes in the hall, took off his overcoat and sneaked into his bedroom. He was prepared for the severest kind of a curtain lecture from Adelaide, but was gladly surprised to find her fast asleep; so fast asleep that he could not hear her breathe.

"What a wonderful stroke of luck," he thought, "if I could only get into bed without awakening her."

It did not take him long to undress, thought it was dark. The dangerous thing was to get into bed without disturbing her. He raised the coverlet cautionaly and slipped into the bed.

He held his breath and listened, but there was no sound. Then suddenly his stomach began to trouble him. He felt as if he were on board a boat in a high sea.

"Good Lord," he thought, "how the ship rolls and pitches." But Adelaide fortunately slept through it all and that was the main thing.

Tired from remaining too long in one position, he stretched out first one leg, then the other, and he even dared to turn over. In doing so he discovered why his wife had not noticed anything. She was not in the bed at all.

"This is strange," he said aloud. He called her name, but no answer came.

"What does this mean?" he cried furiously. "I never heard of such a thing before. Adelaide, I advise you to come forth right away. You know I never did appreciate practical jokes."

But Adelaide remained silent, though he called her several times.

Then he pressed the switch, but no light came.

"This is too much," he roared. "I do not allow any one to make a fool of me. Adelaide, come in here immediately, I tell you."

He waited several seconds, but there was not the slightest sound to be heard.

"Don't go too far," he shouted, "or I shall show you who is master here."

At last he got the idea to ring for the maid. He pressed the button and waited for several minutes.

"Gertrude!" he shouted.

Gertrude was neither to be seen nor heard.

"That girl is getting too impudent. I must give her notice right away. But first I must find out where Adelaide is.

He sat up with a great effort but fell back exhausted. It was no longer the pitching and rolling of a ship. It felt rather like an earthquake and a terrible storm was raging outside.

"This will never do," he moaned. "What in the world has happened? I must go out and wake up Gertrude."

On all fours he crawled along the corridor, bumping against a lot of furniture. There was no electric light and he had no matches.

At last he found the door of the servant's room and opened it.

"Gertrude," he shouted, "why the devil don't you answer? Why don't you come when I call you? Where is my wife?"

No answer. Aroused into fury he began to strike at the servant's bed with both fists. It was empty.

"If this doesn't beat anything I ever heard of. Something must have happened. I must get hold of the janitor."

As he was about to go downstairs he discovered that he had nothing on but his nightshirt, which, in some strange way, seemed to have turned around with the buttons in the back instead of in front. He crawled back to the bedroom, but could not find his trousers anywhere.

His stomach began to trouble him again and the storm had now grown into a perfect cyclone. Everything was turned around. He got up but fell down again immediately.

"That comes from being drunk," he murmured.

Without knowing it he had struck the plain truth.

He lay quiet a few moments to allow things to settle down, wondering where the two women might have gone.

Suddenly a thought struck him: "I wonder if this is the floor above?"

He crawled to the window and peeped through the curtains.

"It is easy enough to settle that question," he thought, "as ours is the only floor that has a balcony, unless that has gone the same way as Adelaide and Gertrude."

No, the balcony was there as usual. Quite exhausted, he groaned: "Now, I don't understand anything at all. If this is a joke they are playing on me it is a most silly one, and I am going to go to bed again."

He did so with considerable difficulty, and a moment later he was sound asleep. He woke up suddenly, the sun shining into his face.

"What is the matter?" he groaned. "Gertrude, why haven't you rolled down the blinds?"

But suddenly he sat up in bed, staring about him. His hair stood on end with horror. Was he dreaming? He pinched his ear. No, it hurt, so he must be awake. His head was as heavy as lead and throbbing as if about to burst.

"Where is the wardrobe?" he cried in despair, "and the washstand, and all the rest of the furniture?"

All he saw was a miserable bed which he did not recognize.

"What kind of a game do you call this? Adelaide, what have you done with the wardrobe, and the washstand, and all the other furniture?"

No merciful voice answered his despairing appeal.

He was not yet quite sober, and racked his brain for an explanation, and suddenly it came like a flash of lightning.

"Oh, I begin to understand it now. I remember now. We moved the day before yesterday. But where does this old iron bedstead come from? It must belong to the new tenant who is about to move in. This is a nice kettle of fish!"

And tearing his hair, with tears in his eyes, Bidochoux cried: "Oh, if I could only remember where we moved to!"

HAD TO STOP WORK FROM THE PAIN

Suffered Ten Years Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

ST. THOMAS, ONT., May 22nd, 1913.

"I was troubled for ten years with the most distressing Constipation and Indigestion of the worst form.

No one could have been worse with these troubles than I was for this long time.

The pain from Indigestion was so severe that many times, I have had to stop work and lie down until the acute spasms passed away.

I took a lot of medicine—in fact, I guess I took about everything that was advertised—and gave them all a fair test—but got no relief. About a year ago, however, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives". I am mighty glad I did so for they seem to be made exactly for me.

They gave results in a very short time and I am now free from these diseases and enjoying perfect health.

My wife also used "Fruit-a-tives" and we both think they are the best medicine ever made."

SHILOH quickly stops coughs, cures colds, and heals the throat and lungs. 25 cents.

Disheartening Effect of Piles

It is not only the itching and stinging of piles that is to be dreaded but also the depressing and debilitating effect on the whole system. The victim of pils cannot do efficient work. There is an uneasiness and discomfort by day and at night the distress from the itching prevents sleep and rest, and undermines the general health.

From almost the first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment you get relief from the annoying itching and burning, and gradually the ulcers are healed up and the disease thoroughly cured. Do not make the mistake of discontinuing treatment as soon as relief is obtained. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a proved cure but it depends on you to apply it persistently until a cure is effected.

Even the most severe cases of long standing yield to the soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Surgical operations are no longer necessary(for, as a matter of fact, Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured cases that were not cured by operations. No' sufferer from piles can afford to delay the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

European Sunshine

It may be interesting to compare the bright sunshine annually enjoyed by the citizens of Nelson, New Zealand, where a new observatory is to be built, with the sunshine records of Europe. Nelson's annual average of 2,500 hours, gives a daily average of 6.85 hours, which, according to Professor Eichorn, of Jena, is only beaten in Europe by Italy and Spain, Madrid, the sunniest place in Europe, has eight hours' average daily sunshine; Uola and Abazzia, in Italy, come next with 7.6 hours each, while Rome can boast a daily average of seven hours. Jena, the professor's own city, is the brightest place in Germany, with a daily average of 4.8 hours. The daily average of Switzerland is 4.7 hours, which can be taken as the average for Europe generally.

The Drain on Scotland

Nearly 200,000 Scottish persons emigrated from Scotland during the past four years. This number is equal to two-thirds of the population of Edinburgh, or nearly to the combined population of Grimsby, Ipswich and Reading.

Whistler's [illegible]

Dante Gabriel Ro[illegible]e showed Whistler a sketch and asked his opinion.

"It has its good points, Rossetti," said Whistler. "Go ahead with it by all means."

Later he inquired how it was getting along. "All right," answered Rossetti cheerfully. "I've ordered a stunning frame for it."

In due time the canvas appeared at Rossetti's house, beautifully framed.

"You've done nothing to it since I saw it, have you?" said Whistler.

"No-o," replied Rossetti, "but I've written a sonnet on the subject, if you'd like to hear it."

He recited some lines of peculiar tenderness.

"Rossetti," said Whistler, as the recitation ended, "take out the picture and frame the sonnet."

Needed a Stronger Pull.

Jones, a new recruit, was sent out for target practice on the ranges. He did fairly well at 300 yards for a new one, but at 800 he generally managed to drop his bullets short. The sergeant patiently explained the raising of the sights and so on. But Jones still fell short. He saw the sergeant coming back. His "buddy" whispered to him.

"Sergeant 'll ask you why," the "buddy" said. "He'll want you to tell him. I see what the trouble is. It's"— Here his voice was scarcely audible. The recruit fired away—short again.

"Why in blazes can't you shoot higher?" demanded the sergeant. "What's the trouble?"

"I've found out what the trouble is, sir," answered the recruit. "I'm afraid I haven't been pulling the trigger hard enough."—New York Post.

Radway's Ready Relief

Frank Main, 426 6th St., New York, writes: "My wife accidentally fell very sick with influenza. I called in the doctor, but he failed to help her any. We have no time to be sick. So I became my own doctor and with Radway's Ready Relief and Pills, I gave her treatment to Radway's directions, and she crept back to work two days later."

COLDS AND COUGHS

Simply rub Relief to the throat and chest until the surface smarts and reddens. Give Radway's Pills in such doses as will freely move the bowels. For a sudden cold take a large dose Radway's Pills and a teaspoonful of Relief with a teaspoonful of molasses, in a tumbler of hot water. Bridge of nose to bed, in the morning the cold will be gone.

Go Armed Against Stomach Trouble

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Carried in Your Purse or Vest Pocket Will Enable You to Always Keep Your Stomach in Line.

Don't let all sorts of stomach troubles, dyspepsia, gastritis, mal-nutrition, dysentery and vertigo make life a constant torture and an ultimate failure. The man who is going to succeed to-day must have his body, as well as his mind, in perfect working order, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a necessity to the man who would always have his body in subjection to his will.

"I Eat When I Will, What I Want, Because After Each Meal I take a Little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish just those elements—pepsin and other ingredients—that the normal stomach secretes for the digestion of food. One or two of these tablets will completely digest the heartiest meal without any aid from the stomach. At the same time they tone up and invigorate the enfeebled stomach so that it is soon in a healthy condition again.

Prudent men always have a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets on hand. They make digestion certain no matter what, or how much is eaten. Do not think because your stomach is usually all right that you don't need them. The policeman carries a revolver not because he needs it all the time, but because when he does need it, he needs it right then. When you want relief from indigestion; you want relief at once. Be armed against stomach troubles with a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. 50 cents at any drug store. Successful men everywhere endorse them, and rely upon them.

Always

Somebody is always fooling the public and making money at it.

There is always something for Wall Street to worry about.

Some woman is always stirring up a row because she wants to be president of something.

There is always somebody who is predicting an unusually severe winter.

Something is always about to be done to reduce the cost of living.

There is always somebody who will perform the ceremony when an eighteen-year-old boy wants to get married.

Somebody is always trying to get something for nothing and being disappointed.

Something is always interfering with our plans to save money.

DAIRY EXHIBIT OPENS.

Western Association Commences Its Sessions To-day.

STRATFORD, Jan. 14.—With the exhibits of butter numbering twice as many as in any previous year, and those of cheese fully up to the mark, the judging in the 47th annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario was begun yesterday in the market shelter. Butter in prints and in boxes, and cheeses in varying sizes, were piled on tables running the length of the spacious hall. All day long dairymen flocked into town.

J. D. Muir, of Ingersoll, will act as judge in place of I. W. Steinhoff, and J. H. Scott instead of Geo. E. Booth. These are the only changes, and excepting them the announcements in the program will hold good, the butter being judged by F. Dean, J. B. Muir and James Bifin; the cheese by W. W. Gray, J. H. Scott and Robert Johnston. Each will score independently and the average of three scores will be taken.

An excellent exhibit of demonstration butter was noticed from New Zealand, Denmark, United States and the Province of Alberta. This feature is new and aims to give butter makers an opportunity to make profitable comparisons.

The official opening comes with the address of President S. E. Facey to-day.

GETTING BACK TO WORK.

Members From All Over Canada Pouring Into Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—Members of Parliament are arriving on every train. A number of western members including Messrs. McNutt of Saltcoats and Cruise of Dauphin, came in yesterday, and last night there arrived Messrs. Stanfield, Rhodes, Emmerson, Nicholson, and other members from the Maritime Provinces. The latter were accompanied by Dr. Clark of Red Deer, who has been holding a series of meeting in Nova Scotia. Yesterday morning Messrs. Henderson, Morphy and Guthrie of the Ontario delegation, arrived.

The incoming Liberal members, especially from the west, are anxiously enquiring about Hon. William Pugsley, who was reported as ill. It was stated yesterday by Hon. H. R. Emmerson, that although Mr. Pugsley would not be here for the opening, that he expected to take an active part in the work of this session.

Fishing Steamers Lost.

BERLIN, Jan. 14. — Two large fishing steamers, the Lloyd and the Porelly, which left Geestemunde in the middle of December for Iceland, have not been reported since, and their owners, fearing they may have foundered or been frozen in the fjords of northern Iceland, yesterday requested the Admiralty to send a German cruiser in search of them.

Montreal Strike Ended.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—The Garment workers' strike, which has lasted over seventeen weeks and has occasioned much hardship, came to an end last night. The basis of settlement is that the scale of wages shall remain as before the strike, that there shall be no discrimination against union workers, that all workers shall be reinstated in their former places as soon as possible, and that workers taken on after the strike was declared, are to be dismissed.

Darken Grey Hair, Look Young, Pretty

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens so Naturally That Nobody Can Tell

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

GIVE PEEVISH, CONSTIPATED CHILDREN AT ONCE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Harmless "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels

A delicious cure for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all this distress lies in a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful to-night means all constipation, poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even a delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your own difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Say to your druggist, "I want only that made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.

HOW TO DESTROY THE DANDRUFF GERM

BY A SPECIALIST.

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature grey hair, is a well known fact, but when we realise that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist stated he has found after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favourite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring grey hairs to its original color

COUNTRY LIKE A LAKE.

Large Area of Belgium Is Entirely Flooded—Work at Standstill.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 14.—The rivers in northern Belgium are rising rapidly, in spite of the cold weather, and threaten to exceed the devastation done by the floods in the provinces of Liege and Namur. The Rivers Lys and Dender have overflowed, and converted the whole country between Alost and Grammont into a lake. Villages, roads and bridges are submerged.

The canal dam near Malines threatens to burst in several places. If this happens, dozens of villages and farms will be overwhelmed.

Demands of Railways Too High.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—At the Postoffice Department yesterday it was stated that no definite announcement could be made as yet respecting the establishment of parcels post. The difficulty in the way of establishing the service is said to be the exorbitant rates demanded by the railway companies.

His Sanity Is Questioned.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 14.—Wallace Trasha, 30 years old, who says he is a foreman in a Toronto glove factory, is held here pending an examination as to his sanity. Trasha spent some time Monday night soliciting women in Falls street for permission to measure their hands so that he could provide them wit gauntlets.

Borden May Tour.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—Premier Borden has assured some of his western friends that if it is at all possible he will make a tour of the west next summer after the prorogation of Parliament. He has not made any definite plans yet, but he has had many invitations and everything depends upon how far into the summer the session will last.

Death of Mrs. B. MacNab.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Brenton MacNab, wife of the proprietor of The Montreal Daily Mail, died suddenly yesterday morning of pneumonia. Mrs. MacNab was a native of Moncton, N.B.

PREMIER GREW WEAKER

Sir James' Condition Yesterday Worst From Bad to Worse.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14,—Sir James Whitney's condition did not show any considerable change yesterday. What little alteration there was, however, was unfavorable and those in attendance about his apartments kept a close watch. They did not anticipate any immediate result, but they admitted that he was losing slowly in the fight for life.

Both bulletins issued yesterday were of the same general effect. That of the forenoon was not hopeful, but the bulletin issued at nine o'clock at night was even more discouraging. It read:

"Sir James Whitney's condition to-night is more unfavorable. He has taken little nourishment to-day and is weaker."

For almost the first time since the party reached here four weeks ago, Dr. Pyne did not leave the apartments at the Manhattan Hotel, where his friend and patient lay ill.

Horace Wallis, the Premier's secretary, declared that the bulletins told the story all too clearly. He added, however, that there was nothing to indicate dissolution within a few hours.

"It is quite apparent that he is growing weaker," said Mr. Wallis, "but he is by no means exhausted."

CONFERENCE IN CAMERA.

Premier Borden Issues Statement After Meeting Albertans.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—The Alberta Conservative contingent had a long conference yesterday morning with members of the Government, at the close of which the following statement was given out at the office of the Prime Minister:

"Members of the Liberal-Conservative delegation from the Province of Alberta had an interview yesterday morning with the Prime Minister and several members of the Cabinet, at which many matters of interest and importance were discussed. Among them were questions relating to naturalization, natural resources of the province, the chilled meat industry, control by the Dominion of special grants for agriculture, technical education for miners and the appointment of a permanent mining commission to enquire into all matters appertaining to the coal mining industry and to determine matters in dispute between operators and miners. These and other matters were discussed at considerable length with the members of the delegation, who represent all parts of the province, with the utmost harmony."

A. J. NIXON IS DEAD.

Railway Commission Official Passes Away Suddenly.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—Albert J. Nixon, chief operating officer of the Railway Commission, died suddenly at his home here a few minutes after arriving from his office, which he left while apparently in the best of health.

Deceased was born in Waterloo, Que., 38 years ago. At the age of 14 he entered the service of the G.T.R. system. He gradually won his way upwards, and at the time of his appointment to the Railway Commission in 1909 was superintendent of the G.T.R. at London, Ont. Previous to that he was for some time chief despatcher at Stratford, Ont. A widow and one child survives.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION OR GAS

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favourite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach it's so unnecessary.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 45 cars, comprising 425 cattle, 445 hogs, 262 sheep and 27 calves.

Butchers

Choice butchers sold at $8.75 to $9.00; good, $8 to $8.25; medium, $7.80 to $7.75; common, $6.35 to $6.75; choice cows, $7 to $7.50; good cows, $6.50 to $6.75; medium cows, $6 to $6.25; common cows, $5 to $5; canners, $4 to $4.50; choice bulls, $7 to $7.50; good, $6.50 to $7.

Stockers and Feeders

There was a limited number of stockers and feeders, which sold at firm prices. Choice heavy steers were reported as selling at $6.50 to $7; good, $5 to $6.50; stockers, $5 to $5.75.

Milkers and Springers

A moderate supply of milkers and springers sold from $55 to $90 each. The bulk sold at $65 to $80 each.

Veal Calves

Receipts of veal calves were scarcely large enough to make a market, and consequently prices were very high. Choice veal calves sold at $10.25 to $11.50. One firm, C. Zeagman and Sons, sold 30 at the above prices.

Sheep and Lambs

Receipts of sheep and lambs were light, 262 all told, not enough to supply the demand. Sheep, ewes, sold at $6.25 to $6.75; rams, $5 to $5.50; culls, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $9 to $9.25.

Hogs.

There were 445 hogs reported, which did not begin to supply the demand, and, of course, prices went higher.

Selects, fed and watered, were reported at $9.25, and $8.90 f.o.b. cars, and $9.40 weighed off cars.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 5000; market, strong to steady; beeves, $6.65 to $9.40; Texas steers, $6.85 to $8; stockers and feeders, $5 to $7.70; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $8.40; calves, $7.50 to $11.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 29,000; market, weak; light, $7.90 to $8.15; mixed, $7.90 to $8.25; heavy, $8 to $8.20; rough, $8 to $8.15; pigs, $6.75 to $7.90; bulk of sales, $8.05 to $8.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 15,000; market, steady; native, $5.90 to $7.10; yearlings, $5.90 to $7.10; lambs, native, $6.75 to $8.25.

HE DEFENDS ARMY.

German Minister Avoids Criticising Military Powers.

STRASBURG, Germany, Jan. 14.—The Government was interpellated in the Chamber yesterday by the representatives of all parties on the Zabern affair, and in replying the Secretary of State, Baron Zorn von Bulach, studiously avoided criticising the military authorities. He denied that the trouble between the townspeople and the soldiers was due to any general hostility to the army. The excitement began, he said, with the thoughtless words of a young officer.

Deputy Knoepffer said that the recent trial had turned topsy-turvy all notions of law and justice. The Government, he declared, was unable to cope with the powerful military power.

Deputy Imbs, Socialist, said: "The result of the Zabern affair means the triumph of a war-thirsty soldiery."

French Fairy Tales.

French nursery literature if poor in rhymes is singularly rich in fairy tales. Three of the world's greatest fairy tale writers were French—La Fontaine, Charles Perrault, the Countess D'Aulnoy. Of these three the greatest in this particular line was undoubtedly Charles Perrault, to whom we owe "Cinderella," "Puss In Boots" and "Bluebeard." But the Countess D'Aulnoy gave us the "Yellow Dwarf" and "Beauty and the Beast." To Antoine Galland, another Frenchman, we have to render thanks for the first European translation of the "Arabian Nights."—London Chronicle.

Every right action and true thought sets the seal of its beauty on the person and the face.—John Ruskin.

Bombita, a Spanish bullfighter, has killed 2,000 bulls and made $600,000. Must have retailed the beef.

One disease that is becoming exceedingly rare is housemaid's knee—and no thanks to the doctors, either.

Of course after every "father's day" the family will be willing for him to take a week off to "recover."

AT ONCE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Breathe Freely! Clears Stuffed-up, Inflamed Nose and Head and Stops Catarrhal Discharge. Cures Dull Headache.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith — just once — in "Ely's Cream Balm," and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

THEFTS IN HOTELS

Traps to Catch Guests That Have the Souvenir Fad.

DETECTIVES AND DIPLOMACY.

The Two Combine in a Very Effective Way to Foil the Efforts of Those Who Feel It a Duty to Help Themselves to Fine Linen and Silverware.

The concerted action of the house detectives of all the large hotels in America has carefully extracted the points from two erstwhile excellent stories, the first ascribed to Adele Ritchie, who, when asked once if she had ever been in Kansas City, replied, "I can't just remember, but I will look among my towels and see," and the second the more pathetic narrative of the young man who was obliged to break off his engagement because as he left the dining room of a large hotel with his fiancee a number of forks and spoons fell from the sleeves of her gown, for the house detectives have devised a "system" whereby the man or woman who wants to take a souvenir from a big hotel finds her path beset with almost insurmountable difficulties.

The matter is carried on with the greatest artfulness. There are no "hurt feelings," no bones broken, no arrests made.

The house detectives simply extract the unrightfully attached articles as painlessly as they extract the points from old stories, and in the great majority of cases the frustrated "borrower" never knows at all what happened to him.

First the detective is provided with a complete list of everything which is owned by the hotel—every particle of linen, silver, soap, etc. Then he delegates the responsibility for the care of them to various head waiters, waiters, housekeepers and chambermaids.

Then he gets a list each day of new arrivals and of those who having remained a few days are preparing to leave. From these lists of occupied rooms the detective calculates the areas where trouble might possibly brew and into these he goes with his subdivided lists and a checking up book.

The chambermaid is required to give an exact accounting of every piece of linen she has supplied to the man or woman who is about to leave. This is in turn taken to the laundries, where a balance is made of those sheets, towels, etc., which have come out of each room. If there is a precise balance the matter ends there, but woe to the woman who believes that the towels she placed carefully in her locked trunk will not be "missed."

Her trunks and bags on their way downstairs are simply carried to the basement floor as if by chance, and there the house detective, with the aid of a skeleton key, goes through them in search of lost hotel linen.

It is very gently removed and checked up on the housemaid's list, and the trunk is carefully repacked and relocked. Nothing is left to give warning that the search has been made, and nothing is ever by any remotest chance said to the departing guest.

She is sent cheerily on her way rejoicing and is usually perplexed out of all reason to account for the fact that the towels and pillow cases that she knows well she put into her trunk have mysteriously disappeared.

Do you suppose for a moment that this is an extreme case nor even a rare one? It happens on an average once a day in every large hotel in New York and with almost as astounding frequency in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago.

And in the case of silverware the matter is almost as simple, though remedying these thefts requires taking into your confidence at least the man who pays the bill, for every waiter has had his eye trained to count up the silverware while he is placing the finger bowls, and if so much as one small spoon is not where it should be it is unostentatiously placed upon the bill. The hotel graciously leaves it to the discretion of the escort as to whether or not the culprit shall be told. But at least it does not permit him to be enlightened only by the belated method of a leaky sleeve.

Again, the head waiter will assure you that this happens, not once or twice, but ceaselessly.

"Many a woman that thinks she's got away with it would be surprised to know that it is down in black and white on her escort's check and that both he and the hotel know just how many spoons and forks she is taking home with her," said one genial head waiter, who viewed the business with considerable indulgence. — New York Times.

AN EASIER JOB.

Here is one that was told by Congressman Edward W. Pou of North Carolina, at a recent banquet when the topic switched to the inevisble Pat.

The esteemed Patrick, so related the Congressman, went to the depot to meet a relative that he hadn't seen for several years and the result was great happiness.

Pat being muscular, the police force had much trouble in convincing him that he ought to the guest of the city, but finally he was placed in the Municipal Rest.

"Shure, Judge," remarked Pat, when he was haled before the Magistrate the next morning, "if yes will be so kind as to forget it O'll do as much for yerself sometime."

"Let me see," reflectively responded the Magistrate. "You are the man who gave the officers so much trouble. I understand it took seven of them to lock you up."

"Yis, your Honour" innocently admitted Pat, "but it would take only wan to let me out."

VALUE OF RHEUMA FROM THE COURT

Judge Barhorst Was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed

If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatments for Rheumatism and found they failed, do not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst of Fort Loraine, O.:

"After treatment by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, walking with crutches."

Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents of Warne Drug Co., guaranteed.

WILL MOVE FOR REPEAL

Interesting Report That Hon. F. D. Monk Will Press for Repeal of the Laurier Naval Bill

MANY QUESTIONS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.There is an interesting report current in the capital to-day that at an early hour in the session Hon. F. D. Monk will move for a repeal of the Laurier naval bill. Should he do so a decidedly interesting situation will be created. The address in reply to the speech from the throne will be moved by Hon. H. F. McLeod, the new Conservative member for York, and seconded by Mr. Lavalee, member for Belle Chasse. It is not known whether the debate will be taken up on Friday or adjourned over until Monday. Members of the Opposition have been active recently, as is indicated by a list of over seventy-five questions which will be placed on the order paper as soon as the house opens. Several members will ask as to the intentions of the government in regard to naval legislation, while there will be questions bearing upon every development of importance during the parliamentary recess including the alleged mismanagement in connection with the Hudson Bay terminal work at Nelson.

Excursion To Cobourg

Intermediates Play in Lakeshore Town on Monday Night

The first hockey excursion of the season will be run by the Peterborough Hockey Club on Monday night of next week when the intermediate team will invade Cobourg. A special G.T.R. train will leave here at 7 o'clock and return after the game. A big crowd of fans will no doubt take in the trip to the Horse Show town, which is always a popular one. Further particulars will be announced to-morrow.

No Trace Of Lost Steamer

Examiner Special:

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 14.—At ten o'clock this morning there is no good news of the steamer Cobequid, believed to have gone down in a fearful storm and cold weather in the Bay of Fundy or thereabouts. Several liners and other vessels are searching for her or some trace of her. Revised estimates show she had one hundred and thirteen aboard.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 14.— Wreckage of the Steamer Cobequid has been found on the famous Trinity Ledges in the Bay of Fundy, and it is thought likely that she went down there.

HALIFAX, Jan. 14.—(1.30 p.m.) — With the heaviest seas oldest mariners have ever seen pounding the shores of Nova Scotia, and with the temperature below zero, the government steamer Lady Laurier and many other vessels are busily searching for further indications of the Steamer Cobequid. It is admitted there is little hope for her, but the owners so far refuse to acknowledge her loss. Among the passengers were three nuns belonging to Halifax.

A LETTER ON THE HYDRO SITUATION

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is a matter of serious concern to the taxpayers of this city if the plan proposed by the old council should ever be carried through, namely, to try out the power-development. In Western Canada (Ontario) the cities, towns and villages and townships buy from Hydro just what they want. They do not buy out any powers. What could have suggested to our late council to do such thing. I do not know but the people will not let that plan go on. We want Hydro and not Hydro's enemy, viz., municipally-owned power. If municipalities had bought power-developments there never could have been any Hydro.

Yours truly,

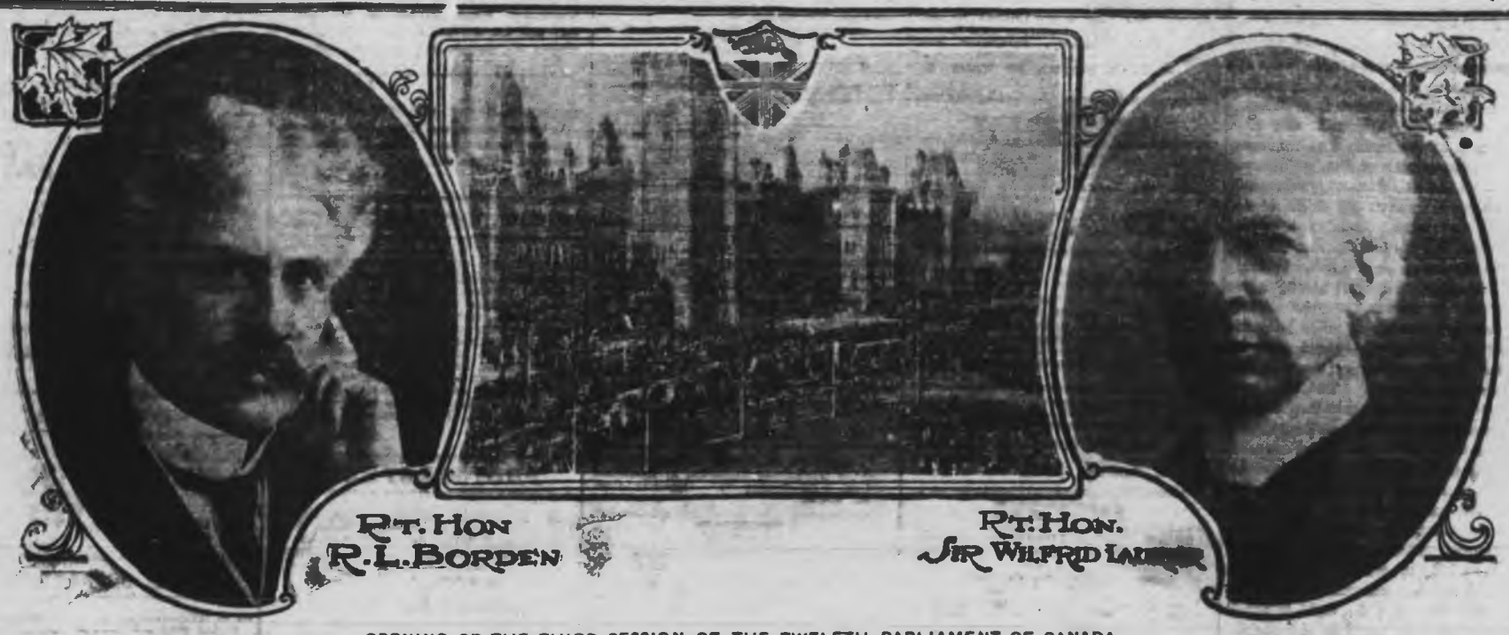
J. R. Johnstone.

Remarkable Antique.

"Here, sir," said the antique dealer, displaying a huge sword to a clerical-looking collector, "ever see anything more interesting than that? That's Balaam's sword."

"But, my good man, that cannot be," said the dominie. "Balaam never had a sword. He only wished for one."

"Quite right, sir," said the dealer. "This is the one he wished for!"



OPENING OF THE THIRD SESSION OF THE TWELFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

COMPANY TO BE ASKED TO FURNISH INFORMATION

Concerning the Assets of the Otonabee Power Company --Recommendation Will Be Made to City Council--Railway Company Will Increase Their Bonded Indebtedness---Mr. Johnston Greer Will Have Charge of the Street Lighting System---Meeting of the Power Committee.

The Power committee of the City Council met on Tuesday evening and authorized the employment of Johnston Greer at an outlay of one hundred and twenty-five dollars a month. Mr. Greer was engaged as foreman on construction in connection with the installation of the downtown municipal lighting system. His new duties will have to do with the operation of the one hundred lights comprising the street lighting system and will include the work of trimming the magnetite arc lamps. It is understood that Mr. Greer will employ an assistant, whose wages will be paid out of the one hundred and twenty-five dollars that Mr. Greer is allowed. The wages cost of operating the lights will amount to one dollar and twenty-five cents per month for each light.

Ald. Gordon intimated that the committee should do all in its power to keep the operating expenses down to a minimum. He referred to the recent criticism that was directed at the Power committee in regard to the cost of installing and operating the street lighting system. The other members of the committee concurred with Ald. Gordon.

The Private Bill.

The committee expressed concern at an announcement made recently by the Peterborough Radial Railway Company in which the latter, through their solicitor, Mr. A. B. Colville, declared their intention of applying for special legislation to have their bonding powers increased from $20,000 to $35,00 per mile of road.

City Solicitor Hall explained that it would make no material difference to the City whether the Company increased their bonded indebtedness or not unless the City, before the expiration of the Company's franchise, decided to purchase the street railway. In which case the City would have to meet a bonded indebtedness of $35,000 per mile instead of $20,000. The Company has a thirty year franchise, which has been in force about ten years.

Information Wanted.

It was moved by Ald. Gordon and seconded by Ald. Duncan, that Mr. O'Connell be asked to furnish information and data, as offered in a previous letter, concerning the assets of the Otonabee Power Company and to distinguish between that which duplicates the distribution system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The above was adopted as a recommendation and will be forwarded to the City Council. The occasion for the recommendation is attributable to the following letter that was received from Mr. D .O'Connell, representing the Otonabee Power Company.

Referring to your resolution, passed at your meeting on the 29th ult., I beg to again place before you the offer of the Otonabee Power Company to sell its distribution system to the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the offer of the company to supply rates and on the terms as they are now being supplied by the Otonabee Company.

I am instructed to inform you that these companies desire to repeat to you their offer of December 16, as set out in their letter on that date, and to furtherstate that the Otonabee Co. is willing to continue serving its customers without a franchise until such reasonable time has been afforded to your Council of 1914, to investigate and consider the offer of the companies.

I also beg to point out that, in considering this, the companies would be glad to place all information and data, regarding the properties to be sold, in the hands of your engineers, so that you can satisfy yourselves as to the fair value of the same.

Those present at the meeting were Aldermen Johnston (chairman), J. C. Anderson, William Langford, Jr., G. Duncan, His Worship Mayor Buller and City Solicitor Hall.

Stole A $100 Diamond Ring

Young Man Will Be Allowed to Go on Suspended Sentence When He Pays the Costs of the Case

The young man, a commercial traveller, came before Magistrate Dumble his morning charged with the theft of a $100 diamond ring from a local lady. It seems that a week ago Saturday he visited his aunt's home in this city, where he was cordially received and entertained. But after his departure a $100 diamond ring was missed and he was suspected of having taken it. Word was sent to Ottawa where he was arrested. The ring was found by the Ottawa detectives on a woman in that city, who said he gave it to her.

This morning it came out in court that this was the young man's first offence, and that he was only 19 years of age.

"If he pays the costs of the court, I think the ends of justice would be served by allowing him to go on suspended sentence," said Mr. Wearing, who prosecuted the case

"Very well," was the Magistrate's reply.

He will remain in jail until he raises the money to pay the costs of the case.

Cold Wave In New York

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—The intense cold wave which prevailed in Ontario yesterday reached this part of the continent last night and thousands of destitute people huddled together in churches, hospitals and other places in an endeavour to escape the night below zero temperature. There was intense suffering and some deaths reported from starvation and exposure.

CENTRAL PRISON

For Louis Bourbonais, Who Attacked His Wife With a Razor and Inflicted Severe Injuries

MAGISTRATE'S REMARKS

Louis Bourbonais, who has been under arrest for over a month, charged with aggravated assault upon his wife, came before Magistrate Dumble this morning for sentence. A week ago in the police court Bourbonais pleaded "guilty" to the charge against him. He was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon, while Mr. Joseph Wearing conducted the prosecution.

Bourbonais was sentenced to six months in Central Prison.

"Have you anything to say?" asked the Magistrate.

"No, sir," was the prisoners answer.

"I can't see how a man can deliberately go at his wife with a razor," said the Magistrate in imposing the sentence, addding, "Helpless women at the fiercy of such a man must be protected."

Family to Support.

Depending on Bourbonais are his wife and five small children. The prisoner had no police court record, and, as Mr. Gordon said in his plea for him, there was no suggestion that he had ever been anything but a devoted husband and father before this occurrence. All these facts, the Magistrate intimated this morning, had been taken into consideration by him in fixing the sentence.

It will be remembered that a little less than a month ago Bourbonais had several friends in to dine, and the wine followed freely. Finally he himself became entirely subject to its influence, and flying into a fit of anger during an altercation with his wife over some trivial matter he secured a razor and attacked her. She was in a very precarious state of health at the time, but defended herself by reaching out and grasping the blade of the razor. Her two hands were cut to the bone, but the razor broke under the pressure, and her screams for help were answered before any further injury was done.

Injuries Serious.

At the time a charge of attempting to kill his wife was laid against Bourbonais, but later it was withdrawn, and he was charged with aggravated assault. For some time Mrs. Bourbonais was in the hospital as a result of injuries received, and a week ago Dr. Amys, who attended her said that her hands might be cripped for life. Several fingers on each hand had been cut to the bone with the razor and the nervous shock occasioned by the assault was a serious one.

TEN-DOLLAR SHOES NEXT.

U.S. National Shoe Retailers Association Make the Prediction.

New York, Jan. 14.—In the opinion of speakers at the annual convention of the National Shoe Retailer's Association, which closed with a banquet last night, the retail prices of shoes may soon reach $10 per pair.

"Pure shoe laws," already adopted in twenty-five States and several measures of the same nature now pending in Congress were given as the chief reasons.

A majority of the 200 delegates present denounced the legislation which would cause all shoes not made entirely from leather to be stamped "adulterated" or "substitute leather."

The shoe retailers were told that if all shoes were made of all leather, 2,000,000 more hides per annum would be required in this country alone, and with hides practically in control of the larger packing houses, it cannot be foreseen to what heights shoe prices might soar.

COLDEST DAY ON RECORD WAS BACK IN 1896 WINTER

Another Frappe Night With the Thermometer Hovering Near 30 Degrees---Walter Peters Reviews the Records ---Merchants Had Big Sale of Knitted Hats--Comments on Occurrences.

The temperature took another dip downwards last night but not to the extent of the previous night. The lowest figure reached last night was 28 degrees below zero, but it had moderated to some extent towards morning as at 7 o'clock the thermometer registered 22 degrees below. The cold wave is now passing eastward, as is shown by the change in the direction of the wind, and more moderate conditions will now prevail, probably accompanied by a fall of snow. Several inquiries have been made as to whether lower temperature readings have been recorded in Peterborough than during the present cold spell. While 32 degrees below is certainly cold, yet lower figures have been reached in Peterborough. A search of old weather records has revealed the fact that the lowest temperature officially recorded here was on Monday, Feb. 17, 1896, when it was 38 degrees below zero. These figures are those of the late Thos. Telford, who was the government observer at that time and for many years previously. He says: "These are the lowest figures in my register." On Feb. 18, 1882, the official figures were 34 below, the second lowest in Mr. Telford's books. Since then there have been a number of very cold days, viz.: Feb. 27, 1900, 29 below; Jan. 19, 1904, 30 below. (This was the morning of a disastrous fire that almost completely destroyed the photographic studio of the late R. M. Roy.) Another very cold day was Feb. 10, 1908, with 29 below in the morning, and 16 below at noon. (This was not as bad as Tuesday, however.) Jan. 13, 1912, furnished another day of 29 below.—W. P.

Weather Moderating.

The above is the official pronouncement upon the weather, and in support of the prediction of moderating tendencies the conditions were quite agreeable at noon to-day.

The following is a special despatch received this afternoon:

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—Observatory officials to-day say that the excessive cold weather which yesterday held Ontario in its grip is now moving rapidly east and to-morrow it is probable that nearly the whole province south of the min line of the Canadian Pacific will be basking in balmy atmosphere of thirty above or thereabouts. Snow falls will likely be general.

Calls for Hats.

Men wear stores met a big demand for knitted wear hats since Monday. The ornamental "christies" offered but little protection to the head and none to the ears. One or two stores reported that they were cleaned out of some lines.

Many Frostbites.

Frozen ears, noses, fingers and toes were general and it was almost a la mode to present a blanched ear lobe. The back fire from the frost is evidenced in the customary swelling. Chilblains have been generally reported also.

Big Fires Needed.

On all sides you heard stories of the efforts to keep the frost out of homes that did not boast of furnaces. On the market they told of water freezing on one side of a room from which an ordinary stove vainly tried to dispel the cold.

Test of Houses.

The cold spell tried out the cheap houses. The ramschakle affairs thrown together only for gain, displayed their weak spots, while the solidly built dwellings gave proof of the extra value of the materials used in their construction.

The recent cold snap may be appreciated by the ice man, but nights like the last two cause considerable loss to the local retail dairymen. In the first instance considerable milk is rendered practically useless by its being frozen in shipment. The greatest loss is caused by the breakage of bottles by the frost when they are left on the customers' doorsteps.

Yesterday morning it was a common sight to see the cream extended several inches higher than the bottle. Many retail dealers to overcome this difficulty make their deliveries in the afternoons, when they are likely to find the customers at home.

His First Winter.

He was an Englishman, and his was evidently his first winter in our midst. "How do you like it, mate?" asked a comrade, as he stood before him in the car. "Oh, it's j-j-j-jolly fine," he answered between his chattering teeth.

Some children on their way to school appeared to have every available wrap in the house placed about their heads and throats.

Well, it was a beautiful moon, Therese. And just think that next July she will see us homeward bound coatless and likewise collarless.

Ernie Mitchell suggests that the milk men sell their commodity by the foot. Freeze it in cylindrical form and cut it off with a hatchet.

Lost—Mr. Webber Turner. He was last seen disappearing into a Peary coat, a Doc Cook hat and an Eskimo scarf. Information gladly accepted. No reward.

With so much power to spare the street cars might transform a little more of it into heat for the comfort of patrons.

Pity the poor cops on such a night. Some of them sprinted around their beats.

S' a Cold Day the Day.

One touch of zero makes the whole world shiver.

He Reigns.

Jack Frost will not stand usurpation long. He came into his own today.

Window Shows No Good.

Those merchants who go in for window displays are sadly handicapped by the work of Jack Frost.

General Condition.

People who have red noses in June had no self-consciousness this morning.

Chilblains Next.

They all came stamping down the street,
With noses red and frigid feet.

Satisfied?

Is there is skater, a hockey player, or ny citizen who would like it just a wee bit colder?

UP AND DOWN.

Southerly winds; rising temperature; light snow falls. Thursday—Southwest winds and much colder.

PETERBORO' RINKS WIN

Are Making Good So Far in Preliminaries of the Lindsay Bonspiel

WINNIPEG RINKS TOO

Examiner Special:

LINDSAY, Jan. 14.—In the Flavelle trophy preliminary Skip Fitzgerald of Peterborough with ten defeated Ormerod of Toronto Aberdeens, with seven, and in the Gillies trophy preliminaries, Waddell of Peterborough, with sixteen, defeated McCamus, with eleven.

Lindsay, Jan. 14.—The veteran curler, Rochon of Winnipeg, and his rink, played against Skip Snow of the Lakeview Rink, Toronto, in the Flavelle contest, this morning. Large crowds gathered around the rink to see the famous player in action and thy were enthusiastic over the splendid curling. Rochon won by 15 to 9. The Winnipeg rink took the lead from the fourth end and after that it was only a question of how great the score would be.

Braden, who is skipping the other Winnipeg rink, beat Davis of Bobcaygeon by 19 to 7. Great things are expected of the two Winnipeg rinks, who came to Lindsay with a great reputation. Braden will play Gillies of Brampton during this afternoon.

M. A. Rice of the Granites, who made such a good showing against Fergus, last evening, was badly beaten by Crawford of Wingham this morning. The score stood 20 to 6. Skip Rice will meet Skip Matthews of Peterborough in the Gillies trophy While the Granite rink were beaten their neighbours, Queen City, with Kerr as skip, were trimming Cameron of St. Thomas on the next ice. The Queen City boys piled up 15 to their opponents' 8. The first extra end in the bonspiel was played this morning when Skip Field of Cobourg and Skip McAuley of Southampton were tied with twelve each, at the end of the twelfth end in the Flavelle contest. McAuley was successful in getting one in on the extra end and won the game.

Lindsay, Jan. 14.—In the preliminary round of the Flavelle trophy, W. M. Lang's rink defeated Hermine Nicol of Norwood by 16 to 5; and T. F. Matthews put E. J. Broad of Bobcaygeon away by 11 to 4; and W. M. Laing outpointed Thomas of Lindsay by the score of 15 to 11.

LADIES CURLED THIS MORNING

The following rinks of the Ladies' Curling Club met this morning in two friendly games resulting as follows:

HELPING THE FARMER.

We do not need the example of Canada importing food from far-away New Zealand to show that this country is not producing anything like what it can be made to produce. For some reason or other farm production is languishing. The problem therefore is, to make our farms more productive. We are trying to do that by agricultural education. The other day a new building was opened at Guelph —a temple of "Agronomy." This is a new word which of itself won't grow any more wheat to the acre, or increase the yield of beef or butter. The erection of this building was the first use made of the Dominion grant to agriculture. While the Dominion Government is to be credited with good intentions, its good intentions fall short of realization if it gives with one hand and takes away with the other. For instance. At the last session of the Dominion Parliament ditching machines were placed on the free list. By this action the cost of a necessary piece of machinery was reduced to Canadian users to the extent of some $500. Owing, apparently, to an oversight, parts of such machines were not made free at the same time. The result is that when a user of a ditching machine finds it necessary to import repairs he is compelled to pay duty on the same. This condition not only illustrates the uselessness of half measure, but also illustrates the burden and obstructive character of tariff taxation. The government has long enough helped manufacturers by protective taxation; it seems now to be the turn of the farmer to be helped by relief from taxation. The new temple of Agronomy at Guelph is assumed to promote improved farming methods; and improved farming methods include under-draining. Under-draining is promoted by making free ditching machinery, which we do not make, and logically the parts for repairs should also be made free. It is certainly the farmers' turn now; he should be helped to fight for success under the best conditions. The tariff by excluding competition has helped the manufacturer to force the farmer to contribute to his prosperity. It has helped the manufacturer to charge the Canadian farmers a good deal higher price for farm machinery than the farmer in Great Britain has to pay for machinery of the same kind. The British farmer can buy a Canadian reaper at a lower price than the Ontario farmer can buy one for at the factory in the place of manufacture.

The people are becoming rather tired of getting rich by taxation. The tariff is getting more out of politics, especially party politics. The Manitoba Legislature, has unanimously passed a resolution to memoralize the Dominion Government to remove the countervailing duty on Canadian wheat, so that the farmers of the West may have the benefit of a new and convenient market in the United States, which will remove the duty from wheat and flour when Canada does the same. We have long made the farmers and the general body of consumers bear the burden of protective tariff in the interest of manufacturers, and it seems to be time that the doctrine of a little equal rights should be practised.

CIVIC ADMINISTRATION.

The ordinarily unsatisfactory outcome of civic government engenders a good deal of thinking in order to suggest improvement. The great difficulty is to arouse public interest in civic affairs to the end of choosing representatives with some intelligence and care. Another difficulty is the changing character of representatives that prevents the adoption of system. Every year or two we have new hands at the helm, new ways of not doing things. In a department like the Board of Works, the lack of system has particularly unsatisfactory results.

The commission form of government has been adopted in some cases as an experiment, though where it has been tried, its seems to have passed beyond the exprimntal stage and to have demonstrated its superiority to the ordinary way of doing, or rather, not doing things—satisfactorily. Dayton, Ohio, which had its municipal affairs muddled beyond ordinary by the floods, has adopted and has fully launched, its new system of municipal management.

Formerly the city was governed by a mayor and a city council of fifteen. Three members of the council were elected at large, and twelve from wards. Now a commission of five is in charge. The commission appoints the city manager and the clerk. The manager has the remainder of the appointing power. By the new form of government the mayor is chosen by virtue of receiving the largest number of votes of any of the commissioners. All enter the campaign on the same footing with no office, save that of city commissioner, in view. The one getting the greatest number of votes becomes mayor at a salary of $1,500 a year, as against $1,200 drawn by each of his fellow-commissioners. The new government is divided into five departments—safety, service, public welfare, finance and law. The head of each of these departments is appointed by the city manager, with the approval of the city commissioners, and is accountable only to him. The power of removal without notice is reserved to the manager, who in turn can be removed by the commissioners. As a further safeguard the right to recall all officials is reserved to the people.

The new government is based on the principle of fixed responsibility as an impetus to efficiency. The duties of public employes are so firmly established that evasion or shifting of responsibility is believed to be impossible. From the manager to the most humble employe of the street department each has work to do which cannot be shifted to others. In this regard we have what is most needed, some close approximation to system, such as obtains in a well organized industrial establishment, and without which no goodi results are to be expected. In our own experience we have seen the benefit of fixing responsibility and avoiding interference and cross action. Our fire department has run on wheels since the making of the chief responsible, has eliminated aldermanic interference, and our Water Commission is another example of the benefits of applying business methods to administration, with success.

The new departure of Dayton may seem pretty radical, but we need something radical to take the place of the unsatisfactory conditions that prevail in every municipality throughout the province. Dayton's way certainly promises to give what we do not now get—system—economy and efficiency in civic administration.

A LITTLE PLAIN TALK.

The result of the Local Optin vote in many Ontario Municipalities, Brockville included, affords food for thought among professedly temperance men.

Two or three questions must have been forced on their attention, possibly in spite of themselves—was the majority in favour of local option—the vote recorded indicates that a great many more voted in its favour than against it.

That being the case why was it declared defeated? The answer is obvious—the law requiring three-fifths instead of a majority—killed, local option.

Up to this point all will agree who is responsible for this three-fifths clause being placed in the law and being kept then? Here is where the fit becomes close. Temperance men will say at once, "the Whitney Government." In a measure, yes, but out of all the Tory representatives in the Legislation only one man voted against the government on this question, and if the Recorder remembers rightly another candidate was selected by the party in the contest that followed.

But to get even closer—The Temperance men which voted Tory in the last three Provincial campaigns, have no earthly right to grumble at local option being defeated on Monday last, for he helped to defeat it.

Closer yet — what will this temperance Tory do when the next Provincial fight, which may not be far off, comes on? If he votes against Rowell, he will be again declaring in favour of the three-fifths clause. More than that, he will be voting to allow that very bar, which on Monday last he voted to abolish. That will be the testing time, and the world will know once and for all, whether the party whip or temperance principles are the stronger.

Mr. Rowell believes the temperance men are serious and is staking his political life on that assumption.

Well sir! It is up to them.—Brockville Recorder.

THE ATTACK ON LEONARD.

We think the Liberals of this country will have no cause to reproach themselves because of the failure of the carrying out of the original Grand Trunk Pacific plans.

Recently, Conservative journals had a flash in the pan about a stupendous graft discovery which would be laid at Laurier's door.

To-day, the Winnipeg Telegram, the personally-owned organ of Hon. Robert Rogers, is demanding the removal of Major Leonard from the transcontinental chairmanship on the ground of incompetence. It boldly says that if the railway is to be a success he must be removed; that a good mining prospector was lost when he took up railroading; that some contractors had work taken from them to be replaced by poorer contractors; that, in short the whole great undertaking has been degraded in more ways than one by the Borden Government.—London Advertiser.

Enemy Could Destroy Panama Canal By Blowing Up Gatun Dam

Few people realize that the success of the Panama Canal will always depend upon the ability of the great dam at Gatun to hold back the waters of the artificial Gatun Lake.. In case of a war with any country which might desire to destroy the usefulness of the canal the blowing up of this dam would end the value of the big ditch for many years. There is no question about the ability of the dam itself, if not destroyed by some foreign agency, to stand just as it now stands for ages.

Across the valley, where five years ago the Charges River wound lazily about past the native town of Gatun, stretches a great mound of rock and earth. As one stands on the hills at Gatun and looks across the valley it is hard to realize that a river once meandered there, through a jungle where monkeys played and wildcats prowled, and past a hamlet of a hundred homes, as five years ago it would have been difficult to imagine the scene of to-day. Much of the dam itself is overgrown with grass and shrubs, and but for the great mass of concrete that rises half-way across the valley, where the spillway was constructed, one easily might believe that the great barrier was raised by nature, so much it seems a part of the hills.

Construction Very Simple.

The dam is a simple structure. Two long parallel mounds of rock and of earth several hundred feet apart from one another were built up to a height of 105 feet above the ground, and into the space between these ridges fine clay and sand from the river bottom were pumped by suction dredge. The water was allowed to run off, and there remained a closely packed mass impervious to water. The hydraulic fill, as the water deposited core is called, was begun on 24th December, 1908, and was finished in October, 1912, when the last dredge was withdrawn. Over the top of this core at an elevation of 95 feet above sea level a covering of rock and earth was placed to bring the whole to an elevation of 105 feet. The side toward the lake is faced with hard rock from the Culebra Cut.

Half-way across the valley a spillway of concrete cuts through the dam, and here are the gates that control the water level in the lake. One who wishes to understand exactly the work that has been done at Panama can find a miniature in the mill dam and race near his home. There, as in Panama, the dam is the barrier and the waste represents the spillway.

No part of the lock level canal plan has been subjected to so much criticism as the dam at Gatun, because it is the factor upon which the success of the whole project depends. Out of a total length of 50 miles, 31 miles will be in the lake level at 85 feet above sea level, and the dam at Gatun must form the lake at this level and hold it there for ever.

MANY RIDICULED PLAN.

It was believed by some reputable engineers that the valley at Gatun was a light silt which would not support a dam of the necessary size; but investigation by the borings method showed that the foundation would be suitable. In order to overcome any doubt on this score the dam was made very large, with a broad, flat base, so that in a sense it is floating on the underlying mass.

It was thought by others that such a dam would not hold the great lake behind it, 168 square miles in area, containing 208,000,000,000 cubic feet of water; but the size of the structure—500 feet at the top, 2,000 feet at the bottom, 300 feet at the lake level, and 105 feet high—is believed to overcome this objection. It was even said that the whole river basin was porous, and that no matter how strong the dam there would be no surety of the water not flowing out; but the finished lake contradicts this theory. In short, the dam is what its designers and builders have thought it would be—water and time proof.

The Gatun site for a dam was suggested at the International Congress in Paris in 1870, but the sea level project was adopted. It was fixed upon by the minority of the International Board of Consulting Engineers in 1906, in preference to the site at Bohio, seven miles further up the valley, because investigations indicated that there would be less seepage under the dam at Gatun.

Work Began in 1908.

Clearing the valley of the village and the jungle was begun in 1906, the construction of trestles for the dumping of rock and earth from the lock site and Culebra Cut was begun early in 1907, the construction of the toes or parallel ridges of earth was begun in the spring of 1907, and the hydraulic fill on 24th December, 1908. The engineer in charge when the work was started, William Gerig, left the Isthmus in 1908, and after that the work was in charge of Major R. M. Hoffman, acting under the division engineer, Lieut.-Col. William L. Sibert, Corps of Engineers, U.S.A.

Originally the plan called for a dam with top 135 feet above mean sea level, which is the same distance above the river flats at Gatun. This great height was later declared unnecessary, and the top of the dam, as completed, is at 105 feet above sea level, twenty feet above the surface of the lake, at its normal level of eighty-five feet. It was estimated in 1908 that the dam without the spillway would cost about $10,000,000. The total cost was about $2,000,000 less than this.

Expressed in engineering terms, the total hydraulic fill is 10,000,000 cubic yards, and the total dry fill about 11,000,000 yards. The hydraulic filling has cost about 30 cents a cubic yard, and the dry filling about 45 cents.

Mystery Of The Trunk Is Baffling

No Clue to Latest Tragedy of the Kind in New York

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Three weeks ago to-day a murder was committed in New York and another added to the list of so-called trunk mysteries that have seldom failed to baffle the detective talent of the metropolitan force. To all appearances the murder was of a most ordinary character, as such crimes run. Yet three weeks have passed without the authorities being able to find the slighest clue to the perpetrator of the deed. Even the identity of the victim has not been satisfactorily established. The precise manner in which the murder was accomplished also is in dispute.

The new heads of the police department are hard at work on the case and it is possible that in the course of time the mystery may be solved. Yet, if the person or persons who committed the murder of December 20 and placed the body of the victim in a trunk and dumped it in the gutter on Pitt Street, on the East Side, are apprehended and convicted, something of a precedent will have been established in the record of New York's famous trunk murders.

Most persons are inclined to believe that the latest murder is likely in the end to stand with the other four unsolved trunk murders that have occurred in the metropolis in recent years—the East River pier trunk mystery of Father Kaspar, the Armenian priest; the killing of Elsie Sigel; and of Moses Sachs, the jeweller.

The East River pier trunk mystery happened fourteen years ago this month. Mayer Weissbard, an aged itinerant dealers in jewellery, was the victim. Weissbard was lured into an East Side tenement, it was reasoned but never proved and was there beaten to death. His body in a small, old rusty-hinged green trunk was found on the stringpiece of one of the East River piers. He had been robbed of all money and valuables. No solution or anything approaching a solution of this mystery was every made by the police and the murderer is still at large.

The mystery of the murder of Father Kaspar in February, 1907, still stands. His body was found in a trunk left in a lodging house in West Thirty-seventh Street. Two men had hired the rooms there, and after they had given up the apartments it was discovered they had left a trunk behind. As in this latest murder mystery, the victim had not been stabbed or shot or wounded in any way. The autopsy showed that he had been thrust into the trunk while alive. The supposition is he was drugged, forced into the trunk and the lid clamped and securely strapped above him. The motive for the crime was supposed to be robbery, although the priest was a poor man, depending for support on the small cash donations of the Armenians in this city and vicinity, to whom he ministered. The police, after many months' work, abandoned all efforts to discover the murderers.

The Elsie Sigel murder, which occurred in June, 1909, is still fresh in the public mind. Her body was found in a trunk in a room above a Chinese restaurant. The young woman, a granddaughter of Gen. Franz Sigel, had gone into missionary work in Chinatown and ended by having several romances with her pupils. William Leon, a Christian Chinaman, to whom she was reported engaged, disappeared, and the police have never been able to find him, though alleged clues to his whereabouts have been reported from time to time in Texas, California and other parts of the country. The evidence pointed to Leon as the murderer, chiefly because he was known to have been an intimate of the murdered girl and had occupied the room in which her body was found. The supposition is that the pair quarrelled because Miss Sigel had received attentions from an aged and wealthy resident of Chinatown, and that the younger admirer murdered her in the course of the quarrel. There is little real evidence to support this theory, however, and it is doubtful if the police could muster up sufficient evidence to convict Leon even if he were found. The mystery is likely to remain a mystery forever.

The authorities were also completely baffled in their attempt to clear away the mystery of the murder of Moses Sachs, who, like Weissbard, was an itinerant peddler of jewelry. The old man's body was found packed into a trunk that had been left on the doorstep of a tenement in Goerck Street. The evidence indicated that the old man had been murdered for the money and valuables that he probably had about his person. But no clue to the perpetrators of the crime was ever discoverel. Several arrests of suspects we made, but all were discharged for lack of evidence to hold them for the murder.

Gifford Pinchot for Senator.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 14. — A rally of Pennsylvania Progressives, marking the opening of the Washington party's United States senatorial and gubernatorial campaign, began here to-day and will continue over to-morrow. County chairmen and other party leaders from all over the State are in attendance. Interest in the gathering is increased by the probability that the rally will be made the occasion for the formal launching of the candidacy of Gifford Pinchot for United States senator.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE

By Mrs. McClung Author of "Sowing Seeds in Danny"

Women have to bear all the burdens of citizenship; they should have the privileges. They have to pay taxes on their property; they have to obey the laws that they have no part in making. If they do break a law they must pay the penalty. "Taxation without representation is tyranny". This is the principle which caused the American colonies to rebel against the Motherland and nobody to-day can blame them. Some may say women are represented by their male relatives. What about the thousands of women who are matrimonially superfluous; the wage-earning women; the bread-winner who has no male relatives? Women cannot always control the vote of their male relatives, neither is it desirable that thy should. Each person should have her own opinion and a right to express it. Men alone are not capable of making just laws for men and women. Our laws show this, for even in this day of enlightenment the law shows a trace of barbarism. There is still a faint shadowing of the old barabarism, when men owned women as their chattels. The laws relating to the guardianship of children show this. A child born in marriage has only one parent, in the eyes of the law—the father's; a child born out of marriage has only one parent—the poor unfortunate mother. If a child is a treasure, whose possession is to be desired, it is given to the father; if it is a burden and a disgrace, the mother gets it. The woman gets the worst of it either way. Our own province (Manitoba) gives a man all rights to his property. He can sell it without his wife's knowledge or consent. Laws are more rigid regarding property than they are in the matters ethic. A man is punished more for stealing ten dollars' worth than he is for stealing a woman's virtue, or a child's happiness.

Woman's place is in the home. So it is if she has a home, and she should have every means of defending her home. What about the countless thousands of women who have no home and who are forced out into the world to earn a living under conditions they are powerless to control. When people say our true woman's place is the home, do they mean that every woman should be a housekeeper whether she has a home to keep or not? As well say every man should be a blacksmith. There is no subject in the world about which more absurdities are uttered than the subject of the woman and the vote. Woman's influence must be felt outside her home. She may do all she can in her home to train her children, but as soon as they go out they are under evil influences that their mother has no control over. It is true that woman's place is in the home, but so many influences beat upon the home from outside that women must go out and free other homes from drunkenness and want, and create homes of purity, love and industry. It is not enough for the mother to have influence in her own home. The maternal instinct is needed in the world. When the daughters grow up and go out to work in a factory it would be a safer place for them if the mother had a voice in determining the conditions under which they work. It is not enough for the mother to say "my place is the home". The state is only an enlargement of the home and needs, surely needs, the true mother-spirit, as housekeeping is not the only thing involved in home-making. The ballot puts the power in woman's hand, so that she may make her influence felt. If women's indirect influence is good, her direct influence will be better. Then, too, power brings respect. Boys accustomed to lean great weight on their mother's opinions are not considered on election day. One of the reasons that men of a certain class are given to speak disrespectfully of women, is because women are not recognized politically. Power brings respect. Responsibility develops character. If women are given the responsibility of citizenship they will measure up to it and fit themselves for it. They are needed in politics. Politicians freely admit that politics are in a state of corruption. This is surely a confession of their own inability to grapple with the situation. It is really a cry for help.

Might be a long Wait.

We are in receipt of a shipment of 200 MEXICAN DOUBLE YELLOW-HEADED PARROTS, known as the king of the parrot family. These birds are magnificently plumaged, being of a beautiful green colour, red and blue feathers appearing in the wings and tail. The forehead is characterized by deep yellow feathers, thus giving the birds their name. Their size is about 15 inches. These birds are generally held at from $15.00 to $20.00 by stores who do not handle such great quantities of them as we do. We have decided to sell these birds at the remarkably low price of $8.48 each, because we wish to increase our mail order business by letting our parrots do the talking for us.

Write for one early, as we have only 200 of them at that price.

Will Look To Europe For Assistance

Examiner Special:

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Jan. 14.—That European wrath will fall on the United States for non-recognition of General Huerta as President, and the consequent suspension of the payment of Mexico's bond interest, is taken for granted by the authorities here. They look to Europe to help them in the present crisis by insisting that the United States recognize Huerta immediately.

George Street Epworth League

A meeting was held on Monday night under the auspices of the Missionary Department of the George Street Epworth League. Despite the inclemency of the weather there was a large attendance. A paper was read by Mr. J. Hadcock, the subject being, "Our First Missionaries, the Jesuits." The subject matter was very interesting and instructive and the members of the League are indebted to Mr. Hadcock for the able and comprehensive manner in which he revealed to them the self-sacrificing lives of the pioneer missionaries.

On Monday next the League will engage in a debate with the members of St. Paul's Guild. All the members are requested to attend and if possible bring a friend.

BUCKEYE STATE FARMERS.

Examiner Special:

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 14.—Almost every county of Ohio was well represented at the opening here to-day of the annual Farmers' Conference, under the auspices of the State Agricultural Commission. The two days' programme provides for addresses by Governor Cox and United States Senators Kenyon and Pomerene, who will tell the farmers of their efforts to secure a big congressional appropriation for the national campaign against hog cholera. Rural education the control of tuberculosis in cattle, the work of agricultural colleges and domestic science schools, and the value and profits of county experiment farms are among the topics scheduled for consideration.

Fireman Is Killed At Boston

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 14. — One fireman was killed and two were seriously hurt, and damage to the extent of one hundred and fifty thousand was done in a spectacular fire which destroyed the Bacon departmental store early to-day. Seventy-five families of a neighbouring tenement house rushed to the streets in their night clothes with the temperature eight below zero when the fire alarm was given.
